HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5.—Gertrude Michael won't approve of this story, but the girls in the Paramount wardrobe department want it printed. When the blonde actress was working in "The Notorious Sophie Lang", she was served by a wardrobe girl named Renee Bartlett. The two struck up a friendship and Gertrude asked for her in her next picture. She was surprised to see the girl show up looking very ill and wearing dark glasses. Questions brought out the story. There had been an operation, but it hadn't turned out well. The dark glasses actually were to hide tears of pain. Furthermore, the girl's sister also had been in the hospital. And to top it all, someone had stolen their car in which they drove to work from a modest valley home.

Gertrude Michael

Gertrude quietly took charge. She sent the girl to her own physician, who discovered that another operation was needed. Today, Renee Bartlett is in the Good Samaritan hospital, with no bills to worry about, and this time, doctors have assured her, the operation was a success. She'll soon be completely well.

A HOLLYWOOD wag postcards to know if you've heard the latest—Warner Brothers have a short subject with Hugh Herbert. They've been holding it up two months to get it on a program with a feature picture he isn't in.

GERTRUDE MICHAEL, attractive and talented Paramount actress, who has won distinction in a series of increasingly important film roles during the past year, soars to screen stardom by her portrait of a fascinating and beautiful adventuress in the title role of Paramount's "The Notorious Sophie Lang", which opens at the Capitol Theatre today.

Adapted from the famous series of short stories by Frederick Irving Anderson, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, the film presents in a light, deft and amusing fashion the story of the beautiful woman who filched jewels and masculine hearts on two continents, while she eluded the baffled and exasperated police.

"EMBARRASSING Moments", Universal's new comedy farce starring Chester Morris, which opens an engagement at the Capitol Theatre today, is without a doubt the season's funniest.

The story is about a young architect who refuses to take life seriously and is constantly playing practical jokes on people. It presents Morris in his first comedy screenplay in two years, with Marion Nixon as his sweetheart and the well-known New York stage actor, Walter Woolf in the role of the best friend who is the butt of most of the practical jokes, much to his embarrassment and discomfort.

Morris and Miss Nixon are delightful in their roles, and are ably supported by such sterling players of stage and screen as Alan Mowbray, John Wray, George E. Stone, Gay Seabrook, Jane Darwell, Virginia Sale, Henry Armetta, Lois January, Herman Bing, Huntley Gordon, Edward Earle and Mable Marden.

A clean home means a healthy home

Canadian housewives prefer Old Dutch because it keeps everything spick and span . . . wholesomely clean. Old Dutch assures healthful cleanliness because it removes invisible impurities as well as the visible dirt. It leaves no tell-tale scratches which not only mar the surface but are ideal hiding places for dirt and germs.

Old Dutch is so efficient because it is made with pure "Seismotite" (pronounced sis'-mo-tite), a fine, flaky, cleaning and polishing material of volcanic origin. Buy a package of Old Dutch today. Try it for cleaning floors, painted walls, woodwork, kitchen utensils, glassware, or on any surface where water may be used for cleaning. It polishes as it cleans porcelain, enamel and tile. It's kind to the hands, doesn't clog drains, is odorless and removes odors.

Doesn't Scratch

No other cleanser can do so much at so little cost, nor so well at any price.

Occasional Showers For McLarnin Fight

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 (AP)—The sky was only partly overcast during the early morning hours to-day, but the Weather Bureau predicted probable occasional rain to-night for the Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin welterweight championship fight in Madison Square Garden bowl.

The temperature was 69 early to-day, but was rising steadily with the prospect of a not unpleasantly cool evening if the rain should hold off.

Lakefield Canoeists Toured In The West

Kenneth A. MacKenzie, son of the Principal of The Grove School at Lakefield, and F. Duxbury of the teaching staff undertook an extensive canoe trip during the summer vacation period.

"Peace River Block News" published at Dawson Creek, B.C., in its August 31 issue, just to hand, states that the two canoeists arrived at Dawson Creek on Sunday, August 26, from an interesting trip from Lake Summit to Taylor, via Crooked River, Pack River, MacLeod Lake, Parsnip River and the Peace.

The trip was made in a 16-foot Peterborough canoe with a 1½-h.p. outboard motor. Only four gallons of gasoline were used on the trip.

"The canoeists were delighted with the scenery especially the Rocky Mountain Canyon, and reported the portage road as being in good condition. They left by train for the east on August 28," the news item stated.

U.F.O. Club Plans To Bring Stevens Here

At a meeting of the local branch of the United Farmers of Ontario held under presidency of Kenneth Petrie at the offices of the agricultural representative last evening, plans were discussed for the holding of a series of fall and winter educational meetings.

The possibility of the club securing the Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of Trade and Commerce as guest speaker to discuss marketing problems was considered, and effort is to be made to carry the plan into effect. In event of a visit from the Hon. Mr. Stevens, Vivian Milburn told The Examiner, the club would possibly hold an open meeting and banquet in the Market Hall.

It is also hoped by the club that they will be able to secure other speakers during the forthcoming season to discuss livestock marketing, with a view of helping to organize an Ontario livestock pool.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

I read in a recent magazine article that Mr. Vernon Gomes, the sensational pitcher for the New York Yankees, started out in life as a right handed individual, and is now the greatest of the left handed baseball pitchers.

He fell from a horse and broke his right arm when he was young, and then began learning baseball all over again, throwing with his left arm. He got so good by hard practice that within a year he was offered a contract with the Pacific Coast league.

The probabilities are that he was left handed all the time and that at first he was corrected, or decided himself, to imitate the rest of the world and developed his right hand instead of his natural instincts.

I would like to know if he stuttered when he was young and if his stuttering left him when he began to use his left arm. Because one of the most plausible theories of stuttering is that the stutterer is naturally left handed and is taught to be right handed, thus causing an unbalance of cerebral dominance. It has been explained several times in these columns.

In using tools with long handles, such as a hoe, rake, shovel, gold clubs, do you put your right hand or left hand near the outer end of the handle?

With which foot do you kick?

Which hand deals the cards?

Which hand holds the salt shaker?

Which hand goes into the coat first?

Under which arm do you usually carry books?

Which shoe do you take off first?

Which glove do you put on first?

Which hand supports you in rising from a sitting position on the floor?

These questions may not be of any value except passing interest to you. If you have a speech disorder, such as stuttering, on the contrary they may be of first rate importance.

There is one, however, which is of value to everyone.

Which side do you sleep on?

But that is another story which will be taken up tomorrow.

Preston, England, has opened a camp for the wives of unemployed men.

LITTLE MAIDS READY FOR SCHOOL

A young girl going to school or college for her freshman year, carries with her the atmosphere of her home. It shows in her manners and in her clothes. Thus her first impressions are made on teachers and classmates.

Her wardrobe should not be shabby, if it can possibly be avoided. And it most especially should not be over-elaborate. Simple, yet smart, is the watchword of the college girl's wardrobe.

These four little maids may go to school clothed as they are, and undoubtedly will create the most desirable impression, for their clothes are right, and they may be made at home by the girl herself and her mother.

The sailor suit is easy to get into and easy to wear. It is a wool crepe with regulation white silk braid and black silk tie. It is two-piece, of course, and the skirt may be worn with other tops.

White washable collars on dark frocks are among the most useful clothes gadgets ever invented. A fresh collar on her every-day frock gives a girl a fresh outlook on life and makes a most favorable impression on all beholders.

The third frock, of white angora, with three contrasting buttons across the front, a deep yoke across the black and pleats in the skirt, has a wide pique collar which is detachable and easy to put on.

The figure on the right is wearing a chic three-quarters length coat in checked wool with a wool crepe skirt. A short-sleeved angora blouse is worn under the jacket.

Hats, as you see, are pert and modern, but not extreme.

Be Beautiful

A well-known Broadway columnist who has been out in Hollywood for some time now, tells me that the soft-voiced, cameo-faced Helen Vinson of cinema fame has the most beautiful hands he's ever seen. Helen, it seems, was a professional model before the cinema moguls woke up to her charm and talent. And her hands were continually in demand by advertising agencies for photographic purposes.

Of course, hands of such great beauty are not seen every day. But there are a good many gals whose hands while really pretty are robbed of true loveliness merely by ugly nails. Ridged nails constitute the most unattractive of all nail conditions. Such nails are caused, usually, by some acid condition of the blood or by some internal disorder. And a physician's advice is usually needed for their complete correction.

Careful manicuring and proper lubrication, however, help to correct such nails. The nails should be carefully manicured at least once a week. And each night, the fingertips should be soaked in a warmed mixture of equal parts of lanolin, sweet almond oil and spermacetti. A bit of the mixture should be massaged into the base of each nail and allowed to remain on overnight, too.

However, although it may take time to completely correct the ridged condition of such nails, a great deal can be done to obscure the ridges. If the ridges are deep, wrap a bit of cotton around an orange stick, dip it into olive oil and then into powdered pumice, and rub it over each nail gently until the worst ridges have been removed. Then, using a good, fine nail polish, buff your nails briskly.

You must be particularly careful in using liquid nail polish, if you have ridged nails. Never use brilliant polishes. Use a very pale polish only. If you use one of the bright, darker polishes, it will accumulate between the ridges and give the nails an unattractive, streaked appearance. A pale tint of liquid polish, however, will help to make the nails appear presentable. For the colorless lacquer will flow down between the ridges and present a smooth, even surface to the eye.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Bleaches

Marie: The best bleaches for the hands are lemon juice and peroxide, full strength. I do not advise the use of vanishing cream, as I think that it clogs the pores.

Milia

Peg: Milia are hard, white kernels of oil deep under the skin. The quickest and most effective method of eradicating them is by expert manipulation of the electric needle.

Dandruff

Robert: Sulphur mixed with vaseline is an excellent remedy for dandruff. The proportions are sixty grains of the sulphur to one ounce of the vaseline.

Hair

C. K. M.: The salt water treatments and castor oil shampoos described in my "Beauty Culture" booklet are excellent for preventing the hair from falling and for making it thick and glossy. The full instructions are too long to print here.

Plastic Surgery

Sarah: I do indeed approve of plastic surgery in extreme cases, providing that a skilled and reliable surgeon is engaged to do the necessary work.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

DON'T PUSH TOO HARD.

When opponents are willing to quit at a game contract, if you know that you already have overbid your hand and that partner is hopelessly weak, why push opponents into a small slam which you cannot defeat? Recently I sat South and dealt the following hand, with neither side vulnerable. Certainly our opponents pushed us to the limit, but the hand was an interesting one to play.

	♠ K Q 3 2 ♥ 9 8 4 ♦ K 5 3 ♣ A Q 8
♠ 5 ♥ A K Q J 10 7 2 ♦ Q J 2 ♣ 7 6	N. W. E. S.	♠ J 10 9 8 ♥ 6 5 3 ♦ 10 9 8 7 6 ♣ 5
	♠ A 7 6 4 ♥ None ♦ A 4 ♣ K J 10 9 4 3 2

Bidding went: South, 1-club; West, 1-heart; North, 1-spade; South, 2-spades; West, 3-hearts; North, 4-clubs; South, 5-clubs, which West would have done well to pass; West, 5-hearts; North, 6-clubs; East, 6-hearts, as a sacrifice; South, 6-spades, not wanting to bid a grand slam in clubs; East, doubled; North, 7-clubs, although he could have easily fulfilled his doubled small slam contract; West, doubled, leaving me in a hard contract to fulfill.

I ruffed the opening lead of West's K of hearts. There were in sight just 12 tricks: 7 in clubs, 2 in diamonds and 3 in spades as East's double must mean that he held that suit stopped. The conditions for a squeeze were ideal, and our only hope.

Two rounds of trumps pulled all opposing clubs. East discarded a heart on the second round of trumps. The next thing to do was to run off 3 rounds of top spades, before I ran off my long trump suit. Tricks 4, 5 and 6 were our top spades, leaving East holding the good J of spades. West let go 2 hearts. The next thing was to run off my 4 good trumps, for tricks 7 through 10. On the first three of these tricks East discarded 2 diamonds and his last remaining heart, keeping his high spade and 3 diamonds. West let go all except his ace of hearts and his 3 diamonds. Dummy let go one of its 2 remaining hearts and its last spade. At the end of the ninth trick the holdings were as shown.

	♥ 5 ♦ K 5 3
♥ A ♦ Q J 2		♠ J ♦ 10 9 8
	♠ 7 ♦ A 4 ♣ 9

I led my last club. West had to let go his lowest diamond, or let dummy's 9 of hearts win a trick. When West held his heart, dummy's heart was discarded. East has either to let go his last spade, making my 7 good or let go his third diamond, allowing dummy to win the last 3 tricks. We made our grand slam.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

The double bill for yesterday and to-day is extremely entertaining. Makers of these double-barrelled programs certainly know their stuff and they give you plenty for your money.

In "The Notorious Sophie Lang" you get one of those hand-picked casts that go so far to make movie a success. Each member is of the smooth, sophisticated type and the story runs to a smooth tempo. This is a picture that should interest women especially, as it shows just how easily a real smooth dame can take any or all men for a ride, even the quick-witted Inspector of Police and the careful dealer in expensive jewellery.

The suave cast includes the good-looking Gertrude Michael, Paul Cavanagh, Leon Errol, Arthur Byron and Alison Skipworth. It is a story of a pair of international crooks who get away with their lives but lose their loot. It is quick-moving, fast-thinking entertainment.

Chester Morris does his stuff in "Embarassing Moments," in which he has the role of a jester who thinks up practical jokes and includes his nearest friends among his victims. He goes too far, however, becomes involved in a supposed murder and flees from what he thinks is the the pursuing footsteps of the law. This is another quick-moving picture that makes an excellent companion to its predecessor.

'THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LANG' AND 'EMBARASSING MOMENTS.'

Anyone who isn't exactly camera-shy and has a yen for the stage will have a chance to try out histrionic ability next week, when the Hollywood Studios, right from the Toronto Exhibition, will be at the Capitol for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Screen tests will be made and careful sizing-up of candidates will be made. Try your luck and see how you look in a moving picture. It should be loads of fun.

The home dye pot will work wonders in changing colors of textiles to make them look like new and different fabrics. Now is the time to make it prove itself beneficial in supplying what would appear like new frocks, or it may be different draperies, cushion covers and such upholstery materials as can be taken off and put into the dye pot.

* * * * * *

To get good results the dye must not only be the right kind for the material, silk requiring silk dyes, etc., but the color must be sufficiently darker than the color to be changed, to insure hiding faded places, stains, and spots. It is because there is difficulty in doing this in some instances, that makes dye houses advise black, which is a sure hue as far as concealing defects in colors is concerned.

* * * * * *

It is wiser for the home worker to pick out a tone which is sufficiently dark for her purposes than to experiment, unless she is perfectly willing to redye the article. However, if she is willing to experiment she can often get stunning effects in what are known as "off-colors", those exquisite hues of artistic beauty not on color charts. Even so, consider well before attempting to tint material in a dye pot. Make a real change of color. Of course the material can be bleached first before dyeing a light color, but bleaches must be handled with great care or they will weaken the textile fibres, and lessen the durability of the textile.

* * * * * *

Be sure to prepare sufficient color to dye everything wanted to exactly match. A strong solution of the color can be prepared and a definite proportion of it and of water be put together for each separate dyeing when there would be more than one dye pot could hold at one time. Or after the fabric is taken out of the dye pot more of the solution can be added to restore the right shade. This can be found out by using a try-cloth of some bit of the material to be dyed. Immerse this in the solution long enough for it to absorb all the color it would, then take it out, and match it with the material already dyed, if still wet. If dry the try-cloth must be dried before matching.

* * * * * *

An even color will result only when the material is kept in constant motion while in the boiling dye. It does not have to be stirred violently, just gently and constantly, lifting the part below at times to let that on top go into the bottom of the pot. Long wooden pliers which work like tongs are just the things to use for this stirring and also to lift the scalding hot materials from the dye pot. If you cannot get such a utensil, use two long smooth wooden sticks or long-handled wooden spoons will do.

Eight Men Escape Having Ears Cut Off

TORONTO, Sept. 6 (C.P.) — When eight men appeared in court charged with inciting and causing discontent in connection with the Tilley-Williams Shoe Plant strike, David Goldstock, their counsel, revealed the charges were laid under a statute of 1360. And Goldstock also declared this statute provided cutting off ears as the penalty on conviction.

Magistrate William Keith acquitted the men, declaring the evidence was insufficient to commit them for trial.

NAME WANTED FOR NEW "GLAD"

Seedling Gladiolus Developed by Al Spenceley Needs Title.

AT BROCK ST. GARDENS.

Can you think of a nice name for a flower? It shouldn't be too difficult. Especially when all you have to do is to take a few minutes and look at some of the most beautiful gladioli in the city.

Increasing interest is being taken in the naming contest which is going on at the Brock Street Summer Gardens this week, and possibly next. Al Spenceley, proprietor of the Pastime Gardens, has a group of unnamed gladioli which he is anxious to label and he is asking the public to do the titling for him.

All you have to do is to purchase an admission ticket for the Brock Street Gardens, and get a ticket which gives you a chance to name the flower.

The blossom which is to be named first and will be on view again tonight for further chances, is a huge six-inch flame-colored example that is just about the last word in gladioli perfection.

And the entrance to the Gardens and the big flower bed near the dancing floor show other examples of the beautiful 'glads' grown in Mr. Spenceley's gardens.

The sale for a large sum of a mountain common property containing the materials for cement has brought a windfall to a village near Moji, Japan.

Telephone Company Replaces Old Poles

That business conditions are showing a marked improvement is indicated by the announcement of a project to be undertaken by the Bell Telephone Company in connection with their long distance lines between this centre and the City of Oshawa, states Manager H. H. P. Johnston.

In order to place their facilities in the best possible condition, particularly those lines carrying long-haul telephone traffic, the company has commenced reconditioning of many of its lines, including the Peterborough-Oshawa artery. A large number of the existing poles will be replaced, while many others will be reset. Repairs of various other natures will be made. The reconditioning work will be completed in November.

The British Post Office now has 4700 motor vehicles.

More Mae West Than Mae West

Lace Comes Into Own For Evening

By LISBETH

Since the trend toward "feminity" in women's clothes laces has come into its own. Nothing is lovelier for the more formal frocks of milady's wardrobe.

It is made of open-mesh blond lace posed over gold. Over the bodice there is a wide scarf of gold and orange lame, which crosses in front and knots at the side, where it sweeps in two ends to the skirt hem. The puffed sleeves add just the right touch to a dress which has a quaintness and at the same time an air of luxury.

Every woman has a dress that she lovingly calls her "standby." It is quite apt to be of lace, and possibly Lucien Lelong had this in mind when he created the frock of black cobweb lace, which is shown right. It is simply styled with high front neckline—and is charming, useful, but dressy enough for quite grand occasions.

King George Reviews Scottish Guard At Balmoral

Two Sons Of King George Still Remain Bachelors

PRINCESS MARINA PRINCE OF WALES DUKE AND DUCHESS OF YORK PRINCE HENRY

This unusual picture of the four royal British princes, sons of his majesty, King George V, shows them garbed in their respective service uniforms shortly before the youngest, Prince George announced his engagement to Princess Marina of Greece, leaving the Prince of Wales and Prince Henry, known as the Duke of Gloucester, as the family bachelors. The Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, is still unmarried at 40, while Prince Henry, the third son, remains a bachelor at 34.

Il Duce Agrees To Support Schuschnigg

Conclusions of world import were reached when these two men held lengthy conferences in Florence, Italy, Aug. 21. They are chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg (LEFT) of Austria, and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy. Schuschnigg, the successor to the slain Chancellor Dollfuss attempted to reach an agreement with the Italian dictator, on ways and means of maintaining the independence and integrity of Austria and preserving it from all external aggression—meaning Nazi Germany. The two men were in perfect accord and will work together to keep Austria for the Austrelians as essential to the peace of Europe.

Violence Still Rife In Cuba

Two soldiers explore the wreckage of the front of the home here of Dr. Mario Diaz Cruz, minister without portfolio in President Mendieta's cabinet, after a bomb had exploded. The bombing, while it caused no loss of life, was described as being the most destructive in Havana's long history. Residences in a four-block area were shaken by the blast.

Some mystery surrounds the murder of Alma Armstrong, 21, who was shot and killed in Edmonton by a bullet from a gun belonging to Capt. Thomas Higginson, war veteran, who has been charged with murder. Capt. Higginson denies the charge, stating he was inside when he heard the shot. Miss Armstrong was visiting Higginson's home while Mrs. Higginson and her daughter were on a vacation. Police state that the girl made a statement before death declaring that: 'Tommy shot me.' No finger prints are available, according to police. Capt. Higginson is well known in Edmonton.

Lili's To Wed

Lili Damita, French cinema actress reported engaged on various occasions to Americans, is to wed Hugo Brassey, Australia sheep rancher, whom she met in London, cables say.

Flush, incomparable Cocker spaniel stage star and hero of the novel "Flush," is in Los Angeles on vacation. This dog who for four years has been playing a leading part in the play, "Barretts of Wimpole Street", is owned by Katherine Cornell, the actress. Flush made a transcontinental trip from New York and was an honored guest at numbers of parties, autographing copies of his novel with a paw print.

Scenes as pictured above are once more becoming common as Canadian lumberjacks celebrate a return to near peak production in the lumber industry with growing re-employment. Once more logs rush down long chutes and dive into mill streams preparatory to their trip to the hungry saws, or puffing engines haul long trains of log weighted cars. LOWER CENTRE shows one more method of transporting the cargo, a log raft on the river. British Columbia furnishes the pictures shown above.

Marooned for fifteen days on an iceberg off the Labrador coast when their fishing schooner Nascopie was crushed by the ice, 28 men comprising the crew, ed by Captain Desjardin, survived the ordeal without loss of life and were rescued by a passing Danish ship. They were compelled to adopt Eskimo methods of life, supplementing food they salvaged from the wreck with sea meat and fish. ABOVE are shown the captain and crew upon arrival in Montreal following their rescue.

GLORIES OF LAST EMPEROR HAUNT REPUBLICAN AUSTRIA

Recall Peace, Prosperity Under Monarchy and Hope for Restoration.

NEVER TOOK BATH

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
Central Press Canadian Writer

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—In Italy the picture of Mussolini stares at you from every hoarding. In Germany to enhance the landscape they have pasted up a portrait of Adolf Hitler at every street corner. In Russia it's Stalin. In Turkey, Mustapha Kemal. Who do you think it is in Austria? Starhemberg? Wrong. Dollfuss? Wrong again. It's Francis Joseph, the last emperor, dead these eighteen years. You see the old man's likeness everywhere, not so vulgarly ubiquitous as Hitler's monicker in Germany. No, it's not that bad. The Viennese have too much taste to indulge in such puerile histrionics, but in bookshop windows, on picture postcards, in illustrated newspapers, you see the old kaiser in all possible attitudes and circumstances. Arriving to take the salute from the guard; in hunting costume; at work in his sergeant-major's uniform at his desk; driving in open carriage through the Prater; surrounded by staff officers during the war and surrounded on other occasions by stately ladies with large hats and the equally improbable gowns of a quarter century ago.

Recall Former Peace

Scarcely a week passes but some fellow dishes up a reminiscent article full of happy anecdotes about the old kaiser. The subject is inexhaustible apparently. Francis Joseph is a hundred times more popular now, 18 years after his death, than ever he was alive.

There is a psychological reason for this strange phenomenon. The name and life of Francis Joseph is associated in the people's mind with tranquility and good times. Today they are in the midst of putsches and half-baked revolutions, political murder, treason, intrigue and social misery, so ghastly that even Hollywood could think of no better portrayal of Viennese life as it is today than by the film: "The Street Without Joy," in which Lillian Harvey plays the title role.

Especially the upper classes wistfully remember the days of the kaiser. In his time Vienna was great, was peaceful, the arts flourished; life was serene and festive. There was the court. There were the parades, the balls, the banquets. Then Vienna ruled over twenty-seven different nations. Today Vienna is a mournful city sitting upon the grave of a great empire. Unconsciously the people long for the return of the kaiser-days. From this it is but a step to desiring the re-establishment of the monarchy. You also see a few pictures here and there of Otto of Hapsburg.

I went into the Hofburg, the old imperial palace. It is a museum now. But all the old servants are still there. Their liveries have faded somewhat and the gold-brocaded tassels on their breasts hang limp like the withered branches of a tree. But lately they have taken hope again.

"Yes, sir," said one attendant of the gray-haired butler-style, with side-whiskers and a rheumatic foot. "Yes, sir, we'll see a kaiser yet here in the Hofburg!"

Door For Each Envoy

I saw the reception room for the diplomats. Five doors that room has, so that the representatives of the five great powers could enter simultaneously. Originally there were only two doors but the diplomats quarrelled so much as to who should have precedence on reception days that Francis Joseph had three more doors pierced in the wall. In other words, the representatives of the great powers behaved like little boys . . . still do, for that matter, at times.

Marvellous place the Hofburg. It lacks the majesty of the Louvre and I don't think it comes up to the Quirinal, but it's beautiful, in the sense of what Americans call beautiful, imposing.

"Here the emperor slept," I was told, and was shown . . . a military camp-bed of the kind we had in the hospitals in France during the war. A crucifix fittingly hung above the place where rested the head of "his most Christian majesty."

Emperor Never Bathed

I saw all the apartments, but I saw no bathroom. So I asked the lackey about it. And then I got the most astonishing reply I ever had in my life. "Sir," said the man, "the emperor never took a bath in his life!"

"Never?" said I, expecting him at least to say: "Well, hardly ever," but he emphasized: "Niemals!" (Never).

"Did his majesty," I ventured timidly, "did his majesty perchance have a natural aversion to water?" I remembered my own youth and could have sympathized with him.

"No," replied the attendant. "Spanish etiquette did not permit it!"

And yet I read in the paper recently that a lady in the state of Michigan divorced her husband because he sometimes did not bathe for a whole month. Francis Joseph reached the respectable age of eighty-six. However, by way of compensation, I saw the copper wash-bowl which the emperor's mistress, Catherine Schratt, had installed in the palace. It was a gift from her on his 75th birthday.

Spanish etiquette did not permit a lot of other things, I discovered. For instance, Francis Joseph was opposed to electric light. He finally allowed it to be installed in the Hofburg on the occasion of his fiftieth anniversary as emperor, but not in his private apartments. To his dying day, literally, the emperor worked by candle-light and . . . standing up behind a high desk, like an old-fashioned Amsterdam bookkeeper.

Broken By Tragedy

It is true he went sparing with the candles and only used them in wintertime. From 1860 to 1916, that is from the age of 30 onward, he went to bed promptly at eight o'clock, but he rose at four in the morning. I saw the desk at which he worked. Once he stood at that desk for 48 hours, his head buried in his arms and never moved an inch. That was when the empress came in to tell him, after everybody else had refused, that their only son, Rudolph, had committed suicide, together with a beautiful young Countess Maria Vetsera in the imperial hunting-lodge at Mayerling. That was the only time in his life Francis Joseph showed any emotion. At the end of 48 hours the emperor lifted his head, dipped his pen in the ink and wrote out a telegram to the pope, asking that Rudolph, although a suicide, might be buried with the consoling rites of the church. The pope consented. It was Leo XIII. But one cardinal objected: Rampolla. Francis Joseph never forgave the cardinal and when Rampolla, upon Leo's death, was council of the church, Francis Joseph, elected to the papacy by the supreme exercising an ancient right, vetoed the election. The patriarch of Venice became pope in Rampolla's place under the name of Pius X.

Only Ghosts Survive

But all that is gone. Dreams and dust and ashes. There is still evidence that Vienna once ruled a mighty empire. The painted taverns where the people sit at tables drinking their beer remind you of Bavaria. Some of the squares are reminiscent of the austere style of Florence and Milan. There are palaces that remind you of old St. Petersburg. The coffee harks back to the Turkish conquest. The uniforms of the hussars show the old Hungarian connection. There are Slavic and Czech and Italian influences and even here and there a trace of Flanders. Vienna is a composite of all Europe of all times.

But the past, that consolation of the old and feeble, does not come back. History moves forward, inexorably, constantly accelerating its tempo. Everything is in flux, in genesis. Everything is changing, even human nature, which the die-hards still proclaim immutable, is changing perceptibly. Vienna belongs to the past. No matter whether they resuscitate the Empire for a time or not. It will but be a ghost that flits through a corridor of history. Vienna is dying. The stream of life is elsewhere.

SAVAGE RELIGIOUS WARFARE RAGES WITHIN PROVINCE OF CENTRAL ASIA

Moslem Rebels in Turkeston Give No Quarter to Opponents

By JOHN GOETTE
(Central Press Canadian Correspondent).

PEIPING, Sept. 6.—Massacre, assassination, death in battle, torture, famine and most of the remaining stark terrors of this earth, color the news emerging from remote Chinese Turkestan.

In Chinese Turkestan there is warfare buried away from the outside world. It is fanned by violent religious fervor. Its international complexity almost equals that of the World War.

Just fifty years ago Chinese armies subdued the peoples of Turkestan and there was created the province of Hsinkiang or the new dominion. Over a half million square miles of territory comprise the province which has a sparse population of about 1,000,000.

For the past ten years the Chinese governor has met revolt after revolt by different Mohammedan leaders, and the bloodshed has never been fully reported. Last year two factions began a struggle for possession of the capital at Urumchi which is not yet ended.

More recently the native tribesmen of southern Hsinkiang seized the largest city in that section, Kashgar, and announced the establishment of an independent government.

Thus the Chinese National government is faced by the two armed revolts. However, Kashgar, 3,321 miles away from Nanking, and actually much further due to bad communications, is nearer to Moscow than to Nanking, and about as far from the latter capital as it is from Istambul.

With more pressing military problem nearer home, the Chinese government can give little effective attention to this newest loss of territory, and the issue begins to drift to an end which no one in Asia can predict.

Hsiankiang is, above all other places, the veritable heart of Asia. Its boundaries march with those of Russian Turkestan, Outer Mongolia, Afghanistan, British India and Tibet. It is a high plateau hedged in on three sides by vast mountain ranges over 20,000 feet in elevation.

Its population is made up of pure Chinese settlers, Chinese Moslems, Mongols, Tibetans and a half dosen tribes of Turkish and Central Asian extraction.

Great Britain is involved because of the proximity of India, Tibet and Afghanistan. The new empire expansionists of Japan enter the picture through the recent Japanese recognition of Afghanistan and chance of striking a blow at Soviet Russia as part of the larger program of evicting the Soviets from Eastern Asia.

Chinese officials who hurried to Nanking after being evicted from southern Hsinkiang accuse Britain and Russia. One spokesman flatly states that a rebel leader, Sa Pi-to, returned student from Russia, was supplied with 10,000 British rifles in the Moslem uprising and that the native army was stiffened by the presence of 200 British military men.

This charge is reported by Ting Hsi-cheng, Nanking representative of the eight Mohammedan princes of Hsinkiang.

Other Chinese officials are inclined to lay the full blame upon Japanese militarists. It is a known fact that several Japanese army officers flew to Urmchi, the Hsinkiang capital, last year. Returning Chinese officials go so far as to declare that the Japanese are grooming one Abdul Kerim who is alleged to be the grandson of the ex-Sultan of Turkey, Abdul Hamid, for the new throne of Chinese Turkestan. They claim to know that this person is already in Japan awaiting to be escorted to his new kingdom.

Whatever the outside intrigue, the Hsinkiang secession is the work of Mohammedans who loath the Chinese like poison. Successive Moslem uprisings in the past ten years have wiped out hundreds of thousands of Chinese who are not of that faith. A Chinese Buddhist is an infidel to be stamped out just as a Christian has been the hated foe of the followers of Allah during past centuries.

No quarter is given by the Mohammedan armies of Hsinkiang. This is attested to by a pair of Franciscan Friars, Adelard Larter and Paragrin Klinger, who reached the coast after ten years' missionary work in Chinese Turkestan.

The European priests declare that at least once a year regularly their mission and church was desecrated by the infiamed Moslems. Typical of these attacks was the occasion when Friar Adelard was bound hand and foot, and hung on the wall with thongs twisted behind his arms and forced to watch Mohammedans torture Friar Peregrin. A cry of oncoming troops drove the Moslems off before the missionary was killed.

ROSENEATH

There will be no service in the United church here on Sunday owing to the anniversary services at Penella. The Sunday school hour is set for 9.45 a.m., instead of 10 o'clock to allow any who wish to attend the anniversary service.

Guests with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waldie for over Sunday were Mrs. C. Greensides and daughter, Miss Mildred Greensides and Miss Agnes Lennox, also Mr. Maurice Willoughby, and Mr. Bert Flint, all of Toronto.

An executive meeting was called by the Sunday school superintendent, Andrew Brown, to arrange for the Sunday school rally and it was decided to hold it with the regular church service in the morning of September 23.

Mr. and Mrs. William Waldie of Roseneath, Mrs. J. Sedgwick and daughter, Miss Francis, and Cladence Johnston, all of Trent River, left early on Wednesday morning, for a motor trip to North Dakota, where they will visit friends and relatives at Dickey, Laymore County and other places in the United States.

Mr. George Turner has erected a new garage during the last few days of his vacation.

Mr. Turner is engaged for another term to teach Mason's School, Hamilton township.

Miss Jean Cox has returned to her home in Peterborough, after a holiday with friends in the village, and guests of the Misses P. and L. Thomas.

Mrs. Weatherup and son of Cobourg, are visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sherwin and family.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Marion M. Wright,
204 Richmond Street,
Toronto, Ontario.

Your handwriting on sample delineates you as a gracious person. Your thoughts are quite individual and you are kindhearted and thoughtful. You have the characteristics of either one who would enjoy the nursing profession or teaching. You see, the power to impart knowledge belongs to you. Therefore, you can always pass on to others anything which you have learned through experience. You are quite artistic and should be fond of flowers and music. You have the ability to enjoy out-of-door sports and to plan and organize for others to execute. You have a good deal of determination and will-power, therefore, you should be able to always complete any task which you deem worthy of the undertaking. Your imagination is good, but does not really take you out of the realm of commonplace, every-day affairs, but should create enjoyment in any time which you have to spare for rest periods. In the business world you would do quite well, provided you did not have to work under supervision, but the ultimate outcome of your life through destiny is love. You are one of the type who must have pleasant surroundings and kindness. You respond to its influence, but you do not like to be pushed into anything. You are discriminating in your taste of clothing but do not put material things before common sense.

Charles Winston, Campbellford, Ont.

Strong Points: Genuine ability to distinguish right from wrong, a kindness which encourages others to put their faith in you and I honestly think that you merit this confidence.

Weak Points: Lack of vital strength physically, which sometimes makes you appear irritable, though you do not wish to create this impression about yourself.

Emotions: Controlled most of the time, but apt to anger quickly if judged harshly, because you are very sensitive to hurt, and grieve when deeply impressed.

Health: Fairly good, but of a nervous constitution. Care should be exercised not to overtax your strength. Light but nourishing meals should benefit you greatly.

Disposition: Subject to change according to prevailing conditions. You can be very sharp at times.

Temperament: Rather an artistic temperament, with musical inclinations, not a great deal of will power, but yet it is of normal tenure. The imagination is rather too well expressed.

How to Succeed: Learn to concentrate upon one line of work, knowing what you want to do, then put forth your every effort in an honest endeavour to succeed. For you can if you will.

Nora Brennan, North Bay, Ont.

Strong Points: Energetic mental capacity, with a sound and logical reserve when you deem it necessary to be so. You can be humorous and delightfully naive, too.

Weak Points: Inclined to overestimate your own abilities and strength causing nervous tendencies which rob you of sleep. Try to allow yourself a little more relaxation.

Emotions: Not too emotional, because you will not let yourself express your affections or intimate self to even those who are dear to you. Will you?

Health: Should be normal, but appears inclined to suffer through nerves. Physical tiredness is accountable for this.

Disposition: Not very changeable. You are usually your natural self under the most trying conditions outwardly, but many a time your very soul quivers with excitement.

Temperament: Fairly even, but should be allowed more self expression. Will-power is well illustrated, but could be developed to a greater extent as you become more mature.

How to Succeed: Establish the thought in your mind of what you desire most to accomplish, and let nothing deter you from the goal or path which you have set for yourself. A thinking position should be your ultimate objective in life, such as librarian.

Annie Douglas,
Port Hope, Ont.

Strong Points: Your writing shows that you are very sympathetic and that you let this characteristic make you suffer with the suffering. It would be well for your future health if you were to avoid visiting at homes where there is sickness, because it takes too much out of you.

Weak Points: Too enthusiastic over plans at the commencement, but easily tired before completion. You are very humorous and rather a contented sort of person, and seem quite adaptable, happy if dressed up and jolly in a housedress. You should enjoy plants or flowers and like to hear music.

Emotions: Too expressive for your own good and therefore others are inclined to call upon you for aid more often than is necessary or essential to their welfare.

Health: None too robust. It appears to me that you should try to watch your kidneys, dress warmly and avoid sitting in cold or draughty places. Astigmatism is no doubt troubling your eyes, and if you do not already wear glasses you should obtain a pair at once, but only upon reliable authority.

Disposition: Loving, jolly and kind, but rather too generous. You appear to be a 'good mixer' and can get along with most types of people.

Temperament: Usually about the same. You enjoy talking, and can amuse people with your ready wit.

How to Succeed: Be your own jolly self. Cultivate special lines of flowers for exhibition purposes. Learn new recipes for cooking, and I venture to suggest that your name will be among the prize-winners at the fall fair next year.

Dora Adair, Oshawa, Ont.

Strong Points: Later on you will no doubt possess a very decided nature, but right now you are not quite sure of yourself.

Weak Points: Too much inclined to give in to others, and therefore you ask advice, when you could find out for yourself were you to exert your mental faculties a little more.

Emotions: Impulsive and restless. Given to moods and sometimes exasperating because you won't say yes or no about things.

Health: Should be good, but is not anywhere nearly as sound as nature intended it to be; indecision regarding the correct foods, or recent illness or shock could be the predominating factor.

Disposition: Would be kind, loving and generous if you had your own way about it, but health seems to deter you from doing many things.

Temperament: In temperament, you would be entirely different to what you are, were you able to be so. Your will power is not of the dominant type.

How to Succeed: If you wish to succeed, you must build up your health take daily exercise (not too much at a time), but try deep breathing, as you walk slowly, about.

Japan is now one of the chief markets for American automobiles.

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

DOWN AROUND the New England states they sure are making turf history these days. On Labor Day Narragansett had 35,000 people, and Rockingham only 75 miles away, had 40,000 fans on hand. Then Discovery the Vanderbilt colt broke the world's record for one mile and three-sixteenths when he ran the distance in one minute and fifty seconds. And then to cap the climax Jim Badame before shipping to Thorncliffe put his good Canadian bred, Aymond over at a price better than twenty dollars. Rockingham now have the territory all to themselves for the next month and what a business they will do. It was only last year that betting was legalized in that locality and the fans were hungry for it.

They are talking of building another track at Boston, but in our opinion this would kill the goose that laid the golden egg, as these two tracks are quite capable of looking after all the business. Somewhat the same situation existed at Windsor a few years ago in the balmy days and they had three tracks and now every one of them is shut tight. Nearly all the trainers thought that Thorncliffe would be as hard as pasterboard after the recent Grand Circuit Trotting meeting which was held there, but Scotty McArthur the track superintendent footed them and had a cushion put on immediately after the trotting meet and with the last few days rain it has become almost perfect.

WILLIE MORRISSEY who lost his good sprinter Golden Spur via the claiming route, at the recent Saratoga meeting is feeling badly these days, as this one was the apple of his eye. He bought her a year ago last spring for $280. He won over ten thousand in purses with her besides what bets he won and then got $2,500 cash out of the claiming box when he lost her. From a commercial standpoint he is away ahead on the deal but for sentimental reasons he would gladly part with five thousand bucks and have her back.

A number of prominent trainers on our tracks have been given the gate for the balance of this season. Probably the best known is Brooklyn Tommy McCarthy the owner of Broadway Lights. Bill Weant is also the owner of a large stable and the suspension will hurt his pocketbook considerably as feed bills these days are a big item. Old Bill Donoghue the former Seagram trainer is another that caused quite a surprise, as Bill was considered a smart enough horseman without having to resort to stimulants. He is well past the 70 year mark and we hear he is taking the suspension very much to heart... ..Ontario is not the only place where they are going after the doping evil as we hear that J. D. Mikel and his string of 32 horses were all ruled off at Providence the other day. These trainers that were set down by our tracks have a chance to appeal during the coming Thorncliffe session and it may be that they will be able to clear themselves as Nat Ray did last winter in Florida. Tomorrow we will give you a line on some of the good things quartered at Thorncliffe awaiting Saturday's big opening.

LEE CLAN POUNDS FIVE BELLEVILLE MOUNDSMEN FOR THIRTEEN SAFETIES

Petes Score Eleven Runs In First Two Frames To Practically Kill Peeney Mills' Nationals' Hopes Of Another C.O.B.L. Title.

BILL CALLADINE IS JINX TO HOME HITTERS HOLDS OPPOSITION TO EIGHT SCATTERED HITS

The Petes swamped Peeney Mills' Nationals in Belleville yesterday to take the second straight C.O.B.L. playoff game by a 16-4 count. Laying down a barrage in the opening stages of the contest, Knotty Lee's gang showed decided superiority throughout, outplaying the Nats by a wide margin in all departments. No less than five Belleville pitchers were called to the mound in a vain attempt to stop the rampaging Petes.

The visiting squad scored eleven runs in the first two innings to practically kill Belleville's hopes of another Central League title. They knocked all opposing pitchers and played bangup ball behind good twirling by Bill Calladine to easily earn the verdict. Some eight hundred fans razzed the Nats throughout the game, although the Belleville team worked hard to hold the hustling Peterborough aggregation in check—an impossible feat, the way the Liftlockers were going yesterday.

Bill Calladine again proved a jinx to the Nationals. He hurled another smart game, holding the homesters to eight scattered hits as he fanned three and issued three walks. He had good support most of the way. Smith started for the home team but left early in the opening canto after three walks and an error. Casey took up the task but was chased before the stanza closed by three ringing singles. Utronki came in then and got by till the second when three walks, a double, an error and a homer by Calladine sent him to cover. Weir next tried to stem the tide and went only fair till the fifth when he was hammered out in favor of Sonny Green. The latter had the most success of any and pitched shutout ball the last four innings. None of the hurlers had very good support.

Leads Petes at Bat

Calladine led the Petes at bat with a homer and two singles in five, while Whatley hit three singles in six. Murray had a double and single, and Konopka a two-bagger. For the losers, Utronki had a homer and single, Ford hit safely twice and Scarlett got two bingles. All the locals turned in some good defensive playing.

The Petes broke out in a rash in the first frame to get five on three walks, an error, sacrifice and hits by Burton, Whatley and Hollingsworth. They got six in the second on three complimentaries, two errors, Murray's double and Calladine's homer. A walk and hits by Calladine and Murray sent one in in the third. They got three more in the fourth on a walk, miscue, and singles by Batten, Foley and Calladine. Their last marker came in the fifth when Whatley was safe on a bad throw and scored on Konopka's double.

Gets Run In First

Belleville got a run in the first when Utronki homered over Foley's head in deep centre. They counted in the second on a walk, hit batsman, an out and Ford's single. Their final run came in the eighth when Weir singled, stole second, took third on an out and ran home on Ford's bingle to right.

New Ty Cobb On The Bases Is Billie Werber Of Boston

Billy Werber, Boston Red Sox third-sacker, reminds fans who see him in action on the bases of Ty Cobb. No modern base-runner equals him in doing the unexpected. Making two bases on a bunt is one of his stunts. His base-running has him leading the league in stolen bases, number of hits, number of runs scored.

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Canadian Writer

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Billy Werber's bad break is that he is playing for the wrong ball club.

That is, the wrong team this year—next season the Boston Red Sox, in whose employ Werber labors, may be in the spot now enjoyed by the Detroit Tigers. If they are and should Werber be stealing bases, hitting and fielding at third in his 1934 manner the Bostonian will be a top headline sport page hero.

It is Werber's bad luck this year that he isn't playing for the Tigers. If he were, Billy, along with Manager Mickey Cochrane and Pitcher Schoolboy Rowe would be getting credit for winning a pennant for Detroit.

But Werber isn't with the Tigers. His club, the Red Sox, are in fourth place for the moment, with a bare chance to finish third. Consequently, with all baseball's attention focused on the amazing Tigers, Werber's brilliant play has gone comparatively unnoticed.

Werber's light, which would be truly dazzling if viewed at the eminence of first place, is thus almost obscured by the bushel of fourth place.

Leads All Leagues

At this writing Werber leads all big leaguers in the matter of stolen bases. And, at the latest compilation of batting averages one finds that Will has deposited more hits and more runs to his account than any other big leaguer.

In addition, Werber has fielded third base so well that he vies with Marv Owen of Detroit and Mike Higgins of the Athletics for the honor of premier third baseman of the American League.

Werber also nearly cost Schoolboy Rowe his fifteenth consecutive victory. It was the fifth inning, two were out. Rowe walked Werber, Wily William sauntered slowly to first, but as he did so he noticed Detroit's second baseman, the great Charley Gehringer, had his back turned, and the shortstop, Bill Rogell, was not in position for a quick play.

As his foot struck first, Werber tore out for second like a 10-second sprinter. Catcher Ray Hayworth, caugh unaware, was so flustered his late throw was hurried and Werber was safe.

ROWE SCORES 21ST VICTORY 1933 SCHEDULE

Detroit Flinger Secures Revenge on Marcum, His Nemesis in Win Streak.

INDIANS-BROWNS WIN.

Hal Schumacher Also Checks Up His 21st Triumph by Subduing Cubs 5-1.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The 1934 pennant races appeared to-day to have been reduced to matters of time—and not a very long time at that—for the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers.

Starting long stands on their home grounds, the two league leaders recorded a victory apiece yesterday, the Giants bowling over one of their leading rivals, Chicago Cubs, 5-1, and each triumph meant a step nearer to pennant land. While the Giants were reducing Chicago to the status of a third-place club and maintaining their seven-game margin over St. Louis Cardinals, the Tigers poked out a 4-2 decision over the Athletics and increased their lead over idle New York Yankees to six games.

The Giants made their "crucial" series with Chicago look rather unimportant as Hal Schumacher recovered from a poor start to pitch six-hit ball for his 21st victory of the season while Guy Bush was belted out with a three-run spurt in the sixth. Joe Moore's 14th homer topped off the game.

The Cards, meanwhile, conquered Brooklyn 2-1 in Dizzy Dean's three-hit flinging and home runs by Jim Collins and Bill Delancey off Emil Leonard to go into second place, Dean won his 24th mound victory while Collins tied Mel Ott for the league home run lead at 32.

The Tigers played the revenge motif for all it was worth when Schoolboy Rowe, whose 16 game winning streak was ended by the a's and Johnny Marcum last week, came back to beat Marcum after seven straight triumphs. Rowe, touched for 11 hits, received brilliant support in recording his 21st triumph. His mates bunched four of their seven blows off Marcum to do all their scoring in the fourth inning.

Cleveland Indians opened their third-place duel with Boston with an 11-2 triumph as Ralph Winegarner pitched a six-hit game and Hal Trosky smashed in six runs, with his 31st homer and a single. The Browns shook last year's champions, the Senators loose from their last mathematical chance at the pennant by winning 6-4 on a four-run burst in the sixth.

The Phillies put together Roy Hansen's six-hit flinging and a home run by Dolph Camilli to beat the Reds 1-0 and turn back a Cincinnati threat to climb out of the National League cellar. Pittsburgh's Pirates clouted out an 8-2 decision over Boston as Arky Vaughan made four of their 11 hits to account for five runs and pilfered two bases.

BALTIMORE TEAM IN LEAD

COBOURG, Sept. 6.—Although the schedule is not yet completed for the West Northumberland Baseball League, the Baltimore team with three wins and only one loss look like winners, while Grafton is well in the lead for the East Northumberland section. The winners of the two leagues will play off for the Sam Clarke trophy.

Newark Bears finally have won the International League pennant that escaped them last year.

In 1933 the Bears finished so far ahead in the regular season that it didn't seem to matter who was second but when the play-offs came they were knocked out of both the Little World Series and the flag. This season the play-off system has been changed so that it doesn't affect the pennant award and Newark clinched the topmost position by turning back Syracuse Chiefs 4-1 in a thrilling contest yesterday.

Idleness Costly

Rochester, in second place, was idle, and that cost the Red Wings their last possible chance to tie for the flag unless they play off the cancelled game with Montreal. The Bears have only four games to play, the Red Wings five, and Newark's triumph put them five games ahead.

The deciding contest was a thriller in every way. Frank Makosky, the team's only New Jersey resident, hooked up in a pitching duel with Tim McKeithan and set the Chiefs down with five hits, retiring the last 17 batters in order. The battle went on in a 1-1 tie until two were out in the ninth inning and then Roy Schalk blasted it wide open by hitting a home run with two on base.

In the night games Albany and Buffalo drew a game nearer the end of the campaign without a change in the status of their rivalry for the fourth and last play-off position. Each won by a 7-1 score, the Senators beating Baltimore Orioles behind the three-hit flinging of Darrell "Cy" Blanton and the Bisons trimming the third-place Toronto Leafs.

The result virually clinched fourth place for Albany as the Senators retained a 3½ game margin while Buffalo's greatest possible gain is 4½ games. Toronto's defeat made Rochester just about as certain to finish second.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Lynwood Rowe, Tigers—Reversed decision gained by Johnny Marcum and Athletics in breaking his consecutive winning streak last week.

BOBBY PEARCE RETAINS TITLE

Great Oarsman Outclasses Philadelphian for Sculling Triumph.

CHAMPION HARD PUT.

By ELMER DULMAGE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Sept. 6. (CP).—There was a picture to-day of Bobby Pearce stumped forward in his slender shell, still the world's professional sculling champion after beating Bill Miller of Philadelphia, but a tired champion. It was the first sign of fatigue Australia's master oarsman has conceded.

A throng of 20,000 strung along the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront, watched Pearce turn back the stubborn challenge of Miller last night with all the old power and ease blonde Bobby has been producing for years. He crossed the finish line 16 lengths in front.

Over the three-mile title course, laid out inside the Lake Ontario breakwater with two turns, Pearce pulled steadily away from the former United States amateur champion after the first 250 yards. He led by nearly three boat-lengths at the first mile, eight lengths at the second.

There was nothing lacking in the Australian's form. He got as much speed with a 36-stroke as he did a year ago in lifting the title from Ted Phelps of England or in beating Eric Phelps little more than a week ago. It was the sculler of the ages, the same matchless Pearce who has never lost a boat race.

But when it was over, when the giant from the other side of the world had pulled to victory and his foe was still 100 yards out on the course, then the 20,000 along the seawall saw what they hadn't expected. Pearce slumped forward. His head fell limply on his arms. He remained in that position more than a minute.

His Hardest Struggle

So the rowing world decided Philadelphia Bill had given the great Bob his hardest struggle. Certainly he provided better competition than Ted Phelps in 1933. The beaten champion trailed Pearce by nearly 400 yards. His brother Eric was 20 or more lengths behind Bobby in their qualifying race on Aug. 26.

Miller was credited with extending Pearce more than any other amateur when the two met in the 2,000 metres singles final at the 1932 Olympic Games. The American lost by about two lengths. Over the longer professional distance he was less effective, but powerful enough to make it a fine duel for half the route.

Perry Likely Retain U.S. Singles Tennis Honors

BRITISH STAR SCORES EARLY NET TRIUMPHS

Easily the Cream of 32 Survivors in Third Round of Forest Hills Tourney.

LIVES IN TENNIS.

(By Bob Cavagnaro, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—Fred Perry appears to be poised for another year as men's singles tennis champion of United States.

Although the British holder of the title has not yet had an opportunity or occasion to unsheath the lightning of his strokes, he is easily the cream of the 32 survivors in the third round of the current 53rd tournament.

Perry cut down his first two opponents without letting himself out, although in each match he gave the gallery a glimpse of his strength as he permitted his opponents to run up leads and then stepped up his pace to a burning speed that almost knocked his rivals from the court.

Perry lives and loves tennis. Because he hasn't been able to get even satisfactory workouts in the tournament, he leaves the Stadium court after his matches and plays with a friend on an outside court.

"I've got to keep my game sharp," he explained to-day, "that's why I like to continue playing right after a match is finished."

SAVING WILLIAMS FOR THIRD GAME

"Pinning Last Hopes on the Chief," Mills Tells Petes After Wednesday's Disaster.

"We're pinning our last hope on the Chief," Manager Peeny Mills told the Petes yesterday after the game. He was referring to the third C.O.B.L. playoff contest in Riverside Park this Saturday. With the Nationals losing two straight games in the five-game titular series, they face a tough task Saturday. If they lose this, they're finished for the season, but if they win, the Mills' clan would still have an opportunity of pulling the fat out of the fire. Jack Williams was saved yesterday in order to be at his peak to pitch this third tussle. If he's right, the Petes may meet with a real reverse.

However, Knotty Lee's gang have blood in their eyes these days. Smelling victory for the first time in many years in this cup classic, the Petes are going to be mighty hard to hold. They are playing the best ball of their careers the past few weeks, fielding like pros., pounding all kinds of pitching hard, and receiving great twirling themselves. They will be out there Saturday fighting to make it three straight in order to earn a week's rest before the O.B.A.A. semi-final series with the Toronto winner commences. A big crowd is looked for Saturday.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By G.S.P.

As Adolph Hitler would say: Oy, oy!—or would he? We mean about that senior game in Belleville yesterday. In case somebody here doesn't know the score—well, you find the odd person, and not always so odd either, that isn't particularly interested in sports—the Petes won it, 16-4, over Belleville for the locals' second straight win in the C.O.B.L. playoffs. They tangle with the Nats again here Saturday in the third game. It is very likely to be the final league playoff game, although you can't be positive with Chief Williams reserved for this one. They used everyone but the bat boy yesterday, yet they insisted upon saving Williams—and you never can tell what that Indian will do.

• • • • • •

There were times yesterday when we figured the bat boy might have made a better job of hurling than some of the bohunks they tossed against the Petes, but then we're not the Belleville manager. And besides, maybe the bat boy didn't have a certificate—so maybe we shouldn't criticize Peeney for not using him. Always trying to be fair, that's us. As a matter of fact, the Petes were so hot yesterday that it would take a mighty good pitcher to stop them. Maybe it's because they travelled down that bumpy highway toward Marmora that helped. At least, it had the players plenty sore long before they reached the Quinte town!

• • • • • •

They smacked Ernie Smith out of the box before he knew he was in there. Carl Casey didn't even know what day it was before he was yanked. Utronki had his fling and was promptly flung back out into the field. Then came Alex Weir and he looked like a million bucks of gold stock for a brief time. It was very brief and then he found the Petes had gone off the gold standard. Sonny Green ankled onto the mound next and put up a strong argument for the Indians' rights in our fair country. The eccentric Sonny did right noble with a hook that had the third baseman and batter ducking at the same time. At least he held the Petes without a run in the last four frames, and that's something. All this time, the Chief was sitting on the bench waiting for Saturday toroll around.

• • • • • •

Meantime, Knotty Lee's hopefuls were going out and having themselves a time. They got awelegant hurling from young Bill Calladine, good fielding and more hits than you could shake four sticks at. They pounded five Quinte so-called flingers for thirteen bingles, including a homer and two doubles. And they received no less than eleven walks. Not to mention five errors that helped somewhat. The Petes were in top form and ready for a battle. They didn't find a battle, but a banquet—and how they dug in! No kidding, the Petes seemed ready to go places this season, and they expect to take this series in three straight.

• • • • • •

Something like eight hundred fans took in the tussle, which is considered a very fair crowd in Belleville. Naturally, they had quite a jolt the first two frames, what with the score 11-3 for the visitors. They spent the rest of the afternoon telling Mister Mills and his boys that they might make a fair intermediate team, that they were rotten, that the Petes were as far above them as the N'Yawk Giants, etc. It didn't help the homesters, of course. Peeney said afterward that if the Chief could win here Saturday, they had a chance, otherwise nothing doing. Him telling us, eh?

• • • • • •

Several breakdowns in their cars held the Kingston intermediate players up till too late for their game with Cogs here last evening. Five of them arrived okay but the rest didn't get here till after six. Some three hundred fans were disappointed and waited till about six bells but it was no go. We suppose this sort of thing can't be helped—as the best of autos will come to grief occasionally—but it' too bad in a playoff game. Bill Kay of the O.B.A.A. here got in touch with Secretary Snyder today to see if the Kingston club wouldn't have to help defray the expenses of this postponed game—advertising, tickets returned over admissions, etc.—and also to have them ordered here for another evening. Cogs are slated to play in Kingston on Saturday at 3.00 Standard Time. Kingston will play here next week.

C.G.E. meets the Port Hope Alerts in an exhibition tilt at the Bowl Friday eve, this visiting squad being the one put out by Oshawa in the P.W.S.U. playdowns. One of these days, the gals' tangle will be straightened out and the local playoffs announced.

The Kiwanis lacrossers will be at full strength tomorrow for their game at 8.15 in the Armouries with the Aajmaa Club of Belleville. While the locals have a three-goal lead, they know the visitors will come loaded to the ears with imports and whatnot in a desperate attempt to grab the Central League championship. Several good Campbellford players, with the best of the Belleville team, plus a player from deseronto—this is the sort of squad Pete King & Co. will face Friday. The Armouries is an ideal spot to play it and it ought to be a sweet scrap. A big crowd is anticipated.

C. G. E. DEFEATS CALEYS 4 TO 2 LEAGUE TUSSLE

Stan Clark Registers Winners' Four Counters—Gore and C. Heal for Losers.

WINNERS LEAD LEAGUE.

The Canadian General added two more league points to their credit in the league standing, last night, when they defeated the Caledonians by four goals to two, before a fair ateindance of spectators, on King Edward Park. Stan Clark got the four goals for the winners, and in the second half the losers put up a brilliant exhibition to compel the C.G.E. to give their best.

An Opportunist's Goal

In the early stages, the Scots were more aggressive than the C.G.E. but failed to make use of the openings presented them when inside the goal area. Both goalkeepers were tested in turn but the misunderstanding between the Caledonian full backs permitted Stan Clark, at centre-forward for C.G.E., to connect with a first timer that the custodian had not the slightest chance to save. The Scots endeavored to get the equalizer as they confined the activities to their opponent's goals which brought out the superb defense of the Mitchell Brothers as full backs. Time and again, the Caley forwards carried the play into the C.G.E. zone to be blocked right in front of their objective instead of shooting from outside the goal area. Exchanges continued in mid-field for a while until McPhate broke up a dangerous attack to send his left wing down into the corner. He was tackled by Mann, who was astonished to witness the ball leave the foot of Darling that landed at the toe of Stan Clark, who bulged the rigging with a terrific drive. Half time: Canadian General, 2; Caledonians 0.

Keen Tactics Prevailed

On resuming, the C.G.E. added to their total when Clark registered his third counter of the game on an individual effort from twenty yards out. As the tussle progressed, the Caleys never gave up attacking to cause the C.G.E. a lot of anxiety as the ball travelled from one territory to the other and the winners were battling to keep them from scoring. On a smart piece of combination between Gore and Cliff Heal, on the left wing, brought their teammates greater enthusiasm to find the former player touching the ball inside the upright. On the next visit by the Scots, they bombarded the C.G.E citadel from all angles until Jones cleared upfield. They went back into the C.G.E. goal to reduce the lead when Cliff Heal connected with a first timer that found the net inside the upright. Towards the final minutes of the game, Clark put the result in the positive column to make the count read: Canadian General 4, Caledonians 2.

Boal Scorers—C.G.E., Stan Clark (4); and Joe Gore and Cliff Heal for Scots.

Caledonians. — R. Carmichael, goal; H. Mann and W. Denisen, full backs; H. Webb, D. Green and S. Leggitt, halves; D. Mowry, Art Heal, H. Welsh, Cliff Heal and Joe Gore, forwards. Sub, G. Lovett.

Canadian General. — W. Curtis, goal; J. Mtichell and A. Mitchell, full backs; F. Earl, E. Jones and T. McPhate, halves; J. Cooper, A. Burgess, S. Clark, V. Post and H. Darling, forwards.

Referee—J. Morgan; linesmen—J. McMaster and J. Flynn.

Belleville Faces Three-Goal Deficit

Three goals down on their lacrosse playoff round, the Aajmaa Club team from Belleville are coming here tomorrow (Friday) night to play Kiwanis at 8.15 in the Armouries. They are determined to put up another grand battle as the one that marked the first fracas in the Quinte town Tuesday, when the Petes put on a whirlwind finish to grab the verdict. According to reports from Belleville, the visitors will add several experienced players to their lineup for this game, with such well-known (locally) Campbellford stars as Buster Whitton, Fred Ingram, Hendy, etc., opposing the Kiwanis for a change. Two stars, Joe Gould and Runions, will also be here.

This is the final game of the home-and-home series for the Central Ontario Intermediate championship. The winner—it's goals on the round—meets a Toronto team next in the O.A.L.A. playdowns. The Armouries floor has been fixed up fine with fencing along one side to protect fans, and benches laid out. They deserve a real crowd as the Kiwanis' players are turning in some smart competition this summer. Bovin is expected here for this game, and all the other local regulars.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

CHUCK KLEIN MAY GO TO CARDS CUBS DISAPPOINTED IN SLUGGER

Former Philadelphian is Big $125,000 Bust as Far as Chicago Concerned.

NOT UP TO ROOKIE

That Chuck Klein, after one season's disappointing stay in Wrigley Field, Chicago, will be traded or sold is being freely predicted by those who believe they have inside information on National league doings.

Klein, it may be recalled, came to the Cubs at the cost of something like $125,000. The ownership of Baby Bears believed they were virtually assuring themselves the pennant when they made the deal for the Philadelphia star.

However, Klein has been a dismal failure, not entirely through his own fault. His batting dropped below .320 and then an injury shelved him for the rest of the campaign.

The efforts of the Cubs to obtain additional outfield strength from their Pacific Coast connections for 1935 indicate that Manager Charley Grimm is not depending on the Hoosier hitter for next season.

The rumors that the Cubs are prepared to bid heavily for the services of Pitcher Dizzy Dean and Outfielder-Third Baseman Pepper Martin of the St. Louis Cardinals gives rise to the speculation that some deal might be arranged, Klein going to the Red Birds as part payment.

Incidentally, Klein is the second player sold before the 1934 season by a Philadelphia team to prove a liability instead of an asset. Coupled with Grove, whose sale by the Athletics to the Red Sox cost Boston as much if not more than Klein cost the Cubs, the pair of players brought a quarter of a million dollars to the two Philadelphia clubs.

And neither has proved to be worth as much this season as a lot of rookies who were picked up for nothing.

This Rink Won its right after an elimination series among a number of Peterborough rinks but at that the whole thing had the burlesque touch to it.

—o—

A Couple of our rinks went over to Cannington yesterday to take part in their annual tourney. The boys were not successful, as far as the prize list was concerned, but reported a good time.

CHAPTER 32

Adelaide Delafield was dying in her old house in Baltimore. She had been born in that house, and it was, perhaps, fitting that she should come to it for the end.

It was a huge brown stone structure built in the days when Baltimore entertained in state and elegance for months at a time, without flittings to Florida and California and Southern France which now made its hospitality intermittent. Since the Great War there had been less formality and fewer servants, not because Adelaide could not afford them, but because she didn't need them. Yet there were enough left to make this business of dying a well-attended affair; besides the regular staff there were two trained nurses.

Nurses and servants had no power however to protect Adelaide from the wave of awful loneliness which swept over her when the doctor told her that the end was near. He had to tell her; there were business matters, the lawyers said, which must be settled, and Adelaide had not settled them.

"Is there anyone you wish to send for?" the doctor asked.

"No," the old woman said with bitterness, "I'll die alone."

Yet when she was really alone with Farley and the day nurse, she found herself wanting more than that. Was there anyone in the world who really loved her? She lay there thinking of the life she had lived in the old house. She saw herself a lonely little girl with a gay and widowed mother, who came in rustling black silk and shining jet, with creamy shoulders and a coronet of braids, and who leaned over the bed and kissed her, then went away to dinners and things, and at last to a wedding with a man who didn't like Adelaide, and whom Adelaide hated. So she was sent away to school, and came back to be married off so that she might be away from her stepfather, and that she might not make her mother seem old by comparison with a tall young daughter.

After that Adelaide had worn rustling silks and earrings, and had showed her own creamy shoulders, and had gone to dinners and cotillions, and after she had been married five years, her husband ran away with another woman and broke her heart.

"Since then I've been a hateful beast," said old Adelaide, lying in her bed. And she didn't know whether it was her own fault, or the fault of her mother, or the fault of the man she had married.

But late in the afternoon, as darkness came over the room, she whispered to herself, "If I had loved more . . . I might have been loved . . ."

It was perhaps, as near to repentance as Adelaide ever came. Yet the good Lord knew what was in her unhappy old heart.

It was then that she sent for Joan. "You know where she is, Farley. And say that she must come at once."

When Joan arrived Adelaide lay in the great French bed with silken hangings. The hangings were rose-color and so was the silken spread, and Adelaide wore a lace cap with a rose in it, and a little jacket which matched the rose. All the things about her belonged to youth, yet there she was with her old, old face and her old, old heart, and her longing for love.

She put up her arms to Joan. "Do you love me?"

"You know I do."

"Then . . . stay with me."

Joan knelt beside the bed and Adelaide closed her eyes and after a while she said, "I am leaving you all my money. I made my will this morning."

"Dearest . . ."

"I am going to make you a rich woman, Joan. I'm not sure whether you will be any happier for having money. Perhaps if I had been poor . . . I might have been different," the tears ran down her old cheeks.

Joan drew the thin old body into her arms, "My dear," she crooned, "my dear . . ."

That night Adelaide died. There were many matters she had intended to talk over with Joan. She had wanted to talk about Drew Hallam. To say that he'd make as good a husband as any of them, and that Joan might as well marry him. But she didn't say it, she simply died with all the rose-colored lamps in her room lighted, and with Joan's hand in hers.

And now Farley looked after Joan as she had looked after her mistress. She installed her in a suite of two rooms all done up in French gilt and ivory, with garlands on the walls, and with satin draperies of faint pink and blue. The suite reflected Adelaide's taste 25 years ago after a year's residence in Paris.

Farley laid out Joan's things for the night, and drew the water for her bath, and while she brushed her hair, she talked about the plans for the funeral. "You'd better let me have some black dresses sent up early. You'll have to see Mrs. Delafield's lawyer, and Mr. Hallam and his sister will arrive on the afternoon train."

"Mr. Hallam . . .?"

"Yes. Mrs. Delafield had invited them for the week-end, before she knew how bad things were with her. Perhaps you won't want them?" The question seemed an innocent one, but Farley was watching Joan's face in the mirror.

It was a quiet face, with no sign upon it of self-consciousness. "I think you'd better get them long distance, Farley, and tell them what has happened. And ask them not to come until the day of the funeral."

"Yes, Miss Joan."

"And Farley . . . I am expecting Mrs. Sears tomorrow. I talked with her over the telephone, and she's taking the midnight train. She will stay with me for a time. You remember her, don't you?"

Farley remembered. She thought it rather foolish of Miss Joan to clutter up her new life with people like that. Farley knew that Joan was to have Adelaide's money. All of the servants knew it, and the nurses. Farley had been the only person in the room at the time of the drawing of the will. She had heard what Adelaide said to the lawyer, and after Adelaide's death there had seemed no reason why she should keep to herself what she had heard.

It was Friday night when Adelaide died. The funeral was to be on Monday. There were relatives to come on from the west. Adelaide had left implicit instructions as to what was to be done. The lawyers carried out the instructions, but Joan had enough on her mind. All day Saturday dressmakers and milliners came with the things Farley had ordered. The black clothes they brought hung like glorified scarecrows on hangers, and the black hats were perched everywhere like birds of evil omen.

"She is very tired," Farley said to Penelope, "I am hoping she can get some sleep."

"I don't want to sleep," Joan protested, and held out her arms to her good friend. "Oh, Penelope, how good to see you."

Farley left them with reluctance. She went to the next room and began to unpack Penelope's bag. Penelope followed her. "I'll do that," she said, and when Farley had gone, Penelope took off her traveling dress and put on her red blanket wrapper and went back to Joan. And Joan said: "Penelope, darling, how wonderful to see you look like that."

She did not try to explain why it was wonderful. She could hardly have told herself what she meant. It was only that in the big house she moved in a dream and that all the people were dream people. And now Penelope had come and was real . . .!

Safe in Penelope's arms she cried and cried. "I don't know what makes me," she apologized, "I don't think I am crying for Aunt Adelaide. I—I think maybe she's happier. She was sweet at the last. But I'm afraid. She left me all her money—this big house is mine and everything in it, and all the servants. And the thought of it frightens me, even though I like it in a way. I wouldn't be human if I didn't. But it changes—everything. And you've got to stay with me, Penelope. I must have you. You will stay, won't you?"

Penelope promised. Yet in her heart she was saying, "She won't want me always. There'll be somebody else. . . . Hallam, perhaps. Everybody will be after her. I can only pray the good Lord . . ."

She voiced none of her doubts, however. She spoke of the children. "They all sent love, and Priscilla said you had promised to come back for Christmas."

"Oh, I will. And we will carry presents to all of them," Joan sat up and began to plan for it. "I won't have to stop to think about what it will cost."

The two of them dressed presently for dinner and went down. The drawing room was a frosty place with glittering prisms like icicles hanging from the chandeliers, and with long mirrors like frozen lakes. The Moquet carpet had a pearly gliminer, and the furniture was in pale brocades. The pictures were etchings and pastels. The whole thing has a spectral aspect. Penelope thought of her golden-lighted living room, her bright, and beautiful kitchen. "Money couldn't make me live here long," she said.

Now Free From Rheumatism

3 Years Suffering Ended by Dodd's

"I was troubled severely with Rheumatism," says Mr. Halton Davis, Orrville, Ont. "I saw an advertissment of Dodd's Kidney Pills explaining that Rheumatism was caused from the kidneys. I purchased a box and after using it I was 75 per cent. better. After the second box I was completely better. Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills I had this trouble for three years—and tried a number of different remedies out, without benefit." D13

THE STARS SAY . . .

For Friday, September 7

A very important change, despite tenacious obstacles and impediments, is the augury based on this day's planetary configurations. Wisely managed this sudden visitation may have a far-reaching effect on the destiny, bringing about a complete reversal of the fortunes, environs and associations, with rather happy reactions on the private affairs. Those in power and authority in "big business" will be found approachable for substantial support.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of important change, with new interests and surroundings, as well as pleasant private relations. It is probable that large interests will be found kindly toward worthwhile propositions. Nevertheless there is sign of stubborn obstacle or impediment which must be vanquished by determination and persistency. Be cautious with speech.

A child born on this day may be versatile, ambitious but changeable and restless. Also it may be inclined to be melancholy.

Poland now has only approximately 300,000 unemployed.

Four ounces, instead of two as formerly, of boiled sweets are to be allowed women and children in public institutions in London.

ORIOLES BEAT ALBIONS 17-16 IN HEAVY SLUGGING STRUGGLE

Thirty-six Hits, Including Six Homers, Feature South-end Loop Fixture.

FIRST OF FINALS.

In the first South-End Softball League contest of the five-game final series Tuesday night, the Orioles finally nosed out Albions, 17-16, in a close slugfest that saw the offerings of rival hurlers hammered to the four corners of the park for thirty-six hits, including six homers. Cavanaugh of Albions was nicked for eighteen blows as he walked four and fanned three. R. Hunter for the Birds gave five hits and walked three for seven runs before being yanked in the second for M. Hunter. The latter was touched for thirteen tingles but only three runs.

The losers started out strong and had an eight-run lead in the early part but the Orioles fought back and finally overtook them in the seventh, Millard's homer settling the issue. Albions didn't turn a wheel the last two frames. Caccavelli repeatedly robbed the opposition of hits with fine shortstopping, while Gardino had eleven chances at second without a slip. Watkins hit two homers and Millard one for the Birdmen, and Lazure got two, with Ashmore one for the Albions. These teams meet again Thursday at 5.30 in Brinton Field in their second playoff game. If postponed, it will be staged Friday, with necessary remaining games on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of next week. The box score:

LAW OF AVERAGES FAVORS McLARNIN

Welterweight Championship Bout Carded at New York This Evening.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(A.P.)—One of the greatest warriors of a great boxing era — Dynamite Jim McLarnin — packed his tools last night and set himself for the grimmest task of a star-studded career —that of whipping the newest idol, brilliant Barney Ross, in Madison Square Gardens' big bowl on Long Island to-night.

Slaughterer of champions and contenders alike down through the years that go back to the days of Tex Rickard, the belting Irishman from Vancouver, no longer a babyface, faces the same oblivion he forced on so many others.

Ross took away Jimmy's welterweight championship in May by decision, the became the first lightweight king ever to hold both crowns. If he wins again he will just about shut the first-flight record books in the face of the devastator.

SPYING ON SPORTS

"GOSSIP AND SUCH

That is, the wrong team this year—next season the Boston Red Sox, in whose employ Werber labors, may be in the spot now enjoyed by the Detroit Tigers. If they are and should Werber be stealing bases, hitting and fielding at third in his 1934 manner the Bostonian will be a top headline sport page hero.

It is Werber's bad luck this year that he isn't playing for the Tigers. If he were, Billy, along with Manager Cochrane and Pitcher Schoolboy Rowe would be getting credit for winning a pennant for Detroit.

But Werber isn't with the Tigers. His club, the Red Sox, are in fourth place for the moment with a bare chance to finish third. Consequently, with all baseball's attention focused on the amazing Tigers, Werber's brilliant play has gone comparatively unnoticed.

Werber's light, which would be truly dazzling if viewed at the eminence of first place, is thus almost obscured by the bushel of fourth place.

At this writing Werber leads all big leaguers in the matter of stolen bases. And, at the latest compilation of batting averages one finds that Will has deposited more hits and more runs to his account than any other big leaguer.

In addition, Werber has fielded third base so well that he vies with Mary Owen of Detroit and Mike Huggins of the Athletics for the honor of premier third baseman of the American league.

Werber, strangely enough, was one of the most discouraged athletics in baseballdom earlier in the season. A Yankee castoff, Will was given another chance by the Red Sox in the spring. Werber was laboring under the false impression that he was a shortstop. His success as such was absolutely invisible to the naked eye.

Aside from his natural mechanical ability, Werber has proven a resourceful, smart player. Always alert, he takes instant advantage of every opportunity at the plate and on the base paths.

Thumbnail History Of America's Cup

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (AP)—A master minding helmsman backed up by a courageous crew in a lumpy, running sea lent a dramatic touch to the America's Cup races of 1893 between Lord Dunraven's British challenger, Valkyrie, and the defending Vigilant, owned by a New York syndicate.

The series was run on a three out of five basis and Vigilant had won the first two races by margins of more than five minutes and 10 minutes respectively.

Friday, October 13

The third race was sailed on Friday, October 13. The sky was overcast, a heavy easterly wind swept the course and the sea was in a fit of misbehavior.

Valkyrie got the jump at the start, sailing headlong into the teeth of the blow for the 15-mile windward leg. The defender trailed her across the starting line by nine seconds and wasn't able to make up the time. With the advantage of the weather berth, Valkyrie was two minutes ahead when she rounded the mark boat and headed for home.

Daring Tactics

Nat Herreshoff, who designed and built the defender at his now-famous Bristol, R.I., shipyard, was sailing the Vigilant and after quickly gaining a vote of confidence from his crew resorted to daring tactics to save the race.

As the yacht sped and bounded along down the wind, three men climbed the mast and working on their lofty perches with the assistance of the remainder of the crew below, set a pyramid of rounded and hardened canvas—taut as a drumhead—in 18 minutes. It was risky business. Should the sails part they would go thundering down over the bow. They didn't though.

Valkrie, on the other hand, ran afoul of trouble. The crew slightly tore the spinnaker while setting it. The squall did the rest and the sail was soon in tatters.

Vigilant finally won the race by 40 seconds.

WOLF HUNTERS COMB PYRENEES

PHOSPHORESCENT EYES.

SAINT GAUDENS, France, Sept. 6 (A.P.).—The ancient wolf lore of this region within the shadow of the once savage Pyrenees was called into play yesterday to track down a "monster with phosphorescent eyes," reported sighted near here.

Despite storms sweeping the district, hundreds of hunters and sightseers, headed by the St. Gaudens districts "wolf lieutenant," spent the week-end exploring Lake Camon in an effort to find the beast.

Late yesterday they had found no trace of it, but M. F. Narud, the hunter who reported its appearance, insisted he saw the creature last Friday suddenly appear from among reeds bordering the marshy section of the lake.

Narud described the monster as prehistoric in its appearance, its body 25 feet long and five feet thick. It was covered with large scales, he said, and to add to its frightfulness, had curious shining eyes.

"Wolf Lieutenant" Moga, his office handed down from years past when every district had its "wolf lieutenant" to protect it from predatory animals, promptly organized the search for the beast.

BIOLOGY EXPERT CONTINUES WORK

Prominent Educationalist Leaving St. Francis Xavier University to Complete Studies

ANTIGONISH, N.S., Sept. 6. (C.P.)—With the early departure of Arthur F. Chaisson, prominent Canadian marine biologist, St. Francis Xavier University will lose one of her most valuable educationists. Professor Chaisson is to leave for Montreal, where he plans to engage in educational work and complete his medical studies at McGill University.

Professor Chaisson is a member of the Biological Board of Canada and the Nova Scotia Institute of Science. He has written extensively for leading biological, psychological and educational journals. At Harvard University, where he specialized in psychology and mental hygiene, he was elected to the National Honor Fraternity, Phi Delta Kappa, and became a member of the Harvard Teachers' Association. Later under Dr. Leonard Seif, of Munich, and Dr. Alfred Adler, of Vienna, he studied European methods in children's psychological clinics.

A native of Saint John, N.B., Professor Chaisson graduated from St. Frances Xavier and obtained his M.A. degree in 1924. During the next two years, he hydrographically surveyed the south shore of Nova Scotia to determie lobster breeding areas. In the interests of conservation he made an extensive survey of lobster conditions in the Maritime Provinces and Magdalene Islands. He is now recognized as an outstanding authority on the subject.

Two years ago Pro. Chaisson made a study of the transportation of live lobsters, producing the first scientific account of proper methods. After considerable educational work among the fishermen, he contributed largely to the building of an important live lobster business between eastern Nova Scotia and Massachusetts, by reducing losses to a minimum.

JURORS UNABLE TO DETERMINE AGENT OF DEATH

Mystery of July Morning Killing on Gordon Avenue Unsolved.

MANY WITNESSES.

Police Investigations Fail in Search for Definite Clue.

Little or no further information of value in aiding towards a solution of the mysterious circumstances under which Robert Meharry, 66-year-old widower met his death, was forthcoming at the inquest conducted last night by Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young.

After hearing evidence submitted by seventeen witnesses, the jury under the foremanship of Sidney Whatley brought in a verdict to the effect that Meharry came to his death on Gordon avenue on the night of July 23-24 last by extensive head injuries inflicted by some person or persons unknown.

"A Very Severe Blow"

Dr. C. B. Waite who performed an autopsy testified as to the extensive series of fractures at the base of the skull. The skull was broken in four pieces, he said, and the brain was badly lacerated. He gave it as his opinion that "it was a very severe blow from a flat, smooth object" that had caused the head injuries.

The autopsist described in detail other injuries he had found on the body, and discounted the suggestion that an incision on the left upper lip had been caused by a knife. It was more probable, he thought, that the incision had been caused by the sharp surface of the curbstone or a sharp-edged rock.

Bruises on the knuckles of the dead man, indicated to the doctor the strong probability that Meharry had been involved in a fight which had resulted in the injuries causing his death.

Dr. Herbert N. Young who assisted at the post mortem examination gave corroborative medical evidence, and also testified as to the result of his investigation at the scene of the tragedy in his capacity as acting coroner.

Left House At Nine

Fred Thirnbeck who resides on Cross street opposite the house in which Meharry had resided, testified that he saw Meharry lock-up his house at nine o'clock on the evening of July 23 and then walk away south on Cross street.

Herbert Panter, 81 Monaghan road was sitting on his verandah that same evening, he stated in the witness box, he saw Meharry on the east side of Monaghan road walking north at about 10.30 p.m. "I said good night Bob and he said good night Bert," witness testified.

Subsequently according to the witness, Meharry started to cross over to the west side of the road and when he was about half way over, a car drove up. "The driver of the car called out, are you coming home Bob."

Old Brown Touring Car

Mr. Panter described the car as being an old model touring car, brown in color. The driver he stated, wore a fedora hat and he had a dark moustache and a hoarse voice, suggestive of a cold in the throat.

The car stopped to pick up Me-

Father And Son Held For Slaying Farmer

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 7.—(CP)—The police court was crowded with spectators today as Conrad Audy, 32, and his father-in-law, Louis Audy, 57, were arraigned before Judge J. S. Coutre on a charge of murdering Saul Gregoire, 60-year-old South Ham, Que., farmer. Preliminary hearing was set for next week and the two prisoners were returned to the cells.

Last night a coroner's jury held the two criminally responsible for the death of Gregoire. The farmer was pulled from his buggy on the highway several weeks ago and shot through the back. His body was found hidden in a field under a bloodstained blanket. His horse, unhitched from the buggy, was found cropping grass at the side of the road. A sum of $100 in cash was missing from the pockets of the dead man.

At the inquest yesterday Conrad Audy testified he had signed an agreement with Gregoire, his employer, to look after him till his death when, in return, all Gregoire's immoveable property would be turned over to him.

$5,000 REWARD MAY BE OFFERED IN LABATT CASE

Announcement Expected After Roebuck Confers With Other Officials.

NO CLUE AT COTTAGE.

Prisoner Evidently Well Fed, Empty Tins Show, But No Clue Left.

TORONTO, Sept. 7. (CP)—Offices of the Attorney General of Ontario to-day found officials active in sorting threats that might lead to the capture of the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, wealthy London, Ont., brewer. A $5,000 reward for information leading to arrest of the men who abducted the brewer Aug. 14 and released him early Aug. 17 was expected to be announced by Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck after conferences with other officials in the case.

A little summer cottage in the Wildewood district of picturesque Muskoka has been revealed as the place where Labatt spent 86 hours with his kidnappers. The cottage is near Bracebridge, about 100 miles north of Toronto, and it was to this place the gangsters sped with their captive after waylaying him on a lonely road between his Sarnia beach summer home and London Ont, on the morning of Aug. 14.

Police 24 Hours Late

Twenty-four hours after Labatt was released in Toronto by the men who had demanded $150,000 ransom in a note left in the brewer's abandoned car in London, police arrived at the cottage but their quarry had flown. Police who have been reticient regarding steps made on the kidnappers' trail admitted they had known of the hide-away a day after Labatt was freed but they remained silent on ransom payment questions, even in the face of reports $50,000 had been turned over by the Labatt family.

Chained to his bed by the wrists, Labatt was not allowed outdoors while guarded by three gangsters, believed from United States underworld, at the cottage. They shaved him and fed him well if the empty cans of honey and other foodstuffs around the cottage could be taken as an indication. The chain was of sufficient length to permit Labatt to undress and dress comfortably.

Liked Reading

Labatt's abductors apparently were great readers of newspapers and movie magazines which were found strewn about the small building, but the gangsters were wise to the ways of the law as every fingerprint with the exception of a smudgy one on a lamp, had been removed. Dishes were washed well and pack of cards burned to ashes. Clues for police to work upon were not to be found.

Revelation of the hide-away's whereabouts strengthened the belief officers were nearing the end of the trail. A London, Ont., police official yesterday declared, "watch tomorrow," a day when "a break" might be expected in the case. Joseph Sedgwick, K. C., solicitor of the Attorney General Department, conferred with Labatt representatives in London yesterday, probably about the reward announcement, taken to indicate the period the kidnappers had de-

EVA COO GUILTY OF KILLING MAN FOR INSURANCE

Women Cheer and Men Weep at Verdict of Jury.

LIVED IN PETERBORO.

Mrs. Coo to Die in Electric Chair at Sing Sing.

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., Sept. 7.—(A.P.)—Two women of murder—Eva Coo and Martha Clift—pondered to-day the profit of killing a man for his insurance.

"Little Eva" Coo, formerly of Haliburton, Ont., was convicted late yesterday of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing. She dies, if no agency of law intervenes, the week of October 15.

Martha Clift, 27 year old mother of two children, pleaded guilty to second degree murder, and was sentenced to serve 20 years to life.

It was the testimony of Martha Clift, co-conspirator with "Little Eva" in the murder of Harry Wright, that clinched the fate of the middle-aged Mrs. Coo. Yet today Mrs. Coo said she held no malice.

Some time to-day the two women are to say good-bye and "no hard feelings." Mrs. Coo, keeper of a roadhouse where her victim, Wright, was a handyman, also wants to speak a friendly farewell to Harry Nabinger, her paramour, whose testimony scored heavily against her.

Women Cheer Verdict.

She showed little emotion when the jury, after two hours of deliberation, returned its verdict late yesterday. Women cheered when the verdict was told in the court room. Some men wept.

Mrs. Coo will be taken to Sing Sing, probably to-morrow. At the same time, Mrs. Clift will be moved to the women's prison at Bedford.

Nabinger, who has been in jail as a material witness, is to be released

ASSIZE COURT HERE TUESDAY

ONE CRIMINAL CASE

Only one criminal case is on the docket for presentment to the grand jury at the opening of the Autumn Assize of the Supreme Court of Ontario here on Tuesday afternoon next, before the Honorable Mr. Justice Henderson. The civil list is also light with five non-jury cases listed for hearing.

Roy Walsh of 547 Rogers street stands indicted on a charge of manslaughter, arising out of the death of Joseph Maher who was killed, when a stolen car in which the two youths were joy-riding crashed into the ditch in descending Springville hill on the morning of September 30, 1933.

The case was set down for trial at a former sittings of the Assize Court, but was adjourned on account of inability of Provincial Constable David Silvester to attend court, owing to illness. The accused has since been at liberty under bail.

In Two Actions

Joseph A. O'Brien is named as defendent to the first two actions heading the civil list. He is defended by Emmett F. Sheehy.

Mrs. Alils Ann O'Brien, his wife, is the plaintiff in both instances. She is represented by Gordon and Elliott. First of the suits is a claim by Mrs. O'Brien for alimony; the second names Mary Veronica Cecilia O'Brien of Windsor as co-defendant, and is a claim seeking judgment declaring certain docu-

Save City $12,066 And County $13,000 If Government Assumes Highways

Legislation which Premier Hepburn announces is to be enacted at the next session of the Provincial Legislature, will mean an approximate yearly saving of one mill on the tax rate and half a mill on the city tax rate.

According to a statement made by the Premier yesterday municipalities and counties are to be relieved of the 20 per cent contribution they are at present called upon to pay towards construction and maintenance of provincial highways. Last year the Department of Highways spent $6,063,464 on all roads.

Peterborough County contributed an approximate sum of $13,000, while the city was billed with $12,066.66 as its twenty per cent. share towards highway costs.

TEXTILE STRIKE ASSUMES MORE OMINOUS VIEW

50 GUARD COMPANIES OUT.

(By The Associated Press)

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the exile strike committee, and George A. Sloan, President of the Cotton Textile Institute, agreed today to meet President Roosevelt's Textile Strike Board before nightfall.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP) — The United States textile strike assumed a more ominous aspect today, with the growing seriousness of the walkout apparent in at least one sector of the strike front.

The death of seven persons in South Carolina yesterday led Governor Blackwood to announce he was "seriously considering declaring certain areas in a state of insurrection."

As the strike continued to spread, along with indications several allied industries would join in the movement, the board of inquiry named by President Roosevelt gathered in the capital today to begin consideration of the controversy. Governor John G. Winant of New Hampshire, chairman of the board, declined comment as he arrived to meet his colleagues, Raymond Ingersoll, Borough president of Brooklyn, and Marion Smith, Atlanta attorney.

Additional thousands joined the strike yesterday to swell private estimates of the total number of strikers to 360,000, more than half the operatives normally employed.

Situation Deadlocked

Both sides held their own in the United States general textile strike to-day with the estimated total of 360,000 idle in the industry unchanged from yesterday.

Union pickets and "flying squadrons" met with but little success in their efforts to force the shutdown of additional New England mills.

OCEAN INVADES MALIBU BEACH

ONE MAN KILLED.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7. (AP).—The crash of mountainous surf echoed along the Southern California beach, bringing death and destruction as men sought to raise sandbags and wooden barriers against the avalanches of water.

Striking first along the coastline near Newport Beach last week, the gigantic combers spread northward to threaten the picturesque homes of film celebrities at Malibu Beach to-day.

The body of an unidentified man was taken from the Wood-Stewan surf at Long Beach yesterday. His skull was fractured but his lungs were empty of water, leading police to believe he was killed in the collapse of Pine Avenue pier Wednesday.

Washing high upon the sands at Malibu Beach, the ground swells damaged beach fences at the homes of John Gilbert, Corinne Griffith, Mike Lowe and Lou Seller.

Battering the pleasure piers at Long Beach, the ocean tore a 40-foot hole in the rock fill of the new rainbow pier and loosened more than 150 feet of the understructure. Only a few pilings remained of the 800-foot Pine Avenue pier. The ocean was strewn with debris.

Minister States Last of Month Likely to See Inquiry Resumed.

SAYS WEST IMPROVING.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7. (CP).—Back in Ottawa this morning from a five weeks' trip through the West, Hon. H. H. Stevens was unprepared to state the date of the first sitting of the Price Spreads and Mass Buying Commission. He would have to see what advance had been made by Government officials in preparing a resume of the voluminous evidence taken before the House committee during the last session of Parliament the Minister of Trade and Commerce said.

Either the last week in September or the first week in October appears the likely date for the initial public meeting of the inquiry body. Probably within the next four or five days the date will be decided.

The minister parried all questions from his interviewers on any topic touching directly or indirectly the investigation, explaining he had only returned to the capital on a morning train and had been in his office for only an hour. Looking quite fresh from his trip to the pacific coast in the course of which he delivered a dozen speeches, Mr. Stevens was in a jovial mood.

Belly Full Of Lead Is Promised Brewer Unless $25,000 Paid

Notes, Stated To Be Signed By "Three-Fingered Abe," Who Wrote Original Demands, Accuse Liberated Prisoner Of Breaking Solemn Promise Made Over Meal During Captivity.

WINDSOR, LONDON AGENTS ADMIT POLICE FOILED PAYOFFS TO DATE BY TRAILING THEM.

TORONTO Sept. 7 (C.P.)—A Toronto newspaper said to-day it had learned John S. Labatt, wealthy London, Ont., brewer who was kidnapped last month, had received threats from someone signing himself "Three-finered Abe" that he would "get a belly full of lead" if he fails to pay his kidnappers $25,000.

The newspaper said the threats had been made in letters signed by the same person who sent the oringial ransom notes to Labatt's family while he was being held prisoner, supposedly near Bracebridge, in the Muskoka district.

The notes, the paper said, demanded payment of the money and accused Labatt of having broken his "solemn promise made over a meal."

The newspaper said: "Scraps of information gathered from a variety of sources furnish a mosaic amounting to John Labatt's own story of the amazing crime. Standing out was the probability that the Labatts have paid no ransom money, but that the release at Toronto was arranged on a promise to hand over $25,000, half in American and half in Canadian money at a Toronto hotel on the day following the reappearance of the kidnapped brewer.

"Louis McCaughney of London, sales manager for the Labatt Company, was agreed upon as the contact man. Police surveillance prevented consummation of the scheme, though it is said McCaughney talked to the kidnappers by telephone."

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 7 (CP)—Alex Colvin, Windsor agent for the Labatt Brewery, to-day said last Friday he had $25,000 in cash in his pocket ready to pay over to the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, who made an appointment to meet him somewhere on the main street of Windsor.

This plan was not carried to conclusion because police followed along behind Colvin.

It was reported here similar attempts on the part of Louis McCaughey, London sales manager of the brewery, went astray in the same manner.

Colvin said not one cent of ransom money has yet been paid the

HEPBURN NAMES FRIEND AS HEAD OF AIR SERVICE

R.A.F. INSTRUCTOR.

At Camp Borden and U. S. Camps During War.

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (CP)—George Ponsford of St. Thomas will succeed Capt. W. Roy Maxwell as Director of the Ontario Air Service, Premier Mitchell Hepburn announced this morning. He said the appointment would likely be confirmed at to-day's meeting of the Cabinet.

Asked regarding Capt. Maxwell's resignation Mr. Hepburn said he understood it was already on the way.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Sept. 7 — George Ponsford, appointed to succeed Capt. W. Roy Maxwell as Director of the Ontario Air Service, is a native of St. Thomas, 38 years of age, and a school chum and personal friend of Premier Hepburn. In the recent election campaign he was Mr. Hepburn's right-hand man.

He spent his early days in the contracting business here and in 1916 joined the Royal Air Force training at Camp Borden, where he later became instructor. He also was sent as an instructor to United States camps, when Americans were being recruited for the R.A.F., spending most of his time in the San Antonio camp in Texas.

He was instructor there when Vernon Castle, famous dancer and a recruit in flying, was killed. Mr. Ponsford never served overseas, being always kept on this side of the Atlantic as air instructor, and fate decreed that every one of the members of the unit to which he belonged were killed while flying in the World War.

After the war Lieut. Ponsford became a contractor in Cleveland and later joined a commercial flying organization, being engaged in night flying with mail and commercial cargoes. In recent years he has resumed work as a contractor here and at Port Stanley.

PLAN INDUCTION OF JUDGE SMOKE

Brief Ceremony Requested by Peterborough's New Jurist.

PROBABLY SEPT. 17

The swearing-in of Sheldon L. Smoke of Paris as County Court Judge of the County of Peterborough, in succession to the late Judge E. C. S. Huycke, has been tentatively set for Monday, September 17 at the Court House here, E. A. Peck, K.C., M.P., states.

Judge Smoke whose appointment was announced from Ottawa on Saturday last was in the city this week, and was introduced by Mr. Peck to several members of the local Law Association.

W. F. Huycke, president of Peterborough Law Association intimated to The Examiner that at a meeting of the Association plans were discussed in connection with the swearing-in ceremonies. In keeping with Judge Smoke's expressed wishes, he believed it probable that the ceremony would be brief and unmarked by any observance other than the presentation of the Judge's patent, and his swearing to the oath of office.

Besides other member of the judiciary including Judge Robert Ruddy, who has been presiding here as acting county court judge; and Judges L. V. O'Connor of Cobourg and J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay, those in attendance at the formal ceremony will include Mayor Roland Denne of the City of Peterborough and Reeve Rork Ferguson, Warden of the County of Peterborough; and the members of the legal profession of the city and district.

It is also probable that the oath will be administered to His Honor by the Clerk of the Peace V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Ogopogo Of Kingston Bay Unmasked Keg With Canvas Head Made By Boys

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 7, (CP). The 'Ogopogo' is no more. The 'sea serpent' which for weeks has been haunting Cartwright's Bay here and which has caused considerable excitement among campers and citizens of the city has been finally unmasked.

The alleged monster has been dismantled and stored away and the inventors were two young boys, Hall Dunlop and Jimmy Reid. The boys, who summer near Cartwright's Bay, made the serpent out of a nail keg fitted with empty corked bottles to give it buoyancy. The head was made from canvas and ropes run from the bottom of the keg to a hidden anchor and thence under water to a hidden spot on shore where the boys operated the 'monster.'

GRAHAM TOWERS TO BE GOVERNOR OF CENTRAL BANK

Young Canadian Not Yet 37, Now Assistant General Manager, Royal Bank.

BRILLIANT CAREER.

Expect New Institution Will Be Operating Early Next Year.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.— (C.P.)— A speeding up of organization will, it is expected, follow the appointment of a Governor for Canada's new Central Bank. Yesterday the Dominion Government set all doubts at rest as to whether or not a Canadian would be selected for this high post with the announcement that Graham Ford Towers, Assistant General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, had been appointed. He will shortly celebrate his 37th birthday.

Swift advancement has characterized the career of Mr. Towers. A graduate with honors from McGill University, he entered the service of the Royal Bank 14 years ago in the capacity of an economist. Subsequently he became Inspector of Branches in Cuba, and gathered considerable experience in the field of foreign finance. He will leave shortly for Europe, there to study Central Banks in operation and gain knowledge to assist him in the important work awaiting here.

The anticipation now is that the Bank of Canada will be in operation early in the New Year. Having selected a Canadian for the highest post, the government now intends to secure a deputy governor from one of the other Central Banks in the Empire so that his practical experience may be available in the initial stages. Mr. Towers, in accordance with the legislation passed at the last session of Parliament, is appointed for seven years. He will, however, be eligible for reappointment at the conclusion of that period.

Launching of the new institution is in the hands of Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance. The share capital of the bank was fixed at $5,000,000, and it is anticipated that the stock will be offered to the public within two months. The question of whether or not the banks should be publicly or privately owned constituted the chief issue when legislation was before parliament. Liberals and Progressives lined up in favor of a government owned and controlled institution, with the government forces favoring private ownership but with an appreciable measure of government control.

The functions of the new bank were clearly indicated during the stormy passage of the bill through the Commons. It will be a bank for commercial banks and govern-

Cabin And Bedroom Which Police Say Was Prison For Kidnapped John Labatt

Here is shown the clapboard summer cabin near Bracebridge in the Muskoka Lakes district of Ontario in which police assert John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer was held by kidnappers during his 72 hours captivity. The bed in a small bedroom, which was apparently his prison, is also shown. The cabin was rented a short time prior to the kidnapping by three Americans who stated they hailed from Flint, Michigan, and who disappeared the day Labatt was released. The cabin is situated in a lonely section surrounded by thick woods, but other summer cottages are very near.

Toronto Livestock Review

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (C.P.)—With Monday a holiday, there were practically only two market days on the Toronto livestock market this week, with the third day, Thursday, being devoted to partially cleaning up stale cattle. The lamb division, with 2,000 head more than last week, was the only division to lose in value, closing down 50 cents for the week.

The only marked gain of the three days' trading was in the hog division, which gained 20 cents on Tuesday, and held the advance throughout the week. Receipts of cattle and calves were about 300 head lighter than last week, with hog receipts 300 head heavier. Cattle prices were generally unchanged for the week, with calf prices firm to a shade stronger.

Weighty steers sold from $3.50 to $5.50, according to quality, with a small lot selling at $6. The bulk of the butcher cattle sold from $3 to $4, with some going from $4 to $4.50. Common boners sold at $2 to $2.25. Good butcher cows were easier at $2.50 to $2.75. Butcher bulls sold at $2.50 to $2.75, with one heavy going at $3. Bologna bulls were mostly $2. Fed calves were not as strong as last week, at $6 to $6.50 for choice, with one top at $7. Plain fed calves sold downward to $5. The stocker trade continued dull at $2.25 to $2.75 for the few lots sold. Canners and cutters were steady at $1 to $1.50. Milkers and springers were steady at $40 to $65 for tops, with some a few dollars higher.

Prices were firm to a shade stronger on the comparatively light calf receipts this week. Choice vealers brought $6 to $6.50, with common vealers downward to $3. Grass calves sold steady at $2 to $2.50 per cwt. The veal calf market was still active at the close.

The hog division closed with a 20 cent gain for the week at $9.30 f.o.b. for bacons, $8.60 off truck, and $8.95 off cars. Selects brought the usual $1 per head premium. English cables report the bacon hog market as firm.

Opening 25 cents lower than last week, at $6 for good ewes and wethers, the lamb division of the market closed 50 cents lower at $5.50, with few buyers left at the close. Culls and bucks closed at $4 to $5.00. Sheep were unchanged for the week at $1 to $3 cwt. Yearlings sold at $3.50 to $4.

Britain Is Proud Of Slave-Freeing

MANCHESTER, England, Sept. 7. —(C.P.)— At midnight on July 31, 1934, a London city church, filled with colored people, celebrated the abolition of the slave trade within the British Empire, which actually took effect at midnight on July 31,1834, though the Act of Parliament which decreed it had been passed a year earlier.

"It is a great centenary," The Guardian says in its correspondence, "for, in spite of our traditional prejudice against making a show of our feelings, we have some excuse for rejoicing that England did lead the world just at that moment, 100 years ago, when she freed all the slaves over whom she had any jurisdiction.

"Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" could always stand on its own merits as a first-rate story. It is possible still to be thrilled by the drama of it, by the desperate flights of the slaves; possible still to be stirred by the agony of mothers parted from their children and husbands parted from their wives, and by the nobility of those men and women slave-owners who refused to abuse the power placed by wealth and the law in their hands."

The Weakening Agony of Piles (Haemorrhoids) Ended

Thousands Bless This Famous Herbal Ointment

Piles or haemorrhoids cause excruciating pain and often serious loss of blood. The famous Zam-Buk ointment is wonderfully soothing to the swollen veins and itching parts. Zam-Buk derives its healing and mildly astringent influence from herbal extracts of special value in this weakening and agonizing complaint. Zam-Buk has a wonderful record of success.

THE BEST OF PROOF

Mrs. R. L. Garber, of 2345 Ohio Avenue, Southgate, California, a nurse, writes as follows:—"My husband suffered from Piles for years, but a year ago they reached an acute stage and he could neither sleep nor attend his work. He had medical advice, tried all sorts of baths, hot packs, enemas and ointments which cost him hundreds of dollars without obtaining any relief. Finally a friend gave him a box of Zam-Buk; after application for one day he obtained a good night's rest. He continued the treatment and by the time he had finished a second box he was completely relieved of this agonizing ailment and able to resume his work."

MUM ON DISMISSALS.

GUELPH, Sept. 7.—Declaring that the whole matter of reorganization at the Ontario Agricultural College has not yet been finally determined, Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, yesterday stated that the Government is compelled to reduce the cost of operating the college.

Mr. Marshall was questioned regarding reports that nearly fifty members of the staff, including two department heads, had been dismissed, but he stated that he could not give the names of all who have received notice.

"When we are through, the O.A.C. will not be injured, but will be more active," he said, with reference to his economy program, which is said to be affecting almost every department at the college. "We are simply following out the policy of cutting down all expenditure that can be dispensed with."

SEVEN RULED INELIGIBLE

HAMILTON, Sept. 7.—Scrambled relationships were unmixed yesterday by Judge Thomson in the reference to wind up the $16,000 estate of Sarah Kidd Byrne, from whom she separated here in the 90's. She died some years ago.

Rev. Kid Byrne was instrumental in having the Scriven Memorial monument erected a few years ago near his old home of Kidd's Corners, south of Dewdley.

Two Marriages

Claims were made by many different heirs, mostly nephews and nieces, for the $16,000 she left. The heirs claimed that she was married in 1885 to Philip Rauch, Haldimand, and that in 1894 she married Rev. David Kidd, known later as Kidd Byrne. They contended that Mr. Rauch was living at the time of her second marriage, and that the latter marriage was bigamous.

List of Heirs

They also claimed that G. Benner, and Earl Benner, sons of Mrs. Kidd, were illegitimate and that also D. Kidd Byrne, who is missing was not entitled to inherit the estate.

Next-of-kin, listed as heirs were: W. Bener, nephew, Bridgeburg; Chester Benner, nephew, Vineland; Leslie Benner, nephew, Buffalo; W. Benner, nephew, Fisherville; Jacob Benner, of this city; Gardwell Dennis, Toronto; Alice Hoey, niece, Hamilton; Harold Bakeman, grand-nephew, Indianapolis; Ethel Stout, grand-niece, Montana; Harry Merritt, grand-nephew; Donald Merritt, grand-nephew, and Laura Merritt, Flo Kriter, Dunnville, and Mildred Featherstone, Buffalo heirs

Mrs. Hoey Testifies

Mrs. Hoey stated that Mrs. Kidd had two children, one supposed to be born after her husband left her, and the other reputed to have been born four years after Mr. Rauch left her. Mrs. Kidd married the evangelist in 1894 and had a child. David, who she said, has since died. After Rev. Mr. Kidd left her she lived with a colored man, said Mrs. Hoey, and had a colored baby, who died in infancy.

Yugo-Slavs Claim Centenarian Record

BELGRADE, Yugo-Slavia, Sept. 7 (CP)—Yugo-Slavia claims to have more centenarians than any other country in the world of equal size. More than 80 per cent of the native Methuselahs are men.

The country's oldest woman is 106. She is Marijeta Kristnich, and lives on a little Dalmation Island with her goats, chickens, dogs and cats. Like Mahatma Gandhi, she lively largely on goat's milk, to which she attributes her long life. She smokes a pipe, as do many Balkan peasant women, but never touches alcohol. She has never seen a lipstick, nor has she ever listened to the radio or been the movies.

Until recently the country's oldest man was Petar Glishich, 110, who died the other day from "old age," leaving 21 children and 46 grandchildren.

Toxins are specific poisonous substances elaborated by the metabolic activities of certain micro-organisms.

Better tea

Once cost a King's ransom

Once worth its weight in gold, better tea is today the most economical of all beverages: its cost is but a fraction of a cent a cup. Prized within everyone's reach, it is enjoyed by everyone; anytime, anywhere.

Better tea is the only tea bargain. It always gives more—more cups, more energy, more flavour, more refreshment. Cheap teas have not these virtues. Their use is false economy.

C.P.R. TRIBUTE TO J. SKINNER

Has Contributed Many Agents and Operators to System.

WITH C.P.R. SINCE 1888

A tribute to James Skinner, Canadian Pacific Railway passenger agent for Peterborough, is contained in the current issue of the Canadian Pacific Staff Bulletin. Mr. Skinner is cited for having contributed to the service more agents, chief clerks and operators than any other employee in the Communications Department.

The report reads: "Jim Skinner, agent at Peterborough, has produced more agents, chief clerks and operators from his office than any other employee in the Communications Department. Mr. Skinner was appointed an agent in 1899 and since that time his office has been a veritable supply base for the Ontario district.

"On his last visit to Peterborough your correspondent endeavored to find out the why and wherefore of how Jim was able to mould young employees so that they could take the field at a moment's notice. 'I believe in giving every young man in my office an equal opportunity to learn the telegraph and ticket business,' replied Jim. 'We maintain a practice set in the office and suggest to each messenger that he avail himself of all his spare time. At various intervals, I set them a test and impress upon them how many of our agents commenced as messengers'."

Since the year 1899, Mr. Skinner has had the following appointments made from his office: H. Agnew, agent, Chatham; W. Little, agent, St. Thomas; M. Jamieson, agent, Brantford; W. Tully, agent, Guelph; J. Kemp, agent, Lindsay; B. Murdock, agent, Port Colborne; J. Wolfe, chief clerk, Owen Sound; E. Christopher, chief clerk, Guelph; A. McGregor, chief clerk, Peterborough; J. Watkins, operator, Niagara Falls; Miss Ritchie, operator, Owen Sound; Jim Hall, operator, Peterborough; J. Freeman, operator, Peterborough; Harold Davidson, chief clerk, Oshawa; Roy Johnston, operator, Oshawa; and Percy Colmer, operator, Toronto. The complete list would include the names of many other operators of whom Mr. Skinner has lost track.

"Jim commenced with the Canadian Pacific in the year 1888 and is proud to say he never had the occasion to dismiss an employee. If there is an agent in Canada who beat this record, the Communication Department will be pleased to hand over the Palm."

Mr. Skinner began his career by learning telegraphy as a boy in Lindsay. His first position with the C.P.R. was as an operator in Woodstock. For a period he served as a station operator, moving about many different points on the system in Ontario, and then came to Peterborough in 1893 to take the chief clerk post under the late Thomas Boddy, city passenger agent.

In 1899, he achieved his first position as a passenger agent in Owen Sound. After 13 years he came to Peterborough and took the position he still holds.

WOMEN INJURED IN DOUBLE CRASH

Two Collisions on No. 7 Highway South of Sunderland.

CARS BADLY DAMAGED

LINDSAY, Sept. 7.—Mrs. J. V. White, town, received serious injuries in an automobile accident on No. 7 Highway, three miles south of Sunderland, last night.

The cause of the accident is attributed to glaring headlights of a south bound truck, which blinded Mr. and Mrs. White, who were driving to Lindsay. They did not notice a team and a wagon between their car and the truck, and crashed head on into the latter. Mrs. White was badly cut by flying glass and received severe body bruises. Mrs. W. F. Marquis, of Uxbridge appeared on the scene of the accident in her car, and rendered first aid to the injured woman, when a car driven by William Jamieson, of Stratford, and Lindsay-bound, crashed into the Marquish car, driving it some distance down the highway in a badly damaged condition. Miss Yvonne Marquis was sitting at the wheel of the car when the crash occurred and received a sever shaking up. The Stratford car suffered heavy damage, and after the impact careened madly down the highway, coming to a stop facing south.

Thresher Injured

W. J. Greenway, of Little Britain, was the victim of an unfortunate accident on Tuesday. He was assisting his neighbor, Hugh Rogers, to stack straw and while some changes were being made to the machine, he fell through a trap door which was uncovered to the cellar below, a distance of eight feet. He sustained a broken shoulder, and other serious injuries and was unconscious for some time.

Mrs. Smith was of a very quiet retiring nature and found in her home and family all she desired, so she was known only to a comparatively small circle who held her in high regard and appreciated her sterling virtues. CHURCH WOMEN BEGIN SEASON

EARLY ACTIVITIES

MILLBROOK, Sept. 7.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Charles Thorndyke and her daughter, Miss Ruth, were hostesses for the initial meeting of the Presbyterian Women's League, following the holiday season, the gathering being at their home, Park road, on Wednesday at 3 p.m.

The president, Mrs. Thorndyke, took the chair, and the treasurer's report showed talent money for the first quarter of the year, $16.70; second quarter, $18.60; third quarter, $16.95—in this being included the day's receipts.

Letters of thanks for flowers sent during illness were read from Mrs. Melville Ball to whose little son, Herbie, had also been given picture books to help pass the time while he was in bed with a long period of hip trouble, and from Miss Helen Mitchell, who had been remembered while in the local hospital. After full discussion it was decided to serve meals on the grounds at the Fall Fair, and prices this year were set at thirty-five cents for dinner for adults and twenty cents for children. Convenors for tables are Mrs. H. A. Kerr, Mrs. J. N. McGill, Miss Vanita Ingram and Mrs. F. J. Deyell. Men who will be asked to help with ticket selling, etc., are J. R. Eakins, James Kennedy, C. Thorndyke and F. J. Deyell. Canvassers were also appointed and other helpers.

Following the meeting, tea was served, the committee including the hostess, Mrs. William Deyell, Mrs. J. N. McGill, Mrs. T. C. Ingram, Mrs. McMahon, Mrs. D. L. Armstrong, Misses Ruth Thorndyke and Jean Syer. Many guests came in for the tea hour, and a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

St. Andrew's Women's Association.

The opening meeting of the Women's Association of St. Andrew's Church, after the summer vacation, was held at the parsonage on Wednesday, at 3 p.m., with over fifty in attendance, and the president, Mrs. F. J. Smith, in the chair.

This was the first time for the association to meet as a body with the new minister and his wife, Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Sisco, the former leading in the opening prayer and Mrs. J. A. Brown reading the Scripture lesson. Visitors from the W.A. of the Pontypool United Church were present, including the president, Mrs. Richardson, the vice-president, Mrs. Hooper, and the secretary, Mrs. Wilder, the warm welcome being extended by Mrs. Smith.

On motion, it was decided to serve the annual fowl supper on Tuesday, October 23, following the church anniversary the previous Sunday. The treasurer reported total receipts from the dinner served on "Derry Day," when the Black Knights hel dtheir celebration in the village, as $63.87; expenses, $17.57; balance on hand, $46.30. A brief program was enjoyed after the business had been completed, which included readings by Miss Burnham, Mrs. J. McKnight and Mrs. Eric Hunter, and a solo by Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, Miss Phyllis Kidd being the accompanist.

A pleasing feature during the social hour at the close when afternoon tea was served took the form of the presentation of a lovely basket of flowers to Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mrs. Smith making a short address on behalf of the Seth Parker Club, appreciative of the help Mrs. Johnston had given in the musical training. Mrs. G. E. Burnham offered the gift, and the recipient thanked the club in suitable terms for their kind thoughtfulness.

A number of extra guests came in for the tea hour, included among those helping with the service besides the hostess and her daughter, Miss Della May, being Mrs. J. H. Might, Mrs. H. A. Earle, Miss Marian Earle, Mrs. W. A. O'Brian, Mrs. Smith and others. The usual votes of thanks were passed before the gathering dispersed, Rev and Mrs. Sisco expressing their personal pleasure in entertaining the society and its friends.

BUYER WHO RUNS CAN GET CHANGE

News Dealer in Old London Has New System for Hurried Customers.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 6. (C.P.)—Julian Pernet is regarded as the slickest, most up-to-date newspaper seller in the United Kingdom. With the aid of a home-made change-giving machine he literally sells the papers so that he who runs may pay and get change while making for his train.

When Pernet first took up his pitch at a busy corner in Bayswater, he found he was losing customers because business men running for their trains could not wait for change. So he fixed a series of coin-holding clips to the miniature newspaper stand which hangs from his shoulders. These slips hold all the necessary change for any coin and for any priced paper or magazine.

There is a tubular device by which at the touch of a lever an ever-ready supply of coppers is produced. If there is rain a little roofs springs up over Mr. Pernet's portable newspaper stand.

"You are a man of brains," an admiring customer remarked to him.

"I am not," replied Pernet dryly. "If I was really clever I should not have fought in the war, been wounded in the lung, and be forced to stand on a draughty corner selling newspapers."

Sports Clothes of the Eighties were so different from ours . . . Yet they, too, were washed with SURPRISE SOAP

• Clothes in the Eighties were mostly hand-made and could only be replaced after many hours of painstaking sewing. Even then they were washed with Surprise Soap and the results proved what housewives of today also know, that the outstanding quality of Surprise is its safety.

• Surprise Soap always does a thorough washing. The rich, penetrating lather foams up easily and quickly, yet the gentle suds are so pure and mild that the most delicate garment cannot possibly come to any harm.

• Dainty fabrics and exquisite colours are always safe with Surprise Soap because it washes so quickly and with so little rubbing. And this helps clothes to last longer, too, for this easy washing keeps them shapely and unfaded.

• What a leisurely and deliberate game was Croquet, yet how ardently our grandparents found the green lawns, the painted hoops, the gaily striped mallets and balls. Other and more strenuous games have replaced it, but how suited it was to the sports clothes of the times!

"Quality First" was the policy adopted when the first bar of Surprise Soap was made in St. Stephen, N.B., 49 years ago. This policy has never been altered and the quality has improved with advancing knowledge, keeping pace with modern requirements.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1934

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN.

It is generally admitted that trade conditions can more accurately be measured by car-loadings than by any other yardstick.

That being so there is reason to be optimistic over the latest figures in connection with the car-loadings on the Canadian railways.

The loadings during 1934 have been well above 1933 loadings each week-end and for the majority of the time above 1932 loadings, but the total of 48,220 cars for the week ended August 25 was the first to exceed the 1931 total, which for the same week was 47,495 cars. This was the heaviest loading so far in 1934, and the index number also reached a peak at 78.85 as against the previous high of 77.46 in April.

Heavy loading of grain in the western division was an important factor, the increase being 3,939 over the previous week. Coal also increased by 282 cars in the western division, ore by 148, merchandise by 104 and miscellaneous by 189, and the total of 19,103 cars was up 4,686. The eastern division showed a decrease of 169 cars as compared with the week before, grain, coal, pulp and paper and miscellaneous being lighter than for the previous week. Compared with 1933 loadings, the eastern division showed an increase of 2,326 cars, the western division an increase of 3,043, and the total an increase of 6,263, most certainly encouraging figures.

MR. GRAHAM DISSENTS.

Hon. George P. Graham's paper, the Brockville Recorder and Times, does not share the views of those who criticize Mr. Bennett's decision to head Canada's delegation to the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, nor for those who charge that the Premier is running away from the approaching by-elections.

"Mr. Bennett is Prime Minister of Canada," says the veteran Liberal senator's journal, "and presumably better fitted than any one else to serve as the head of its official delegation at an important gathering of the League of Nations. He is moreover richly entitled to a holiday and to some relief from the almost unceasing attention that he has paid to his duties in Ottawa since the time he assumed office."

The Examiner is sure that all fair-minded and sensible Canadians will agree with this opinion.

Mr. Bennett has been "on the job" ever since he assumed office in 1930, and if he can obtain a measure of relaxation in attending the Geneva Assembly as leader of the Dominion delegation there most of his fellow-countrymen will agree that he has earned a little time out and they will wish him an enjoyable holiday.

To say that he has left Canada at this time because of the by-elections is an exhibition of small-time politics that will succeed only in disgusting a great many people.

And finally, as the Recorder and Times says, if MacDonald is able to leave London for several weeks without the Government of Great Britain suffering, surely Mr. Bennett can do likewise without the ship of state coming to grief.

THE PUBLIC PAYS ONCE MORE.

In one respect at least the strike of American textile workers is unique in the history of labor disturbances, inasmuch as to all intents and purposes the strike is financed by the United States Government, owing to the decision of the Relief Administration Board that it intends to supply food to all idle persons regardless of why they are not at work.

The problem of feeding the strikers, always a vital one, is in this case entirely removed from the picture, for the textile workers who have left their jobs in obedience to the strike order will merely go on relief until the trouble is over.

The situation has a real Gilbert and Sullivan flavor, for while Uncle Sam has to call out troops to protect the property of mill owners and the person of workers who wish to ignore the strike order and remain on the job against the strikers, he is at the same time supplying the sinews of war to the latter in the form of relief.

As The Examiner pointed out the other day, it is the public which will have to foot the bill for this strike in the long run; it will pay not only in higher prices for textiles, but it will also pay through its tax bills both for the cost of providing protection for the mill owners and for the cost of providing food for the army of strikers.

What is it all about?

Merely a desire on the part of textile workers to bring about a 36-hour week, obtain higher wages, and secure the recognition of collective bargaining.

It is a major calamity, and the cost in lives lost and in monetary losses threatens to be tremendous.

TIGHTENING UP.

The announcement that the licenses of some thirteen beverage rooms in Windsor have been cancelled by Liquor Control Commissioner Odette because of the manner in which they have been conducted or because the premises in which they are located are not suitable for such a purpose, has been given further emphasis by a statement from Premier Hepburn that his Government is prepared to "crack down" on other licensed beverage rooms that do not comply with the regulations.

This evidence that the Government is beginning to take notice of the protests from all over the province will be welcome.

The situation that has been developing could not be tolerated, and the fact that Mr. Odette, with the approval of the Government, is taking action to deal with some of the undesirable "spots" gives reason for hoping that firmness will be shown until the worst evils of the system have been eliminated.

The question of shortening the hours should receive consideration, and certainly the enforcement of the regulations should be materially tightened.

In this connection the Toronto Star, a staunch supporter of the Government, utters the following note of warning:

"Mr. Odette will have to make up his mind to the fact that his inspectors must improve on their work. Places have been recommended for licenses which by no stretch of the imagination could be said to meet the requirements of the system. Too many licenses have been issued in one district, as on Jarvis street in this city. Selling to minors, an offence not easily guarded against, has been common. Of course, public drinking soon will cease to be a novelty and some of its worst features may pass. In the meantime Mr. Odette and the Premier would do well to seek the assistance of good citizens in reducing the inevitable evils of liquor. Whatever system is used, license, prohibition or Government sale, liquor is consumed in quantities sufficient to destroy community values. The present head of the liquor system has much to learn and he should not be too proud to accept advice from those whose views differ from his own. And nothing of the spirit of defiance should be shown by the Government toward that great body of citizens who wish to feel their way forward toward a system that will bring the evils of liquor down to the irreducible minimum."

"ON THE SPOT."

For some reason or other, the Sir Herbert Samuel section of the Liberal party in Great Britain has seen fit to issue a brochure in which it takes the official position that "if any of the agreements into which Great Britain has entered should lead to war, the Dominions would be involved unless they chose to withdraw from the Empire to avoid commitment."

Interestingly enough, this attitude, a London despatch notes, is in direct opposition to a recent speech by General Jan Christaan Smuts, South African statesman, affirming the Dominions' freedom of decision and action.

* * * *

While the Samuel Liberals—as distinguished from the Sir John Simon Liberals, and also from the Lloyd George Liberals—are supposed to be in opposition to the trade agreements drawn up at the now historic Ottawa conference, it is rather difficult to think of any good reason why they should go out of their way to commit the British Dominions to war responsibility.

If the Samuelites are anxious that Canada and the other oversea members of the British Commonwealth of Nations should always be ready to answer, "Ready, aye, ready!" when the signal blows in Old London, then they are going at it in quite the wrong way. The Dominions have always been and are now ready to give a full measure of co-operation to the Motherland in most things, but they can never be forced, and they will not be pleased by any British attempt to put them "on the spot," as the Samuel Liberals are apparently trying to do.

Furthermore, it seems to us that the Samuelites are taking a great deal on themselves. They do not even compose the official opposition in the British Parliament. They are about as important, from the parliamentary point of view, as Mr. Woodsworth and his little group of C.C.F. members at Ottawa.

They are most extravagant, also, in suggesting—as they do, by inference—that the trade agreements drawn up in the Canadian capital are likely to lead to war. We can see no good reason for any such assumption. After all, these trade agreements, chiefly conceived by our own Prime Minister, Mr. Bennett, have nothing to do with anything but commerce. They are aimed at no particular nation. They seek simply to create more trade between the members of the British Commonwealth—surely a most legitimate aim. They are restrictive in character, of course, but no nation is in a position to complain of that, because Government officials in practically every capital under the sun have been sitting up nights trying to figure out ways and means of selling the greatest possible quantity of their own products and buying as little as possible from the other fellows. This has been the chief thought of the United States, for instance, for a number of years and we have not heard that Uncle Sam is likely to get into a war with anyone as a result.

There isn't anything sentimental about the idea; it's merely ordinary business.

* * * *

It is well to keep in mind, too, that the Imperial Conference agreements do not represent a great desire on the part of our own people or of the people of Great Britain for restricted trade. On the contrary, the restrictions involved in these agreements are accepted only with reluctance by millions of Britishers, at home and abroad. The average Britisher likes the free trade principle and wishes that it was the rule of the world. Unfortunately, so many nations, over a long period of years, have been building up restrictive tariff policies that it finally became necessary, or at least it seemed necessary, for Britain and her Commonwealth partners to move along the same lines, for their own protection.

You can call this a policy of retaliation if you like, but certainly no one can claim that the high tariff idea was originated in Britain, nor in Canada and other Empire countries for that matter. They have acted merely in self defense. One of these fine days, when the world shows a tendency to return to business sanity—as it must before our major problems can be adjusted—no group of countries will be more ready to co-operate in tariff-lowing operations than those which owe a common allegiance to King George. —Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The most tragic feature of the textile strike is that it is taking a toll of human lives, in addition to the enormous financial losses involved.

Suspensions of motor licenses have sharply increased since the new beer law became operative. This would seem to be a simple case of cause and effect.

A tax on meals to help finance hospitals is one way of raising money, but obviously not the fairest way of accomplishing that purpose.

Noel Coward has had the thrill of being involved in a shipwreck. The incident will probably figure in his next play.

Marie Dressler left $50,000 to faithful servants. The gift is regarded as front-page news because so many rich people die leaving nothing to servants or to any public or charitable purpose.—London Advertiser.

Statistics indicate that sales of sporting goods in Canada total about $3,500,000 annually. After all, this is a wholesome indication that sportsmen refuse to be cast down by years of depression.—Toronto Globe.

MARY AUSTIN.

NEWS has just reached my desk of the death of Mary Austin. This estimable author is well known across the American border. The sad event occurred on August the 13th., 1934, at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Mary Austin has won for herself a place among the few really great women of the United States. Pre-eminently, she was a traveller and writer. It was the good fortune of this writer to meet her in Old Mexico. Both of us were travelling and studying Mexico and its problems. We met at a session of the Commission to Latin America. By my side sat Morris Topchevsky, an artist born in Poland, but now a citizen of the United States. Mary Austin was sitting so that Topchevsky got a good view of her face. By him was his constant companions, a crayon and heavy drawing paper. He grabbed up his pad and crayon. His deft hands moved rapidly. In a few minutes the outline was sketched. The movements of his hand became slower as he filled in the characteristics of her countenance. Breathlessly, I watched him work. He knew that I was intensely interested. When he had completed the drawing he handed it to me. It was to be mine. I walked over to Miss Mary Austin and handed it to her to look at. "Oh, she exclaimed, "I am going to keep this. It is the best I ever saw of myself." And, faith, she did keep it. No pursuasion of mine could get it back. I was sorry to lose the drawing. But at the same time glad that she was so pleased and rather joyous.

And now the record is made that she has gone away. She was invited by the Commission to speak at one of the conferences. The impression made by her culture, her genius, her insight, her sympathy, was profound. She had travelled extensively. "The Land of Journey's Ending," "Every Man's Genius," "The American Rhythm," "A Small Town Man," are from her pen. As an authority on the culture and folklore of the Indian in the United States and Old Mexico, she became famous. There is not space in this letter to write more of her. But we will.

GERMANY.

Hitler—Disapproval

THE German people are not without courage. Their courage was registered in the disapproval vote of ten million on August 19, 1934. Courage is different from whims. Courage springs from convictions. Convictions spring from an experience of God. It is easy to go forward if one can see the end from the beginning. No great courage is needed to jump into the sea if we are securely engirded with a life preserver. It is not a great courage feat to walk into the flames, if we know in advance that the smell of fire will not come upon our garments. It is not a mark of outstanding bravery to walk upon the sea, if we know that the God of the waves has put his hand under our feet.

Nothing short of an omnipotent conviction can inspire us with the spirit of martyrdom to stand in the place of threatening disaster—a disaster we may certainly avert, if we are willing to stifle the voice of God in the soul; but a disaster which may overwhelm us if we move on under the Divine impulse. Certainty of deliverance needs no commanding voice to urge on towards impending doom; while uncertainty of deliverance, or especially assurance of disaster, requires a voice as high as heaven, and as far reaching as destiny to inspire with the breath of self-sacrifice. German Christians have come to the parting of the ways. There is contagion in courage. At the end of the first year of the Great War one man stood alone in disapproval. His party thought to crush him. The war-minded thought to have done with him. When another ballot was taken on war credits Otto Rule joined Karl Leibknecht. Both voted "No." In November, 1933, two million men and women braved the Nazi terror and at the ballot voted "No". Nine months later the courage inspired were four million. On Sunday in August, 1934, ten million voted as the one man Karl Leibknecht voted at the end of the first year of the war.

CALIFORNIA.

Fascist First Outbreak

CALIFORNIA has had a taste of Fascism. It did not come from Fascist propaganda. American citizens, some of them, in California have been infected by the germ. They have caught the spirit of Italian Fascism. They would vehemently repudiate any direct alignment with Fascism. The charge that strikers had among them Fascists and were led by Fascists was for the purpose of prejudicing the public.

The purpose was to destroy trade unionism. The employers well knew that the employees had just cause to strike. They knew that they were not meting out just treatment concerning wages, hours and employment. They knew that the recognition of labor unions as a right of every industry would make for a more equal distribution of profits. They were aware that the only way to keep profits big and secure is to subjugate labor. If the strike should succeed the workman in San Francisco would step from under the subjugation yoke of industrial slavery. The strike was the climax of a struggle for employee just human rights.

The security of big and bigger profits is the set policy of Fascism wherever found. It is the inbeing of Nazism in Germany, and of Fascism in Italy. When workmen become radical in their demands for recognition of labor unions, and as a last resort strike, the reaction of the employer is to cry "The Red Bogey". The strikers in California were not Reds. They were loyal, genuine Americans. They were of the rank and file of American citizenship. If they were not typical Americans, then there are none such. The labor problem is not the Fascist problem. It is the predatory, profit-making employer. With this part of the population the NRA is having its major trouble.

General Johnson was browbeaten by the Red-baiters. His Berkely speech was a crawl. The Meditation Board federally appointed, failed to secure a decent settlement of the main issue. If necessary an appeal will be made for Congressional investigation.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

PUGWASH, NOVA SCOTIA.

Judge Haliburton, celebrated creator of "Sam Slick", described Pugwash as "having the best harbor in the country." Beautifully situated on Northumberland strait it is the centre of farming, lumbering and fishing. From its fine harbor lumber is shipped to all parts of the world.

Local historians appear at a loss to determine when the town received its name. Pugwash, the only name it has borne, is of Indian origin and comes from the word "Pagweak", meaning "Deep Water".

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

PIECE OF CARBON PAPER.

A pieceof paper. Light blue on one side. Dark blue on the other. . . . You hold it carefully between your fingers and it smudges a little. You place it between two clean sheets of white paper and slip it into your typewriter and punch the keys . . . And as you write you make a copy of everything you set down before you. The marks go through the first sheet, through the carbon, onto that sheet that's underneath . . . You are making a carbon copy of everything you write. . . . A copy of any truth you may be setting down, a copy of all your foolishness, your inaccuracies, your wisdom, your vanity, your arrogance, your humility, everything. If you make a mistake and x-x-x-x-x it, those x's show on the carbon, too. If you write nice, clean copy, that shows, too.

And sometimes it seems that a man has something like a sheet of carbon in himself, located somewhere between that tough outer skin of him and that inner all-remembering part of himself. . . . It's there and he cannot rid himself of it . . . Everything he thinks, says, does, goes down on that carbon. The outer writing may fade, grow dim, but the inner writing, unseen and sometimes forgotten, remains as clear, as distinct as ever.

And because of that carbon, whatever we do is important to our future happiness or pain . . . If an appeal is made to our generosity or our decency and we reject that appeal roughly, we do not wipe it so easily out of consciousness. Years later it comes back to us at odd, unexpected moments, to reproach us. If we are cowardly when we should be bold, if we are callous when we should be tender, some time, some day, we find the record written indelibly on that inner self. . . . And if we have our moments of honesty, bravery, decency, kindness and understanding, those, too, are written on our deeper self, for our strength and for our comfort. . . . Unforgettably, sharply, blessedly.

I cannot prove that these things are so. No man can prove them. But every man in his heart knows that he writes his daily life on a self that he cannot lose and cannot forget and that this is his permanent record of what he most truly is.

OTTAWA OFFERS QUEBEC $600,000 MONTHLY RELIEF

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—(C.P.) — The Dominion government offered to pay the government of the Province of Quebec a sum of $600,000 per month, from August 1, 1934, to April 1, 1935, as its full share of unemployment relief, Premier L. A. Taschereau stated here to-day.

"We received this offer with the understanding that the Provincial government would take the full responsibility for the distribution of the money in Quebec. There is no question of any new negotiations being entered into. The offer is one to take or reject definitely," Mr. Taschereau said. "Of course, this is away below the demands made at the conference," he added, "and it will add considerably to the burden of the province and the municipalities.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Rod Williams

"THE ISLE OF BACCHUS"

On this date in 1535, Jacques Cartier and his crews first saw the beautiful island in the St. Lawrence just below Quebec which we know as the Island of Orleans. It was the first attractive country he had seen since passing Prince Edward Island. The north shore which he followed from Anticosti was bleak and unattractive, but all was changed when the island came into view. Trees in all their summer beauty, and "a great store of vines which heretofore we had not seen in all this region". So impressed was he with the grapes, and presumably with their juice, that he promptly named the place the "Isle of Bacchus", in honor of the mythological god of good cheer.

The island has a notable history from the days of Champlain onward and has even today churches and other buildings dated back to the very earliest days of the French regime, some of which, with other features of the island's life, have been saved for future generations by Herbert Walker, R.C.A., whose fame rests largely upon his paintings of the Island of Orleans.

It was here that Cartier first met Donnacona "the lord of Canada". Some of his Indians had travelled down to the island and there met the two young Indians who had been brought back from France. During the day as the news spread more Indians arrived and on the morrow Donnacona himself came down in a stately procession of canoes to welcome the white man from across the unknown seas. Then began the typical Canadian custom of banquets and speeches, Cartier giving the Indians food and wine and Donnacona retaliating with a long speech of welcome to which Cartier replied. And from that time to this all distinguished visitors to Canada have had to be told at dining board, as was Cartier, of the greatness of Canada. The next day Cartier moved up to Stadacona and the first Europeans, landed under the shadow of the great rock on which stands the citadel and the Cantea Frontenac at Quebec.

RECENT SHOWERS AID TO FARMERS

Large Acreage Prepared for Fall Wheat in Ballieboro District.

BALLIEBORO, Sept. 7. (Examiner Correspondence). — The recent rains have made it possible for farmers of the district to get their soil plowed and cultivated for fall wheat. Since last Saturday's rainfall a large acreage has been prepared for wheat.

Seeding is general this week as it is generally considered proper to get the wheat in South Monaghan sowed between September 5th to 20th.

In some fields new seeds have improved since the moisture came, and hope is yet held for at least a minor crop of clover and timothy which appeared until recently to be a total failure.

In most sections the frosts of the past week destroyed the buckwheat crop entirely. One farmer in Cavan had twenty-two acres of promising buckwheat but is now engaged in plowing the crop down as it was frosen to the extent of being useless.

There is a fairly good corn crop to be harvested and quite a large acreage sowed this season, largely on account of the hay shortage.

The fruit crop is non-existent. It was entirely destroyed by the severe frosts of last winter.

The potatoes and roots have improved greatly since the recent rains.

A Thought

ABOU BEN ADHEIM

Abou Ben Adhem (may his, tribe increase)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace
And saw within the moonlight in his room,
Making it rich and like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold:
Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold,
And to the Presence in the room he said,
"What writest thou?" The vision raised his head,
And with a look made of all sweet accord,
Answer'd, "The names of those who love the Lord."
"And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay, not so."
Replied the Angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerily; and said, "I pray thee then,
Write me as one that loves his fellow men."
The Angel wrote and vanish'd. The next night
It came again with a great awakening light,
And show'd the names whom love of God had bless'd,
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 90c to 92c; oats, 35c to 36c; barley, 60c to 64c; corn, 85c to 88c; rye, 55c to 57c; buckwheat, 56c to 58c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

All deliveries of grain rose yesterday to fresh high-price levels for the current upturn, with Durum wheat at Duluth surpassing the season's top record.

Sharp falling-off in the movement of domestic wheat to terminal markets, especially in the Northwest, did much to hoist values. Arrivals of wheat at Minneapolis and Duluth to-day totalled but 190 cars, against 260 a week ago and 695 at this time last year.

Wheat in Chicago closed firm, ¼c to 1c over Wednesday's finish; corn, ¼c to 1⅛c down; oats, ⅛c to ⅜c up; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

Prices were unchanged on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

Fresh No. 1 butter was quoted at 19 to 19¼ cents a pound in carlots or less, unchanged from Wednesday. Small lots to retailers were 20 to 21 cents a pound for solids and 21 to 22 cents for prints. Arrivals totalled 1,240 boxes.

On the cheese market, Ontario colored brought 10 to 10¼ cents a pound while Quebec cheese sold at 9⅝ to 9⅝ cents a pound, both steady at their former levels. Receipts totalled 2,561 boxes. Eggs held steady, yesterday's prices being at the week's advances. Graded shipments in cartons or less were 26 to 27 cents a dozen for A-large, 24 to 25 cents for A-medium, 19½ to 20 cents for B and 18½ cents for C. Receipts were 424 cases.

The potato market was steady at 45 to 50 cents per 80-pound bag of new Quebecs No. 1 grade.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Good buying by Southern houses and export interests offset increased hedging pressure on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, and, with all offerings well absorbed, wheat prices mounted ⅝c to 1⅛c over the previous close.

October wheat wound up at 83¼c, December at 84⅝c, and May option at 89⅛c. Purchasing power broadened appreciably and, while export demand accounted for only about 600,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, there was other buying of an aggressive nature, and in sufficient volume to hoist values.

Investment buying was credited to Chicago traders, and further upwinding of spreads with Chicago was noticeable. Country receipts were up to 2,500,000 bushels Wednesday, but the market had little difficulty in digesting hedges in this connection.

South American clearances this week are estimated in excess of 4,700,000 bushels, compared with 2,760,000 bushels last week. Russia moved out 448,000 bushels of a total of 464,000 bushels cleared from Black Sea ports.

Cash and coarse grains advanced with wheat.

STOCK BUYERS AWAIT OUTCOME UNITED STATES' TEXTILE STRIKE

FOLLOWS NEW YORK.

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (CP).—Losses again predominated on the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange today offerings out-weighing the buying as the market awaited the outcome of the strike in the United States. The Toronto board trailed along with New York, showing general recessions in the early afternoon and firming slightly before the close.

Metals and liquors developed the main weakness. Nickel closed around 23, Smelters down 3 at 135 while Walkers and Distillers Seagrams were off about a point each and Industrial Alcohol ½. Ford "A" was a soft spot, closing a half point down at 19 and C.P.R. and Brazilian dropped fractions.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (AP).—Comparatively heavy selling in metals, principally U. S. Smelting, caused further unsettlement in the stock market today. A number of the oils, rails and industrials were rather resistant. U.S. Smelting extended its sharp loss yesterday by some 5 points. Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, and Sears Roebuck dipped about a point each while American Telephone Santa Fe and Standard Oil of New Jersey were about even. The late tone was somewhat heavy. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares.

TORONTO MINING.

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (CP).—The mining share market lumbered along slowly today, accepting price declines here and there, the result mainly of a generally weak tendency on the New York board.

While trade was slow in the base metal and silver groups, transactions were put through at the price of scattered concessions. Noranda worked back 85 cents to $40 and Nipissing at $2.55 was off 5.

Selling was active in Little Long Lac with the price sagging 35 cents to $6.50. Macassa, Buffalo-Ankerite and Central Patricia were off 3 to 5 cents each.

WESLEY LAWFORD ACCEPTS RELIEF

Turns in Car Markers as Required by Rule.

Yielding to the advice of friends, Wesley Lawford, whose family was evicted from their Hunter street home Wednesday, turned in the license markers of his car to-day and was promptly placed on the relief lists by Relief Officer M. G. Metheral. He was still without a home this afternoon.

Lawford has been instructed that he will be given a relief order on application that that relief rent will be supplied when he has secured a house. The Lawford children spent last night at the home of Mrs. Lawford's brother, while Mr. and Mrs. Lawford themselves slept on a cot under the pile of household effects in front of the house from which they were evicted on Hunter street.

The family of William McIlwaine, evicted Wednesday from their Princess street home, continued without a home of their own to-day, although arrangements for a house may be made shortly. The father and boys of the family again spent the night in the horse barn at the Exhibition Grounds, while Mrs. McIlwaine stayed with a friend on Elm street.

Mr. McIlwaine is in good standing on the relief lists, but claims to be unable to find a landlord who will accept relief rent.

7 Fined $5 Each For Guelph Riot

GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 7 (C.P.). — Garment strike disorders of two weeks ago had their aftermath in police court to-day when charges against nine persons all arising out of the industrial flare-ups were disposed of, seven getting $5 fines.

No evidence was offered in the two most serious cases in which Maurice Miller, a striker, was charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm, and Samuel Posluns, an official of the Superior Cloak Co., was accused of discharging a revolver with intent to injure. Both were dismissed.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Sept. 7. (CP). — A general retreat of active issues featured trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange to-day.

Brazilian Traction was off ⅝ at 9⅞ while International Nickel declined ¼ at 23⅝ after a steady performance around the mid-session. Canadian Pacific after being down ⅛ at 13⅛, closed steady at 13¼. Hamilton Bridge preferred dipped three points below its former board lot level, selling today at 25, a new 1934 low. Hollinger appeared at 10.55, off five cents.

ONTARIO HOG PRICES

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (C.P.)—Bacon hog prices were mostly unchanged at market points again to-day.

Prices were unchanged at Hull, at $8.75, Brantford and Barrie, at $8.20, Peterborough at $8.35 and Kitchener at $8.25 to $9.25.

where 16,000 workers have ignored the strike call, a scheduled invasion by out-of-town pickets did not materialize as police guarded approaches to the city under instructions to prevent their entry.

Eighteen automobiles and two trucks loaded with pickets said to be headed for Lawrence were escorted by police through Dighton, Mass., where it was thought they might establish picket lines.

The lull in strike activities, however, did not cause a relaxation in guard duty at the mills. Some 50 National Guard companies continued on duty and occasion reports of "flying squadron" visits caused deputies to be hurriedly armed.

U.S. WAR DEPARTMENT GUN PLANS GIVEN TO MUNITIONS COMPANY

Assisted in Getting Order From Poland—To Assist Industry.

U. S. COMMITTEE TOLD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (A.P.)—Evidence that the war department turned over to the Briggs Ordnance and Engineering Company secret plans for anti-aircraft guns and helped to encourage the business of the concern was given to-day to the United States Senate munitions committee.

A letter written in 1929 by L. L. Driggs, president of the concern, to his agent in Poland said "the war department is now co-operating with us 100 per cent."

"You will remember the release to us of the latest design of the Anti-aircraft guns to be furnished Poland is conditional upon our having orders of satisfactory size for production in our plant here," the letter continued.

"The government feels that the compensation for making public what was heretofore been secret is in the building up of our facilities so they will be available in time of necessity."

The letter also spoke of a bill in Congress which the war department was pushing in line with a favorable policy toward the company.

Driggs testified his company had had trouble in obtaining pay from the war department for its use of gun designs of the concern and that the department had promised him aid that would mean more to the concern than compensation.

Fire Brigade Turns Out To False Alarm

According to Fire Chief George Gimblett, a false alarm that turned out the entire apparatus of the department to Hunter and George streets around noon to-day was rung in to the department by some person who had been tampering with the alarm box.

He discounted the suggestion that the alarm might have been rung in accidentally as a result of repairs that had been undertaken at the box yesterday.

The electrician of the department has just finished removing a pole from Chambers street that formerly carried overhead wires in connection with the telegraph alarm system, and has placed the wires underground.

From the beginning Colvin and McClaughey were Labatt's personally appointed "go-betweens" in negotiations with the kidnappers.

Contact was prevented, although the kidnap victim promised to pay $25,000 when liberated and has since endeavored to keep his promise.

TORONTO, Sept. 7 (C.P.).—Hon. Arthur W. Roebuck, Ontario Attorney-General, will hold a press conference at 6 o'clock to-night to discuss the Labatt kidnapping case, it was announced this morning.

Mr. Roebuck left his office at 11 o'clock for a Cabinet meeting. He had no statement on the Labatt case, but referred newspapermen to Joseph Sedgwick of the Attorney-General's Department, who announced the conference.

Mr. Roebuck will answer questions and give a general review of the case. Mr. Sedgwick said the statement of Mr. Roebuck would include the announcement of a reward for the apprehension of the kidnappers.

FIVE ARE KILLED ALGIERS QUAKE

Score Others Injured as Orleansville and Other Centres Are Rocked.

MOST LINES DOWN.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Sept. 7 (CP). —Five persons were killed and 20 injured when a violent earthquake rocked the town of Orleansville at 4.15 a.m. to-day.

The trembler shook the houses and sent the French colonists and natives fleeing into the streets.

Many more persons were believed injured in the small towns between here and Orleansville, and authorities started relief expeditions into the territory.

Orleansville itself is a village of 900 inhabitants, 300 of whom are French.

Several minor quakes preceded the big trembler, shaking the 200-mile-long Chelif Valley and an area 150 miles across.

Three towns, Carnot, Les Attafsm and Watigmies, were heavily hit in addition to Orleansville.

Communications were disrupted by the shocks, and it was impossible to determine immediately how badly the homes of natives and Europeans in outlying districts were damaged. The region is one of the most densely colonized in Algeria.

Carnot i sa city with 5,000 inhabitants. Les Attafsm and Watigmies each have populations of 900.

The quake was felt here distinctly.

Andrew B. Ingram Claimed By Death

TORONTO, Sept. 7. (CP).—Andrew B. Ingram, 83, of Toronto, former vice-chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board is dead to-day after a short illness. He was stricken with pneumonia Tuesday.

Prominent in the knights of labor in his youth, he represented West Elgin in the Ontario Legislature from 1886 to 1890, resigning the seat to contest successfully the Federal riding of East Elgin. At one time whip of the Conservative party, he sat in the Dominion House of Commons from 1891 to 1908, retiring when appointed vice-chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board by the late Sir James Whitney. He retired in 1932.

SCIENCE ADDS YEARS TO LIFE SPAN OF TODAY

Dr. F. C. Neal Tells Kiwanis of Medical Profession's Contribution.

RAPID PROGRESS.

Ontario Department of Health One of Most Efficient.

"One hundred years ago only one-half the humans born even in our civilized country could expect to live to 18 years of age," Dr. F. C. Neal said, in presented a graphic sketch of the part medicine is playing in the modern world, to the Kiwanis Club at luncheon to-day. "To-day one-half of those born can expect to reach 66 and one-quarter 76 years."

Revealing that the general life expectancy has been increased 18 years in the past 20 years, Dr. Neal spoke specifically of the gains which have been made by the medical profession since 1900 in Ontario in the fields of tuberculosis, typhoid and diphtheria. Deaths from typhoid have been reduced from 705 to 55 annually, diphtheria from 435 to 93 and in tuberculosis from 2,291 to 1,604. On the basis of the generally-accepted figure on the economic value of a human life, the Province has been saved more than one million dollars annually.

Health Insurance

Dr. Neal advocated the hastening of health insurance legislation.

"If we are to have health insurance we must avoid the mistakes that have been made elsewhere in the institution of health insurance systems. The insurance levies must be made on a basis which will enable the building up of a surplus to meet times of depressed conditions such as we are now experiencing. In the Old Country they are finding the insurance funds insufficient to carry them through and the government is finding it necessary to fall back on the Poor Laws to meet the situation."

The speaker declared that in the present depression Canadians are denying themselves adequate medical attention even though Canada's 9,000 doctors are contributing more than $100,000 in free medical services each day. At the same time, the per capita cost of medical attention in Canada is not great, he continued. Estimated at 2 cents per day, it represents a sum which is but a fraction of the sum spent in patent medicines or cosmetics.

Attitude to Cults.

Dr. Neal touched on the attitude of the standard medical men in regard to the "cults." The medical profession is not opposed to cults, he said. It is opposed only to their conducting of practises without having met the requirements qualifying them for accredited medical standing. Before a regular medical man is considered a doctor in full standing he is required to pass rigid tests proving his knowledge and capability. Any representative of the cults who is willing to qualify himself through these tests will be offered the open hand by the standard medical men, Dr. Neal said.

Ontario Progressive.

He paid tribute to the Department of Health in Ontario, pointing out that its existence entitles the province to rate among the world's most advanced communities in the field of health. Ontario has some of the finest medical legislation there is, he declared.

He urged his hearers to bear in mind that the general practioner is the keystone in the arch of public health. The general practioner is qualified to treat eighty-five per cent of all human ailments and bears by far the greatest share of the responsibility for public health.

Miss Eleanor Brown, a gold medalist, offered two vocal solos, "A Perfect Day" and "What Money Can't Buy." She was accompanied at the piano by Robert Haddow.

New Ontario Hospital Doctors to Try Exams

TORONTO, Sept. 7. (CP).—Future appointments to the medical services of provincial hospitals will be by examination, Hon. J. A. Faulkner, Ontario Minister of Health announced to-day.

The examining boards will consist of professors of psychiatry at the three medical schools of the province—Dr. C. B. Farrar, University of Toronto; Dr. G. H. Stevenson, University of Western Ontario and Dr. T. D. Cumberland, Queen's University. Dr. Faulkner directed that for admission to the medical service the applicant must satisfy this board through written and clinical examinations he is properly grounded in psychiatry before becoming eligible for appointment.

Further incentive to competition in the examinations is supplied by the offer of the minister to award a gold medal to the physician taking the highest standing. Commenting on the new plan at a conference of superintendents of Ontario Hospitals, Dr. Faulkner felt the arrangement would improve the efficiency of medical officers appointed to his service.

RUSSIA TO HAVE DIFFICULT TASK JOINING LEAGUE

Many Reported Opposed Despite British, French, Italian Support.

CHINA WOULD ENTER.

GENEVA, Sept. 7 (A.P.)—Hopes of various countries to join the League of Nations or win places in its council kept international politics humming as the council started its sessions to-day.

Russia's overtures both to become a member and to sit in the council led discussions in many tongues, but the political machinery of this meeting place of the nations also was turning over the candidacies of Turkey and China for semi-permanent council seats. Persia, which has been a candidate, withdrew yesterday in favor of Turkey.

France, England and Italy were a powerful triumvirate urging Russia's admission to the league. But a source close to Edouard Benes, Foreign Minister of Czechslovakia, who will preside over the Council meeting and who will open the League Assembly meeting Monday, stated he fears it may be difficult to obtain the necessary unanimous vote to give Russia a permanent place in the Council.

China campaigned for a seat with the contention that tension in the Far East has placed her in the position of being the sole defender of the League Covenant in the Orient and the whole idea of co-operation between the East and the West.

AUSTRIA SWINGING TOWARD NAZIS RATHER THAN ITALY

Middle and Upper Classes Prefer Hitler and Germany to Mussolini.

SWEEPING EUROPE

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN
(Central Press Canadian Writer)

VIENNA, Sept. 7.—Nazism has so much of a foothold in Austria that neither Prince Starhemberg nor anyone else can effectively combat the movement. The whole government service is honeycombed with Nazi cells. When the Nazis seized the chancelery on July 25, some 27 officials in that building, 27 out of 63, shouted: Heil Hitler!" and welcomed with shouts of jubiliation the false announcement that Dr. Dolfuss had resigned and that Dr. Anton Rintelen had formed a nazi cabinet. It is said that more than half the high army officers are sympathizers with the Nazi plans of a union of Austria with Germany under leadership of Herr Adolf Hitler.

Prince Starhemberg, who is the most active of the triumvirate Starhemberg-Fey-Schuschnigg in resisting Nazi pressure, is handicapped on all sides, even right in the three-men government of which he is a member, for Major Fey leans so heavily to the Nazi side that his name figured in the secret list of cabinet ministers which the Nazis had prepared in connection with their "Putsch" on July 25. As a matter of fact, the Vienne "Neu Weltbuehne" openly charges Major Fey with having had a hand in preparation of the raid which cost Chancellor Dolfuss his life. That journal's charges, uncontradicted so far, reveal that Fey, although knowing that Dollfuss was bleeding to death, never made the slightest move to have a doctor attend the wounded chancellor. In the course of his six appearances on the balcony of the chancellery, in which he pleaded with the government troops to withdraw, Major Fey never even mentioned the fact that Dollfuss was dying.

Had Notified Fey

The trials of various Nazi raiders brought out evidence that Major Fey had been notified at eleven o'clock in the morning that the raid was coming off at 1.30 in the afternoon of July 26. Chief Inspector of Police Major Wrabel, who reported that he watched the Nazis assemble for the historic raid at 10.30 and immediately telephoned Fey, told the court that he had been taken prisoner by the Nazis and had been taken along in one of the trucks which carried the attackers. Arrived before the chancellery, he said, he was greatly surprised to find no government troops there to protect the place, despite the fact that Major Fey, chief of public security in the Dollfuss cabinet, had been notified fully two hours previously of the coming raid.

Even Prince Starhemberg, however much he may be opposed to Nazism, cannot afford to deal too harshly with the higher-ups in the Austrian Nazi movement. He knows that Nazis may be his colleagues in the cabinet tomorrow. The prince's feverish trips up and down to consult Mussolini show the great predicament he is in.

Do Not Want Italy

At the same time the prince's efforts to obtain support in Italy are alienating the sympathies of many of the nobles, the Gross-Deutsche Pan-German, always protagonists of the union of Austria with Germany. The establishment of an Italian protectorate over Austria, which is the object of Prince Starhemberg's efforts, is driving many patriotic Austrians into the arms of Nazism.

An Austrian general said to me: "Whatever happens, we will never permit a non-German solution of the Austrian problem. We Austrians are Germans in every way, and we will not place the destiny of our German-Austrian fatherland in the hands of non-Germans." A scarcely veiled reference to Prince Starhemberg's conferences with Duce Mussolini!

The prospect of a restoration of the monarchy, once so popular in higher Vienese circles, now begins to be taken as the last-minute effort which Mussolini and Prince Starhemberg will put forward to maintain Italy's influence in Austria. This sentiment does not help the chances of Otto von Hapsburg.

Hitler Moderates Tone

Since the violent radio propaganda from Munich has stopped, Herr Hitler is gaining sympathizers by the tens of thousands in Austria, whereas a few weeks ago he seemed to be losing out. The Fuehrer's moderate speeches, in which he gave up claims to Dantzig, abandoned colonial aspirations and called off the anti-Austrian propaganda, have made a deep impression in Austria. Except for the left-wing parties, no Austrian is fundamentally opposed to the Anschluss (union of Austria and Germany. To keep Austrial and Germany apart is as impossible in the end as it would be to keep Britain and Canada apart if historic circumstances had separated them. The left-wing parties are opposed to iHtler but not to Germany. Even so the left-wing parties have been deprived of all influence by Chancellor Dollfuss in February. Chancellor Schuschnigg is now carrying on negotiations with the exiled socialist leaders in Prague with a view to incorporate the socialists of an anti-Nazi front in return for a restoration of some measure of freedom for the socialist party. But the socialist chiefs are extremely wary of these invitations. They have not forgotten that it was Schuschnigg's predecessor and fellow-leader of Christian-Democratic parties, Dr. Dollfuss, who crushed their movement in February.

Anyone studying the Austrian situation on the spot may for a certain length of time be baffled by the intricate puzzle presented by the political situation, but if he is willing to deal objectively with the subject, he is bound to admit before long that Hitler-Germany is exercising a powerful appeal upon the Austrian people. In spite of all that has occurred, the bombings, the vitriolic propaganda and the Putsch of July 25, criticism of the Hitler regime is extremely moderate in the Austrian press. It should not be overlooked in this connection that the most determined opponents of Hitlerism in Austria, the social-democrats and their press, have been completely silenced.

Hitler's Star Ascending

The Austrians are on the whole eager for a reconciliation with Herr Hitler. Of course, as I said, large masses of Austrians are inarticulate in the matter. But if the Fuehrer persists in his conciliatory mood, which was inaugurated by the dispatch of Herr Frans von Papen as minister plenipotentiary to Vienna, the Austrians are willing to meet him more than half-way. We may say what we like in lamenting the twilight of democratic government in Germany. Tuetonic countries, not only Austria, but in Holland, Flanders, Sweden, Czechoslowakia and, to a lesser extent, in Switzerland, Hitler's star is undeniably in the ascendency among the upper and middle classes. This is my impression after going over the ground these last weeks.

The outcome of the plebiscite in the Reich, although showing a decline in the Fuehrer's hold on the German people, does not alter this estimation, but confirms it, for everybody knows that the five million no-votes in Germany were the result of increased Communist activity, and that the middle classes in all these countries are by no means ready to welcome a resurgence of Communist influence or a Red victory. They dread it. They will go through hell with Hitler rather than let Bolshevism come into the saddle. Yet some day that struggle will be fought out in central Europe and it will decide the future of all humanity for ages to come.

"Don't I know you? Your face looks familiar?"

He did, and it was—Jacob's brother, Harry, 40, of Altoona, whom he had not seen for 15 years.

It will act as banker for the Dominion Government and may also perform similar functions for the provinces. It will advise the government on financial matters. For the gold which it takes over it will pay the normal rate of $20.67 an ounce and the government will benefit from the difference between that and the market value. This provision was the subject of strong objection from commercial banks.

Under the legislation the bank will have a head office in Ottawa, but it may open branches in other parts of the Dominion.

manded Labatt remain silent had come to an end.

Mr. Roebuck, it is understood, might reveal a detailed story today regarding developments in the search, the end of which is expected to be staged along the Michigan-Ontario border.

Car of Coach Type

No one in the Bracebridge district could cast any light on when Labatt arrived at the cottage. No one had seen the car that brought him but Labatt was said to be certain he was taken to the cottage and back to Toronto and freedom inan auto of th e coach type because he had to life a seat when entering.

Horace Prowse rented the cottage to three well-dressed men about 40 years of age on Aug. 5. They paid Prowse $50 to use the cottage for the rest of the vacation season. The auto they were driving bore a Michigan license plate.

Seldom in the day time were the three men seen but at night one of them was noticed walking up and down before the cottage as if on guard over the Brewery magnate whose eyes had been taped and who failed in efforts to converse with his captors.

harry and when it did so the lights went out. When the car again resumed its journey it travelled about forty feet before the lights came on again.

Witness said he was doubtful if he would be able to identify the car if he saw it again, and was equally doubtful as to his ability to again recognize the mysterious driver of the car.

Asked by Crown Attorney V. J. McKiderry, K.C., who examined each of the witnesses, if he knew where Meharry might have been coming from, the witness said he presumed that Meharry had been to visit his brother John who resides in that section of the suburban area.

Nothing Unusual

Hugh Campbell, manager of the Canadian Johnson Motor Company's plant and resident on Weller street adjacent to Gordon avenue where Meharry's body was discovered sprawled over the sidewalk in a welter of blood, told the court he had taken his dog for a walk on the night of July 29. He walked right past the spot where Meharry's body was discovered some eight hours later, but noticed nothing in the least unusual.

He described Gordon avenue as 'a rendezvous for men and women in couples after dark."

Leo McCabe who resides in Maple avenue close to the scene of the killing reached home on the night in question at 10.50 o'clock. He neither saw nor heard anything that aroused his suspicions.

Philip Card, 426 Donegal street who is employed as a gardener was on his way to work at six o'clock on the morning of the 24 July. Looking down Gordon avenue as he walked up Weller street, he saw an object on the sidewalk which he described as looking like "a big black dog." He did not learn until later that it was the body of a dead man.

Found Body

William Griffin, 466 Sherbrooke street walking along Gordon avenue at 6.30 a.m. saw the body and notified police, a few minutes later John Stewart, milk delivery man for Sunshine Dairy also made the gruesome discovery and when on his way to telephone for the police saw Constable Jack Deannard on his way up from the police office.

Other witnesses who testified included: Fred L. Roy, who took photographs of bloodstains on the sidewalk of Gordon avenue; Constable Deannard, who described the body as having been "still warm" when he arrived to investigate; and John Plumpton, 466 Elm street.

The jury empanelled consisted of: Messrs: S. Whatley, foreman; Percy Golds, John McCabe, Charles White, Thomas Blanchard, Ted Boyer, William Packer, Douglas Copperthwaite, M. Quinn, Frank Maloney, Clifford Chapman and Peter Collins.

AT 62—IN BED WITH RHEUMATISM

At 65—Working Again

Why worry about rheumatism? This old fellow had it almost as bad as it could be. But he just found the right remedy ,stuck to it, and now he's working again—at 65 years of age.

Let him tell you all about it:—"For two years and a half," he writes, "I have suffered from rheumatism. For eighteen months I could not turn over in bed, nor help myself in any way. My legs and feet were swollen, and I could not sleep or get any rest until I started taking Kruschen Salts. After taking one bottle, I went about on two canes. I kept on taking it, as I found the pains were leaving me. I have taken six bottles, and now I have started work again. I am 65 years of age, and everybody that knows me says I am a wonder to get on, after what I was."—J. B.

Do you realise what causes rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system.

Hard Luck Town

West was arrested for not paying a $1.45 taxicab bill. He explained to Magistrate Anthony Lucas that he had been robbed of $4 before he got into the cab. He said he expected to pay the bill out of $7 he had hidden in a shoe, but when he looked for the $7, it was gone, too.

Many Indians Do Not Know Their Ages, Priest Reports.

HAZARDOUS TRIP.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.— (C.P.)—Full counting in the census taking of unfrequented parts of Quebec, Ontario and the west is reported by Rev. J. Emile Saindon, Moose Factory, who has completed the job in spite of difficulties of all kinds.

Travel by canoe along a 600-mile stretch including the crossing of Hannah Bay, Rupert's House Bay and Cape Hope Bay were particularly hazardous states the report now translated from the French. Caught in storm, Father Saindon says: "My guide gave proof of his marvellous skill in dodging and cutting through the waves."

Many of the Indians in the village of Eastman did not know their ages, he says, as they are very primitive in culture. He was called upon to serve as doctor and dentist while he was there.

Extreme poverty was the mark of the village, from 70 to 80 people sometimes living in one dwelling since they had not sufficient furs to buy tents for each of the seven to 10 families represented.

Nagged For 50 Cents Rent Roomer Slays Landlady

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7.—(CP)—Persistence in attempting to collect 50 cents unpaid room rent today was recorded as the motive for murder of Mrs. Tennie Hryhorko, 36, and the suicide of Mike Poniuki, former roomer at the Hryhorko home.

The cause was advanced by Andrew Hryhorko, husband of the dead woman and cousin of Poniuk, at the inquest into the deaths here last night the jury found Poniuk shot and killed Mrs. Hryhorko in the Hryhorko home Aug. 30 and then shot himself.

A witness at the inquest was Elsie 8-year-old daughter of the slain woman, who witnessed the murder of her mother and suicide of Poniuk.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . . Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey. That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and stimulates and makes you "feel punk." Your stomach gets upset, bowels, nervous, pain. Your breath is bad and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. Skin is blotchy, all, of course, because your system is full of poisons.

Mere bowel movers like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct this condition entirely. You're lousy and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Avoid calomel (mercury). The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and sure; but how they do change your view on life!

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Demand, ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the black box with Carter's in the red label. 25c, at all druggists. 30

Your Health
By DR. LOGAN CLENDENING

Under this mysterious title Dr. Donald A. Laird, who has done so much to elucidate the psychology of sleep, again discusses his favorite subject.

We said yesterday, in discussing the question of right and left handedness, that for all of us the question—"On which side do you sleep?"—has not only interest but value.

Dr. Boris Sidis started the inquiry some time ago by the statement that "by far the majority of right-handed people go to sleep on the right side, while left-handed people go to sleep on the left side."

Other students of the problem, Boynton and Goodenough, came to an exactly opposite conclusion, i.e., that right-handed people were inclined to sleep on the left side, and vice versa.

Plainly if one or the other of these ideas is true it is very important for all of us because a restless or tiring night may be due to having started going to sleep on the wrong side.

Straddling and Laird, by making inquiries of a number of intelligent men and women, were unable to confirm either of these ideas in their entirety.

True, more than half of the right-handed people went to sleep on their right side, but then more than half of the left-handed people did also. Twenty-five per cent. had no preference at all.

My own inquiries tend to confirm this. Also it seems to me other factors than handedness enter into the discussion. Thus matrimonial partners tend to sleep with their backs to each other, as do young brothers in the nursery. Quite a few people go to sleep best on their stomachs, and others on their backs.

Straddling and Laird did establish however, that if one were in the habit of going to sleep a certain way, sleep was more likely to be restful if that position were assumed when going to sleep. They kept records of some individuals who volunteered to go to sleep on the unusual side and found that the nights were considerably less refreshing when that was done. We move around so much during the night, though, that no dogmatic rule can be laid down.

It is to be hoped that our readers will not carry experiments of this kind out to the point of insomnia. Don't forget the old gentleman, who fortunately is somewhat mythical, who was asked whether he slept with his beard inside or outside the covers. It bothered him so finding out that he never slept again.

the minister. The lumbering and mining industries were particularly well on the up-grade, he added enthusiastically. A pick-up in the wheat situation was very perceptible in many areas. Other forms of agriculture too indicated improvement, although a little 'spotty' here and there.

The fish industry likely will be the first matter to be taken up by the Commission when it begins its sittings. Opinion continues the inquiry will return to a probe of the tobacco industry which was so considerably in the spotlight before the House committee.

Montreal retailers have sent in protests to the Government against a price maintenance agreement understood to have been submitted by a leading tobacco manufacturing company. Under the proposed agreement, it is understood, the manufacturing concern proposes that retailers handling this company's lines should maintain set prices not only in such lines but in all other competitive lines. The retailers do not take kindly to the proposal and their communications indicate strenuous objection.

Extension of the scope of the inquiry beyond the terms of the order-in-council setting up the commission is problematical, although representations in this direction will be given consideration. The present authority conferred by the order-in-council is for inquiry into chain stores, agricultural implements, fish, flour mills, bakeries and canning of fruits and vegetables.

NEWSPAPERS BANNED AT BORDER IN AUSTRO-GERMAN PRESS WAR

Foreign Opinion Rigidly Excluded on Both Sides of Border.

PAPERS ARE SEIZED.

(By GEORGE HAMBLETON)

BERLIN, Aug. 16. (CP).—"Zeitungen—newspapers?" A customs officer breezes through as the train comes to a panting halt on the frontier between Austria and Czechoslovakia. His suspicious eye falls on a copy of the Vienna Reichspost lying on the seats. He seizes it, impounds it before the surprised passenger has time to question why, and disappears.

And so, on every train, day after day the merry game proceeds. For in this battle of propaganda between Austrian Fascism and German Nazidom, no still small voice a contrary opinion must invade sacred precincts. On both sides of the Austro-German frontier the methods are much the same.

The language, in reverse, is almost identical. Austrian Fascists charge German Nazis with inspiring the murder of Dollfuss. German Nazis charge Austrian Fascists with being in the pay of Italy.

Hangman Active

Here is an extract from the Nazi "Angriff" of Berlin. It is given as the report of a special correspondent in Australia.

"These days, the hangman cannot complain of lack of work. Death claims its victims from every stratum of the population—police, bank officials, mechanics, unemployed. Behind them stands the dark shadow of the Heimwehrman (Austrian Fascist). He it was who drove the Austrian government into the policy of bend or break, who spread implacability and hatred among the people, who flogged them with cowhide and whips and steel rods. To the real Austrian, the Heimwehrman is an alien. With foreign money in his pockets, he represents foreign interests. Of that, the best proof is his brutality towards people of his own race."

Nor does Austria lack similar information about the Nazis. Austrian national front posters charge them with brutality, with inspiring the murder of Dollfuss. Stories of refugees from German concentration camps are given full play. "Afraid of the truth," heads of news item from Berlin on an order to German railway book-stalls not to display foreign newspapers so prominently.

An Ontario Letter

A para graph from Danzig leaves the reader to draw the conclusion that, there, the Nazis are losing ground. The Vienna Reichspost prints a letter from an unnamed correspondent in Parry Sound, Ont., which declares that the principle of nationalism gone mad, as interpreted by the Third Reich, means brutality and contempts for the natural rights of man.

CANADIAN WILDS OFFER PARADISE TO THE HUNTER

Fall Season Yields $2,250,000 for Licenses, Guides, Equipment, Transportation.

$45,000,000 INVESTMENT.

Professional Men, Mainly Doctors, Head List of Nimrods—Moose Coveted Quarry.

BY GARY MOORE

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—(CP)—The man behind the gun, playing simultaneously in all provinces, opens an eight weeks or more engagement this month, and the stage is the wide expanse of the Canadian wilds.

The woods, with leaves changing from green to myriad tints of brown and gold, provides a vast scenic background of natural beauty. Moose, deer, caribou, bear, mountain sheep and goats, are the animal actors in this annual pageant. They are supported by a cast of millions of partridge, grouse, prairie chicken, ducks and, pheasants.

The Canadian hunting season soon opens, the exact date depending on the particular locality and the species of game the hunter is stalking.

Rich Producer

The annual Fall hunt is a $2,250,000 production. That is the sum that hunters expend annually in Canada for licenses, guides, equipment, transportation and supplies. This is five percent on a capital investment of $45,000,000—which is the sum invested in hunting lodges and all the paraphernalia needed by the hunter from the United States and Europe and the resident Canadian huntsman guides and outfitters.

This estimate is by D. Leo Dolan director of the Canadian Travel Bureau. Mr. Dolan reports that 18 percent of the inquiries received by the Federal Tourist Bureau have been from huntsmen planning trips to Canada this Fall.

Doctors Main Hunters

Who comes to Canada for big game hunting? Business executives and professional men from the United States are in the majority. Doctors lead all the professions. There are a number of internationally known authors who each Fall head expeditions into the Canadian wilds. When the big league baseball season closes, groups of players start for the Dominion and the strain of the long playing season is eased off with a hunting trip.

Moose are the popular game of sportsmen that organize expeditions to go into the more remote sections of the Dominion for periods of two to six weeks. Moose are found in every province of Canada except Prince Edward Island. New Brunswick for many years reported the record head for antler spread of moose, the measurement hunters employ to value their trophies.

Deer and Caribou rank next in popularity. Caribou are hunted in three counties of Quebec—Gaspe, Bonaventure and Matane—the only open Caribou district in the east. Western Canada has caribou in various sections.

No Record of Kill

The majority of the provinces—including Ontario and Quebec—do not keep a record of the number of trophies exported, so there is no accounting of how many Canadian animals now decorate the club rooms or the dens of big game hunters in the United States and Europe. The number of 'bags' by the sportsmen in the few weeks hunting allowed them each year is only a small percentage of the animals taken by the trappers for commercial purposes.

Ontario: Moose, north of main line of Canadian National Railway, Sept. 15 to Nov. 25; south of Canadian National Railway to Mattawa River and Canadian Pacific Railway to Heron Bay, North to Lake Nipissing Nov. 1 to Nov. 25; Saint Joseph Island and Algoma district Nov. 10 to Nov. 25. Deer, same as moose, except South of French and Mattawa Rivers, Nov. 5 to Nov. 20. Bear, no close season. Hare, no close season.

Italy expects to reduce its budget deficit this year.

EVA COO GUILTY OF KILLING MAN

to-day. As Mrs. Coo passed his cell yesterday after hearing the verdict condemning her to death, she handed to Nabinger, through the bars of his cell, an autographed photograph of herself surrounded by news photographers.

"Harry, here's something I like a lot," she said. Nabinger, swallowing hard, took the picture. He was quite pale.

The evidence at the trial, with 74 persons testifying for the State, was that Mrs. Coo had taken out insurance on her handy-man's life, and then had conspired to bring about his death.

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y., Sept. 7 (A.P.)—Kissing each other goodbye, Mrs. Eva Coo, native of Haliburton, Ont., and Mrs. Martha Clift separated to-day, the former to be driven to Sing Sing Prison to await execution and the latter to imprisonment at Bedford Hills Prison for women.

They were taken in separate motor cars. Mrs. Coo was convicted of the murder of Harry Wright and Mrs. Clift pleaded guilty to participation in the crime.

Worked in Peterborough.

As a young woman in her early twenties, Eva Coo was employed as a waitress in a hotel here and also in hotels at Lindsay. A resident of this city, who was living and working in Lindsay twenty-five years ago, knew Eva Coo personally. He describes her as having been "a good looking, well dressed woman."

"At the time I knew Eva Coo," The Examiner's informant stated, "she was a waitress at the Royal Hotel in Lindsay. Eva had worked at Benson House, and she told me that previously she had worked in Peterborough."

JUDGE SCORES EXCESS LOADS

Finds Truck Driver Did Not Take Precaution—Assesses Damages and Costs.

IN DIVISION COURT.

"It is a wonder that there are not a lot more accidents if other wood truck drivers display the same disregard for motorists as this man did," declared Judge J. A. McGibbon, of Lindsay, to-day in handing down judgment in Division Court against a truck driver.

The driver was assessed damages of $43.75 and costs in a suit brought against him by Mrs. Anita Doughty, proprietress of the Park Hotel at Burleigh Falls.

The action arose from an accident on the Burleigh Falls road in which the truck man collided with Mrs. Doughty's Packard car, damaging it along the fender.

"Evidence showed clearly that Mrs. Doughty had drawn off on the right side of the road and defendant did not stop his truck or take any proper precaution but just plowed through. Overburdened as his truck was with two and a half cords of wood, the least he could have done was stop," Judge McGibbon stated.

His Honor stated that trucks should not be permitted to drive on the highways loaded as the wood truck was. "The truck drivers should be limited to one pile of wood and not two," he said. "Otherwise there will be many more accidents."

Hospital Sets Record No Patient, 13 Years

LONDONDERRY, Sept. 7. (CP). Without a single patient in the whole 13 years of its existence is the unique record of a fully-equipped hospital in the Londonderry area.

The hospital was built by the Londonderry Port Sanitary Board at Moville, on the Donegal side of Lough Foyle.

Then came the Free State treaty and the drawing of the border-line. Northern Ireland, containing Londonderry, became one state, and Southern Ireland, with Moville within its boundaries, became another.

HAVING A CHANGE.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 6 (C.P.).—James Weedon, scourge of pigeons and starlings in Hamilton, has announced his intention of taking his holiday next week. But, to keep his hand in, he is taking along his shotgun. The holiday part of it is that he will be shooting ducks and not starlings.

A $25 Wife?

MONTREAL, Sept. 6. (CP).—The story of an Eskimo who had the wrong idea when he read an advertisement was told here last night by Ashley Cooper, first governor of the Hudson's Bay Company to travel to the Arctic by the old fur trade route.

The Eskimo saw the advertisement of a dress and underneath it the statement it could be obtained for $25, then went to the trading post, presented a fox skin worth $25 and said: "Would you please send this pelt to the Hudson's Bay store and ask them to send this woman because I want to make her my wife."

Gov't Control Forecast Following Startling U. S. Munitions Disclosures.

BOAT COMPANY BOASTS.

Official Claims He Aided Placing of Two Members on Powerful House Committee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 (A.P.)—World-wide efforts to take the manufacture of armament out of the hands of private enterprise and place it under government control were forecast to-day by members of the United States Senate munitions investigating committee.

They made known their views as the committee resumed its inquiry which yesterday produced testimony that an official of the Electric Boat Company asserted he had aided in placing two representatives—Fort of New Jersey and Martin of Massachusetts—on the House of Representatives rules committee in 1928.

Both Martin, still a House member, and Fort, who has retired, promptly denied that the official, Sterling J. Joyner, vice president and the company's Washington representative, had anything to do with their selection.

It also developed that on September 23, 1930, Ernest Lee Jahncke of Louisiana, then assistant secretary of the Navy, wrote John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, then House Republican leader, that contracts for two submarines would go to the Electric Boat Company.

Will Dig Deeper

Further inquiry into this testimony was promised. The committee planned first to call L. L. Driggs, president of the Driggs Ordinance and Engineering Company. Senator Pope (D.-Idaho) contends the Navy Department sent a cruiser to Turkey five years ago in an effort to aid help Drigg's firm sell guns to that country.

Giving his views about the inquiry, chairman Gerald Nye (R.-N. D.) said that his office had been swamped by thousands of letters from all parts of the country congratulating the committee on its activity in disclosing the methods employed by private armament manufacturers in marketing their wares.

An explosive climax to the inquiry into the Electric Boat Company, of New York and Grotton, Conn., was produced when the committee introduced correspondence and memoranda from Joyner.

Joyner, who originally was summoned as a witness but was reported too ill to attend the committee hearings, also took credit for helping in the passage in 1929 of the cruiser bill, appropriations for submarines and the second efficiency bill, which provided $3,000,000 for payment of a war-time claim to his farm.

EDITOR MEETS LEADEN DEATH

Shot Dead as Two Gunmen Drive Alongside His Car and Fire.

OUTSPOKEN ON CRIME.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 7 (AP) — Howard Guilford, former Minneapolis publisher of sensational Minneapolis weekly newspapers was shot down last night by assassins "hired by Communists," Jay M. Near, former partner of the murdered man asserted to-day.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 7 (A.P.)—Howard Guilford, former newspaper editor and leader of a fight for freedom of the press, came into the spotlight again to-day—slain.

He was shot down by a gunman last night in fashion typical of the underworld his publications often attacked.

Guilford, 40 years old, was driving his automobile along a South Side street, going home, when the killer and his companion drove their car alongside Guilford's, poked the muzzle of a shotgun through an open window and pulled the trigger.

The charge struck the former editor of The Saturday Press and The Pink Sheet in the head. His death apparently was instantaneous.

Then, after taking one quick look to make sure the charge had killed their victim, the gunmen sped away. There was but one witness and he told police the killers' machine bore yellow license plates.

Seven years ago Guilford was attacked by gunmen. He was wounded seriously, but recovered. Guilford's publications often were devoted to attacks on gambling and other forms of vice. He said he had been threatened.

The identified are:

In the Griffin Hospital, Derby, is Stanley Denerski, of Shelton, dying from a fractured skull and other injuries.

The wrecked automobile sideswiped another car and crashed into the trolley.

MARKET BOARD TO AID TOBACCO FARM OWNERS

Will be Formed Shortly Weir Tells North York Rally.

"CODES MEAN RIOTS."

AURORA, Ont., Sept. 7. (CP).—Ontario tobacco growers will obtain the benefits of the Dominion Government's Marketing Act through a tobacco marketing board to be formed shortly.

Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, revealed the Government's plan to form such a board when he addressed the Conservative rally here last night in support of Harold C. Breuls Conservative candidate in the North York federal by-election, caused by the death of Col. T. Herbert Lennox, Conservative member.

Mr. Breuls in a brief address gave warning inauguration of industrial codes would lead to riots and strikes similar to that in United States. If Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck of Ontario implemented code legislation, Mr. Breuls said, citizens of Ontario could expect witnessing "riots in our cities, dead lying on the streets and blood flowng throughout our countryside."

In explaining two sections of the fruit industry had organized marketing boards, Mr. Weir declared the government had a tobacco scheme which, with a few alterations, would be put into practice shortly. His brief announcement regarding this step came during a defence of the Government's Marketing Act, during which he attacked Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal leader, for his opposition to the act.

Started Friction

Mr. King, according to the Minister, had claimed organising of producers into groups set one community section against the other but Mr. Weir asked if Mr. King had anything to say about groups "which organize to hold the farmer by the throat."

Power to restrict excessive profits in distribution of farm products was given to the government under the Marketing Act and the administration also had the authority to punish profiteers. Complaints of such profits being made were being investigated by the government, Mr. Weir added.

The farmer had the same right as labor to organize and increase his power, Mr. Weir continued as he accused Liberals of failing to lessen the farmer's burden. The former Liberal government had made no arrangements to place Canadian products on foreign market and when the Conservatives attained power in 1930, he said, they found Canadian products barred from United States and other countries by high tariff walls.

Household Hints

Menu Hint

Creamed Chicken With Mushrooms
Mashed Potatoes
Butter Beans, Buttered
Lettuce and Cottage Cheese Salad
Lemon Milk Sherbet
Wafers or Graham Crackers Coffee

Use milk as much as you possibly can in your menus. It is particularly healthful in a family of children. And every adult should also include plenty of this "perfect food" in his or her diet.

Today's Recipes

Creamed Chicken With Mushrooms.—One-fourth cup butter, one-fourth cup sliced mushrooms, one-fourth cup flour, two cups milk, salt, pepper, celery salt, Worcestershire sauce, two cups cooked chicken, cut. Melt the butter, add the mushrooms and cook until they begin to brown, about five minutes. Add the flour and when well blended add the milk slowly, stirring constantly. Boil one minute. Season to taste. Add chicken, reheat and serve.

Lemon Milk Sherbet.—Juice of three lemons, one and one-half cups sugar, few grains salt, one quart milk. Mix juice and sugar and salt. Add to milk. The curdled look will disappear in freezing. Pack in salt and ice using three parts ice to one part salt and freeze until firm.

Important Trifles

When the shoe polish hardens it can easily be softened up by adding a bit of turpentine.

Four generations of at least two families—great grandmother, grandmother, mother and daughter—have been taught at the Church Street church school in Lee, London, which recently observed its one hundredth anniversary.

ERRORS WHICH PASS UNNOTICED.

You would be astonished at the number of errors which are made in nearly every game played, were you to keep a record of each hand bid and played in an evening, even among highly rated men. Almost countless errors pass unnoted by everyone except a hawkeyed expert, who rarely comments upon what he sees. The hand shown today will be picked to pieces, just to illustrate what passed without comment, and the men were of high standing at that.

The first error noted is that East made an opening bid of 1 heart, lacking the customary 2 1-2 quick tricks for a hand containing only a single biddable suit. His hand is so weak that had he passed North would have made an opening bid, fourth-hand, upon his 4 quick tricks, after which East could have bid his hearts just as well.

North and South alone were vulnerable. When South had to pass the opening bid, had I sat West either I would have bid only 2 hearts or I would have jumped the bid to 4 hearts, as offering us the sole hope for game. West is too weak for a double jump, which should show greater strength than going at once to game. Probably North would have doubled a game bid, but also probably the can can be defeated on a single trick (1 spade, 1 diamond and 2 clubs to lose on normal defence by North and South).

North's informatory double of the 3 hearts was fine. East passed, whereas he might have bid game, as a protective measure, knowing that he had made a bad opening bid.

When two things conflict, seek the safer course. South should have known that it is 4 times as difficult to make 5 odd as 4 odd. With the possibility that North had a biddable suit, as well as a doubling hand, I think that South should have made a minimum response of 4 diamonds; instead he responded with 5 diamonds. He was doubled and fulfilled his contract through bad defensive work.

Over a response of 4 diamonds, North could have ventured 4 spades, which no defence should defeat. The "double, then bid", procedure is comparatively new, but has been fully explained in these columns.

West's proper play would have defeated 5 diamonds. He made an opening lead of the king of hearts, then he led his lone queen of spades, handing game to South. With 4 trumps to 10, West should have seen that he must win a trump trick if he forces dummy to ruff with the queen by leading a second heart.

AT THE REGENT

BARBARA STANWYCK IN "GAMBLING LADY."

The pretty Barbara Stanwyck has another of her memorable roles in this picture. There is a charm to this little lady and her acting that springs, probably, from the very sincere way in which she projects herself into a part. She never overacts, or poses, and she plays as if she were really living in the skin of the character portrayed.

In "Gambling Lady," she is Jennifer Lady Lee, daughter of an honest gambler who has taught her to play them straight and play out the hand. But Mike Lee forgets his own creed when he steps out of life the easiest way, and 'Lady' Lee, as they call her, is left to plow a lone furrow.

There is an excellent cast. C. Aubrey Smith, who was so fine in the part of the Duke of Wellington, in "The House of Rothschild," is the father of the hero, Garry Madison, who falls in love with Lady and asks her to marry him. She cuts the cards with his father, to see who wins, and the cards give the young man to her. The disappointed but faithful suitor is played by Pat O'Brien, in a role in which he always shines. But Lady's affection for him and the intrusion of a chiselling dame called Sheila (Claire Dodd is excellent in this unlikeable part), cause trouble and the whole affair goes on the rocks temporarily. But Lady conquers finally and the ending is just as satisfactory as the whole picture.

There is another chapter of the thrilling serial, "Gordon of Ghost City," and a comedy with two gobs doing some neat footwork in a dancing competition.—Jeanette.

Albrecht Durer, German painter, engraver and designer of the Franconian school, was the most prominent and influential master of the German Renaissance.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Persons of little faith get small results. For one thing they work with no zeal, and "Faith without work is dead." To have great faith in a thing implies the person to exert great energy to bring it about, and while so doing he or she sees ways open which lead unexpectedly to success. Faith is not confined to spiritual things. It is one of the intangible and invisible forces. But so is electricity. There may or may not be anything in common between them, but it remains a fact that each is intangible and each works in its own ways.

* * * * * * *

It is not unusual to hear a person say, "I have no faith," yet if they are in business they know that business is built largely on faith as a foundation. Orders are filled before any money is paid. The firm selling has faith that the buyer will pay for purchases. The buyer in turn has faith that the goods will be delivered before paid for. Failure in these matters does not bar the truth, because lack of fulfilment is exceptional. The foundation of faith remains.

* * * * * * *

Persons who have no faith are apt to have fear. Fear is the negative side of faith. Faith is positive and constructive. Fear is negative and destructive. Each acts like a magnet to draw things to one. What one has faith in is apt to come to pass. What one fears is also apt to happen. Faith is usually desirable, fear undesirable, since what one fears is accompanied by a wish it would not happen. When the undesirable thing happens how often it is said: "I was afraid that would happen." The person, without acknowledging it even to herself, actually believed it would occur. Her faith was fear.

* * * * * * *

Since there is no qestion but persons would prefer to have what they desire come to pass rather than what they do not, they may well consider this matter of faith and fear as magnets. Remember that fear is the reverse of what is dreaded.

* * * * * * *

Put your mental energy into the consideration of what you would like to happen. See what you can do to further what you wish. Waste no energy in consideration of ways in which things could go wrong. Use all of this power in seeing ways of averting such a situation. Start having faith in the good, the best, the wise thing. Realize that every thought diverted from these lines is a side step in the wrong direction, and must be retraced to get on the right path again. Get your faith to working, exercise it "according to thy faith be it unto thee."

LONDON, 7 (C.P. Cable). — "Someone's been pulling your leg," said J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary, when a newspaperman today rang him up at his holiday-place on the Sussex coast to ask him about his rescue from drowning.

"Most certainly I am not ill—I never even heard of the rumor I was ill until you rang me up."

The report was that Mr. Thomas had collapsed after a narrow escape from drowning.

Albany Clinches Fourth Place In Knapp Race

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

TOMORROW WILL usher in the Autumn racing season in Toronto when Thorncliffe throws open its gates once more. Everything is in readiness and it should go over in a big way. We hope the racing will be a little more formful than a year ago when only four favorites clicked in the first twenty-eight races. Don't forget Tabson is right at home on this racing strip. We hear that Poet's Dream is hitting on all cylinders these days and is ready for the question. Dark Mission breezed seven furlongs the other morning in 1.29 and was not even breathing hard at the finish. That should be recommendation enough for this one.

Stefan Jr. is also up there and in tip top shape. He will lead the parade a few times between now and when the winter sets in. Jockey Kessler who has been doing his stuff around Chicago this year, equalled the wonderful feat of Jockey Rosengarten in piloting five consecutive winners in one afternoon, when he did this same little thing on Wednesday of this week. Rosengarten accomplished his on Tuesday so there is a record for them to shoot at, for years to come. Its peculiar that we can't seem to develop boys like these on our Canadian tracks.

GEORGE C. TAPPEN who used to be well known on our circuit has been ordered to appear before the Rhode Island Horse Racing Commission at their meeting on Monday next. He saddled the horse Cardamon who won the first race at Narragansett on August 24th last. It is understood that a saliva test revealed the horse had been stimulated. The stewards at all race tracks don't fool these days. We hear that Boocap is all dressed up and ready for the party down at Rockingham Park. He is very consistent. Brass Monkey at the same place is going to knock down a purse any day now and the price is always right on this one. Before leaving this track we want to hand you one more. His name is On Sir and he can travel with the best of the plater rank.

Over at Lincoln Fields there is one called Cold Steel who is a lot better than his name would indicate. His connections are very proud of him and the day is not far distant when he will be led into the winner's circle after a distance event. Mud or fast going make no difference to him. We also have one called Flying Justice at the same place who is just like money in the bank. He is on razor edge and raring to go Dude Fodan is one of the busiest men around Thorncliffe these days. He is helping Bill Campbell train the large string he has quartered there, besides doing the exercising. He expects to be aboard a few winners also before the week is over. Tommy Aimers is another boy that should ride a few winners. He has entirely recovered from his recent illness and when he is right he does not have to take a back seat to any rider in America.

Science To Play Big Part In America's Cup Races

Wouldn't every land-lubber be thrilled to the core if he could but direct from the wheel, the course of T. O. M. Sopwiths trim America's Cup challenger Endeavour. So far as is known, only one man, a New York newspaperman, has experienced such a thrill. The Illustrated London News here illustrates the position and instruments aboard Endeavour that the helmsman has to watch as though he were a pilot in an aeroplane. Every scientific device known to yachtsmen—and some that are not yet known—has been installed aboard the British yacht. Some of these instruments are illustrated above. The helmsman has his wind-speed, wind-direction and mechanical log recording instruments in front of him. In addition there are other dials for giving visual indication of the stress on shrouds and preventer stays.

WOMAN DRIVER SCORES VICTORY

Mrs. Burnham Captures Second Heat of Speed-boat Races.

MISS CANADA III SECOND.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Florence Burhlam, Wilmington, Del., speed-boat driver, led United States entrants back into the running for the world's championship 225-cubic-inch motorboat speed event by winning the second of the three heats at the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront last night. Mrs. Burhlam's time was 22 minutes and 29 seconds over the 15 miles distance.

Spectacular victory of the pretty Wilmington driver and her multi-colored Chotsie Sixth over Harold Wilson's Little Miss Canada Third, first in Wednesday night's heat, sent Mrs. Burlham into third place in the point standing. Wilson, Ingersoll, Ont., pilot, remained first, and Mortimer Auerbacher of Chicago was second.

Third and decisive heat will be staged to-night at 6.30 instead of 7 o'clock, over the 2½-mile course on Lake Ontario with the three leaders closely grouped.

YANKEES GAIN WITH 5-3 WIN

Cut Tigers' Lead to 5 1-2 Games With Detroit-Athletics Rained Out.

RED SOX ALSO TRIUMPH.

In the American League the Yanks and Red Sox managed to make up some ground they lost the day before without causing a great amount of excitement. While Detroit's doubleheader with the Athletics was rained out, the Yanks reduced the Tiger lead to 5½ games with a 5-3 decision over Chicago. The Yanks nicked Ted Lyons for four runs in the fourth to build up a 5-0 lead for Charley Ruffing but it took Johnny Murphy and Arndt Jorgens to protect it at the finish.

Ruffing Yanked in 9th

Ruffing, although pitching four-hit ball for eight innings, was nicked for a couple of unearned runs and then yielded three singles in the ninth. With the tying runs on base Murphy pitched to one batter and retired three men. He struck out Charley Uhlir and Jorgens caught Jimmy Dykes off second on the first strike and doubled Marty Hopkins trying to steal on the third.

The Red Sox evened their third-place struggle with Cleveland with a late attack that netted three runs in each of the last two innings and a 6-1 victory for Gordon Rhodes, who granted only seven hits.

BOUT DELAYED UNTIL TO-NIGHT OWING TO RAIN

McLarnin-Ross Welterweight Battle Postponed for 24 Hours.

NO BROADCAST.

Expected Delay Wil Increase Attendance to 50,000 Fight Fans.

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK, Sept. 7. (AP).—A delay of 24 hours was just what the doctor ordered as a tonic on the prospective gate for Barney Ross' 15-round welterweight title defense against Jimmy McLarnin in Madison Square Garden bowl.

Originally scheduled for last night, the fight was put over until to-night, weather permitting, because of a late afternoon downpour. Postponements usually are the bane of a fight promoter's precarious existence but this time it worked the other way.

50,000 Effected

Where a crowd of 35,000 had been fondest dream of the sponsors two days ago, there were predictions to-day that perhaps as many as 50,000 would make their way to the big Long Island arena. Given good weather during the day, it was figured late ducat-buyers might swell the receipts past the figure of $104,000 Ross and McLarnin drew last May when the speedy Chicagoan lifted Jimmy's 147-pound title on a split decision.

The postponement likewise resulted in a big swing in the betting odds from 7 to 5 Ross became a 9 to 5 favorite. The bookmakers had a ready answer for that one. They believe that McLarnin's 5% pound pull in poundage, as revealed by weighing-in ceremonies, will have been cut in half by the 24-hour delay. Ross, who scaled 140, probably will pick up three or or four pounds during the day while McLarning, at 145¾ pounds, was close to his best fighting weight yesterday and probably will attempt to keep it there.

No Broadcast

Under Commission rules, the principals will not have to weigh in again to-day but should a further posponement to to-morrow night be necessary, they will be put on the scales again to-morrow afternoon to make sure neither is above the class limit.

The main bout is scheduled for about 9 p.m. (Eastern Standard). There will be no broadcast.

CHICAGO DROPS 2ND STRAIGHT TO TERRY CLAN

N. Y. Pilot's Hit in 12th Breaks Up Mound Duel Between Parmelee and Lee.

CARDS KEEP PACE.

St. Louis Has Chance to Pull Up With Giants in New York Series Next Week.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there's any way of stopping those New Yorkers in their rush toward the National League pennant, Chicago Cubs apparently haven't discovered it. And that seems to leave things up to the Cardinals when they invade the Polo Grounds next week.

The Cubs managed to stretch things out over 12 innings yesterday but the result was just the same. They went down for the second time in succession, 2-1, and looked up at the leaders from a depth of nine games. St. Louis, however, kept pace with a 7-5 decision over Brooklyn although still seven games behind.

With only 22 more games to go for New York and 24 for St. Louis that began to look like a huge deficit with a clean sweep in the coming series about the only St. Louis hope.

Mound Duel

Leroy "Bud" Parmelee and Bill Lee, both trying to preserve perfect records against the day's rival, hooked up in the Giant-Cub duel and it came very close to being a draw. Augie Cain blasted a homer off Parmelee in the first inning and Travis Jackson and Hank Leiber solved Lee for a double and a single respectively in the fourth to knot the count.

That looked like the end of things as Parmelee granted only four more hits and Lee granted only six up to the deciding frame and rain threatened to halt proceedings in the 11th. Then Joe Moore started the ball rolling with a single after two were out in the 12th; Hugh Critz sent him to third with a two-bagger and Manager Bill Terry came up with another victory when he singled home the deciding run.

The Cardinals hopped off toward an easy victory when they clouted old Tom Zachary out with a five run outburst in the fourth but Brooklyn nearly turned the tables in the final inning by rapping Tek Carleton for three tallies before they finally were retired.

Pirates Extend Drive

Pittsburgh's Pirates extended their belated drive for a first division berth through their fifth straight victory when they attacked Ed Brandt for three runs in the first two innings and went on to beat the fourth - place Boston Braves 4-1 behind Ralph Birkoffer's seven hit flinging. Threatening weather led the Phillies and Reds to postpone their tilt.

BEARS MEET TORONTO IN LOOP SERIES

While Senators Clash With Rochester in First Set of Playoffs.

DATES ARRANGED.

(By The Associated Press)

The International League can begin preparations for its post-season play-offs to determine a representative in the little world series right now.

Albany clinched the fourth and last playoff position last night and the rest of the regular schedule, ending Sunday became a mere formality. The Senators, who created the major sensation of the race by finishing as high as fourth, now can see how far they can get in the playoffs against Newark, Rochester and Toronto.

On the basis of the present standings, Albany will battle second place Rochester and Newark, league champions, will play Toronto, third place club, in the first set of playoffs starting Tuesday. Both of these series as well as the finals between the two survivors will be best four out of seven.

The play-off dates:

Toronto vs. Newark—Sept. 11 and 12, at Newark; 13, 14, 15.. at Toronto; 16-17 at Newark.

Albany vs. Rochester—Sept. 11 and 12 at Rochester; 13, 14, 15 at Albany; 16, 17 at Rochester.

Albany clinched fourth place by trouncing Syracuse in a night game, 11-2, as Dick Barrett pitched six hit ball. The Senators hopped on Clarence Pickrell for five runs in the first inning and peppered him freely thereafter. Fred Sington's 29th homer was among Albany's 15 hits.

Buffalo, league champions last year, lost its last chance to beat out Albany by dropping a 4-3 verdict to Rochester. Tom Winsett solved Fabian Kowalik for a double and three singles. Norbert Kleinke pitched steady ball to win his 19th victory. Ollie Carnegie night was celebrated and the Bison outfielder received $1,000 from Buffalo's Italian fans.

The other two scheduled games were washed out.

Sports Regatta Held At Loon Lake

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, September 7. — The annual water sports regatta at Loon Lake, was held at George Johnston's on Labor Day, but was too late in the season for a large attendance, the majority of the tourists having returned home. It was expected, that being a holiday, the camp workers would have made up the deficiency, and provided competitors for the various races, but the men worked as usual so that the program was curtailed. Harry Freese of Detroit, and Rev. C. A. G. Spence, donated the prizes. A four mile course was buoyed out on the lake for the motor boat races (two classes) large and small. The row boat race, one mile, was on by Joe Cossar and Harry Andrew of Camp 6, Ken young and —— Trotter taking second prize. For small motors, Fraser Watson, of Peterborough, was first, Mr. Lyons second and George Johnston third.

AAJMAA-KIWANIS CLASH TO-NIGHT

Belleville Faces Three-Goal Deficit in Lacrosse Group Playoff.

The best lacrosse game seen here in two years is slated for tonight at 8.15 in the Armouries when the Belleville Aajmaa Club and Peterborough Kiwanis meet in the final game of the group playoffs. The local lacrossers have a three-goal lead and hope to win out on the round this evening and enter the O.A.L.A. playdowns. The visitors will be equally determined to wipe out that small lead and pull out a victory. With several more stars added to each squad, a fast, sparkling brand of play, packed with action, is promised in an ideal location, the Armouries. A big crowd is hoped for at this important game. This is what the Belleville writer said of the first game last Tuesday:

"The local Aajmaa boxia team took it on the chin last night, but not before they had given their Peterborough rivals a real tidy tussle....the Aajmaa players had more shots on net than did their rivals. Inability to score when in position and right down hard luck at other times cost them the game. The series is far from over as a three-goal lead is practically nothing at all. On the night's play, the Petes deserved the win as they played an excellent style of lacrosse and made each move count.

Archie Deyell Will Hurl In Third Game

Archie Deyell is the likely selection to do the Petes' pitching here tomorrow when the Belleville bunch tangle with the locals at three o'clock in Riverside Park. It will be the third game of the five-game C.O.B.L. playoffs and if the Petes win, this will wind up the series. If the Lee gang loses, a fourth game will be played in Belleville next Wednesday. Russ Kitchen hurled the Peterborough team to the first victory and Bill Calladine won the second. Deyell is ready to go in there and try to stop the opposition in three straight.

Jack (Chief) Williams will start for the Nats and the league's ace southpaw is liable to be in top form and fling one of his great games. Peeney Mills is banking on Williams coming through this time, and Jack is certainly due, having taken two bad lickings in a row. There is a possibility that should a relief pitcher be needed, Sonny Green—who did some lovely curve-ball relief throwing in the last game—may be sent in. Both outfits will be at full strength and ready to dish up a really smart brand of playoff ball. They deserve another big home crowd of rooters.

FRANK WILDE ELIMINATED.

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 6.—(A.P.)—John Van Ryn, former United States Davis Cup doubles player, accounted for the first elimination of a seeded star from the United States' tennis championships to-day when he defeated Frank Wilde 6-4, 6-2 in the third round of the annual tournament.

In the speed boat race Mr. Freese took first place, Monty Emmal second and Mr. Johnston of Hamilton third. During the afternoon a number of races for the young people were held, and altogether the event was a most enjoyable one, the weather being perfect.

ALLISON-WOOD ARE U. S. HOPES TO STOP PERRY

Frank Shields Top - ranking American, Unimpressive So Far in Series.

BRITISHER FAVORED.

(By Bob Cavagnaro, Associated Press Sports Writer)

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—It looks likt it's up to either Wilmer Allison or Sidney B. Wood, Jr., to stop Fred Perry's march to his second United States single tennis championship.

They both can't do it, because if form holds true they'll meet in the quarter final round and then there will be only one of them left.

Standing alone in the upper bracket, as the United States chief obstacle in Perry's path to the final, is Frank Shields, the top-ranking player. The tall New Yorker, however, has been unimpressive and at the rate has has been going may succumb to the stroking of the bounding Briton just as Carl Schwetkhardt, Martin Buxby and Jack Talbot have—in straight sets.

To-day's Draw

Allison was booked against Jack McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., in the fourth round to-day, and Wood was to encounter Marcel Rainville, Montreal Davic Cup player.

With Wood in the bottom of the draw is Frankie Parker, the Lawrenceville, N.J., schoolboy, who is waiting to meet the winner of the rained-out Roderich Menzel-Gregory S. Mangin match. Menzel and Mangin were to renew hostilities today with the giant Czech having the first set in his favor 8-6.

It's all a big headache, shared equally by officials of the U.S.-L.T.A., the competitors and the spectators. It wasn't bad enough that the rain had to break up the play yesterday, but George Lott was routed from the rolls in an upset by Edward W. Feibleman and when he went out of the tournament, committee not only lost one of its seeded players and chief threats to Perry's reign, but a major gate attraction as well.

TIGERS QUALIFY TO PLAY ORILLIA

Hamilton Mann Cup Champions Defeat Fergus With Final Rush.

FERGUS, Sept. 7.—Hamilton Tigers qualified to meet Orillia Terriers in the finals of the O.A.L.A. Senior championship, defeating Fergus Thistles here last night by a 6 to 4 score. For three periods it was a close struggle with the score tied at three-all entering the final frame, but the Thistles tired and Hamilton went on to gain a double win on the series, and advance in defence of the Ontario title and Mann Cup, won last year.

Mann Cup Finals My Be In Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 7 (C.P.)—If a Montreal team wins the Eastern Canadian lacrosse title, the finals for the Mann Cup, emblematic of Canadian lacrosse supremacy, will be played here, Dan McKenzie, of New Westminster, B.C., president of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, to-day promised local lacrosse heads.

The Coast has been making efforts to have the venue of the playoff changed from East to West.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C.J.P.

If you want to see more excitement than a spring housecleaning —without the accompanying discomforts—and more action than a pigpen presents along about lunchtime, why just amble up the line about 8.15 this eve, purchase a ducat and enter the Armouries. A redblooded, lively game called lacrosse is being played there between a team from Belleville with a name that sounds like the Pyjama Club and the Peterborough Kiwanis team. It's the final game of their group playoffs, with the locals three goals up and four quarters to go. No kidding, we expect it to be a sweet struggle.

• • • • • •

And tomorrow of course is the day for the third C.O.B.L. playoff tilt betwixt Belleville and ye Petes. It's at three in Riverside with the Lee laddies up two tussles already and hoping to wham through Mister Jawn Williams' deliveries to take their third straight. Looks like Archie Deyell will do our flinging, with Ross and Scriver there or thereabouts if needed. Don't sell the Nats short in this game, as the Chief has been known to knock over the old dope bucket before with his southpaw slants. Anyway, drop around and root the boys home.

• • • • • •

Yesterday we looked up the guy that bet us a week ago and offered to lay a few more potatoes on the Petes for tomorrow. He tries to put the bite on us for a two-spot first, but sadly agrees when he point out that newspaper guys are very poor prospects indeed for a young fellow to put the bite on for cash—as we practically do all our book-keeping on the cuff. "Well," he wells, "I will go up and down the main drag and see if I can maybe get my hooks on couple or three iron men somewhere. If I am in luck, I will be satisfied to take the attractive end of a 2 to 1 wager for all I got on Williams." However, something tells us he will have trouble nailing anyone for a loan in time. This depression is certainly tough on ambitious young guys.

It wont be long till things are stirring in rugby up around P.C.I. again. Coaches of the schools around this section of the Province will be getting together within a couple of weeks and making plans for the season, and the lads will start working out once more. The Garnet and Gray didn't have such a good season last year, but a huskier bunch is expected to wear the P.C.I. colors this time. But more again.

• • • • • •

Rain washed out the gals' softball games last p.m., so Keene and Westclox tackle each other again tonight in the village, while the Omemee lasses will meet C.G.E. in the Bowl on Monday. Both are replays. A tussle ala exhibish is slated for this eve at the Bowl—if Jupe Pluv acts the gentleman—with the Alerts of Fort Hope doing their stuff, or trying to, with our C.G.E. damsels. 'Tis hoped that something definite will be known of the playoff plans early next week. Seems that three or four teams still have a chance to qualify for the second-half money series.

The Moguls of Maul over around N'Yawk decided against staging the Ross-McLarnin fight last night due to inclement weather. If everything's oke, the bruisers will do battle this e'en, starting about nine bells. There will be no broadcast on this tussle. And if it rains again today, they'll simply postpone here again till Saturday. With arguments flying hither and yawn, we might just as well get in the middle of this one and pick the Irisher to win by a kayo in the early stages.

We see by the papers that the fifth annual southpaw golf tournament starts in Toronto Saturday with a large entry. We think these tourneys for left handers only are very commendable and should be encouraged. For one thing, it takes a number of portsiders off the streets, at least for a short time, and puts 'em in a field off by themselves where they can do no damage to normal people. And it must be a sight to behold to see a hundred or more wrong-side clubbers step to the tee and take off with the weapon in the same mitt that wields the fork at dinner time! We have a number of lefthanded friends and like them, despite the fact that a southpaw athlete is the most erratic animal outside the zoo. We do not even feel sorry for them—no, sah! Our sympathy most decidedly is with the poor righthander when there is a wrong-side flinger doing his stuff.

The T.A.B.A. senior winner is of much interest around this town now, since the Petes look like the team to meet the Toronto champ in a week or so. Several squads are still at it, and we still like the G. W. Grads to cop the mitt. The Findlay Darry team of the West Toronto loop has a chance of getting in there tomorrow when they oppose Kruschens of the Western City League. The Grads are the same crew that played an exhibition double-header here early this season. With Art Upper pitcher smart ball and the whole outfit travelling fast, the Ulster Stadium circuit representative appears the class of Toronto to us. But we doubt if they're a bit stronger than the Petes.

Picking 'em off the grapevine: Past Prexy Waghorne of the O.A.L.A. is expected here to referee the lacrosse playoff game tonight . . . . Cogs meet Kingston Hawks at three, standard time, at the Kingston Fair Grounds Sat'day . . . . Nothing doing for the local minor ball teams this week-end . . . . Petes' team hitting average, exclusive of playoffs, for '34 was .267, and they fielded .952 . . . . Capt. Fred Ash handled no less than 286 chanches, with only five errors, for a .983 mark . . . . No new dope on this O.R.F.U. idea for this town in a Central Ontario rugby loop . . . . Following our success last gloamin' in a corn eating contest at a swelegant Examiner gathering out near Cavan, we will challenge any two-fisted cob roller under two hundred pounds. Pearce May Abandon Aussie Sculling Race

HAMILTON, Sept. 7 (CP)—Bob Pearce, world's professional sculling champion, eagerly sought to compete in the special races programmed at the Centennial Celebration in Melbourne, Australia, this November, may be unable to accept the bid, he intimated to-day. Pearce will probably row against Eric Phelps in England if the latter succeeds in arranging for a £500 stake, the champion having promised this some time ago, and as the trip to Australia would require about three months, with several weeks of that time taken up in training, he thinks he could hardly spare the time.

GAINOR FOR MAROONS

CALGARY, Sept. 7 (CP)—Norman "Dutch" Gainor, mainstay of the Calgary Tigers in the Northwestern Professional Hockey League last winter, will don the uniform of the Montreal Maroons this season, according to Lloyd Turner, Tiger owner. Gainor will report to the Maroons about Oct. 10. He is now in hospital recovering from an operation for varicose veins but expects to be in good shape by the start of the season.

Lawn Bowling BY Herb Martin

It Is Not Very often that bowlers are lucky enough to score a possible eight in bowling on one end, and yet, looking over the records we find no less than 4 eight ends have been scored so far this season.

—o—

On The Opening Day, May 24th, Dr. Allan secured an 8 end at the expense of A. Brown. On May 25, Nelson Routley did the same thing to Jimmy Cullen, and then on Sept. 5 Benny Chesler got into the charmed circle when he got all there was to get at the expense of Reg. Dyer.

—o—

The Ladies, not to be outdone by the men, also got the habit and on Sept. 4 Mrs. DeLong captured the big 8 on Mrs. Jeffries. This may not appeal to some people as much of a feat—but it has the same effect as a baseball player hitting a home run with the bases loaded or a golfer securing that famous hole-in-one.

—o—

Early In The Spring when some of the interested bowlers were scouting around trying to sell bowling to a lot of prospects, we pointed out that everybody has an equal chance to win all there is and to become well adapted in this good old game.

—o—

We Do, from year to year, have a large number of new players, who do come in for their share of honor and glory, but this year we have one rookie member who appears to be in a class all by himself. Up until last year he never threw a bowl—and then just on the odd Friday night. We had a hard time inducing him to join, in fact had to almost force him: but now try and keep him away.

—o—

We Refer To Oscar McGill. By his constant and steady attendance and practise he has become one of the most promising young bowlers we have seen for some time. His record this year is one he might well be proud of.

—o—

It Is Hard Enough for any one of us to gather in one final in a year but when you succeed in getting in on four of them, why, we must admit it is a whole lot more than luck.

—o—

He Was Successful in winning the Leads and Seconds competition with S. T. McMillan as skip. He won the Novice single games sponsored by R. M. Glover. He is on George Coleman's rink who will be either third or fourth in the club schedule, and he also is playing second on the rink that will represent Peterborough next week in the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association tournament.

—o—

We Must Admit that this is a record that will take some beating and we offer hearty congratulations to our friend Oscar.

—o—

We Hope We Have not been too previous with all this, as we see there are a couple of more competitions yet, and maybe Oscar might win those. Who knows? Anyway here's hoping.

—o—

Now It Looks as if the weather is going to fair up for to-night, we will pass on the same old line: Be on time; 'phone your name; and bring a quarter with you.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Arndt Jorgens, Yankees—Protected 5-3 lead against Chicago rally in ninth with two great throws for putouts at second base.

Roy Parmelee, Giants—Limited Cubs to five hits in 12-inning struggle, fanning nine.

OTTAWA TRANSFER START HOCKEY WAR

American Hockey Association Will Also Operate Team in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—Resumption of "war" between the National League and American Association hockey organizations was indicated yesterday by Frank G. Wainwright, President of the Association Club in St. Louis.

Wainwright asserted the plan to transfer the Ottawa National League club to St. Louis this fall would not prevent the American circuit from operating here.

The American Association, he explained, plans to invade Chicago and place teams in Milwaukee and Cincinnati. It is understood an agreement between the two circuits, made two years ago, expires on Sept. 24, at which time a meeting of the National League has been called to pass officially on the transfer of the Ottawa club.

During the last "war" the American Association, then the American League, attempted to operate as a major circuit. Charles G. Norris, now owner of the Detroit National League francise, then was interested in an American club in Chicago.

Last yea rthe American Association season ended with four clubs: St. Louis, Kansas City, Tulsa, and Oklahoma City.

MOUNT DENNIS LOSES ROUND

ORILLIA, Sept. 7 (CP)—Orillia Terriers qualified to meet Hamilton in the final round of the O.A.L.A. Senior championship by winning from Mount Dennis here last night by a score of 14 to 7. This gave Orillia the round in two straight games.

LEAFS GET CHOICE OF YOUNG PLAYERS

Several Promising Youths Are Allotted to Toronto by Cincinnati.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Rain caused the postponement of last night's game at the Stadium between the Maple Leafs and the Montreal Royals, but, weather permitting, the game will be held this evening. The series will close with a single game tomorrow night, which will be featured by the honoring of Manager Ike Boone. Already, Toronto baseball fans are responding to the call to make this an eventful occasion for the popular pilot of the Leafs, and a big crowd is assured.

Leafs Get Youngsters

By way of Cincinnati, Toronto club officials learned yesterday that they had obtained several young players for trials next spring. From the Jeannette Club of the Penn State Association Pitchers Lloyd Moore and Stewart Chester will be taken. Moore has ten victories against three defeats so far this season. Pitcher Frank Werk has been obtained from Bartlesville, the club in the Western Association with which Keith Frazier started his career in organized baseball. Wilmington, in the Piedmont League, gives up First-Baseman Leslie Scarsella, Catcher Johnny Peacock and Infielder Claude Staylor, while Beckley, in the Middle Atlantic League will lost Lee Gamble to the Leafs.

Crouch and Cook Recalled

In addition to these players, the Toronto Club has recalled for next season Earl Cook from Beckley; Mayo Smith and Eddie Wineapple, southpaws, from Wilmington. Jack Crouch will also report next spring to Toronto.

Dallas Patton, a likely looking outfielder, now with Wilkes-Barre in the N.Y.P. League, also belongs to the Leafs, and will report next spring.

Cincinnati has a great array of youngsters scattered throughout the minor leagues, and as the Toronto Club is the only Class AA one affiliated with the Reds, the Leafs should be able to get a fine selection of young players for next year.

OWEN SOUND GIRLS WIN

OSHAWA, Sept. 7.—Oshawa Malleable Iron girls dropped a close 19 to 12 decision to Owen Sound Wawanekas in the first game of the second round play-offs of the Women's Provincial Softball Association at the Motor City Stadium here last night.

Thumbnail History Of America's Cup

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 (A.P.) — Charges of fraud, a collision and a protest brought the America's cup series of 1866 to an unhappy ending which saw the British challenger withdraw his entry before the series was officially completed.

It began with the first race. The defending defender had outsailed Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie III by more than eight minutes.

The British challenger complained that the defender had sailed on a longer waterline than the one shown by her measurements. He tempered the charge by expressing belief that the change might have been made without the owners' knowledge.

Both boats were hauled out of the water and measured. Defender's waterline varied one-eighth of an inch and Valkyrie's a 16th.

Defender Protests

At the start of the second race Valkyrie's main boom raked defender's starboard shrouds and pulled the topmast shroud out of the spreader. Defender ran up a protest flag but the challenger did not heed it.

The disabled defender decided to try to make a race of it and trailed Valkyrie across the finish line by more than one minute. After the race C. Oliver Iselin protested in behalf of the American yacht. The cup committee found Valkyrie at fault and awarded the race to defender.

Angered by the decision, Dunraven brought his challenger out for the third race and after Valkyrie had crossed the starting line her skipper jammed her tiller hard down and headed back to port, withdrawing from the series.

Defender sailed the course alone.

CHAPTER 33

In the great dining room, the old butler drew out Adelaide's chair at the head of the table for Joan. He knew what was due the new mistress. He thought she suited it well, and told Farley so afterwards.

"It's the black chiffon and the pearls," Farley said complacently, "and the way I do her hair."

But old Jason knew it was more than that. He saw in this child, dignity and simplicity. She was more of a great lady than Adelaide had ever been.

That night before they went to bed, Joan spoke to Penelope of the Hallams. "They are coming to the funeral. I am not sure they know I am here," she hesitated, "Penelope, it's going to be a little hard to meet Drew."

"Why, my dear?"

"Because, he's treated me very badly."

"I know."

"If he had really loved me, he couldn't have kept away, and now I have all this money. Oh, Penelope, he'll want to do it, and I mustn't."

Her face was white, her voice tense. Penelope said, soothingly: "Don't think of it, my darling."

"But I must think."

When the Hallams came on Monday, Joan was in the library at the head of the great stairs, where the family was assembled. The gathering was an imposing one. The relatives were, most of them, distant ones, but without exception they were prosperous, and against the setting of rich dark woods, and old portraits and leather bound books, they took on an air of formality and conservatism which made Nancy's russet hair and somewhat spectacular attire seem out of place. The pair attracted much attention as they came in, and Joan was aware that Drew's good looks were intensified by the somber clothes that he wore and in which she had never seen him.

There were so many people about that their meeting could be only a conventional one, yet the clasp of Drew's hand was tight on hers, and as always she was thrilled by his touch. But she gave no sign of it. She was very pale, and the whiteness was emphasized by the close black hat that she wore. There were shadows under her eyes. Watching her, Drew said in his heart, "My sweet."

"How do you know?"

"Farley told me."

All through the services Drew had that to think of. That Joan was rich. And that she had had no welcome for him.

Joan, on the night of the funeral, in Adelaide's place at the head of the table, was aware that in the eyes of the major portion of her guests she was an intruder. Just before dinner, the will had been read, and the assembled relatives had learned she was heiress to her aunt's estate. While it was not unexpected, they had felt, almost without exception, a sense of resentment. Joan was, perhaps, the logical legatee, but it seemed a bit absurd, that this child with her short skirts and her modish bun of dark hair at the back of her head, should be taking precedence of them all.

The exception to those who resented it was one of Adelaide's own cousins. She remembered Adelaide as a loving girl. She remembered her before the old days of her marriage and of the display of creamy shoulders. She remembered her when the two of them had dreamed together, and because of these dreams, the little old lady said to Joan: "I know why she left everything to you, my dear. She wanted to live in your heart as she lives in mine. None of the rest of them have hearts to live in."

And Joan, looking into the faded eyes had said, "I am sorry I didn't know how much she loved me. I might have been kinder."

"You were kind enough, child. In these later years she shut herself up in a shell of selfishness. But that was not the real Adelaide. The real one was the girl I knew."

The Hallams were dining with the rest of them, and they were to spend the night in the big house. Nancy had asked, casually, "Have you room for us, Joan?"

"Of course."

"Then we'll stay here if you don't mind."

Joan and Drew had had a moment alone on their return from the funeral, and he had said, looking down at her as she stood with averted eyes, "Haven't you forgiven me?"

"Please, let's not talk about it, Drew."

He had tried to take her hand, but with a very definite gesture of refusal, she had stepped back.

"Are you as hard as that, my sweet?"

Tears had filled her eyes. "I am not hard . . . but you hurt me dreadfully. And Aunt Adelaide's death makes everything different."

Other people had arrived just then, and there had been no further opportunity for private conversation. Yet now at dinner, Joan had to admit she was glad Drew and Nancy were with her. Their presence saved her from a sense of utter desolation. Penelope had elected to eat upstairs. "I shall be much happier, my dear, than with that bunch of stiff-necks."

"But after this, Penelope, you're not to stay away."

"As you please, but tonight I'd rather."

Nancy's russet head shone brightly amid the gray coiffures and shining baldness of the elderly guests. She and Drew, expertly and pleasantly, helped Joan carry the dinner through successfully, so that she had a sense of gratitude and co-operation, as if the three of them were divided against the hostility of the others. For now there were no exceptions to those who resented her presence. The old cousin who had loved Adelaide had gone home. "I shall have tea and toast and memories in my own big house, my dear. Come and see me some day. I want no one else who is here, but you."

After dinner they all went into the frosty drawing room, and coffee was served. To Joan the whole scene seemed utterly unreal—with Jason moving about in the frigid light of the crystal chandelier, with the men in their black coats and the women in their sedate gowns, and with herself the center of it all.

There had been some bequests to the relatives, but the house with all its furniture was Joan's. She did not really want it, but there it was, and the chances were that she would live in it. She found herself wondering what she could do to lessen the effect of frozen monotony—flowers, perhaps, loads of them . . .

An old gentleman was telling of balls and dinner parties when Adelaide was a belle and a beauty.

Joan asked idly, "Why aren't there any belles in these days?"

"The type was different, my dear, more imposing, if I may say it." The old gentleman remembered Adelaide's coming-out party—her sweeping train of pink satin, lace flounces, rose garlands, white gloves and bracelets, a necklace and fan, a shawl and headdress. Things had been more spectacular in the sixties. This child was charming but,—his mind went inevitably to Tennyson for comparison—"as water unto wine."

It was Drew, watching Joan from the other side of the room, yet not daring to watch—who saw her poised, alert. "With the right dressmaker in Paris . . . with a year or two of Continental residence . . . she'll come back to take the world by storm."

THE STARS SAY . . .

For Saturday, September 8

A propitious aspect between major planets should incite to gain and advantage in important projects, or in increase of property or real possessions. Or possibly a substantial mark of preferment from those in high places. However, there is a sign of some subtle or secret machinations which it would be well to be alert to. This may be in the nature of intrigue, mystery or strategy in connection with mergers, rings, or secret societies. Social correspondence may promote happiness or general welfare.

Those whose birthday it is may be justified in expecting a substantial increase in their fortunes, with real possessions, mining, etc., under excellent prospects. An ellement of secrecy or intrigue, particularly in connection with secret orders, combines or of mergers. Social or romantic correspondence should be pleasant.

A child born on this day should be gracious, generous, kindly and perhaps fond of the curious, secret, subtle and occult.

Woman Allowed Bail On Assault Charge

TRURO, N.S., Sept. 8 (C.P.).—Free on $8,000 bail, Mrs. Mary Fielding awaited trial to-day on two charges of assaulting Buddy Dewey while the two-year-old boy recovered at a relative's home from beatings alleged to have been administered while he was in the accused woman's care.

Bruises and welts on the youngster's body were described by Dr. William MacDonald as having been caused by some instrument striking him with force. His mother, Mrs. Irving Dewey, charged in a warrant issued yesterday that they had resulted from beatings delivered by Mrs. Fielding. Buddy was in her care for some weeks while his mother worked in a Truro factory to support herself and the boy.

Ancient Butcher's Shop Unearthed Revealing Glimpse Of Early Britons

DORCHESTER, England, Sept. 8 (C.P. Cable).—Goods of primitive tradesmen who bartered with Britian "housewives" 2,500 years ago, were unearthed to-day at Maiden Castle near here.

In an ancient butcher's shop were found remains of joints of beef, mutton, pork and kid. An ancient arsenal still contains 2,000 sling stones.

The fellow who must have been the hardware dealer in the ancient settlement left a piece of forgotten chalk with which presumably he cast up his accounts. Crude instruments were scattered around.

The relics were taken from an early British pit dwelling place over which, five centuries later, the Romans built a temple. A manicure set and a pair of bronze nail cleaners were among the articles unearthed.

GEHRINGER BEST INFIELDER TO COMPETE IN LEAGUE ACCORDING TO FRANK NAVIN

Detroit Second Baseman Holds Highest Niche in Affections of Tiger Owner Along With Cobb, Heilmann, Veach and Crawford.

By BOB MURRAY

Since 1904—30 years packed with chills, spills, thrills, and, I guess, bills—Frank J. Navin has seen 'em come and go from the big concrete baseball palace down on Michigan avenue.

A lot of action and drama has been crowded into those years. Many of the game's greatest stars have stuck spiked shoes into the turf of Navin Field. Some of them, it is true, have passed on to baseball's Valhalla. But the records of all, at least in the memory of Frank Navin, linger on.

Frank Navin put aside all immediate world cares and took a stroll down memory's lane. He turned back the years thoughtfully, carefully and, at times, tenderly.

He recalled many of Cobb's immortal diamond feats. As Frank Navin rambled along you could almost see the great Georgian going into second with his sharp spikes gleaming in the sun. At other times he pictured Cobb in one of his reckless fighting moods. And you can put it down, and keep it there, that Frank Navin probably knows Cobb better than any other living man.

Navin calls Cobb "my greatest star," and unquestionably takes great pride in the fact that he was associated with the Georgia Peach as he made baseball history.

But Navin never gets excited when talking about Cobb. It's sorta a cold rehearsal of fact. Then he will come to Heilmann and Crawford. Both of those men rank high in Frank Navin's mental memoirs. And Veach and Blue—say, he almost rises to salute when those names are mentioned.

But when the whole scale of shooting stars has been run, Frank Navin comes to one name and there he halts—Charley Gehringer.

He'll stand and cheer with you for Cob. Frank Navin will give you reams of copy about Donie Bush. Heilmann stands at the top of his outfield list. There will be kind words for Veach, and George Burns, and Wally Pipp, and Jackie Travener and scores of others.

Noblest Of All

But there's one name that gives the business-like Navin a choking in the throat. There is a name that tugs and tears at his heartstrings. There is one Tiger, unquestionably, that heads the class in his affections. That Tiger, the noblest Roman of them all, is Charley Gehringer.

"The game has never known a second-baseman like him," declared Navin. "He has everything—positively everything. His personal habits, his poise and finesse on the diamond, his influence on the other players—a, there you go getting me started again."

It was a touching experience to hear Frank J. Navin talk about Charley Gehringer. It was one man speaking of another. And when men say things about one another—well, there is always a sort of helplessness about the whole thing. They want to put so much in words. Often they put so little.

That is Frank J. Navin. It is my opinion that Cobb, Heilmann, Crawford, Veach and Gehringer hold the biggest niches in the veteran Detroit owner's heart—but the kingpin of them all is handsome, black-haired Charley Gehringer, the outstanding second baseman of the generation.

Deserves Award

Incidentally, and this comes from me, not Mr. Navin, if Gehringer isn't voted "the most valuable player award of the American League" this season then they might as well melt the trophies and turn them over to President Roosevelt to aid in his silver program. There's only one second baseman in baseball today—Charley Gehringer. The rest, as compared to him, immediately relegate themselves to the list of also rans.

MEDICAL SERVICE SUIT DISMISSED

Judge McGibbon Disposes of Action Against City.

An action brought against the City of Peterborough in Division Court to-day by Dr. Herbert Young to collect a bill for $25 for medical services to William Montgomery was dismissed with costs by Judge J. A. McGibbon.

In his judgment, His Honor stated that the evidence showed that Montgomery had been grievously injured when he attempted to hold-up a local service station, and was struck down by the operator. Constable John Thompson called Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H. and City Physician to attend the injured man, but Dr. Young instructed the officer to summon his son, Dr. Herbert Young.

"It appears that Dr. T. W. H. Young as City Physician had among his duties the care of the indigent sick, or such cases as this was. The constable did what was required and was instructed by Dr. Young to call his son. I have no other course but to dismiss the case."

His Honor stated there were two angles to the case—the legal and the humanitarian, and he advised that some settlement should be made.

Foundered Steamer Midland Salvaged

MIDLAND, Ont., Sept. 7 (CP)—Her sides covered with canvas and planking from stern to midships, the Midland City was in Midland Harbor to-day after being raised by the Burke Towing and Salvage Company of Midland from the 28 feet of water near Midland Point in which she had settled, stern first, with her prow sticking seven feet in the air. She was beached by her crew a week ago Sunday.

The passenger steamer, which operates on the Georgian Bay 30,000 Island route, had a hole six inches wide and a foot long torn in her three-inch plank bottom, when she struck a rock while returning from a Sunday afternoon cruise with 150 passengers aboard. Although her propellers were also damaged, the vessel succeeded in making shallow water near the mainland, under her own power, and all passengers were landed without mishap.

BOY IS KILLED BY AUTO

EAST WINDSOR, Sept. 7 (CP)—Joseph Ondracka, 6, was instantly killed yesterday when struck by an auto near his home here. Preoccupied by a penny whistle he had just bought, the lad dashed in front of a car driven by Dimitry Hawreluk, East Windsor, who is being held while police investigate.

NUMBER 393

When a fellow apologizes for a mistake you're inclined to forgive him. But, when he repeats the same mistake within a matter of seconds you're bound to think him a bit insincere.

This reasoning doesn't hold in golf. Here's a game where all mistakes should be overlooked as soon as the alibi about intentions is given. A golfer will swear that he was doing certain things in his swing.

Confront him with picture proof to the contrary and he'll still argue: "Well, I thought I was doing it rightly."

If you want to stop kidding yourself go by what you do, not what you intend to do.

NUMBER 395.

A golfer must have good legs.

In fact, he needs his legs and feet as much as a fighter, a baseball, football or a tennis player. But few of those playing the Scotch game realize this.

The office worker uses his legs very little all week and then expects to break par on Saturdays and Sundays.

His legs let him down. They cause much damage to his swing that he doesn't see.

Certainly, these members must be in good shape to maintain the proper body balance and to carry out the right moves as he swings his arms and hands.

Almost any exercise, particularly walking, to keep the legs in trim, will help your swing.

ELUSIVE GANG BOASTS POLICE WIRES TAPPED

Even Hepburn Warned—Told to Silence Press Else It Would be 'Too Bad.'

$5,000 REWARD OUT.

Death Threat Notes Describe Officers' Efforts as "Not Worth a Damn."

TORONTO, Sept. 8—(CP) — Police today clung to the trail of a band of kidnappers who boasted of tapping police wires and who described officers' efforts as not "worth a damn." A reward of $5,000 for information leading to the apprehenson of the men who kidnapped John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer, was the latest move of Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck.

The Attorney General marshalled the forces of the law in the hunt for the gangsters, two of whom are reported as definitely known to police, while a close study was made of three fingered Abe's ransom note, found in Labatt's abandoned car in London the morning of Aug. 14. It was on Aug. 17 that the kidnap victim was released on Toronto outskirts after being held for 60 hours in a small cottage near Bracebridge in the Muskoka country. The ransom, written to Hugh Labatt, brother of John, read:

"Mr. Hugh Labatt we are holding your brother John for one hundred and fifty thousands dollars ransom. Go to Toronto immediately and register in the Royal York hotel. We will negotiate with you from that point. Be prepared when I get in touch with you there to furnish me the names of two or three reliable parties who you can trust to deliver this money to us. We advise you to keep this matter away from police and newspapers so as we can return your brother safely. You will know me as Three Fingered Abe."

The note was printed in awkward letters and punctuation was missing.

Crash In B.C. Prison Kills 2 Inmates

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. Sept. 8.—(CP)—Investigation was started today into the collapse of scaffolding which cost the lives of two prisoners and critically injured a third at the federal penitentiary here yesterday.

Later today an inquest into the double fatality will be conducted. There were no indications whether the inquest would be completed or adjourned until some time next week to permit further investigation.

Col. H. W. Cooper, warden, in an official statement last night, said J. D. McDonald and Herbert Ross were injured fatally when the scaffolding collapsed. Jack Hyslop, another prisoner, was badly injured and is now in the Royal Columbian Hospital.

The scaffolding had been constructed by the men themselves while they were replacing a window in the cell block of the penitentiary. All three were hurled 30 feet to the cement corridor.

FERRY LURCHES INJURING FIFTY EXCURSIONISTS

Craft Trying to Turn Back to Rochester Struck Broadside by Waves.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT.

Extensive Damage to C. N. R. Vessel—Passengers Rochester Residents.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 8.—(A. P.)—Two persons were seriously hurt, 50 received minor injuries and a gay moonlight lake excursion thrown into a near panic early today when a large wave struck a Canadian National Railways car ferry broadside as it tried to turn around during a gale.

Most of the 552 passengers were hurled from their feet, furniture was tumbled about the dining rooms and decks, and a great deal of damage was done to the vessel. Two of the three bars were disabled when pipes were torn loose.

The most seriously injured were:

Gertrude Emmons, 32, possible fractured pelvis.

Harried Seguin, 35, possible punctured lung.

Rudolph Graf, 29, sprained back.

Carl Cohn, 35, possible fractured leg.

Physicians treated virtually all the others at the docks and sent them to their homes. Most of the passengers were residents of Rochester.

The accident occurred about seven or eight miles off the entrance of the port of Rochester about three hours after the party had set out on its Lake Ontario cruise.

Special Trip.

The ferry was the Ontario No. 2, a regular lake vessel, chartered by the group for the excursion. Most of the passengers were residents of Rochester.

Most of the accident victims were treated at the docks when the vessel arrived. Two were taken to hospitals.

Captain Charles E. Redfern said that when the ferry was about seven or eight miles off shore a sudden wind came up and increased almost to gale velocity. He said he finally decided to turn back and that it was while the vessel was turning that the accident occurred.

It suddenly rolled violently, he stated, as it was struck by the rough waters. He attributed the rolling of the vessel to lack of cargo.

SAILOR CLAIMS FIRE STARTED IN SHIP LIBRARY

Says Crew Called Out After Deck Watch Beaten by Flames.

NO PRESSURE FOR HOSE.

SPRING LAKE, N.J., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Six members of the crew of the steamship Morro Castle said today that the fire in which more than 200 persons were believed to have lost their lives, started in the library in the fore part of the ship and that it was not struck by lightning.

All these crew members, whose names could not be learned, said the fire spread so swiftly to midships that they believed few of the passengers below deck were able to make their way out.

One seaman was ordered by an officer to stop talking, just after he had related how the deck watch had tried to subdue the fire in the library and finally turned out the crew.

This seaman said that when the crew broke out the fire hose they found there was no pressure and the flames rapidly swept the length of the ship.

Another seaman said that when "we were called out and ran upstairs we found the whole midships blazing. We couldn't get through the halls to call the passengers as it was all blazing inside. So we ran along the deck, smashing windows on the outside.

"The lifeboats on our side of the vessel were put off all right but you couldn't get them off on the other side.

There were 12 boats on our side."

He did not say whether the inability to get the boats off on one side was due to a list or flames.

HEENAN FORWARDS $104 FOR PRIVATE CAR TRIP

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Hon. Peter Heenan's Northern Ontario trip on the private car, Whitney, did not cost the province one cent, Premier Hepburn declared yesterday, following cabinet council.

"There has been plenty of criticism of so-called extravagance in allowing a cabinet minister to use a private railroad coach," said the premier to the press. "Well, this trip cost $104 and Mr. Heenan has sent the department his personal cheque to cover this amount."

FRENZIED BY SMOKE 200 PASSENGERS DIED DEAF TO CREW'S PLEA

Refused to Follow Crew Through Smoke to Lifeboats.

SAILOR'S STATEMENT.

Cinders and Wall of Smoke Terrified Crowd on Deck.

SPRING LAKE, N.R., Sept. 8. — (AP)—The two hundred or more passenger of the Steamship Morro Castle, who met death aboard the flaming ship eight miles at sea early today, died because of their refusal to enter the lifeboats, members of the crew of the vessel said today.

Twenty-five members of the crew, interviewed separately, told practically the same story.

It was a tale of horror, of men and women frenzied by the raging flames and thick pall of smoke, resisting all attempts of the sailors to get them into the lifeboats and to safety. The seamen insisted that practically all passengers could have been saved if they had followed orders.

Seaman Tells Story

Leroy Kelsey, a seaman from Albany, N.Y., dramatically described the scene aboard the big ship, inbound from Havana, as fire broke out in the eerie early morning with a stiff northeaster blowing.

The crew had succeeded in getting all passenger on deck, Kelsey said, despite the inferno which raced through the superstructure after starting in the library in the fore of the ship.

Terrorized By Smoke

Flames licked out across the several decks, smoke—kept down by the heavy weather assailed the nostrils of the men and women who had been aroused from their slumbers and ordered on deck in night clothing and hastily donned garments.

The crew urged them to cross the decks and enter the boats. Sparks and cinders fell about them. The wall of smoke grew heavier and the passengers becoming frenzied refused to risk the few short steps needed to take them to the rail and safety in the boats.

"They refused to go through the smoke and flames," Kesley said. "We pleaded with them. We tried to herd them but few of them would go. Many even tried to fight past us and get back down the ladders to the lower deck.

"Finally we were forced to take to the boats without them as the sparks and cinders were burning the ropes."

Kelsey, a well spoken man of 27,

TO BE RENEWED LATER.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—(C. P. Cable via Reuters.)— Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada to-day declared himself "very satisfied" with progress so far in new trade negotiations with the French government.

The Canadian Prime Minister, who leaves Paris this evening to attend the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, opened discussions yesterday, with Lucien Lamoureux, French Minister of Commerce, on commercial questions of mutual interest to Canada and France. Reciprocal lowering of duties on Canadian wheat and French wines were understood to be initial subjects of discussions, which will be carried on by officials during Premier Bennett's absence.

Premier Bennett said he hoped to resume the conversastons as soon as could return from Geneva, perhaps three weeks hence. Until the conversations reach some definite point, it was understood, nothing will be divulged regarding the exact nature of the questions under examination.

MANY CANADIANS THOUGHT TO BE ABOARD; CAPTAIN DIES FEW HOURS BEFORE TRAGEDY.

BY WILLIAM O'SULLIVAN
Deck Storekeeper of the Morro Castle
(Copyright, 1934, by the A. P.)

SPRING LAKE, N.J., Sept. 8.—I was asleep when the fire broke out on the Morro Castle this morning, but the fire gong awakened me and I went to my station on the starboard side of the ship.

One of the men told me lightning struck the ship and set an oil tank on fire.

By the time I reached the deck the whole midships was burning as far up as the boat deck. It seemed that only the after part of the ship was clear.

We tried to fight the fire with hose from the boat deck but it was no use. The flames had such a hold and were burning so fiercely that it was impossible to stop them.

Someone shouted to me "There's a woman in that room."

I broke into the stateroom and tried to find her, but I couldn't see anybody there and the smoke drove me out.

In all the time we were fighting the fire I don't remember seeing any passengers. Some people jumped overboard, but I don't know if they were passengers or members of the crew.

Most Were Asleep.

Most of the passengers and crew were asleep when the lightning struck and I don't see how very many of them were able to escape. We were given order to launch boats from the starboard side of the boat and 11 of us got into one boat and got away. Six boats were launched from the starboard side. I don't believe any were able to get away from the port side because the wind was blowing the flames over that side.

We stood by for awhile looking for people in the water, but didn't see any. There was a heavy ground swell running and we had trouble standing by.

The ship was like a furnace by this time and was burning from one end to the other. I tried to see if anybody was on deck but I couldn't see anybody.

I remember seeing the chief officer on bridge while we were fighting the fire. The captain died last night from a heart attack and the chief officer was in charge of the ship whe nthe fire broke out.

We stood by for about 15 minutes and then made for shore. We didn't see anybody in the water as we pulled away.

Graphic Description

Dr. Charles Cochrane of Brooklyn, who came ashore in a boatload of survivors, gave a graphic description of the scene which greeted his eyes as he turned out of his cabin in the pitch blackness of night.

"The front part of the ship was all aflame," he said. "I do not believe any passenger who got caught in the hold or cabin at any point in the ship beyond the library had a chance of escaping."

Shipping along the Atlantic Coast was stunned by import of the Morro Castle's broken "S.O.S", and though the liner was in the heart of one of the greatest shipping regions in the world there was not a ship nearby.

As coastguards and police battled in heart-breaking failure to beat their way in launches through the surf and raging white-capped seas, those members of the crew escaping from below managed to lower life boats from one side of the flaming vessel.

SPRING LAKE, N.J., Sept. 8. — Fire, terror of the sea, swept the passenger liner Morro Castle in the storm shrouded darkness just at dawn today barely eight miles offshore from Asbury Park, N.J.

Five and one-half hours later more than 300 of the 558 passengers and crew were unaccounted for.

"SOS — Morro Castle fire off Scotland Light—,"

The first frantic "SOS" was picked up at 3:32 a.m. E.S.T. So swiftly did the roaring flames envelope the vessel, with its 318 sleeping passengers enroute home to New York after a seven-day excursion to Havana, that the ship soon was aflame from stem to stern.

Shortly after 10 a.m. E.S.T., fewer than 250 survivors had been landed or picked up by nearby steamers racing to the rescue.

Bodies were visible in the water off the beach and others started to coast ashore at Sandy Hook, N.J. Surf boats from the Coast Guard stations along the Jersey shore pushed through the heavy seas in search of survivors.

The blaze started apparently in the library, according to some of the members of the crew reaching shore in a life boat. It spread to the great tanks of fuel oil and enveloped the 11,520-ton liner in a pillar of flame visible along the Jersey Coast.

Members of the crew, until stopped by officers, told of the deck watch attempting to check the flames alone and calling out the crew only to find low water pressure in the fire hose.

The raging flames, gaining a quick start in the inflammable curtains, drapes, tapestries and heavy rugs in the library, spread so rapidly that the superstructure was in flames from fore to aft before passengers could get up the ladders.

Wind swept the flames and acrid smoke to the port side so that it was possible to put off but half of the ships lifeboats. Six of these beached along the shore.

Few Reach Boats

In mute and pitiful evidence of the failure of many of those aboard to reach the safety, life boat after life boat landed with barely a crew to fill it. The Morro Castle's boats had a capacity of 70.

The Morro Castle left Havana Wednesday night. Last night her commander, Captain Robert Willmot, died from a heart attack, leaving the vessel in command of Chief Officer W. F. Warms when she caught fire.

First to reach the blazing ship was the Monarch of Bermuda, crack Furness liner. She took off 64 persons. Next was Andrea F. Luckenbach, who picked up 23 persons and wirelessed ashore to have ambulances waiting.

Reaching the scene then were the President Cleveland and the City of Savannah.

Lifeboats were launched and those landing along the Jersey coast reported they had drifted beside the blazing ship for an hour without seeing any bodies or survivors.

Then, out of the fog and rain lashing the shore in the dull gray dawn, came the pitifully thin stream of survivors in life boat—and two who swam safely ashore.

Little time was given immediately to handling of the bodies, all attention being turned to caring for the exhausted survivors. Ambulances were rushed in, first aid stations were set up, the Red Cross provided clothing and townswomen set about furnishing food and hot drinks.

A few persons were taken to hospitals at Asbury Park and Neptune, but so far as could be determined none suffered more serious injuries than cuts, abrasions, exposure and slight burns.

A hurricane is whipping the Atlantic, and north-east gale warnings have been posted along the coast where the Morro Castle caught fire. The sea was not especially heavy, however, though members of

LAKE CITY, S.C., Sept 8. (I.N.S.)—Three bandits Thursday laid siege to the home of J. Hoyt Carter, president of the Palmetto State Bank, holding his family under the muzzle of a machine gun for more than an hour before kidnapping him and another official and robbing the bank of more than $100,000.

After taping the wrists of the two small Carter children, tying them to their beds and locking them in, the bandits forced Carter and his wife to accompany them to the bank, just as the time clock on the vault released the tumblers. They took all the currency in the vault.

The loss was fully covered by insurance, Carter announced.

There was an unusually large sum in the vault, due to the tobacco market which is in progress here.

HUNDREDS PERISH SIX BOATS ESCAPE

3 Girls, 11 Sailors Land

ASBURY PARK, N.J., Sept. 8. (AP)—Fourteen persons, three women passengers and eleven members of the crew, landed here in a lifeboat at 6 a.m. to-day from burning passenger liner Morro Castle.

Five of them were injured and were taken to the Fitkin-Monmouth Memorial Hospital.

The injured were.

The others were uninjured.

Hospital attaches did not obtain their names.

Miss Laroche, however, identified the other two women saved with her as Louise Taubert, of Providence, R.I., and Florence Robert, of Pawtucket, R.I. She was unable to furnish addresses for them.

Miss Laroche was unable to tell more about the disaster than that they were aroused when lightning struck the ship. After a few moments, she said, the three girls were pushed into the lifeboat with the 11 members of the crew.

100 Reach Shore

SEA GIRT, N.J., Sept. 8 (AP)—More than 100 survivors from the steamship Morro Castle, which burned off shore early to-day, were landed here.

All of them, members of the crew and passengers, were in lifeboats of the ship; none of the Coastguard boats which put out having returned.

Fifteen or twenty of those who came ashore were taken to hospitals for treatment for minor injuries.

Ambulances and first aid equipment from all along the North Jersey coast were rushed to this vicinity to care for the survivors.

The names of survivors first obtained were:

Mrs. Renee Mendez Capote, of the Department of Public Education, Havana.

Miss Florence Roberts, of Pawtucket, R.I.

A Miss Conway, of Brooklyn

Borne in by the heavy northeast storm the lifeboats were beached and willing hands of volunteer workers aided in the unloading.

Those landed here were taken first to police headquarters where clothing in the possession of the local Red Cross chapter was distributed.

Women of the town quickly organized and started serving hot coffee and food to the men and women.

An indication of the sweep of the storm was given when a power boat from the Manasquan Coastguard station was forced to return to Swan Inlet after battling the sea for two hours and getting only one and one half miles off shore.

Many of those landed were in their night clothing and numbers were suffering from shock and exposure.

Only 5 Passengers.

SPRING LAKE, N.J., Sept. 8. — (A.P.).—Eighty of the 85 persons who landed along the north Jersey shore from the steamship Morro Castle were reported to be officers and members of the crew.

The only exceptions which first reports indicated were three women landed at Asbury Park, a Dr. Charles Cochrane, of Brooklyn, and another man whose name could not be learned.

The fifth life-boat from the vessel to be reached here came in shortly before 9 a.m. (D.T.) and contained but four seamen and no passengers.

Liner Saves 65.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (A.P.).—The Furness-Bermuda Line announced to-day that its liner Monarch of Bermuda had rescued 65 persons from the burning liner Morro Castle off the New Jersey shore.

The Monarch of Bermuda's master sent this message to the line offices at 8.30 a.m.

22 Picked Up.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (A.P.). — Twenty-two persons from the burning passenger liner Morro Castle were picked up by the Andrea F. Luckenbach, according to messages received by the Luckenbach Line, from the liner.

One Survivor's Story

SPRING LAKE, N.J. Sept. 8 (A. P.)—A survivor of the Morro Castle said to-day that he believed most of the 318 passengers and 240 members of the crew lost their lives when lightning struck the craft eight miles off the Jersey coast today.

One sailor who landed at Spring Lake said that all midships was ablaze when the fire alarm was sounded and it was impossible to go through the aisles to arouse passengers.

Sailors ran around the decks, smashing cabin windows, to awaken sleepers, he said.

Six life boats were launched on his side of the ship, he said, but he knew nothing of what occurred on the other side of the vessel.

Fog Hides Scene

Persons gathered along the shore, waiting for daybreak, got a glimpse of two of the rescue ships standing by, then the fog closed in.

The sailor, William O'Sullivan, deck storekeeper, said he was asleep at the time the lightning struck amidships, setting an oil tank ablaze.

Flames spread over the ship swiftly, the storekeeper said, and worked their way up to the boat deck. He said he and other members of the crew went to the stations and then started to fight the flames with fire hose.

"I was impossible to stop the fire," he said. "The flames kept coming up and we had to go for the lifeboats."

A Rakish Liner

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. —(AP)—The Morro Castle, carrying a cargo of fire into New York today, is a long, low liner with rakish lines and two funnels bending back before the wind.

When she set out on her maiden voyage from New York to Havana, Cuba, August 25, 1930, festooned with flags, she already had won the title of one of the fastest turbo-electric liners afloat, by maintaining an average speed of 21 knots in trials.

She failed to set a record for the run on her first voyage, making the trip in 60 hours, while the Cunarder Mauretania had made it in less than 50 hours. She made the trip back in 56 hours—a new mark for ships in regular service on the run.

She is 506 feet long and has 11,520 tonnage. She has accommodations for about 500 passengers. She left the yard of her builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, for New York August 16, 1930.

Just three years ago this month, she faced a trial comparable to today's — weathering a hurricane for 48 hours off Cape Hatteras, bringing her 140 passengers and crew of 300 through safely.

Violins

WATERDOWN, Ont., Sept 8 (CP)—To find out what makes certain violins so valuable George S. Potts, blacksmith, began to make them. His forges every day shape iron into various forms, make it a real achievement, when it is considered the work they do. Mr. Potts says that he has spent thousands of dollars importing wood from Germany for his violins, but he finds that certain Canadian maple properly seasoned works just as well.

Stoco Lake Yields 30-Pound Muskie

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, September 7. — Stoco Lake yielded the best catch of the season the other evening, when Guide Tom Breen, who knows every inch of the lake, who successful in piloting a Cleveland party to a spot where the big ones apparently are; at any rate George Norris, George Parker and Charles Firesdon landed a thirty-pound lunge. The fish gave the party an hour's fight before they finally landed him.

SAYS POPULAR BELIEFS WRONG

Persons Marry Affinites Not Opposites Lord Raglan Says.

ABERDEEN CONVENTION.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Lord Raglan, chairman of the Anthropological Society, who yesterday aired his belief that before many centuries have elapsed there will "not be a single person in the United States without a certain portion of Negro blood," today told the British Association for the Advancement of Science that popular beliefs are always wrong.

He said that it was "quite untrue" that humans were attracted by opposites and said, "We are really attracted by and marry people like ourselves."

Regarding his statement of yesterday, Lord Raglan said in an interview with the Associated Press:

"What is happening in America now is what always happens when two races occupy the same country. It has happened all over the world. They always fuse.

"Beyond that, I cannot go without becoming personal and I do not want to do that."

It was recalled that Lord Raglan created a stir in last year's convention by debunking the claims of some of England's best families to Norman blood.

Pure vitamin C, the Congress was told, will bleach human complexions darkened by disease.

Weddings

CLEAVER—LEE

TWEED, Sept. 8. (By Examiner Correspondent).— A quiet wedding took place on Monday, Sept. 3, at the home of Rev. and Mrs R. J. Wilson, Locke street south, Hamilton, when their niece, Marguerite Vivian Lee, daughter of Mr and Mrs. John E. Lee of Lavant was married to John J. Cleaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Cleaver of Perth.

The bride wore a gown of old-fashioned stone-blue chiffon velvet, with blue hat and gloves to match. Her bouquet was of rapture roses and lily-of-the-valley. The couple were unattended and the wedding music was played by Miss Lois Wilson, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held and later the couple left by motor for Detroit and other western points. The bride travelled in a brown travel tweed dress with matching accessories.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN.

Approximate prices, track shipping point—Wheat, 90c to 92c; oats, 35c to 38c; barley, 60c to 64c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 65c to 67c; buckwheat, 55c to 58c.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Sharp new upturns of wheat prices yesterday converted early losses into gains, and followed a jump of 5 cents for barley, the extreme limit allowed.

Evidence of accumulation of wheat futures on price setbacks was impressive, especially after announcement that No. 1 Northern spring wheat in Chicago had been purchased yesterday at 10 cents a bushel spot cash higher than September delivery contracts. It was also shown that reports of likelihood of United States imports of Argentine wheat were apparently untrue, as Argentine wheat delivered at Buffalo, duty paid, would be considerably higher than domestic wheat of better quality.

Wheat in Chicago closed firm at nearly the day's top, ⅝c to 1⅛c above Thursday's finish; corn, unchanged to ⅛c higher; oats, ¼c to ⅝c up, and provisions unchanged to 5c down.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Egg prices advanced on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

Graded shipments in carlots or less brought 27 to 28 cents a dozen for A-large, up one cent; 25 to 26 cents for A-medium, up one cent; 19½ to 20 cents for B unchanged; and 16½ to 15 cents for C, up ½ cent. Receipts totalled 1,200 cases.

Butter was steady in price, quotations for fresh No. 1 in carlots or less being 19 to 19¼ cents a pound. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted at 20 to 20¼ cents a pound for solids and 21 to 21½ cents a pound for prints. Arrivals totalled 1,160 boxes.

On the cheese market Ontario colored declined ¼ cent, being quoted today at 10 to 10¼ cents a pound, while Quebec cheese sold at 9: to 9¾ cents a pound, unchanged. Arrivals were 4,034 boxes.

New Quebec potatoes continued to sell at 45 to 50 cents per 80-pound bag of No. 1 grade.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Foreign buyers were in the market for 1,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and, despite increased hedging pressure, values marked up gains. October wheat closed at 83⅞c, December at 85⅛c, and May at 90c.

Fit trade waas fairly active most of the day volume of business was quite large. Commission houses and Chicago interests were in on the buying side along with the exporters. Hedging pressure accounted for most of the offerings.

Chicago wheat was strong. Liverpool ended on the upside and Buenos Aires followed strength in other markets.

Australia cleared only 1,347,000 bushels during the past week, just a little over shipments for the previous week. Australian shipments a year ago were 2,000,000 bushels.

Cash and coarse grains advanced with wheat.

The Shut-ins and Troubled

(BY DEAN O'SULLIVAN)

AFFECTIONATE SOLICITUDE

I have been asked to write a sermonette for the shut-ins. I presume that the person making the request had in mind those who through age, infirmity or illness were unable to attend church. I would like to enlarge the scope of that category to include what I might call the shut-outs, that is those who receive few invitations to go places, or to taste the social enjoyments of life, either through poverty or the selfish thoughtlessness of their children.

The most beautiful flower that bloomed at the foot of the Cross was the red rose of charity. But close to it was the never-fading flower of affection, a flower that is very dear to the heart of our Divine Lord and which contributes not a little to adorning and sweetening the path of life.

Charity embraces all men but does not demand, as regards the great majority of them, anything more than an attitude of benevolence and a readiness to assist in any good work on their behalf. Affection, on the contrary, is confined to those who are united to us by ties of blood or friendship, and is usually accompanied by outward marks of fondness and attachment. St. Paul, in his epistle to the Phillipians recommends to them his disciple Timothy in whom he tells them he has great confidence because like a son with his father he had labored with him in the gospel with sincere and affectionate solicitude.

Next to his great faith, it was no doubt the impetuous generosity and affectionate loyalty to the person of Our Saviour that merited for St. Peter the divine commission to feed the lambs and the sheep of the fold. Our Lord Himself manifested His affection for those who were bound to Him by ties of kindred or who were especially devoted to His service. How beautifully human was His attitude to the family at Bethany, to Lazarus, His friend, at whose grave He shed tears of affection, to Mary who was converted by one glance of His divine eyes, and who repaid His mercy with such loving and grateful devotion, and to busy, bustling Martha who rejoiced in the privilege of waiting upon Him and who, when her brother was ill and Our Lord was slow in coming, rebuked Him in a manner that would seem irreverent, were it not excused by the favor she enjoyed of intimate friendship with the Master. When disgusted by the insincerity of the Pharisees and wearied by the importunities of the multitude, He loved to retire to that humble home, that little haven of peace where the affection of true friends brought consolation to His human heart.

It is especially in the home that this virtue should flourish. The Evangelists tell us little of the Holy Family at Nazareth; but painters and poets have dwelt especially upon the mutual affection that characterized that ideal Christian home. I often wonder if the children of our day realize how much their parents, who hold God's place in their regard and who have made so many sacrifices for their welfare, crave for those little expressions of filial love that lighten their labors and brighten the sunset of their lives. "The Children's Hour" seems to be an institution that is passing away. "Grave Alice and laughing Allegra and Edith with golden hair" give little thought to their parents wearied with the anxieties and hardships of the day. No, they are off promenading the streets or wasting the affection of their young hearts on some hero or heroine at the movies.

The bond of affection that should unite the children of a Christian family seems, too, to be loosening. Home for them is becoming little more than a boarding house where they sleep and take their meals. When they separate to seek employment in other places, an occasional post card takes the place of the old-fashioned letter that served so well to keep alive an enduring affection among the members of a family. When they marry they drift still further apart, until soon the children of the same roof tree have almost forgotten one another. If this be true of Christian families it is doubly so of those who are unfortified by religion. Thus it is that a generation without affection is springing up, a generation such as St. Paul described to Timothy: "Know also this, that in the last days shall come dangerous times. Men shall be lovers of themselves, covetous, haughty proud, disobedient to parents, ungrateful, without affection, without peace, unmerciful, without kindness, stubborn, puffed up and lovers of pleasures more than of God."

After all, religion is the only source of enduring affection; and if we wish to cultivate this virtue in our intercourse with our relatives and friends we must begin with our True Friend.

It strikes me that there is something lacking in the lives of some exemplary Christians. They may be very exact and conscientious in the discharge of of their duties, but there is a chilly atmosphere about them, a lack of generosity, a measuring of their religious duties with a yard stick. Their lives would be much happier and their homes would be much brighter if they had a little more of that affectionate solicitude for God and their parents, that was so highly commended by St. Paul in his disciple Timothy.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered
By DR. WYLIE CLARK

I think that all convicted kidnappers should be imprisoned for life; do you agree with me? L.A.R.

Yes, I agree with you that, they merit extreme punishment, but I would be more severe than you. I would hand them within 24 hours after they were found guilty. I know of no greater cruelty than kidnapping. Anyone who would attempt such a thing has forfeited all right to live.

When one is elected to do a certain church work and he feels himself unfitted to do it, does he not do wrong when he accepts the election? E.N.L.

Of course, we must be the final judges of our own fitness for positions, but I am sure that many times the people among whom we live have a better knowledge of our capabilities than we have ourselves and their election of us may be regarded as the call of duty and we should accept and willingly try to do our best.

What made the swine rush into the seas —Doubter.

Whatever happened the pigs were stampeded and acted as if they were one pig and that pig desperately afraid. A stampeded bunch of animals act as if they were terrified and often rush to their own destruction. Just how the miracle acted on the pigs is hard to say; but the results of the fear are easy to understand.

There is a saying that, "time works miracles". Is that true? —S.T.

No and yes. Time in itself does not perform miracles. It only permits the forces at work to evolve in the direction of their purpose. Yet, while this is so, the happenings in time are so wonderful that we speak of them as miracles. Take two examples, radio and the automobiles. They are simply the outcome of man's knowledge in time; but to the untrained mind they may well appear as miraculous.

Is there any truth in the statement, "Through the graveyard lies the way to progress?" —E. MacD.

This evidently is the idea that old men become stationary and refuse to make progress. Therefore, they must die before any headway can be made.

The same is true in regard to old social and political systems. No advancement can take place until these systems are buried. The clinging of men to what they already throught and followed has too often delayed the onward movements which were designed to hasten the development of the welfare of the human race.

Old men and old methods have tremendous desires to live and also to insist that there must be no changes. We honor them so that we permit them to have their way and simply wait until they shall be removed and leave the road clear.

In the ordinary rural community what opportunities are there to do Christian work? —"Rural".

We must not forget that we live in our work. The way a farmer keeps his buildings, fences and machines in repair will proclaim his religion better than his attendance at church. There is a Christian way of keeping a farm and hoeing a turnip patch.

In rural life there is a Christian neighborliness which does much to promote goodwill and friendship and binds the community together for the best interests of all. As the church is an expression of Christian life, something can be done in making the church building attractive—an afternoon a month by the young people will do much in fixing things up a bit.

In church attendance, in the choir, in the Sunday school and in the social life there are great opportunities to make things live and be well worth while the best that can be put into them.

Is it not true that man's brain has developed more rapidly than his soul? —D.L.

There is no doubt that during the past half century our brains have been running in high gear and great have been the achievements. During the same time our souls have been running in reverse, consequently there is at the present time a great gulf between. However, the day is coming when our souls will be going full speed ahead Then we will see the day of the Lord.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

PRAYER is the fair and radiant daughter of all the human virtues, the arch connecting heaven and earth, the sweet companion that is alike the lion and the dove; and prayer will give you the key of heaven. . . . The universe belongs to him who will, who can, who knows how to pray; but he must will, he must be able, and he must know how—in one word, he must have power, faith and wisdom. And indeed, when prayer is the outcome of so many trials, it is the consummation of all truth, of all power, of all emotion. The offspring of the laborious, slow and persistent development of every natural property, and alive by the divine insufflation of the WORD, she has enchantment in her hand, she is the crown of worship—neither material worship, which has its symbols, nor spiritual worship, which has its formulas, but worship of the divine order.

"We do not then say prayers; prayer lights up within us, and is a faculty which acts of itself: it acquires the vital activity which lifts it above all forms; it links the soul to God, and you are joined to Him as the root of a tree is joined to the earth; the elements of things flow in your veins, and you live the life of the worlds themselves. . . ,

"To pray thus you must attain to absolute freedom from the flesh; you must be refined in the furnace to the purity of a diamond; for that perfect communion can only be achieved by absolute quiesence, the stilling of every storm. Yes, prayer, literally an aspiration of the soul set wholly free from the body, bears up every power, applying them all to the constant and persistent union of the visible and invisible."—From "Seraphita," by Honore de Balzac, a Rosicrucian. (Rosicrucian Order, San Jose, Calif.)

Acts which reproach us are best atoned for, not by severe reflections, but by a contrary behavior.

Indispensable Man

Taken from Magazine Digest.

WHEN I look at men over fifty who have lived strenuous lives, more or less of the sedentary type, I find some have maintained their health, whilst others are quite worn out.

On investigation I usually find this difference—the healthy one has made a strict habit of finishing with his work the moment he leaves his place of business. The other has taken some work home with him, and possibly continued until bedtime. "Keen man," you'll say, "deserves to get on."

Actually the man's a fool. No man is justified in doing the work of two people—he must sacrifice his health. So, in the end, he doesn't get on—he usually "goes under" just when he should be about to retire and enjoy the fruits of his labor.

If you find yourself working overtime continuously, ask yourself the reason. Is it because you think no one else is capable of doing the job during the day—that you are more or less indispensable? Conceited and short-sighted notion! If you died, the work would be done just the same. No man is indispensable. Or is it because you are keen to succeed and "make a pile"? What use will the "pile" be, in any case, when you have sacrificed your health through depriving yourself of leisure? Work strenuously and diligently, by all means but do think twice before you allow lack of leisure and recreation to undermine your physical and mental powers.

There are so many who do this in their lust for position, power or wealth. Thoreau calls it the "spending of the best part of one's life earning money in order to enjoy a questionable liberty during the least valuable part of it."

Though your work may be important, and though you have the right spirit in trying to do it conscientiously, don't let it weigh you down unnecessarily.—From "The Secrets of Happiness," by Wilfred Northfield.

In timeo f plenty think of want.

FEAR OF DARK NOT NATURAL

Acquired by Children as Result of Faulty Training.

ORIGIN OF INDIANS.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 8.—Children are not naturally afraid of the dark. They become afraid because of bad training, whether accidental or deliberate. Neither are they afraid of policemen, unless their training makes them so.

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association of Huron College was so informed by Dr. Douglas J. Wilson, Professor of Psychology, at the University of Western Ontario, on a lengthy phychological review of "The Fundamentals of Human Nature."

The clergymen heard, too, from Rev. T. B. R. Westgate, of Winnipeg, that the theory that the American Indians are not Mongolians, but came to America via a continent in the Pacific Ocean, long since disappeared.

From the psychologist came the information that even insomnia may be traceable to faults in the early training of children. For instance, when children are sent to bed as punishment, it may tend to create insomnia, because the bed becomes associated in the mind with other purposes than for sleep.

Gentlemen do not prefer blondes, because that means creating types both gentleman and blondes, out of human beings, and from a phychological viewpoint, it can't be done. Neither can a criminal type be strictly definite, and Dr. Wilson asserted that criminals are not such because their fathers were, but because of their early environment.

Self-sacrifice is self-saving.

Hezekiah Leads the People to God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—II Chronicles, Chapter 30.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell
And Alfred J. Buescher

Hezekiah was one of the best of Judah's kings. But his father, Ahaz, was one of the worst idolaters of all the kings, even sacrificing his own son to the hideous fiery idol Moloch. Though but a young king Hezekiah began a great reform to put idols from the land.

One of the king's first acts was to cleanse the temple of the filthiness brought into it by his wicked father who had desecrated it and plundered it of its sacred vessels. It required a great host of workers sixteen days to cleanse the temple and make it fit for worship.

Then the king sent messengers throughout the whole land to call the nation to a great celebration of the Passover Supper. He included not only Judah but Israel in the invitation, thus trying to heal a breach made by Jereboam's secession 250 years before.

Some laughed at the king's messengers and mocked, others humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem and observed the Passover and the Lord healed them and heard their prayers. So happy were the people that they voluntarily extended the celebration a second week.

A CANADIAN CHOSEN.

There will be general satisfaction throughout the Dominion, The Examiner is sure, over the announcement that the first governor of Canada's new Central Bank is to be a Canadian.

Many rumors to the contrary have been circulated from time to time, and there were misgivings on the part of many Canadians who preferred to have one of their own countrymen head this most important institution.

In selecting Graham Ford Towers, assistant general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, who is not yet 37 years of age, the Federal Government has chosen a young man with a brilliant record as an economist, and banking circles have every confidence in his ability to successfully fill the most responsible position to which he was educated.

Mr. Towers graduated with honors from McGill University, and fourteen years ago entered the employ of the Royal Bank as an economist. The fact that he is now the assistant general manager of the bank shows that his rise to the top has been rapid, and that he has the qualities that will be needed in the control of Canada's Central Bank. The field of foreign finance is well known to the new governor, and he will further fit himself for his duties by visiting Europe to obtain first-hand knowledge of the operations of central banks there.

It is gratifying to know that a Canadian has been chosen for this honor and the country will wish him well.

THE COUNCIL WAS WRONG.

The mandamus granted the Collegiate Institute Board of Goderich at Osgoode Hall requiring the Goderich Town Council to approve the board's estimates and to pay its treasurer $6,000 for current expenses, proves something that required no proof, and that is that city councils have absolutely no control over the expenditures of school boards.

Under the system now operative there is no logical reason why councils should have any control, for school boards, like the councils themselves, are elected by the votes of the people and are responsible to the electors for their actions.

So long as they are chosen in that way and the taxpayers have the remedy in their own hands to express approval or censure of the board's record, it seems silly to suggest that the status of the board should be converted into that of a council committee by giving the council authority to review and revise school estimates.

In giving judgment in this Goderich case, Mr. Justice Makins pointed out that the action of the town was an indirect method of trying to force the board to reduce salaries. "The School Board," he remarked, "must be the sole judges of this and the attitude of the Council cannot be condoned."

This seems so obvious that there will be natural wonder at the Goderich Council getting themselves into such a situation that the courts have had to tell them they have no other course than to provide the money which is required for educational purposes in accordance with the estimates of the board elected to deal with this branch of public service.

GIVING THE LAW A CHANCE.

The Kitchener Record declares that the new beer law should be given a chance to prove its worth.

That, as a matter of fact, is what The Examiner has been contending, but the trouble is that the law is not being given a chance by those who benefit the most by it, that is those who want to sell beer and those who want to drink it.

The Government has aided both in bringing beer sale into disfavor by being careless in the inspection of premises for which licenses were asked—although this weakness is being ironed out—and by authorizing longer hours of sale than were desirable, but the real enemies of sale by the glass have been some of the beverage room proprietors and many of their customers.

Instead of using this new privilege as decently and decorously as possible, there have been abuses that have turned many persons who have never been prohibitionists into critics of the system; there has been too much drunkenness, too much carelessness about selling to minors, and too many scenes of disorder, and many "wets," all the "drys" and the majority of the persons in between these categories have as a result began to look upon sale by the glass as an evil that must be speedily controlled if it is to endure.

By all means the law deserves, as our Kitchener contemporary says, a chance to make good, but if those who are most concerned in the success of the legislation kill it by their own greed and lack of foresight they will have no one but themselves to blame.

THE COST OF RELIEF.

The all-important question of relief costs which is always a subject of concern has been under investigation by that useful body, the Citizens' Research Institute, and some interesting and significant facts have been disclosed.

A bulletin issued recently deals with the relief financing of some 30 urban and suburban municipalities located in four Canadian provinces, and shows that at the end of last year 19.41 of the population of these centres, or almost one person out of every five, was on relief.

In the municipalities that were taken into consideration it was found that last year $38,501,054 was expended in direct relief, of which amount only the comparative small sum of $162,475 was raised by private subscription.

The Provincial and Federal Governments contributed $25,877,767 of the total leaving the balance, $12,464,810, to be raised by the municipalities themselves.

The per capita cost, it is revealed, average $13.72 for the municipalities listed, but ran the scale all the way from $9.43 in Quebec to $19.41 in Toronto.

The report makes one fact most distinct, and that is that those municipalities which have been most careful in their administration of relief have been penalized by the failure of other cities to be equally frugal.

Well may the Citizens' Research Institute ask, if it is a wholesome influence on the public life of Canada that municipalities which are careful in the selection of families and individuals for unemployment relief and efficient in controlling the cost of such relief should be penalized, as they are, by the present system of percentage payments by the provinces and, until recently, the Dominion, by being compelled through provincial and national taxation to help pay the cost of municialities which in their administration of unemployment relief have been lax, improvident and inefficient?

"The inefficient we have always with us," says the bulletin, "but why put a premium on inefficiency by subsidizing it?"

A BONUS FOR FAILING TO RAISE HOGS.

The absurdity of what has been done across the border to pay farmers for failing to carry on their normal operations is well illustrated in the following letter which has been received by different New York financial journals with a view to publication:

"To the Editor:

"Dear Sir,—A friend of mine in New England has a neighbor who has received a Government cheque for $1,000 this year for not raising hogs. So my friend wants to go into the business himself, he not being very prosperous just now; he says, in fact, that the idea of not raising hogs appeals to him very strongly.

"Of course, he will need a hired man, and that is where I come in. I write to you as to your opinion of the best kind of a farm not to raise hogs on, the best strain of hogs not to raise, and how best to keep an inventory of hogs you are not raising. Also, do you think capital could be raised by issuance of a non-hog-raising gold bond?

"The friend who got the thousand dollars got it for not raising 500 hogs. Now, we figure we might easily not raise 1,500 or 2,000 hogs, so you see the possible profits are only limited by the number of hogs we do not raise.

"The other fellow had been raising hogs for 40 years and never made more than $400 in any one year. Kind of pathetic, isn't it, to think how he wasted his life raising hogs when he could have made so much more not raising them!

"I will thank you for any advice you may offer.

"Very truly yours,
"HAROLD TRUEMAN."

DRESS AND UNDRESS.

Times change slowly. So do manners. Few can keep up with the nuances. To-day a custom is seemingly as unchangeable as the laws of the Medes and Persians. Next year it may be as if it had never existed. Standard methods of doing things aren't as set as they seem. What was all wrong yesterday may be quite correct to-day.

When Queen Victoria reigned hosiery was worn not only in the best circles—but in the least pretentious. In fact, stockings were as necessary as they are the reverse to-day. Now the "Little pig that went to market" and the other nine that poetically did something else, are frequently on view. And lest, like the modest violet, they escape notice, they are bedecked, not only on the beach and in the boudoir, but also when milady goes galivanting in public.

What would great grandmothers say to it all? Dear old great grandmothers who wore voluminous skirts covered with rustling black silk, beaded dolmans, and who'd have considered it almost indecent to be seen on the street without gloves. They believed clothes were made to cover, not discover. Present day outfits would have given them the vapors, or made them swoon—possibly with envy. The once popular decline was brought on by such shocks as sockless ladies and inted pedaldigits.

What's proper has changed since great grandmothers were girls. To-day the world goes in for comfort. It's contended that life's easier to live when the individual is dressed comfortably—and to some that means hardly dressed at all. Of course, in the old days people wore too much for ease of movement, but there is still the little matter of appearance to be considered. Wasn't the young woman wise who when asked her opinion of shorts on girls engaged in sports, replied, "it depends on who wears them?"

So much for the ladies. What of the men? They like comfort, too. But on regular occasions—when dinner jackets or "tails" seem the only wear, they are worn. The male of the species isn't yet wholly emancipated. He sticks to the rules. There was a statement in certain papers that the Prince of Wales had dined in France without a coat. A contradiction was issued. One expects that it would be. But why? If a coat makes for discomfort why not find a substitute? Fashion has changed so often that there may still be surprises in store. Why must men go on making martyrs of themselves? But they are creatures of habit. To one accustomed to dress clothes their abolition wouldn't be a boon—it would be a disaster. The pursuit of the elusive collar button, the struggle with the tie—these are established indoor exercises. In course of time they may be done away with—but from present indications they are still as widely indulged in as ever.—Ottaya Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Several strike areas in the United States are declared to be in a state of insurrection. The authorities will have their hands full in restoring order.

Captain Maxwell, director of the Ontario Air Force, has been dismissed and will be replaced by a school chum of the Premier's. It is to be hoped the captain had his parachute ready for the drop.

The Labatt case is back on the front page, and it will be there for a third time when the kidnappers are arrested.

So far as we have learned no municipal council has as yet protested against the decision of the Ontario Government to assume the whole cost of highway construction and maintenance.

After all you only get what you pay for. When Babe Ruth was paid $80,000 a year he hit more than twice as many home runs as he now hits when he receives only a beggarly $35,000.—Toronto Star.

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

Local folks is got a chance to go into the talkies so all flapper and drug store cowboy readers of this great family journal is advised to get ready for the tests. Who knows what talent we got, ask we.

The pupils and teachers of the village schools what has been getting tanned all summer is now back on the job and some of the kids will likely continue to get tanned throughout the winter.

Our village ball team has been doing well against the Bellevilles, east of us. Here Mon. our lads win 5 to 1 and Wed. down in Belleville they got nearly as many runs as the English cricket team in the last test match. Nice work, boys, say we, admiringly.

Most of the villagers what has been holidaying around the country is home again and the berg is putting on quite a lively appearance again. Glad to have you back, folks, say we, hospitably.

The cost of getting a skin full took a sharp jump in the village court early this week when O. A. Langley, our capable cadi, announced to all and sundry that them what can't take their beer and leave it alone will be mulcted 15 smackers per offence. Better check on your suds, lads, suggest we, helpfully.

The U.F.O.s of these parts is planning to bring Harry Stevens from Ottawa, east of here, to give the folks a talk in the near future. He'd draw quite a crowd at that, we opine.

The duck shooting season around here don't open till the 15th, but from the banging heard here and there early in the morning some of the folks hereabouts musta mislaid their calendars.

A Thought

THE WISDOM OF GOD

The wisdom of God appears in afflictions. By these He separates the sin which he hates, from the son whom he loves. By these thorns He keeps him from breaking over into Satan's pleasant pastures, which would fatten him indeed, but only to the slaughter.—Augney.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

GERMANY.
Freedom of Science

DICTATORSHIP obliterates freedom. The German people have lost the right to think for themselves politically. The right to worship according to the dictates of their own conscience has been denied. The reach of Dictatorship is longer than all this. Science has been threatened with the loss of independence. Take away even a little from the uttermost of freedom of research, and the expression of results and you will destroy science. Science can live and grow only in the environment of freedom. What are the conditions of a science? James Anthony Froude, English historian, delivered before the Royal Institution of London, February the 5th., 1864, a lecture on The Science of History. In the linking of science and history he said: What are the conditions of science? I suppose when the facts of it began to resolve themselves into groups; when phenomena are no longer isolated experiences, but appear in connection and order; when, after certain antecedents, certain consequences are uniformly seen to follow; when facts enough have been collected to furnish a basis for conjectural explanation and when conjectures have so far ceased to be utterly vague that it is possible in some degree to foresee the future by the help of them.

Till a subject has advanced this far, to speak of it as a science is an abuse of language.

Scientific investigations can be suppressed. The findings can be falsified in order to make them serviceable to the dominant political doctrine. "But science does inspire faith in the intangible and invisible. Science is the battle ground of terrific forces. Every particle of matter, the chemists tell us, is strained up to the last degree of endurance. The glistening bead of dew from which the daisy gently nurses its strength, and which a sunbeam may dissipate, is the globular compromise of antagonistic powers that would shake any building in Peterborough in their unchained rage. And so every atom of matter is the slave of imperious masters that never let it alone. It is nursed and caressed, next bandied about, and soon cuffed and kicked by its invisible overseers. Thus wrote Thomas Starr King in his Substance and Show."

Fact finding and phenomena explanation is the soul of science. In this realm falsification and suppression are aliens. In Germany doctrines entirely discredited by science have been lifted to the rank of scientific knowledge by pressure from the state, if they appeared useful for political aims.

Ours is a war-minded age. In various countries science is subordinated almost entirely to the need of war industry. The war industry since the last war has had a devastating effect on scientific research. The present war danger threat has reduced scientific investigation to the function of slave to the war industry.

In Italy and in Germany several scientists have sought refuge in other countries rather than sacrifice their learning to the violent demands of the god of war.

Dictatorships are claiming such unlimited powers over the people that there is no room left for intellectual independence. The schools both secondary and those of higher grade are slaves at the feet of Hitler. If a student through application and hard study becomes conspicuous in chemistry or electricity he is sure to be drafted to serve in a war industry.

In all the schools of higher learning in Germany the most capable young physicists and chemists spend most of their time listening to lectures and demonstrations on defensive science. Such studies as gas protection, air protection, study of explosives, war intelligence service. These have no direct relation to the scientific significance of this field. Only such investigations are favored as are likely to bring about a technical advance, and are therefore favorable to the State's interests in "economic and technical predominance throughout the world."

All branches of physics which cannot be made to serve political and economic imperialism are therefore hampered and restricted. Studies which have contributed essentially to the broadening of our concept of the physical universe are thrust aside openly as vain and fruitless intellectualism. In biology and medicine the same principle of brutal subordination to political aims dominates the students. Verified scientific knowledge concerning heredity and race is cast aside. In its place appear new doctrines, unverified by honest research, but maintained to support a political doctrine and designed for the annihilation of hundreds of thousands of human beings. In order to establish these new doctrines and to propogate them (ethnology, heredity, pathology, the question of sterilization, marital legislation), chairs of instruction were founded and text books written; but the scientific preparation of the instructors and authors consisted merely in willingness to recognize the wishes of the authoritarian state and to clothe them in pseudo-scientific dress.

In practical medicine the physician is not permitted to place his ability and knowledge at the disposal of his patient, regardless who it might be, is now limited. In accordance with the National Socialist belief that it is senseless to help the weak at the expense of the biologically strong, social hygiene is now shorn of all justification. Enough has been written in this article to at least amaze the reader.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

ONE THING EVERYBODY WANTS.

Suppose a magician appeared suddenly before you out of a cloud of white smoke and said: "You may have one wish and no more. Think fast, think wisely, ask for one thing—and it shall be granted to you. . . . You have one minute to choose. What do you want?"

Just suppose that did happen to you, of all people. What would your wish be?

A million dollars?
An easy life?
Happiness?
Good health forever?
Eternal health?
A long life and a merry one?
Freedom?
Peace?
Death?

Perhaps one of these. Perhaps none. But the chances are great that you would NOT ask for the one thing that all human beings, men and women and even children, truly desire.

You would not wish to be good!

And yet, fundamentally, that is what we all wish for ourselves.

We want to be good.

We do not wish to be rich nearly as acutely as we wish to be good.

You have seen, either personally or publicly, rich men who have struggled all their lives for money, striving wistfully, pathetically, at the end of their lives to win reputations for goodness. . . . Perhaps you have known some tough, incorrigible fellows, supposed to be all bad, excusing themselves, justifying themselves, trying painfully in their own field of living, to be decent and win the approbation of their fellows. . . . You yourself know how happy you are when you feel that you lived up to your own standard of goodness. . . . Even a child is happier when it is "good", and when you praise it for "being good".

Goodness is of many kinds, and every human being has a slightly different idea of what it is—but for everybody that dream of goodness shines ahead like a tenderly beautiful haven. We want to be good, but often we don't know how to be that way. But we want it more eagerly than anything else on earth. . . . Look within your own heart to see if this is not true.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

"A VISITOR FROM THE PACIFIC"

On this date, in 1794 Colonel and Mrs. Simcoe welcomed to their modest gubernatorial residence at Navy Hall, Niagara, Alexander Mackenzie, the first white man to make an overland journey to the Pacific ocean. Mrs. Simcoe's reference to the incident is rather naive and quite interesting:

"Mr. Mackenzie, who has made his way from the Grand Portage to the Pacific ocean, is just returned from thence, and brought the Governor a sea otter skin as proof of his having reached that coast. He says the savages spear them from the rocks, as the Indians here do sturgeon. These animals are amphibious, but generally in the sea. Mr. Mackenzie went down the River of Peace near two degrees north of Lake Superior and came to the Rocky Mountains, on which rise some rivers that fall into the Atlantic, and others which empty themselves into the Pacific ocean. He went down a river which falls into the latter and rises not 700 yards from the River of Peace. He afterwards travelled 17 days by land. There are a kind of large sheep on the Rocky Mountains, their horns the size of a cow's.

"The Indians on the coast live on fish, which they are very dexterous in catching; they dry salmon in boxes in a kind of upper storey in their huts. They prepare the roes, beating them up with sorrel, a plant with acid taste, till it becomes a kind of caviare and, when the salmon are dried, boil and mix them with oil. These savages never taste meat and think if any was thrown into the river the fish would go away. One of Mr. Mackenzie's men having thrown the bone of a deer into the water, an Indian dived and fetched it out, nor would they suffer water to be ladled out in a kettle in which meat had been boiled. Are these not veritable fish eaters? Mr. Mackenzie observed these Indians who inhabited the islands on the coast to be more savage than the others. The otter skins are sold at a great price by those who trade on the coast to the Chinese."

The latter sentence would indicate that there was a considerable trans-Pacific trade even in the earliest days. It is not generally known that after his return to Montreal Mr. Mackenzie represented the county of Huntingdon in the Lower Canada Assembly until 1808 when he went back to Scotland where he lived until 1820. He was knighted in 1802, it having taken the crown eight years to decide that his explorations were worthy of recognition.

C.C.F. CLUB PLANS HOLD BIG RALLY

First of Meetings to be Addressed by William Irvine, M.P.

William Irvine, M.P., for Wetaskiwin, Alberta, is announced as chief speaker at a big meeting to be held in the Canadian Legion Hall here on Wednesday evening of next week, under auspices of Peterborough C. C. F. Club.

Wm. Irvine

Recently married to James Everett Thomas, B.Sc., of this city, Dr. Lorna Cotton has announced that she is to continue her active political work in the C.C.F. under her own name. She will preside in the chair at the meeting.

Wednesday's meeting, which is timed to start at eight o'clock is the first of a series of Fall and Winter meetings planned by the C.C.F. Club organizers.

In the current issue of "The New Commonwealth" official publication of the C.C.F. organization there are interesting photographic studies of Dr. Lorna Coton and her husband. The caption under the cuts states: "They were married quietly last week and are now on a trip in New York. On their return they will reside in Peterborough at 400 Walton street. The bride and groom first met when they were undergraduates at the University of Toronto."

VALENTIA MAN DIES SUDDENLY

A. T. Mark Drops Dead on Way to Store—Cusher struck in Lindsay.

STRONG SULPHUR TAINT.

LINDSAY, Sept. 8 (Examiner Correspondence).—A. T. Mark, a life-long resident of Valentia, Mariposa Township, dropped dead yesterday morning while on his way from his home to the village store. Mr. Mark had been in rather poor health for some time, but before leaving the house remarked to his wife that he was feeling somewhat better. Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Orr, at home, and William, of Kingston.

The Roberts Drilling Company, of Brantford, which is drilling a well to supply the town with sufficient water, struck a real gusher a few days ago. The water is so impregnated with sulphur, however, that it is feared it cannot be used for domestic purposes. The sulphuric odor is so strong when the water is being pumped that it can be detected some distance away from the scene of operations.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

GALT, ONTARIO.

A lawyer named William Dickson of Niagara and a young Dutchman named Shade from Pennsylvania were the original colonizers of the district surrounding Galt. Dickson purchased a large section of land adjoining a prosperous Mennonite settlement. In a personal survey of the 94,305 acres comprising this property Dickson and Shade arrived at the junction of Mill creek and Grand river, which they decided would make an excellent focal point for settlement.

Dickson sent a man to Scotland to bring out settlers and the little colony grew rapidly. Shade was busy with the industrial end and the little settlement ultimately became known as Shade's Mills.

In the summer of 1827, John Galt, a friend of Dickson, came out from Scotland as a representative of the Canada Co. In honor of his newly arrived friend, who was a distinguished essayist and novelist, Dickson gave his name to the new town.

Department To Pave Street In Marmora

MARMORA, Sept. 8. (By Examiner Correspondent).—The Department of Highways is taking over Forsythe street from Matthew street to the south end of the village as part of No. 14 highway and the work of improving the street commenced on Friday. It will be finished with the same kind of an asphalt pavement that the bridge and roads east and west have been finished with.

When completed it will greatly enhance the appearance of the southern entrance to the village as well as eradicate the dust nuisance of many years' standing.

DUCE'S WARNING TAKEN AS CRACK AT NAZIS

BARI, Italy, Sept. 7 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini's advice to Italians is to scorn the foreign doctrines of a people which "did not know how to write when we had Virgil."

He enunciated this doctrine in an address yesterday, opening the Levantine Fair. It was assumed that his contemptuous reference was to Germany and Nazi-ism.

Mussolini carried on with his tour of speech-making today, planning visits to Rome he will inaugurate public works at Taranto.

It was believed in some quarters that the premier will devote one of his speeches to political subjects, on which he touched only lightly in his address before 75,000 at the fair.

POLISH DENIAL ARMS CONTRACT SOUGHT BY KING

No British Interference in Munitions Order, Ambassador Says.

STORY DISCREDITED.

Allegation Made Before U. S. Senatorial Enquiry.

LONDON, Eng. Sept. 8. (C. P. Cable).—Assertions in the United States senatorial munitions probe that King George had "intervened" to hinder sale of American armaments to Poland were discredited here to-day completely in a statement from the Polish embassy.

The statement in Washington, contained in a cable to an American munitions firm from its agent, that the King had summoned the Polish ambassador and asked him to intervene, was categorically and emphatically denied by the Polish Charge D'Affaires. The Polish ambassador had not been approached in any way by any British personage, it was said.

"The suggestion is so ridiculous as to require no further explanation," it was stated.

So far as the British government is concerned no official notice will be taken of the Bisarre charge, the statement of the Polish embassy being considered sufficient to entirely discredit the story.

Press Indignant

London newspapers were somewhat indignant at the charge. The Morning Post said it published the "incredible story" as illustrating the sort of evidence which was thought good enough for the senatorial enquiry.

It was agreed however that some disclosures regarding the international traffic in armaments might be sufficient to justify a British enquiry. The Liberal News-Chronicle and the Labor Daily Herald both called for a British probe, the former declaring revelations of the "international character" of scandals in the arms traffic made it a public duty of the British government to institute an enquiry on similar lines.

Several members of parliament have already indicated they intend to raise the question when the House of Commons resumes.

FISHER RETIRES ON $50,000,000

Son of Wagon Maker Hitched Career to Automobile.

WORKED WITH FORD.

DETROIT, Sept. 8.—When Fred J. Fisher, eldest of the seven Fisher brothers, was a boy, he confided to a friend that his ambition was to possess $50,000 at the age of 50, then retire.

Seven years later, with his financial goal reached perhaps 1,000 times over, he retired to-day from his active connection with General Motors Corporation along with his brother, Charles T. Fisher.

Retirement, however, apparently is only figurative in their case, for the announcement by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., President of General Motors, said the two brothers were resigning to concern themselves with personal interests, including those of Fisher and Company, an investment company of the Fisher group.

The Fisher brothers come of a carriage-building family. Their father, Lawrence Fisher, had a wagon shop in Norwalk, O., where the brothers grew up. Attracted by the budding automobile industry, Fred J. Fisher came to Detroit around 1902. For several years he and Charles Fisher were connected with the Wilson Carriage Company. In the same building, Henry Ford was working on the horseless carriage that was to make him famous and wealthy.

Convinced the automobile would supplant the horse, the two elder Fisher brothers founded the Fisher Body Company in 1908, with $50,000 capital In 1926 the company was taken over by General Motors in a $208,000,000 deal.

REV. T. T. SHIELDS WEDS LEAVES FOR ENGLAND

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—An event which came as a surprise to many members of his congregation was the marriage on Thursday night of Rev. Dr. T. T. Shields of Jarvis Street Baptist Church to Miss Leota Griffin. Rev. W. Gordon Brown performed the ceremony.

Miss Griffin, who is a niece of the late Mrs. Shields, has for many years taken an active interest in the work of Jarvis Street Church, and for some time has been one of the three secretaries in the church office.

Dr. and Mrs. Shields left after the ceremony for a trip to England, and will be absent for two or three months.

Although total exports from Hong Kong have been declining for more than six months, its exports to the United States have been increasing.

DRIZZLE DAMPENS FARMERS' MARKET

The inclement weather reduced the numbers of customary shoppers at the farmers' market this morning, but it failed to keep many of the sellers away. Business was dull throughout most of the morning, and at noon there was still large quantities of fowl, butter, eggs and other produce on the tables.

Prices held firm, although they probably hit the slide in the dying minutes. Chickens, depending on the quality, ranged from 16 to 22 cents; eggs opened at 22 cents generally, but fell as low as 18 cents. Butter was bringing 20 to 25 cents a pound. Ducks and a few turkeys, which were not getting much attention, were offered at 20 cents a pound.

Flowers were very plentiful, prize-winning samples of gladiolius being offered at 35 cents a basket. Mignonette was 10 cents a bunch; zinnias a nickel a bunch, and asters were 20 cents a bouquet continued a vivid recital of the mad activities on the burning ship.

FRENZIED BY SMOKE 200 DIE

He was asleep in the crew's quarters when he heard the alarm.

Glimpse of Confusion.

"I jumped up and got into my clothes," Kelsey said, "and ran up on deck. The wind was blowing hard. A lot of fellows in the crew same after me. I should say there were about a dozen of us. We grabbed the fire hoses and began shooting water on the fire which was raging through the midships section. We smashed windows to get our streams through. People were shouting. You could hear them crying out and all the time the fire was getting worse.

"It was pretty confusing. Well, we saw we couldn't do much about the fire and we didn't want to stand there and roast, for just about this time the water suddenly gave our. I think the pumps must have stopped. There we were holding useless hose in our hands.

Plain Talk

"Someone yelled about getting to boats and we all made a move there. The passengers had ringed us and we knew we had to get them off the ship. Well, we told them pretty plainly they would have to get through to the boats. But we all had to take the same chance, we told the men and women. They didn't seem to understand.

"I knew there were three girls who had the nerve to follow us, and they got ashore all right.

"We made a break for it all at once. We knew it was that or get burned.

"We got to the boats. And then you know we had to work fast. You couldn't stand there talking about it. Those boats are made to be lowered in seconds, and we did work fast with the wind blowing the flames at our backs and the air full of big clinkers and showers of cinders. I can still feel that heat on the back of my neck and smell the dirty smoke.

"And all the time it was getting worse and worse. There was no stopping the fire.

"We got the boats away and didn't do it any too quickly, for I think in a few minutes the boats would have been burned and we would all have been lost."

Plans Laid To Open Mines At Cordova

MARMORA, Sept. 8. (By Examiner Correspondent).—It is understood that plans are under way to re-start the Cordova Mines. Mr. Hawes has been transferred from British Columbia by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company to take charge of operations and he has moved into the staff house.

It is also stated that the erection of a power line from Marmora to Cordova along the Cordova branch of the C.N.R. will shortly be started.

SHAFT SINKING WORK AT THE WINGOLD MINES

Shaft sinking at the Wingold Mines property, adjoining San Antonio, has reached an approximate depth of 200 feet, and another couple of weeks' work at the present rate of progress, will see the immediate objective of 275 feet attained. A station is to be cut at this horizon and a cross cut driven to intersect ore bodies disclosed in 150 feet level work.

On completion of the station at the new level, lateral work is to be resumed at the 150 level, so that development will be carried on on the two levels conjurrently. Prior to the resumption of shaft sinking approximately 174 feet of lateral work was done on the first level. This was sufficient to establish the importance of the No. 1 and 2 veins at this horizon.

With drifting under way shortly on both levels, rapid progress in the developmetnent of ore tonnage is promised. With the new assay plant now installed and in operation, bulk sampling of ore already opened can be gone ahead with.

A. G. Galbraith, vice-president of Scottish Exploration Co., Limited, sponsors of Wingold, reports on his return from an inspection of the mine that officials are greatly impressed with the possibilities of the property.

ARTICLES WANTED

A man who is much in need of a stove and has no money to purchase one, would be willing to work in exchange for a small cook stove. He would also like to get a rocker.

Bedding is badly needed in another home, and there are requests for a high chair, a bed spring and kitchen table and chairs.

If any of these are available, please telephone Miss McCarthy at The Examiner and they will be called for.

Wingold Mines
• Adjoining San Antonio

The shaft has now reached a depth of approximately 200 feet with the next level to be established at 275 feet when lateral work will proceed on both levels simultaneously.

These excellent developments minewise, together with the capable management and direction of the affairs of the company compel us to form the opinion that Wingold Mines has genuine possibilities of developing into a producer of importance.

We recommend the purchase of the shares of this company before appreciation based on favorable mining results has taken the large profit possibilities from them.

A copy of the latest progress report will be gladly furnished upon application.

An enjoyable meeting under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Otonabee, was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Collins. A number of neighbors and friends of the members had been invited as guests for the afternoon, many accepting the invitation. The meeting opened with a hymn and prayers conducted by the President, Mrs. W. Robinson, who also welcomed the visitors. Mrs. R. Dixon read the Bible lesson and Mrs. John Collins, treasurer gave the treasurer's report, and in the absence of the secretary, gave the secretary's report also. A letter was read from Miss Greta Clark who is now on her way back to China expressing appreciation for the gift of money sent to her by the W. A. of St. Mark's a few weeks ago. The program for the afternoon included a vocal solo by Rev. J. L. Hughes, a duet by Rev and Mrs. Hughes, and a reading by Mrs. T. E. Graystock. In the absence of Miss D. Plant Deanery Officer, whom it was hoped would have been present, a very helpful address was given by Mrs. Hughes, dealing with the call of the Apostles, in connection with missionary work. A pleasing incident of the afternoon was the presentation of an autograph quilt to the Rev. and Mrs. Hughes in recognition of the ten years ministry of the Rector in the parish. Mrs. T. E. Greystock read a nicely worded address and Mrs. W. Pickel, handed the gift to the recipients. The quilt, which is the work of the members, bears 270 names embroidered in gold colored thread in sunflower design on a white ground, the whole being joined together with strips of blue material, the lining being of the same attractive shade. In responding to the pleasant surprise that had been sprung upon them, the Rector and Mrs. Hughes both referred to the affection and esteem they held for the congregation of St. Mark's, and the years of happiness spent in their service. After the meeting had been closed with prayer by the Rector, afternoon tea was served by the members, and a social time followed.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

The rehabilitation of a home is one of the things which falls to a homemaker's lot after a return from a summer camp, cottage or any resort. Although the stay may or may not have been a long one, there are many things which appear very needful to be attended to when seen with the fresh eye that absence supplies. They were just as important to have done before, but to the accustomed eye they failed to attract the attention due them. It is so easy to become used to seeing things not quite in proper repair, that they get overlooked, or if noticed, it is with the idea of seeing to them tomorrow, next week, etc.—any time but the present. It is on coming home after a sojourn, that these things positively glare at a homemaker. Delays in getting things right are bothersome. It is when this spirit is upon the homemaker that the tasks are the least troublesome to attend to.

* * * * * *

It often is a trifle which annoys the fresh eye. It may be that the gimp of a piece of furniture upholstery is dangling. It requires but a moment to tack it in place, but until it is done the furniture, however handsome in style and upholstery, attract attention to its blemish not its beauty. It may be a little retouching of the paint on woodwork in a room will be the restorative. Window sills and paint about door knobs get shabby often when the rest of the painted woodwork will react to washing to restore it without the application of paint and brush. Be sure to match the new paint to the old, and thin it along edges so that it will blend satisfactorily. The brush should drag enough of the new paint over the old to leave no definite line where the new stops and the old begins. Where paint is really defaced in many places little can be done through retouching to make it look right, but a homemaker need not be phased, for painting the woodwork is not a staggering job, unless the room is panelled.

Incidentally a saving of electric light bills results from the use of the centre light which suffices for many persons. Individual chair-lights seldom are of use except to the one occupying the particular chair. Also there is something artistic in the gradual alight fading away of illumination in corners of rooms. Delicate shadows are attractive indoors as well as out.

THEATRES

SHIRLEY TEMPLE IN "NOW AND FOREVER."

There was a line-up to Charlotte street last night for the two shows at the Capitol, with winsome little Shirley Temple as the star. In a recent article in Liberty magazine, Shirley's upbringing and daily routine are described. The article contends that the charming baby star is not at all spoiled and comments on the contract between her and the numerous "spoiled brats," as it calls other infant prodigies, who have from time to time cluttered up the Hollywood studios. And it gives all the credit to her very sensible mother, who supervises every move of her little, clever daughter.

The tiny star is as fascinating as ever with her quick, sweet smile and her expressive reading of her lines. Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard are the supporting figures in the story, which deals with the change in two heartless, selfish people when little "Pennie" comes into their lives.

Cooper has the role of the father who cannot resist a sucker and has all sorts of 'come on' games to entrap the cash of the unsuspecting. Carole is the girl who leaves a good home to become his second wife. Both of them, by the way, have extremely unlikeable mouths. Cooper's is a loose, 'flannel' specimen and Lombard's is a wide, sinister line. Why don't they cast that gal in a real, honest to goodness, evil part? She ought to be immense.

Sir Guy Standing, who usually goes in for noble roles, has the part of the wily old 'rat,' and Charlotte Granville is a dignified personage as the rich old lady, Mrs. J. H. P. Crane.

The comedy features the vacant-eyed Harry Langdon, in "A Roaming Romeo," and one of the extreme popular Pop Eye episodes is entitled "Shiver My Timbers."

And don't forget to try your luck next week in the screen tests to be made by Hollywood Studios, on the stage. The talking pictures taken in this way will be shown at the theatre one week later. Anyone has a chance to see how the screen deals with one's voice and person.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

GOOD VERSUS BAD CARD READING.

The following deal well illustrates the difference between the good card reading of North and the poor card reading of East. There can be only one of two reasons why a capable bidder makes a late opening bid in a minor suit; he either is so strong defensively that he expects to defeat any adverse game contract, or he is so strong offensively that he is able and willing to outbid any attempt to score a game against him. When East found that the latter reason was why North opened the auction on minor suits, he should not have pushed North into bidding a slam.

Bidding went: North, 1-diamond, with neither side vulnerable; East, 2-hearts; South, 2-spades; North, 3-clubs; East, 4-hearts; South, 5-clubs; East, 5-hearts; when he should have allowed the contract to die at a minor suit game; South, 6-clubs; East, 6-hearts; South, doubled; North, 7-clubs, satisfied that his partner held the ace of spades and preferring an even chance to score a grand slam to defeating East only a trick or two. East doubled, ending contracting.

North ruffed the opening lead of a heart. Dummy overtook the declarer's six of clubs with an eight, finding, as expected, that East held no trumps. A diamond was led. North's 10 won on a double finesse, dropping the lone eight held by East.

Dummy's J of clubs overtook the declarer's seven. The last diamond was led from dummy. The Q won the trick. The ace won the next diamond trick. Dummy used its last trump to ruff the last diamond of West's hand. This was the seventh trick. The declarer ruffed a heart. The next two leads were trumps, exhausting all clubs. The declarer took his two good diamonds. The thirteenth trick was won with dummy's ace of spades, giving North fulfillment of his doubled grand slam.

Some time ago I played the above hand at 4-spades doubled. The opening lead was the K of clubs, followed by the Q and J. Before Monday, think over the best method of trying to fulfill the game contract.

Onions Stuffed With Baked Beans.

—Six large Bermuda onions, one-fourth cup chili sauce, one No. 1 can baked beans, six slices bacon. Parboil onions in salted water for 15 minutes. Scoop out centers and chop fine. Combine this with the beans and chili sauce. Stuff onions and put in a pan with a little water. Cover and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Remove, cover and lay a strip of bacon, cut in two, over each onion. Raise temperature of oven to 400 degrees F. and bake until bacon is crisp.

Chocolate Marshmallow Pudding.—Two cups milk, two and one-half tablespoons cornstarch, one-third cup sugar, three tablespoons cocoa, two marshmallows, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla. Mix dry ingredients and dilute with a little cold milk. Scald the rest of the milk and stir into the mixture along with the marshmallows. JEWISH PEOPLE HOLD NEW YEAR

Jewish Year 5695 Will be Ushered in at Sunset Sunday.

SYNAGOGUE SERVICES

Monday and Tuesday Jewish places of business will be closed and members of the Jewish community here, as elsewhere, will attend special services in the Synagogue.

The religious observance marks the beginning of the Jewish New Year 5695. In importance it ranks with Yom Kippur, the day of fasting and repentance which follows ten days hence.

Rabbi A. Fine of this city is to conduct the special services at the Synagogue on Aylmer Street, while Rabbi Krakovsky of Toronto will be here to deliver special messages to the Jewish community for the occasion.

"The serious character impressed upon these days from the time of their institution have been preserved. They have such an important place that no orthodox Jew will fail to rest from his daily labors and attend the services. It is a time at which the pious Jew puts away all hatred, ill-feeling and ignoble thoughts and forgets about the daily routine of life," Rabbi Fine stated.

During the special services, he said prayers are to be offered for the welfare of the King and Queen, and for the British Empire, while in view of current events in Europe, special intercession is to be made on behalf of Jewish brethren in Germany, asking for the cessation of hatred and race prejudice among all the nations of the world.

"At this season, according to Jewish interpretation," Rabbi Fine remarked, "God reviews our conduct of the past year and decides what shall happen to us during the coming year. For this reason prayers are offered for forgiveness, and also for the strength and grace to meet the future trials of daily life."

This year the Synagogue has added charm as a result of redecoration and the provision of new seats.

A Beauty Problem

And How to Solve It

It is a real problem these days,
To retain health and youth and beauty,
In the face of so many cares and worries.
For worry saps the nervous system,
And brings headaches and sleeplessness.
Resulting carelines and wrinkles so destroy beauty,
That you are almost afraid to look in the mirror.
"Sixty per cent of present day ills
May be attributed to exhausted nerves."
This is what consulting physicians say.
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food can be of very great help to you,
Because it forms new, rich blood,
And fills your system with vital nerve force.
If you are sleepless, discouraged and depressed,
And suffer from headaches, indigestion and sleeplessness,
You may be sure that nerve force is running low,
And you need this great restorative.

Be Beautiful

"Dear Miss Glad: Some time ago, you wrote an article about a series of baths for hip and thigh reduction. They were, I believe, advocated by the famous Billy Grady. Could you possibly repeat the method of taking these baths for me?

ROSA."

In the bath routine you mention, the first night, a bicarbonate of soda bath should be taken. The tub of water should be tepid, and enough bicarbonate of soda added to give it a cloudy appearance. The second night, an Epsom salts bath should be taken. One of those large containers is usually sufficient for the average tub of water. The third night, a starch bath should be taken. In this case, enough starch should be used to make the water milky. After the third day, the three bath routines should be repeated in the same order. And on the seventh day, an ordinary hot bath should be taken. This should help to reduce your hips and thighs.

"Dear Miss Glad: The instructions on hair care contained in your 'Beauty Culture' booklet have proved most beneficial to my hair. I haven't any dandruff any more, and my hair doesn't fall out as it formerly did. And what's more, it's quite thick and glossy now. However, I don't like liquid nail polish, despite its popularity. I like powder polish, and would like to make my own if possible. Can you tell me how I might do this?

AGNES."

The dry, powder polish is most effective for giving the fingernails a natural gloss and luster, although it isn't as convenient and time-saving as the more popular liquid polish. There are a good many powder polishes of good quality on the market at present, but if you wish, you can also make your own. Take a specific quantity of talc, and mix with it an equal amount of tin oxide. Combine these ingredients well, and then merely add to them a little carmine, in order to give the polish color. This forms a most effective powder polish for the nails.

"Dear Miss Glad: My daily occupation requires that I use my eyes a good deal, and they seem to tire easily. I've heard that 'palming' is excellent for resting tired eyes, and would like to try it. Can you tell me just what 'palming' constitutes?

AMELIA."

Palming is indeed excellent for resting and refreshing eyes that feel strained and dry, and it is an extremely simple procedure. You must, of course, first cleanse your hands well. Then you dip them into cold water, and lay the cool palms over your eyes for a bit. When they lose their coolness, dip them into the cold water again and stroke the lids of your closed eyes softly in rhythmic movements, to soothe them. An equally effective method of resting tired eyes is to make little pads of cotton, moisten them with cold water or witch hazel and lay them over the closed eyes. These should be allowed to remain on the eyes for at least 10 minutes.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Hair

Marcia: You will find an excellent dandruff remedy in my "Beauty Culture" booklet. This booklet also contains the hot oil treatments for promoting hair growth and thickness, and many brightening shampoos and rinses.

Tubby: My method of reducing a double chin and making the neck firm and smooth is too long to print here. However, it is fully outlined in my "Beauty Culture" booklet.

Editor's Note: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" write, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling.

BEATS AGED MOTHER

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 8 (C.P.)—Albert Goit is recognized as the "best pleader and crier" but the "dirtiest dog in human form" in St. Kitt's city court. This remark was made by Magistrate Campbell when the man was brought before him. The accused had been drinking and assaulted his mother who is 72 years old.

HOW TO FIND THE ANSWER:

It is said that a famous professor who was a great astronomer noticed through his telescope that various stars in the heavens had different numbers of "points" on them. He was able to group these odd stars. This discovery so startled the scientific world that it was decided to find out what it all meant. After tremendous research it was decided that one of the planets was using this method to send the world an important message. By mathematical calculations the professor was able to decipher the message. His colleagues naturally wanted to know all about it, but he would not give them the message. He told them to work it out for themselves.

HOW HE DID IT:

"You will notice" the professor told them, "there are six rows of stars, each row of stars spells one word, and each star represents one letter of that word. For example, if a star has three points that star represents A. If the star has four points it represents D, E, or F and so on. I have worked out the Code for you, and I have also marked on each star the number of points it has; now you try and find what letter of the word each star stands for, by referring to the Code. (See code alongside stars.) I have cunningly arranged the stars so that each row of stars reading from left to right spells a word of the message. In order to help a bit the first word is "GREATEST."

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office by 5 p.m. on the day before insertion. All letters must be signed by the writer, although a pen-name may be used when inserting non-controversial subject matter. Letters over 400 words will be cut down at discretion of the editor.

THE UNBIASED MIND.

To Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—It is customary we all know to criticise lawyers for various offences against the simple-minded of the earth, but where would the simple-minded be, and the earth, too, for that matter, if the very highest form of mind and character as shown by our Judges, was not available?

READER.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir —In walking the streets of our city this morning, I was more than thunderstruck to see the what might be called the furnishing of a home placed out in the gutter. Its contents revealed the circumstances in which its owner lives. Being acquainted with the victim of such unfortunate conditions I asked several questions relating to reports appearing in your paper. Some, he states, are not authentic. He claims he was offered five dollars by the bailiff to quit the house, and not twenty-five as previously reported by the owner of the property. Being the owner of a car, which seems to be a stumbling block in the way of receiving relief, it was reported in your paper as stated by Mr. Metheral, if he would turn in his license he would receive immediate attention This has been done for over twenty-four hours without any apparent result. It seems to me that our city officials claim no responsibility for such conditions; therefore no effort is made to find quarters where they could be sheltered from the oncoming stormy weather. It has been said that houses have been offered them, but none of these is in a fit state to be inhabited; all being condemned by the Officer of Health.

It is gratifying to know that in our midst there are people with sufficient sympathy and generosity at heart to send them sandwiches and coffee, which was thankfully received.

End Printers' Strike Foreseen In Dublin

DUBLIN, Sept. 8 (C.P. Cable).—The end of a six weeks' strike of Dublin printers, which prevented publication of newspapers, was in sight to-day. Lengthy conference under the auspices of the Free State Government have led to an agreement being reached between publishers and printers on most points of difference.

The question of wages was practically settled yesterday, agreement being subject only to ratification by other unions. The managers and men have agreed to the establishment of conciliation machinery which in future will ensure a delay of at least six weeks before strike action can take place.

It was stated the printers have been given entirely satisfactory assurance with regard to the "censorship" of newspapers by the trade unions which had claimed the right to censor certain material. Conferences resumed to-day and probably will continue to-morrow.

HOLT REGRETS TOWERS' LOSS TO ROYAL BANK

President Regards Governor of Central Bank Notable Choice.

WIDE EXPERIENCE.

Brilliant in Languages, No Marvel in Mathematics.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Tributes to the ability of the newly-appointed governor of the Bank of Canada, Graham Ford Towers, were forthcoming here today from leaders in the banking and industrial life of the Dominion.

Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said: "I think that Canada and the Government are to be congratulated on having secured Mr. Towers' services, for I believe him to be better equipped for the post to which he has just been appointed than any man in Canada, and certainly outside of it.

"He was a brilliant student at McGill University and has had 14 years of experience, not only in Canada, but also in Cuba and the West Indies and in our European branches. He is just the right age for the undertaking, with exceptional experience and in the prime of life.

"Speaking for the Royal Bank, I can only say that we are exceedingly sorry to lose him, for his future was very bright with us. I am confident that he will make a success in his new office."

Beaudry Leman, geenral manager of La Banque Canadienne, Nationale, said: "I feel that both Canada and Mr. Towers are to be congratulated on the occasion of his appointment. He is an outstanding banker and an economist of mark; in fact, he is one of the best informed bankers in the country."

YOUTHFUL EXECUTIVE

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Graham Ford Towers was "brilliant in his languages, and good but no marvel at mathematics," stated Dr. W. Bruce Macdonald, headmaster of St. Andrew's College, where the recently-appointed governor of the Central Bank of Canada matriculated. Mr. Towers yesterday received the appointment for seven years, becoming one of the youngest of Canada's important bank executives, at the age of 37.

Graduating into McGill University in 1913 with three prizes and scholarships, Mr. Towers "had ability and used it," recalled Dr. Macdonald. "He took a keen interest in general school life, and was, as he still is, very unassuming."

Mr. Towers had entered McGill University in an economics course, leaving in 1916 to join the Canadian Expeditionary Force, Dr. Macdonald continued. He returned in 1919 graduating with honors in 1920. He was then appointed economist to the Royal Bank of Canada.

SALARIES NOT ANNOUNCED

OTTAWA, Sept. 8. (CP).—Pending decision by the Governor-in-Council no information was available with respect to the salaries to be paid the governor and other high officials of the new Bank of Canada. Legislation authorizing establishment of Canada's Central Bank did not specify the salaries to be paid as is sometimes done in Acts of this nature.

It is understood that Graham F. Towers, Royal Bank executive, who was yesterday appointed Central Bank Governor, will receive in the vicinity of $20,000 per annum although this could not be confirmed by an official information.

Weddings

A very pretty wedding took place at half past one o'clock today at St. James United Church, when the Rev. A. E. Moorhouse performed the ceremony which united in marriage Bella, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pooley of Payne avenue, and Mr. Albert Evans, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Evans of Peterborough.

Gladioli and ferns decorated the pulpit loft. The wedding music was played by the church organist, Mr. Frank Stevens.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pretty long-sleeved frock of white silk crepe and an embroidered veil caught with orange blossoms. White kid slippers, white silk hose and short white silk gloves were worn, and the bride carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, fine fern and gypsophila.

The bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Pooley and Miss Florence Evans, sisters of the bride and bridegroom respectively, wore gowns of similar type, in blue silk pique flounced at the hem and frilled around the neck. They wore white crepe hats, white slippers and silk gloves and carried bouquets of white asters, fern and gypsophila.

Mr. Frank Spencely was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception attended by about thirty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, where decorations were carried out in pink and white and the table, centered by the bride's cake, was done with gladioli and asters.

Mrs. Pooley, mother of the bride, was in a white crepe swagger suit with matching hat and shoulder bouquet of white dahlias and asters.

Mrs. Evans, mother of the bridegroom, wore blue crepe with white coin spots, a white crepe hat and corsage bouquet of white asters.

Mrs. J. Harrison, sister of the bride, was attired in figured crepe with coat of navy georgette, white hat and bouquet of small white gladioli.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans will reside on Payne avenue.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a pendant, and to the bridesmaid a compact.

SCOTT—JONES.

A quiet wedding took place on Thursday, at Gilmour Memorial Baptist church manse, when Miss Ruth O. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, of Otonabee, was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph R. Scott, eldest son of Mr. Fred W. Scott and the late Mrs. Scott, Chemong Road, Smith township.

Attendants were Miss Evelyn Faux and Mr. Vernon Campbell. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ralph D. Wright, M.A.

After a reception at the bride's home, Mr. and Mrs. Scott left on a motor trip to Kingston and points east.

JOHNSTON—VANALLEN

Springville United Church parsonage was the scene of a quiet wedding at 1.30 o'clock on Saturday September the eighth, when the Rev. H. P. L. Seymour united in marriage Helen Onilligh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. VanAllen of North Monaghan and Elwood McColl Johnston, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville H. Johnston of Springville, Ontario.

The bride wore a frock of navy silk crepe and fox fur, with navy felt hat and matching accessories.

The attendants were Miss Ezma Johnston, sister of the bridegroom, and Mr. William Patterson of Millbrook. The former wore a brown figured silk crepe dress, with hat and shoes to match.

On their return they will reside on the bridegroom's farm near Springville.

BELL—BOOTH

Trinity United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at half-past one o'clock this afternoon, when Freida Blackstock Booth, only daughter of Mrs. Elena Booth of Bolivar street and the late Mr. Albert Booth, was united in marriage to Mr. George Moore Bell, B.Sc., of Hamilton, son of Mrs. Agnes Bell of Saskatoon and the late Mr. David Bell of Weyburn, Saskatchewan.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. H. W. Watts of Toronto, entered to the strains of the Wedding March play by Miss Mabel Clarry. She wore a lovely frock of white mousseline de sole, made on long lines with short puffed sleeves. A small turban of white crepe had a little chiffon eye veil and she carried a little muff of white mousseline de sole and orange blossoms.

White kid slippers, white silk hose and long white kid gloves were worn and the bride's bouquet was of creamy pink Butterfly roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Violet Cheeseman of Toronto, was in a gown of poudre blue mousseline de sole, made on Grecian lines, with small hat of royal blue velvet, also finished with a little eye veil, blue slippers, long white kid gloves, and bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and gypsophila.

Mr. Donald Leightner of Hamilton was groomsman.

During the signing of the register, a solo, "Because," was rendered in very sweet voice by Miss Alma Blanchard.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, dainty buffet refreshments were served to twenty-five guests at the home of the bride's mother, who received with the bridal party, wearing dark green flowered crepe, a hat of black velvet and a corsage bouquet of orchids The mother of the bridegroom, living in Saskatchewan, was unable to be present.

The table, draped with a cloth of hand-made Irish lace and centered by a three-tier bride's cake, was arranged with two baskets filled with white asters and pink gladioli, flanked by tall ivory tapers in silver holders.

Presiding at the table for the service of refreshments were Mrs. J. F. Reed and Mrs. John Londerville, assisted by Miss Solveig Benson, Miss Leta Ruth and Miss Genevieve Price.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Wootton and responded to by the bridegroom. The toast to the bridesmaids, voiced by Mr. Gordon Morrison, was responded to by Mr. Donald Leightner.

Later, Mr. Bell and his bride left by the afternoon train for a trip to Toronto, Port Dover and other points. They will live in Hamilton.

The bride's travelling outfit was a brown crepe dress, a brown coat, hat and accessories, and a scarf of red fox fur.

The gift to the bridesmaid was a purse and to the best man a silver cigarette lighter.

HONOR SLAYING GIRL DEFENDED AS "SICK CHILD"

Growing Protests Hurled at State Plan for Criminal Trial in Chicago Murder.

WEALTHY READY TO AID

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—The relentless stand of the law met an outcry of protest yesterday as social welfare leaders, rallying to the defence of Anna Majetta, 15-year-old "honor" slayer, described her as a "sick child"—sick from the ills inherent in society.

In the women's ward of the county jail hospital, where she is being held pending action on a charge of murder by the grand jury, the girl received interviewers for the first time, but was still too shocked by her tragedy to talk.

Prays Over and Over

Regarding a crucifix that usually hangs on a ribbon from her throat, she prayed over and over again, handling the beads of her rosary, numb and helpless from the thoughts in her mind.

She prayed for forgiveness in killing her mother, who was shot through the heart a week ago in their home, when a bullet pierced the girl's father as he fell mortally wounded, stopped by Anna as he beat her mother brutally.

Meanwhile, Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, announced that he would go before the grand jury next week to seek an indictment

Wealthy Ready to Aid

Apparently the widespread outcry against treating Anna as an ordinary murderess was having its effect, for Crowley intimated that the state's attorney may consent to her release on bond after the indictment, which a group of wealthy sympathizers were prepared to post.

TORONTO FAIR IN FINAL DAY

Attendance Figures For Two Weeks Are Away Above 1933.

BOY SCOUT PARADE.

TORONTO, Sept. 8 (C.P.).—The Canadian National Exhibition, with its attendance figures far above last year, to-day put on its final show for this year, with Citizens' and Centennial Day drawing crowds through the gates.

Musical contest winners and the Exhibition chorus will appear tonight as the two-week exhibition comes to a close. Col. F. H. Deacon, president, and Mayor William Stewart of Toronto, which is celebrating its 100th birthday, will deliver addresses.

Mayor Stewart and City Council members will be guest of the Exhibition directors at a luncheon, and Lieutenant-Governor Herbert Bruce will review the annual Boy Scout parade with all Scouts in Ontario being represented. About 5,000 will take part in the parade.

A junior athletic meet will be staged before the grand stand this afternoon. Three one-mile and one two-mile bicycle races will be held, with Bob McLeod, 10-mile victor at the British Empire Games, appearing in a two-mile handicap affair.

Bob Mitchell, who will represent the Dominion in the schoolboy meet at Melbourne's centennial, will bid goodbye to the Dominion by competing in the one-mile run.

Warneke Stops New Yorkers--Tigers Drop Double

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

BILLY WOLLATT will have a lot of customers at his popular Leaside oval this afternoon if the weather remains on the clear side. The feature race on the card is the Francis Nelson Memorial Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth. Crofter has been assigned top weight of 116 pounds in this event with a field of eleven others including Shady Well, Spey Crest, Live One and Plain Ben. It should result in a swell finish. Jim Badame has not arrived yet from Rockingham with Khorasan, Aymond and his good ones, but he has several lesser lights already parked on the grounds.

They tell us that Meridian Queen is just burning up the track these mornings and it would not surprise us greatly if this aged mare took on a new lease of life this fall. Single Star is another that is a little on the ancient side of life, but is still able to turn on the juice with the best of them in a six furlong event. We have an idea that Boscobel will take a lot of beating from now on. She has had a nice rest and is apparently all freshened up for a hard autumn campaign.

JOCKEYS Rosengarten and Keester are still keeping up their sensational saddle work. They each booted home three winners again on Thursday. They have a horse at Lincoln Fields called Noah's Pride that is going to do business in a big way one of these fine afternoons. Justa Sheik is another at the same place that is all set for a big killing. He finished second his last start and is just raring to go.

Down at Rockingham they have one called Blue Day which looks like a sure thing any day now. Boy Crazy at the same place is a lot better than a green hand when it comes to a distance event. He is in smart hand and will cop an event shortly just as sure as there is tea in China. The long Detroit meeting is nearing the close and before the curtains are rung down we look for John Mill to turn in a winning effort. He is in great shape at the present time. Manners also shapes up like an early winner at the City of Fords.

GETTING BACK home it may pay you to remember that Caerleon won a race last June at Thorncliffe in handy fashion and seems to have a preference for that track. Never take him if the track is the least bit muddy as he wants no part of a heavy racing strip. Lindsay is another that always favors the Leaside course. This one is a Canadian bred and when pitted against his own kind is always dangerous. Frank Higgins has Powder Monkey and Swaggerstick both right on edge and Frank always has serious intentions. Any horse he starts you are always sure will give you a run for your money, as he is one trainer who will never start a horse unless he has a chance to win.

CHICAGO'S ACE HURLER SCORES TWENTIETH WIN

GAMES POSTPONED.

The Giants ran into a "jinx" pitcher, Lon Warneke, and yielded to the third-place Cubs 4-2 after two triumphs over the Chicago club. As all the other National League teams were kept idle by rain the Giants lost only a half game in their relations with the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, leading by 6½ games. Chicago still was eight behind.

The A's home run duo of Jimmie Foxx and Bob Johnson were the principal instruments of Detroit's downfall. After Philadelphia had taken advantage of Tom Bridges' wildness to score three runs in the second inning of the opener, Foxx belted his 41st homer of the season to send Tommy to the showers. Later Bing Miller hit for the circuit, and that proved to be the winning run as Detroit staged a three run rally in the ninth and drove Roy Mahaffey out.

After a nip-and-tuck struggle for six innings of the second clash, Johnson hit his 30th four-play wallop in the seventh to start a two-run rally that won the game. Hank Greenberg led the Tiger attack with three doubles for a season's total of 56, 11 short of the major league record.

Lou Gehrig remained two homers ahead of Foxx by belting his 43rd against the White Sox but that wasn't enough as Jimmy Deshong failed to hold a 4-1 lead when Chicago staged a three-run spurt in the seventh and finally won out in the ninth when Lefty Gomez passed Luke Appling and Manager Jimmy Dykes sent him home with a hot double. It was Gomez fourth defeat against 24 victories, ending his ten-game winning streak.

A home run caused much of the Giants troubles, just as for the Tigers. Gabby Hartnett socked one with Riggs Stephenson aboard to give Chicago the lead in a duel between Lon Warneke and Carl Hubbell and New York never overcame the deficit as Warneke pitched steadily to beat them for the sixth time this season.

Washington and St. Louis, fifth place rivals in the American League, divided a doubleheader With Heinie Manush driving in four runs, the Senators won the opening 7-4, then the Browns went 12 innings for a 3-2 decision after Rollie Hemsley belted a homer to tie the score in the ninth.

The Boston-Cleveland contest was rained out.

Last night the Keene lasses showed the batting punch that have made them the toughest team to beat in the Ladies' Loop when they came from behind to score the winning run in the last half of the seventh innings against the Westclox to cop the victory 8-7 in a duel that was fought in semi-darkness and drizzling rain. This win leaves the leadership very much in doubt with four teams bunched above having mathematical chances of finally winding up on the top rung in the second half.

The teams:

While Detroit Tigers and New York Giants appear headed right straight for the 1934 World Series, occasional obstacles in their courses emphasize the fact that they haven't clinched the pennants yet and may possibly be beaten out.

They both stumbled yesterday and the consequences came close to being serious for the Tigers. Detroit ran into its first double-header defeat of the season, losing a pair of 5 to 4 decisions to the Athletics. As it turned out the loss was only a half game as the cellar-swelling White Sox upset the Yankees in the ninth inning, 6-5, leaving New York five games behind.

LEAFS CAPTURE 10-FRAME TILT FROM MONTREAL

BEARS ALSO WIN 3-0.

(By the Associated Press.)

Featuring the closing drive of Newark Bears, who already have clinched the International League championship, has been the brilliant pitching of Walter Brown, huge right-hander.

Hurling the first five frames of his team's 3-0 conquest of Baltimore Orioles yesterday, Brown increased his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 33. He had pitched two full game shutouts in his last two appearances and was just as effective against the Orioles, giving only four hits in hanging up his 20th victory.

He was lifted after the fifth to give him plenty of rest before the start of the league play-offs next Tuesday. Vito Tamulis mopped up and allowed only one more hit. Cliff Melton, Baltimore southpaw, pitched steady ball himself once he had gotten past the first inning when a walk to Carlyle, Hill's double and Muller's triple gave the bears two runs.

Albany, sure of fourth place and a berth in the play-offs along with Newark, Rochester and Toronto, won its sixth successive game, beating Syracuse 4-2. Bill Harris, former Pittsburgh Pirate twirler, blanked the Chiefs with one hit for five innings and then retired to await the start of the play-offs. Ray Prim finished up and was touched for five hits and both of Syracuse's runs in the late innings. Ad Liska allowed the Senators only seven hits but his teammates made three errors.

Ray Fritz and Montreal Royals lost a heart-breaking 2-1 decision to the Toronto Maple Leafs in ten innings. In the tenth after Fritz had got rid of the first man, Lincoln Blakely tripled to the score board. Jimmy Ripple fielded the ball and relayed it to Ben Sankey who threw wildly to the infield and Blakely scored the deciding run. Joe Morrissey's triple and George McQuinn's single scored the first Toronto run in th sixth. Montreal squared it in the eighth on a walk to Shevlin, Thompson's single and Ripple's safe hit. Don Brennan gave Montreal seven hits, one more than Fritz allowed the Leafs.

Buffalo and Rochester were held idle by cold weather.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, Mister Lee's lads has clawed themselfs into a mighty nice position in the Central loop playoffs, and mebbe by the time this gets out the big serious will be all over. The boys grabbed off the 1st 2 games easier'n Bobby Pearce took Bill Miller for the world's skulling championship. Here Mon. our Mister Russ Kitchen tossed a mighty sweet game against the Nats' redskin ace, Mister Jack Williams, and win from post to post, with our nimble athaletes giving him blue ribbon support all through the piece. Mister Williams didn't pitch such a bad game hisself, but the local lads hit him at the right time and the Belleville fielding was a bit off, if you get our meaning. Anyway the Petes delighted a flock of fans by a snappy 5 to 1 win and they looked the better ball club anyway you take them.

Wed. the scene shifted to the Belleville ball park, and what a sad afternoon it turned out to be for the Nats supporters! Mister Mills elected to hold Mister Williams outa this fixture, and before it was all over pretty near everybody was in there pitching except Mister Williams, the mayor and the bat boy. Mister Smith, the elongated curve baller, was the 1st victim, but he didn't last long enough for some of the late-comers to get seated. Mister Casey followed, and he, too was all washed up before the frame was over, and Mister Utronki come in from right field to get the side out after the Petes had chased 5 markers home. Mister Utronki got his in the 2nd frame, and Mister Alex. Weir brought the life-boat out and wound up the frame after the Petes had scored a juicy ½ dozen runs, 3 of them coming on Mister Calladine's 1st home run of his still youthful but already brilliant baseball career. Mister Weir toiled heroically in a lost cause for a frame or 2, and finally Mister Bonny Green took over the pitching burden, and his curve ball finally stopped the Lee lads after they had piled up 16 runs.

Meanwhile our Mister Calladine coasted along nonchalantly and was never in any more danger than there is of a Tory ward chairman getting a job from the Hepburn Govt. As a matter of fact, Mister Calladine, who is now the power-house of the Peterborough attack, batted in enough runs on his own account to win the argument, and his steady pitching never allowed much chance of the Nats doing any serious threatening.

It was a sorry day for the Belleville fans, and if some of the hard-boiled wolves which has razzed the Petes at home on a number of occasions this season ever seen the Lee talent take a licking like that they would sure of had something to howl about. Almost before the Nat supporters knew the game had started it bust right in their faces, and the parade of the wooden pitchers made the afternoon a nightmare in Belleville.

Well, Mac, to switch over to another sphere, the big league races look to be in the bag and the Giants and the Detroits is in. Right now, before any 1 beats me to the punch, I'm calling the Giants to grab off the world's serious, and they oughta do the trick with something to spare, in spite of School Boy Rowe and the rest.

Well enough for now, so I'll hang up.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Little Miss Canada III captures World's Title After Thrilling Race.

WILSON AT CONTROLS.

TORONTO, Sept. 8. — Roaring down Lake Ontario's mist-hung water course in the foaming wake of Chicago's Emancipator III., Little Miss Canada III, brought the first world's championship for 225-cubic inch hydroplanes to Canada last night.

Like a silver torpedo flash, the Emancipator with Mortimer Auerbacher of Chicago at the controls, clawed across the rolling course before the Canadian National Exhibition, 100 yards in front of the Canadian challenger in the third and final heat of the championship series—but the race, based on point totals, gave the contest to the mahogany Canadian craft.

The little contender was piloted over the course by portly Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., who brought in his trim craft first in the first heat, and second to Chotsie VI. of Mrs. Florence Burnham of Wilmington, Del.

Silver-topped Wilmer III., guided by Dr. C. H. Bagley of Baltimore, placed third last night. Final point standings of the leaders were:

2—Emancipator III., Mortimer Auerbacher, Chicago, 925.

3—Chotsie VI., Mrs. Florence Buhrman, Wilmington, Del., 686.

4—Wilmer III., Dr. C. H. Bagley, Baltimore, 294.

5—Riptide, Al Schwartzer, New York, 220.

6—Miss Muskoka, Bob Moody, Hamilton, Ont, 169.

Emancipator's time last night was 22 minutes and 2 seconds; Little Miss Canada, 23.24; Wilmer III., 25.19, and Chotsie VI., 28.11.

LOCAL OUTFIT WINS ON ROUND BY 25-21 COUNT

Clubmen Triumph Over Belleville Aajmas in Second Game 10-9.

A CLOSE STRUGGLE.

Kiwanis won the championship of the Central Ontario lacrosse group last night by nosing out Belleville Aajmas Club by a 10-9 score before over three hundred fans in the Armouries. It was the final game of the playoffs and the local team won the round by a count of 25 to 21. A strong attack late in the fourth quarter, in which they netted four fast goals, gave Kiwanis the game—a contest that was filled with action and close throughout.

Despite the speedy going and close checking at times, play was remarkably clean and only three penalties were drawn. The Belleville team, three counters down on the round, came here with blood in their eyes and had a noticeable edge in play the first half. But the classy Petes kept close on their heels and proved their superiority before the final whistle. Open play and smart combination made it an interesting tilt to watch. The count was 3-3 to end the first quarter, 7-4 for Belleville at half-time, and 7-6 for the visitors going into the fourth frame.

Good Goaltending

Both goalies turned in a bang-up display of net-minding. They let few soft ones slide by and repeatedly robbed their opponents of sure goals with great saves. Miller and Cadd made a strong home defence, and both front lines dished up plenty of classy lacrosse. Probably the pick of the Peterborough players were Magee, Miller, King and McConnell, though all of them figured prominently in the victory. Belleville players also worked hard all through, with Runions and Powers the most effective.

King scored from Dundas just after play opened but Cole evened it several minutes later. Blue went off for slashing and Routley took McConnel's pass to tally. Runions evened it up and then Powers whistled one in. Routley and McConnell again combined to knot the count at the whistle. In the second Belleville outplayed the Petes by a good margin. Gibbs got the first one and Then Runions dropped one in the hemp. He passed to Smith for another and play warmed up plenty. Cadd scored on Magees assist, but Powers took Hendy's pass to wind up this quarter.

Even in Third

Play was even in the third and Kiwanis got the only two goals as the other side constantly missed close-in chances. King got both counters on assists by Dundas and Miller. Hatton was chased for slashing and Hendy got the gate right after for a similar offence.

The visitors opened the final frame with a drive, Hendy tallying early and Smith getting another. Then Jack rapped in Magee's rebound after a lovely lone rush by Mick. King notched one from Routley and took Miller's pass for the equalizer. Cadd rushed in alone to tally the final one shortly before the last whistle.

The teams:

Belleville — Goal, Goodier; defence, Filion and Flint; rover, Gibbs; centre, Runions; wings, Powers and Hendy; alternates, Whitton, Bush, Blue, Cole, Smith and Burdes.

Kiwanis — Goal, R. Creighton; defence, Miller and Cadd; rover, Hatton; centre, Dundas; wings, Jack and King; alternates, Magee, Jones, Routley, E. Creighton, McConnell and LeBarr.

Referees—F. C. Wagborne, Sr., and D. Batchelor.

Those that sashayed up to the Armouries yester eve to see that lacrosse playoff got their money's worth and maybe a little better. They were treated to a fast, exciting tussle, packed with action and smart play. We've seldom seen better combination than that dished up in the last half by Kiwanis, while both goalies made a flock of sensational saves. The game ended with a 10-9 nod for the local laddies, and you can't come much closer than that and still win. They took the round and Central Ontario championship by a 24-21 count; showing they were a little better in both contests than the Belleville-cum-Campbellford, alias the Aajmaa Club, crew.

No doubt about it, box lacrosse between two well-matched squads is a neat number to watch. You've got to have plenty of the old malarkey under your belt to get out there on the floor and go anywhere in this he-man's sport. In fact, we think a player is not only nuts, but slightly balmy, to play it without a leather helmet. At that, the game wasn't too rough last night. The boys all tended to their knitting and showed the customers that lacrosse can be interesting and still clean.

• • • • • • •

The visitors put up a game scrap and extended Kiwanis plenty. But the homesters had a little more class and showed it with a final four-goal drive in the dying minutes of the fracas that settled the old series. The veterans, King, Duhdas, Miller and Jack, all looked nifty out there when needed, and you can't overlook the sparkling playing of Magee, McConnell and most of the others. Every player worked hard for the win and all helped bring the bacon here. The Armouries makes an ideal spot for this abbreviated and rapid sport. The locals will likely meet a Toronto team next within a week or so.

• • • • • • •

Cogs' game today in Kingston was called off yesterday as the Kingston Fair Grounds were taken by a carnival, circus or something. The O.B.A.A. will settle the dates for this playdown series in a day or two, with the first game likely in the Limestone town and then back here for the next. They'd better make it snappy as the winners will still have a long way to go, and the nights aren't getting any warmer lately.

• • • • • • •

Elsewhere tonight appears the gals' softball standings. As Keene took a neat 8-7 verdict over Westelox yesterday, they are now in second place right back of the Alarm Lasses. Four teams all have a chance of getting into the second-half playoffs yet, but a couple more game should weed 'em out. The playoffs may be started by the middle of next week. And it's beginning to look suspiciously like a showdown over those two disputed games of several weeks ago. The executive will likely have to rule on them as they'll probably have a bearing on the final standing. C.G.E. and Port Hope Alerts waded through to a 7-all draw at the Bowl last eve.

• • • • • • •

The heavy downpour of rain today forced the postponement of the C.O.B.L. playoff contest here between Belleville and the Petes. As this is written, we don't know when the third game will be staged, probably Wednesday afternoon here. In a way, this delay is a break for us as it will give two of the infielders, Murray and Konopka, who have been suffering sore throwing arms lately, a chance to rest them and take more treatments. As for local pitchers, we've got enough of them ready any time—the Petes' staff consisting of five good flingers. Knotty Lee's gang has no fear now of Williams or any of the other Nats' hurlers, and still figure on copping the title in three straight.

• • • • • • •

And rain again interfered with the Ross-McLarnin fight in N'Yawk last eve. Weather permitting, it will be put on to-night—otherwise the lads will have to wait till Tuesday to tangle. The repeated calling off of this welter titular brawl may help the gate a lot but will do the high-strung ex-Vancouverite more harm that the more phlegmatic Ross. They'll have to weigh in again also and it's not at all sure if Jimmy will scale low enough to make the grade by this time.

• • • • • • •

Those interested in Belleville and here in organizing a rugby league in Central Ontario this fall aren't fussy about joining the O.R.F.U. this autumn—claiming they need a year to get teams strong enough to compete with such squads as Oshawa and others in it every year. However, they fully expect to have an independent loop consisting of Belleville, Peterborough and maybe Lindsay or Cobourg—or both—lined up in a week or so. The Aajmaa Club is about to call its first workout; and the local lads with ambitions to play football again, aside from interscholastic play, will likely be called to practise shortly. Charlie Carson is the local organizer and feels a strong squad will represent this town.

OSHAWA SOFTBALL TEAM WINS FROM BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 8. (CP).—Behind the superb pitching of 'Preem' Whitely, their ace moundsman, Oshawa softballers stepped out of town last evening after having downed the local Canada Dry outfit 9 to 7 in the first game of the third round of the O.A.S.A. intermediate playdowns. Whitely started rather uncertainly, but settled away to pitch winning ball when he struck out fourteen batters and let the locals down with nine scattered safeties. Johnnie Bawden, the local hurler, proved rather wild throughout.

"Shud" Ethier, Canada Dry third-sacker, was the long-distance hitter of the day with a lofty homer far into right in the fourth. Tuttle counted three consecutive singles for the locals. Chamberlain with three singles and Dalton with a brace of doubles were the best offensively for the winners. Tuttle's running catch of Hall's liner in the ninth was the feature play.

BRITISH GOLFERS HOLD PLAY HONORS

U. S. Players Earn Tie, With Canadian Representatives Three Strokes Behind.

Royal Montreal Golf Club, Que., Sept. 8. (CP).—In the closest and most thrilling matches in the history of senior international triangular golf, Great Britain and United States yesterday played to a tie, with a grant point total of 22. Canada trailed the leaders with 19 points.

The championship is held by Great Britain, by virtue of a victory in England last year, and yesterday's inconclusive result leaves her in possession of the title. The Devonshire Cup, competed for by the champion senior teams of United States and Canada, also staged in the same hands as matches played simultaneously with the triangular contests, resulted in another tie. United States are the holders. Their point totals were 22½.

Promise is most given when the least is said.

WESTERN TEAMS PICKING UP MANY U.S. FOOTBALL STARS

Regina and Winnipeg Out to Win First Dominion Championship From East — Both Field Strong Teams—Rivalry Keen.

By CLEM SHIELDS

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 8. — Moving out of Winnipeg and taking a peek under the heavy veil of secrecy that surrounds the activities of the Regina Roughriders Football Club, one is impressed with the idea that Gregory Kabat and Russ Rebholz, both former Wisconsin stars, and coach and assistant coach, respectively, of the Winnipegs this year, will have their work cut out for them this season. Scouts advise that Curt Shave, one of the best to ever don a Western Canada uniform, has been scouring the neighboring states to Saskatchewan for talent and has not been unsuccessful.

From North Dakota the Riders have secured the services of Ralph Pierce, scintillating halfback, who showed to great advantage in Winnipeg last fall. Ralph has speed to burn, is a nice kicker and knows the art of passing a ball.

Walker, another Nodak, will work in the Regina line — along with Steve Adkins, husky end, who hails from South Dakota. It is possible that Joe Crakes, another big boy from the same school, will be on the other end.

Dave Sprague, the old Hamilton Tiger star, is supposed to be domiciled in the Queen City for other reasons than his health, while Austin de Frate, who left a fine impression with the easterners when Regina went after the Dominion title two years ago, is also back in the fold, but owing to outside coaching duties he may not be permanent in the line-up.

Ritchie Is Out

Al. Ritchie, considered by many to be the West's greatest rugby and hockey coach, will not be at the helm this year. Each year, as it comes along, finds Ritchie staunchly maintaining he will not be on the job. Until this week this statement of Ritchie has lacked truth, but this week his position as coach of the Riders was filled by Jake Grassick, who last year bossed it over the smart Regina Dales junior aggregation.

With this array of grid talent on hand, backed by the best of last year's squad of the Regina Roughriders figure they will be strong enough to "take" that "upstart" team from Winnipeg which last year defeated them in the Western Canada final and earned the right to travel east.

It was the Winnipegs' showing last year which impressed the East that the West is beginning to take its football seriously and that from now on any team carrying the banner of the West will have to be treated in a far more serious light than has been the case in recent years.

The Winnipegs, who have been suspicious for some time that Regina has been hard at work behind the scenes, have not been idle. The loss of Carl Cronin will not be felt as much as at first thought. With Greg, Kabat and Russ Rebholz at the head of the pack a bunch of boys have been gathered together which are confidently expected to again trim the Regina outfit and go east for the title.

More U.S. Imports

Only the best will represent the Winnipegs this year, for the simple reason that new American blood has been infused. Bobby Schiller, star quarter, last year with the Wisconsin Badgers, has been signed and shows great stuff in workouts. Schiller is much the same type as Cronin. He starts fast, hits hard and has a high knee action which is pretty to watch.

"Jugs" Anderson, last year's captain of the Oklahoma Aggies, is a kicker to delight the eye of the most critical observer. He can punt 60 years and think nothing of it. He is truly a blessing to the Winnipegs. It is claimed that once Anderson gets on the 40-yard line it means a point.

Coaching worries over the end position are at end for the showing of young 190-pound Jeff Nicklin, last year with the champion Deer Lodge juniors, has brought smiles to both Kabat and Reboholz.

All in all, it seems that this year Winnipegs have a 25 per cent. stronger squad than last year, in which case they stand a fine chance of again representing the West and just as good a chance of at last "taking the East for a ride."

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 8.—The preferred tennis stock of the United States — Frank X. Shields and Wilmer Allison — took a big drop and then rallied strongly at the finish yesterday as the first and second nationally-ranked stars fought great uphill fourth-round battles to keep their places in the fifty-third men's national championship.

Shields was extended to five sets before overhauling left-handed Robert Ryan, an unranked performer hailing from Signal Mountain, Tenn., 9-7, 3-6, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2, while Allison dropped the first set and then recovered his form to eliminate John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., 3-6, 6-2, 10-8, 7-5.

Four othre players joined Shields and Allison in advancing to the quarter-final round, but Canada's lone survivor this far, the dynamic Marcel Rainville, was not among them.

The Davis Cup veteran from Montreal played brilliantly after a faulty start in his match against young Sidney Wood, Jr., of New York, but he could not quite match the speed and placements of the United States player. Scores were 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

Fred Perry, England's ace, and the defending titleholder in this classic, glided through the fourth round with the greatest of ease. Edward W. Feibleman of New York was no match for any department of the Briton's game and the latter won, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2.

The others who went into the quarter-finals were Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles and New York's Clifford Sutter. Stoefen a winner

MARITIME TITLES WON BY SHARPE AND RIMMER

DIGBY, N.S., Sept. 8 (C.P.)—Eddie Sharpe, of Saint John, yesterday won the Maritime golf championship, defeating Gint Cain, of Yarmouth, N.S., six and five, in 36 holes of match play. At the same time Sharpe shattered the course amateur record of 75 held by Geo. T. Dunlap, Jr., with a 73. They wound up the first 18 holes on even terms after the Saint John ace had staged an amazing rally to overcome a three-hole deficit at the end of the 11th hole.

Jimmie Rimmer, professional of Ashburn at Halifax, to-day won the Maritime professional golf championship in an extra nine holes with Archy Skinner of the Pines, Digby, when he carded a 33, two under par for the distance. The two had been tied in their totals for 36 holes of medal play with 145, and Rimmer gained a four-stroke advantage on Skinner in the playoff. Jack Madash, of Amherst, was third with 149.

Sington Of Albany Sold To Senators

ALBANY, N.Y., Sept. 8 (A.P.) — Fred Sington, slugging outfielder of Albany Senators of the International League, has been sold to Washington of the American League for cash and three players, the club announced yesterday. The amount of cash was not disclosed.

Joseph C. Cambria, owner of the Albany Club, said Jake Powell, Sington's partner in heavy hitting, and a fellow outfielder, would be sold by Sunday. Boston National's, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh have bid for Powell.

John W. van Ryan of East Orange, NN.Y., 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, and Sutter conquered Berkeley Bell of New York, 6-3, 7-9, 6-4.

Lawn Bowling BY Herb Martin

They May Postpone the big swim on account of the water being a little chilly; they may postpone the Globe Scotch Doubles because the greens might be a little damp, or the air a little cool, but you try and stop these bowlers from taking part in this weekly affair and you will be running into a whole lot of trouble.

—o—

Fourteen Rinks turned out last evening; and for those who stayed at home, we say that it was too bad.

—o—

There Has Been many keen competitions up on these greens but last night was an exception: no less than four games being tied, and five other games being won by one point. The committee did not do too badly last night, four of them cashing in on the point. Nice Work.

—o—

The "Ifs" Sisters were working overtime. IF he had just taken my gross; IF he had played the other side; IF we had had any luck at all. Well, you know what we mean—it was good stuff to listen to. About all some of us won was the toss.

—o—

Some Of The Boys thought the grapes were sour; others thought they were lovely grapes—it all depended on which side of the score board you were on.

—o—

The Members of the winning rinks each received a basket of grapes. The winning skips were: H. Coleman, H. Freeman, G. Gimblett and R. Martin.

—o—

In Yesterday's paper we pointed out all those who had received eight ends. Well we left out a couple—and did it intentionally—just to find out if the boys are reading this column. They are. Dr. MaHood scored a possible on F. Brown, and J. Penose did the same to J. Skinner. That makes six eight-ends this year instead of four.

TITULAR BATTLE AGAIN POSTPONED

Rain Interferes Once More at New York—Scheduled for To-night.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8. (AP)—The weatherman tossed a beautiful feint in the form of sunshine at Jimmy McLarnin and Barney Ross yesterday, then crossed them quickly with a neat downpour that forced the second consecutive postponement of their return duel for the welterweight championship in Madison Square Garden's big bowl on Long Island.

Barring continued opposition from the man who pulls the strings of the water buckets, the show will try to go on again to-night, and if that's not possible a fresh start will be made next Tuesday night.

Complications Arise

All sorts of complications bobbed up meanwhile. Now McLarnin, who weighed 145¾ pounds Thursday at the official scaling, and Ross, who nudged an even 140, will have to do it again this afternoon on the New York State Athletic Commission scales.

In order to make sure of keeping at or under the 147-pound class limit, McLarnin was out last night on a seven-mile jog around the reservoir in Central Park. Ross, meantime, took an hour's limbering up workout at Stillman's gymnasium. Ross, of course, will have no worries about the class limit, but McLarnin may have not a little trouble in cutting himself down to do it again.

McLarnin-Ross Bout Set For Next Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—(AP)—The Barney Ross-Jimmy McLarnin 15-round welterweight title bout, scheduled for tonight in Madison Square Garden bowl, was again postponed today until sometime next week as the rain which brought two previous postponements continued. The new date for the fight is to be set later in the day.

CHAPTER 24

"There isn't much to tell, Nancy."

"Have you any plans?"

"Only that I am going to stay here for a bit and keep Penelope with me, and then I shall go back with her to Maine for Christmas."

"Go back?" Nancy's tone was incredulous.

"Yes, I promised."

"But surely you are not going to shut yourself up in that ghastly place for the winter?"

"It isn't ghastly, and I have some good friends there."

She wondered what Nancy would think of those friends—of old John and young John, of Evelyn and Priscilla, of the plain farmhouse, and of the oysters which would be bought with hoarded pennies.

"Oh, I couldn't disappoint them," she said, with a break in her voice, "there are some darling children."

Nancy was practical. "The thing you have to do is to get the most out of your money. The world is before you, my dear."

"But what kind of world?" Joan's eyes were troubled.

"Heavens, child," Nancy bent her head and kissed her, "don't begin to ask yourself questions. Just live from day to day, and thanks the gods for youth and the capacity to enjoy."

Joan's eyes were wet. "I think I'm tired," she said, "I can't imagine myself just now enjoying anything."

Nancy gave her a shrewd glance. "Run along and let Farley give you a massage and tuck you into bed. Do you know how lucky you are, my dear? To have a maid to yourself? I'd sell my soul for some one to do my hair and draw my bath."

"Farley's a dear," Joan said, "but I'm not used to having people always about. I like being alone, and looking after my own things."

She went away, and Nancy getting herself into a black satin robe with green and gold dragons writhing over it, waited for Drew.

When at last she heard him, she opened the door between their rooms. "Can you talk to me for a minute?"

"Of course."

She went in, sat down, and lighted a cigarette. "Drew," she said, "this is the moment to get busy."

He leaned on the back of a chair and looked at her. "What do you mean?"

"I mean to make up with Joan. She is low in her mind. She won't have much resistance."

He shook his head. "You saw her manner. She would hardly speak to me."

"I don't blame her. You made an awful idiot of yourself when you tried to force a clandestine marriage."

He blazed back at her: "I was an idiot to tell you."

"You always tell me everything."

"You drag it out of me . . ."

"I don't . . ."

"Oh, well, why quarrel? We've got to stick together!" Nancy's pointed finger nail tapped the polished wood of the dresser as she took stock of the situation. "Look here, Drew, did you know Adelaide was going to leave Joan her money?"

"She said something that made me think she might."

"So you decided to take the gamble?"

"Yes."

She shrugged her shoulders. "I told you that the time you and Adelaide were making a lot out of nothing. Between the two of you, you drove the child away . . . and now you've got to get her back."

He wasfmoody. "It's not as easy as it sounds."

She crushed her cigarette in a bronze dish. "Of course I want you to marry her, Drew. It will mean financial salvation for us, and she will be as happy as with any other fortune-hunter."

He was furious. "Cut that out . . ."

She lit another cigarette. "Don't get so fussed about it. Some one will marry her for her money if you don't."

"I shall marry her for more than that."

"You still insist that you care?"

"Yes. You can believe it or not . . ."

She touched his arm lightly with the tips of her fingers: "Then you have my blessing, such as it is. And now, I'm dead for sleep. Good night."

When she had left him, Drew waited a few moments, then went into the hall. He descended the stairs, and found Jason in the drawing room setting things in order for the night. He had turned out the lights of the crystal chandelier, and the place was now illuminated only by a Chinese lamp. "Will this be enough light for you, sir?" Jason asked, as Drew entered.

"Yes . . . shall I turn it out when I leave?"

"I'll be in again, sir."

The old butler went down the hall, to the little room where he sat when he was not busy. If he wondered why Mr. Hallam sought the frigid formality of the drawing room at this hour, he made no sign. Jason was discreet and well-trained. Adelaide had seen to that.

Joan had found Farley ready to coddle her. "When you've had your bath, I'll give you a good rub."

"Not tonight, Farley. I'm going to talk to Mrs. Sears. And you needn't stay up. This won't be the first time I've put myself to bed."

"There's no reason why you should now, Miss Joan." Farley felt cheated. She had hoped for a bit of gossip. Adelaide had always talked to her maid. Farley wanted to hear about Drew Hallam, and what Joan thought of him. She trusted there would be no question of marriage. She had talked the matter over with Jason: "He hasn't a cent to his name."

"She ought to take a house in London," Jason said, "and marry a man of rank and title."

"She'd better leave Mrs. Sears behind," Farley said, vindictively, "a person like that don't fit into fashionable life."

"She's not so bad," Jason decided, "I've seen duchesses with no more dignity. She'd get by with the right people better than that Miss Hallam."

Joan stayed for some time with Penelope. They did not speak of Drew, and the older woman was aware of the significance of Joan's avoidance of his name. "He's on her mind," she told herself, shrewdly.

Joan spoke of her conversations with the old gentleman and the old lady. "It seemed so strange to see Aunt Adelaide through their eyes, as young and beautiful, and kind and sweet. It is dreadful, isn't it, to know that age can make such changes."

"It isn't age, my dear. It is the way one meets life."

"I know." Joan sat thinking about it, and at last she rose. "I'll have my breakfast in bed. Will you have it with me? Most of the women are having trays sent up."

"I'll want mine early. You'd better sleep as late as you can. You are more tired, child, than you know."

Tears came suddenly to Joan's eyes, and she buried her face in Penelope's shoulder. "I am tired," she sobbed, "and oh, Penelope, darling, I'm so glad to have you."

When at last Joan went to her room, everything was laid out for her. But Farley had, according to instructions, gone for the night. Joan wrote a line for her on a table under the telephone: "I want to sleep late, Farley. Don't disturb me."

She sat down at the desk in her sitting room and began to open the letters piled neatly on her blotter. Most of them were from Adelaide's friends—messages of sympathy, written on paper with crests and monograms and smartly engraved addresses.

Out from them all she chose a note which John Alden had written:

"Don't sentimentalize your sorrow. So many people do that. Scourging themselves with regrets. Trying to give to the dead what they withheld from them in life. You may be saying to yourself that you should have stayed with your aunt in spite of everything. Yet you did what at the time seemed right. It would seem right now if she were here again. I should not speak of this except that I remember the day you gave me your confidence. Old age makes one wise, and you thought I could help you. I think I did, and I want to help you now. The great and fine thing you can do is to remember that you loved your aunt. You must go on strongly to meet the future. That is what we all have to do, no matter what our circumstance.

"We are not sure, of course, whether you will come back to us. If you do not, we shall have great loneliness of heart. The children miss you. We all miss you, and pray that courage may be yours, and wisdom."

How wonderful to grow old like that! Joan laid the letter down and thought about it. Old John Leonard's age and the age of Adelaide Delafield: One finding joy and peace in a world of sorrow and sickness and poverty, the other selfish and miserable in the midst of plenty.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, September 9

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of sudden change, with much commotion, excitement and stirring about. There is also an element of duplicity and subtlety urging the need of caution or the dragging of a secret situation into the limelight to be drastically disposed of. There may develop many angles of treachery or trickery, necessitating change of an abrupt nature. However, the employment is under good auguries, with preferment or promotion in sight.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of change, turmoil and disturbance, with a menace of fraud, trickery and subtle undoing which is to be brought into the open to be drastically dealt with. Employment is under fair promise for preferment, promotion or other token of esteem.

A child born on this day should be of a bold and adventurous disposition, and may merit the support of substantial persons in promoting important projects. They may travel far.

For Monday, September 10

Monday's astrological forecast is for much activity of a rather mediocre nature, particularly in the domain of writings, publishing, publicity and kindred activities, which should meet with fair gain. These and business generally should enjoy quick turnovers and a renewal of agreements or contracts. There may be a modicum of initiative and enterprise, despite small setbacks or delays. Domestic, social and affectional matters should be found pleasant and active.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly active and profitable year, especially in those vocations having to do with letters, publishings, publicity and promotion. A fair day for initiative and enterprise, despite some sign of postponement and obstacle of a minor nature.

A child born on this day should be versatile, resourceful and make its best success in literary pursuits or in quick profit taking. Bargaining and selling may be its forte.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

A recent article written by that well-known English authority on postage stamps, W. E. Fyndem, recently appeared in Stamp Collecting. It concerns the stamps of Canada, and I believe should be of considerable interest to collectors living in Canada. Mr. Fyndem writes in part:

"The outstanding features of the market in Canada today are the well sustained demand and the shortage of really good material. Practically for the whole of this past season the buyer has been up against the difficulty of finding Canadians in quantity, and collections in the condition required by specialists and ultra-particular collectors have been almost unobtainable.

"As a result of this acute shortage, prices for Canadians have ruled high, and, perhaps what is equally important, everything points to their remaining so."

This is quite true, but do not overlook the two important points mentioned, "good material" and "condition". It is on these two points where most collections and accumulations fall down; as a collector you will be wise if you start at once, to try to improve the condition of your collection. Replace poor or damaged copies with fine ones, just as soon as you can. When buying additional varieties, try to secure only really good copies. Undoubtedly, fine copies will cost you more than damaged or otherwise poor ones, but then, you are money ahead in the long run. If, in ten years from now you want to dispose of your collection and your stamps are in the best of condition, you will undoubtedly be able to secure a good price for them. But on second rate or damaged copies you are almost sure to lose out when you try to sell them, no matter how long you have had them.

Mr. Fyndem goes on to quote the different issues, which he has found to be all more or less scarce and in demand, a few instances are as follows: the 1897 Jubilee issue; there is a shortage of lightly cancelled higher values, and complete mint sets are also scarce and in demand.

The Queen Victoria Maple Leaf and Numeral issues are for the most part readily available, although the six and eight-cent values are the best, and add that the ten-cent of the Maple Leaf issue is quite scarce, both used and mint, and blocks are seldom found in fine condition.

The Edwards are not mentioned to any extent, except for the five-cent mint. Personally, I believe that all values above this are also quite good, if in fine mint condition, especially in blocks of four or more.

The Quebec issue of 1908 is quite popular, and supplies of these stamps are fast dwindling. Complete sets, whether used or mint, are well worth having, and blocks of four or more of the higher values are exceptionally scarce.

The King George issues are gradually improving, but with the exception of some of the 1912 issue in mint blocks, none is really hard to pick up so far.

The Pictorial issues of 1927 and 1928 are by far the most popular stamps, and to my mind, in fine used condition, are much to be preferred to any of the earlier King George issues in similar condition.

The 50c Bluenose of the 1928 issue is becoming very scarce, especially in fine used blocks. The $1 Parliament Buildings of the same issue, long considered a fairly common stamp, is at last coming into its own, and collectors and dealers alike are beginning to realize that in fine condition this stamp is much scarcer than was thought.

My own experiences with the issues from 1930 to date points to the eight-cent blue of the 1930 issue and the 13c green Ottawa Conference stamp of 1932 as being about the two best. The $1 Mt. Edith Cavell, for long almost a rarity, in fine used condition, is now being used more extensively; prices have fallen considerably during the past few months, until now the stamp may be purchased at a fairly reasonable figure. Fine copies, though, are by no means common, and I doubt if they ever will be; there are so many st. edges, off-centre and heavily cancelled copies that cut the percentage of fine ones down to a minimum.

Due to the size of the recent three-cent Cartier and two-cent New Brunswick Commemoratives, they are not being used as generally as they might have been. It is a little too soon to know just exactly how they will end up, but I wouldn't be at all surprised if they turn out much better than their low value denomination would seem to indicate.

"CUT OFF HIS LYING LIPS" SAYS GIPSY KING OF RIVAL

'King Michael III' Calls Tribe Together to Patch Up International Strife.

HOLD BIG REUNION.

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Central Press Canadian Writer

OPAVA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 8.—To be seated in the place of honor on the right of a king, with the queen snuggling up to your ticklish side; to be dipping cold boiled potatoes in the same butter-dish with their majesties without using a fork; to have the king, for lack of napkins, condescend to borrow your handkerchief in order to wipe the royal moustache and then watch him out of the corner of your eye as he stealthily smuggles said handkerchief into his own voluminous pocket, all this is not an everyday occurrence, I will admit, but when you are a flying reporter you soon learn to resign yourself to take things as they come—and go.

Poland is a republic, Czechoslovakia is a republic. Austria is a republic. Nevertheless, I had an audience with an authentic native king twenty miles from this triple republican frontier where the aeroplane deposited me after an hour's flight from Vienna. I should make it clear at the outset that the king in whose presence I found myself was not one of that house or garden variety of ex-monarchs who are roaming the highways and byways of Europe these days in search of a lost crown. I am speaking of an authentic ruler, a bit of a despot even, equipped with all the paraphernalia of royalty such as a body-guard, a lord privy seal, a jester, a coat of arms, a coronation-coach, subjects and the rest of it.

Gipsies Hold Reunion

Twenty-five thousand gipsies are holding a national reunion here. Four hundred heavily-armed policemen are watching proceedings. The aim and object of the assembly is to effect a reconciliation between two tribes. In view of the fact that such love-feasts are invariably enlivened with a gargantuan amount of drinking and, hence, end up in bloody battles wherein dexterous knife-work is the chief item on the program, the police of several countries are standing by.

"Only gipsies are permitted to the camp," said the Czech commander of a rural constabulary detachment whom I met after I had made my way forward along a terribly monotonous road through this bleakest part of Europe where the Slavic world just about begins. "What is a gipsy?" I asked. "One of these rascals that never stays put," defined the chief. "That makes me eligible," I said and got through the military cordon by showing my last income tax receipt of the Republique Francaise. Hurrah for the allies!

An hour later I marched into the gipsy camp accompanied by a myriad of half-naked and entirely naked kids, who set up such an unearthly yell that I thought I had hit an annual outing of the Kiwanis. The racket made the king come running out from his covered wagon fully expecting, I dare say, to see a rival in the act of carrying off the sceptre. I set his majesty's apprehensions at rest at once by announcing myself as a representative of the world press and showed him a card from the Paris police which permits "the bearer to cross the lines in the event of fire and riot" in the French capital where I am domiciled.

Lady Snatches Pipe

The king promptly pocketed this card, adding it to an assortment of other magna chartas, expulsion orders, affidavits, war-declarations, love-letters and sundry diplomatic documents, which he carried in the breast-pocket of his corduroy jacket. The first portable state-archives I saw in my life!

He then introduced me to the ladies-in-waiting, who had mobilized in the meantime. One of them, a black-eyed Susie, asked me, like any other fellow-soldier in Flanders fields, if I had a cigarette to spare. I told her by way of gesture, that I did not smoke cigarettes, but that I favored a pipe like a Christian. I grant you that it is somewhat of a tour de force to imitate by gesture what a Christian is. But then I practised ventriloquism at school and got quite good at it. So good, in fact, that it helped a now famous pastor to pass his examinations in Greek. Ask Dean Wallace! I pulled my old briar out of my pocket, intending to show the lady what I meant. She snatched it out of my hand as if it was the Cullinan diamond, while in reality it was of infinitely more precious value—the Cullinan diamond means nothing to me—and she ran off as swiftly as a gazelle, flapping her colored silken skirts.

Another lady, who may have been the first one's twin sister upon first sight, asked me, also by gestures, if I had anything else in my pocket. This embarrassed me a little because there were many more damsels in the line-up waiting to be introduced and if they were all of the same taking disposition as the first, I could see the moment arrive where I would qualify for the front row in a burlesque house on first nights. Fortunately his majesty graciously intervened at this moment by telling the second lassie begone, words which I did not understand, to be sure, but whose meaning was unmistakably demonstrated by the pointed action with which he accompanied them. Another set of skirts went flying!

Rift in Gipsy Ranks

The king told me his name was Michael and we fell at once to discussing certain grave matters of state. "We are living in hard times," he said, "and the gipsies are having their share of it." The gipsy problem, I gathered, was rendered more difficult by their inner divisions. United, there was no saying what they could not achieve, but divided . . . his majesty sighed. "You have no doubt heard of Rinci?" he asked. I had to admit that I had never had the honor. "Better so," remarked his majesty, "better so. Rinci claims he, too, is king of the gipsies. But he is nothing but a vulgar horse-thief!"

"Is that so?" I said sympathetically. "Yes, a horse-thief and a murderer and a pick-pocket and a cut-throat and a cannibal and a defiler of woman and a hound's dog! That's what he is." It all came out in a spluttering torrent of words. The king did not need a dictionary apparently. He recited that little litany as easily as an old spinster repeats the seven cardinal virtues before retiring. "But he is coming over here, Rinci is," his majesty went on, "to make peace with me, so I suppose I better not tell you about his other crimes. Yet before I make peace with that baby-snatcher, I'll make the fur fly . . ."

"The fur?"

"Yes, I'd like to cut his lying lips off with this razor," said the king, producing a wicked-looking pruning-knife from the state-archives (see above) "and then," he added, "I'd like to make him eat his own flesh. What would you do?" he asked suddenly, looking me fiercely in the eyes. "I will tell the whole world about this infamous usurper and deliver him up to the despise of my fellow-citizens and of all honest men the world over," I said. I would have promised a whole lot more in the presence of that crooked knife, but the extent of my knowledge of the gipsy language is not large and the king's Italian was about as clear as that of a cow speaking Spanish. Still, we got along famously! A good underst ander, says an old Dutch proverb, needs only half a word . . .

Divine Rule of Kings

His majesty Michael III. of the House of Kweig is a giant of a man, with huge white walrus moustaches. He believes in the divine mission of kings and has undertaken long voyages to unite all the gipsies under his command. The privilege of dwelling under his benevolent rule is payable with an annual tribute in horses, gold and women. In this way he has managed to impose his royal authority on the tribes of Hungary, Roumania, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Spain, Serbia, Belgium and Germany. Only the gipsies roaming in Poland are not yet under his sceptre. It was to bring these straying sheep into the fold that the reunion was being held here near Opava.

King Michael invited me to stay with him as his guest to await the arrival of Rinci, which I accepted. He then led me to the royal van where I met the queen, a sixteen-year-old matinee doll with flashing teeth and a chain of gold coins around the neck that would make the mouths water of all the chancellors of exchequers in Europe and the two Americas. The queen spoke French, which the king did not, so I was all set. We had dinner consisting of what I suspected to be roasted horse-meat and cold potatoes. I found that one soon grows accustomed to dispense with a fork and fell to musing upon the thinness of the veneer of civilization. Plato ate without a fork, so did St. Peter and Queen Elizabeth, but she at least had a dress to wipe her fingers on, historians tell us, whereas King Michael had copped my only handkerchief.

Fiery Dancing

In the evening there was communal singing and a dance by the glare of a camp-fire which made me think of the Baptist barbecue in Marietta, Georgia, which I attended some years back, except that the Baptists did not dance, of course.

But what dancing! The late Czar Nicholas, peace be on his ashes, and the other Russian grand dukes, who were connoisseurs of gipsy mammies and their terpsichorean evolutions in the moonlight, would have given the whole of Siberia to see this show. Siberia? What am I saying? They would have thrown in Turkestan to boot.

I slept in one of the covered wagons along with a young fellow who did an inordinate lot of scratching and whose monosyllabic lingo I did not understand. But he did cast glances—and these glances I understood—of such unmistakable admiration at my shoes, that I decided to keep them on. I had my shoes stolen once on a Russian railway and since Mr. Stalin never compensated me for the loss, I have learned my lesson. So, booted and spurred and in full harness, but with my pipe missing and my head resting on my grip—kitbag style—I lay watching the stars twinkle above Professor Mazaryk's country and sniffing the faint perfume of heather.

SPECIAL GUARDS FOR FRENCHMEN AT LEAGUE MEET

Fear Fascist Activities Over Nation's Favoring Russia Joining Council.

SWISS OPPOSED.

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

GENEVA, Sept. 8. (AP).—Extraordinary police precautions will be taken to protect the French delegation to the League of Nations and also, later, the Russian delegation if Russia is elected to the League of Nations, it was revealed to-day.

Local authorities were advised by the Central Government at Berne of rumors that manifestations were being prepared by Fascist elements against both the French and Russian representatives.

These manifestations, it was said, would be directed against France because of that nation's activities seeking Soviet Russia's admission into the League, and the manifestation planned against Russia would be because Swiss conservative elements opposed the entrance of Russia into the League and Switzerland will vote against Russia at the Assembly.

Some Snags

League leaders forecast an easy admission for Russia with the allocation of a permanent peace council but, simultaneously, they admitted that they were troubled over the attitude taken by Argentina, Poland and Portugal.

The British delegation was also understood to be trying to break down any Portuguese resistance, a vital step because Portugal is a member of the council and can block a permanent seat for Russia, thereby effectively preventing that nation's entrance into the League. Argentina's attitude continues to be a mystery and was one of the main subjects in the discussion in League's lobbies yesterday. The Argentine delegate said he had received no instructions from Buenos Aires on how he was to vote.

and attempts to catch them. They sent a letter to Labatt last Friday instructing him in the seven-page missive how to contact them and through whom to pay the ransom, and then threatened his life if the promise he made when released to pay $35,000 ransom was not fulfilled.

Ridicule was made of the police who were described as not "worth a damn," and the letter said their "wires" were "tapped." The letter carried a Windsor postmark, which led police to throw their forces in the border area in the belief "Three Fingered Abe" was a former drugstore clerk in Detroit, who had a record of armed robbery.

A stomach full of lead was promised to Labatt if he did not pay the ransom. The brewer apparently was released, according to Attorney-

(Turn to Page 16, Please)

General Roebuck, during a press conference yesterday, when the abductors became aware the police knew where Labatt was held in the Muskoka district. It was a small cottage in which Labatt was chained to his bed by the wrists, three men closely guarding him.

Descriptions of the three men rested in police hands, received from the owner of the cottage the kidnappers rented and residents of the Wildewood area near Gravenhurst. Labatt also was able to give a description of his captors who had failed to tape the eyes of their victim properly as they drove him from the Sarnia district to the hideaway.

Hepburn Warned.

Even the Premier of Ontario was included in the letter-writing efforts of the gang. Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn was warned by a letter scrawled on a card that the newspapers must be silenced or it would be "too bad." This note differed from the ransom note as the spelling of Labatt was one word, while the note demanding $150,000 had the name as "La Batt." Publicity was preventing ransom payment, and police also were on the job to forestall handing over the money by contact men.

Attorney-General Roebuck, as he announced the descriptions of the kidnappers police had obtained, declared any information received would be confidential, and there would be no publicity given regarding distribution of the reward. During his press conference the Attorney-General maintained no ransom had been paid by the Labatt family, and from Windsor came descriptions of police work that prevented any payment to the abductors.

the crews of the lifeboats found it heavy going to pull the eight miles to the Jersey shore.

Lifeboats Not Filled.

The lifeboats have a capacity of 70 persons, including crews, but the six that are known to have been launched were not filled to capacity. One left with only 12 persons, including the crew.

The rain beat down in torrents, as the wind gained force, but despite the poor visibility the ship ablaze could be plainly seen from shore.

It was not believed the Morro Castle would sink. No one, however, could remain long aboard her and live, survivors believed.

Whether chief officer Warms escaped was not immediately ascertained. As lifeboats landed, the survivors in many cases were taken at once to hospitals.

The belief that the death list would be high was predicted by survivors, upon the belief that scores of passengers did not have time to leave their staterooms before the fire reached them.

Bodies Washing Ashore

ALLENHURST, N.J., Sept. 8 (AP) —Bodies of some of those who perished in the fire on the steamship Morro Castle off shore early to-day were being washed up soon after daylight.

Coastguards here said they had reports of numerous bodies found along the shore. The northeast storm and a heavy low-lying fog cut visibility to a minimum.

Believe Canadians Aboard

HAVANA, Sept. 8. (AP). — The Morro Castle left Havana Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock for New York carrying 318 passengers and a crew of approximately 240 men. It was not immediately ascertained how many Canadians were aboard.

All but sixty of the passengers were tourists, the boat having left New York Sept. 1 on an eight-day cruise.

Most of the passengers were Americans, and the ship carried a heavy cargo of fruits, vegetables, tobacco and sugar.

Among the tourists were Wilfred J. Kedy, conected with the Royal Bank of Canada in Havana, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Phelps, E. H. Kendall, Miss H. Bartz, J. Kempt, Francis Tosti, and E. E. Pottsberg, all of New York.

DIVORCE CHEERS MARY HEATH BATH

Former Wife of Richard Barthelmess Now Gains Freedom From Theatrical Agent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8 (U.S.) —Out of Superior Judge Thomas F. Graham's courtroom there burst Friday a jubilant and also famous female. She cried:

"Where is a typewriter?"

They found her one. She wrote: "This is a swell day! Wheeee!!!"

She added a few more coherent lines, and mailed it to her sister to tell of her divorce. That's the way Mary Hay Bath, one-time Follies beauty, then wife of Movie Star Richard Barthelmess, then divorcee, then wife of New York Theatrical Agent Vivian Bath, got her freedom back.

It was a rapid proceeding before Judge Graham that won an interlocutory decree for her, on her charges that she got back to her New York home one evening and found her husband had departed, and that he never came back. She had married him in Greenwich, Conn., in 1927—a year after she had divorced Dick Barthelmess.

To get the decree, Mrs. Bath flew here from Hollywood, where she is producing movie shorts. To-night she took a plane back to movieland.

Southgate, England, is to build at cost of $315,000 a swimming pool, suitable for use all the year round, with sunbathing enclosures.

Nearly nine tons of South Africa gold, valued at $10,000,000, was landed at Southampton, England from a single vessel.

GALILEAN ADDRESS BY STEPHEN HABOUSH

Native Of Biblical Land At St. Paul's Church Sunday Morning—Movies On Wednesday Night.

Inspiring messages from the Holy Land with exclusive motion pictures of the land of the immortals who lived and worked with the Master are to be brought to Peterborough by Stephen Haboush in two appearances on September 16 and 19. The visit is to be sponsored by St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

In his first appearance, he will speak during the regular Sunday service at St. Paul's Church. On the following Wednesday at 8 p.m. he will present a musical travelogue.

A Galilean.

Mr. Haboush is a Galilean by birth. He has looked upon the bright skies, the green hills, the olive groves, as they were two thousand years ago when the tremendous story of the four Gospels was happening. He was born to the mysticism and wonder of the East. It is his heritage. He grew up in the eternal hills still redolent of the mighty events that happened there.

He came to North America and was educated in North American Universities. Later he returned to Palestine to the scenes of his youth. And he brought back to the new world a message, a message straight from the heart of the ancient and changeless Holy Land, a story that every North American and every Christian is inspired with.

His is the message of faith—the old faith of the fathers. To a modern and materialistic world, he brings the beauty and marvellous imagery of the world that was, the Holy Land of antiquity, and also the lives and characters of the Immortals. Mr. Haboush will speak Sunday, September 16th at 11 a.m. on his Shepherd life in Galilee.

MADAM HABOUSH

STEPHEN HABOUSH

He adds to his messages an unusual charm by the use of special motion pictures, enhanced by beautiful scenes in natural colors which appeared in The National Geographic Magazine. Mr. Haboush is the author of "My Shepherd Life in Galilee."

Wherever Mr. Haboush has appeared, whether it is before great North American Churches, Conferences, Assemblies, Schools and Colleges, before London audiences, or on the platform in the ancient city of Damascus, he has interpreted the Scriptures in the light of places and people. He brings to you every breath of Scriptural times and places and people. Madam Haboush will assist in costumes and Oriental music.

BISHOP DEAD AT NORTH BAY

the Grand Seminary, Montreal, he was ordained on December 21, 1890, and for several years served as priest at St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough.

The death of the Rev. Eugene Bloem, pastor at North Bay, then in the diocese of Peterborough, left a vacancy and Father Scollard assumed the pastorate of that parish on March 1, thirty-eight years ago. He early realized the need of a new church in North Bay and accordingly purchase was made of the land on which now stands the spacious and beautiful church known as St. Mary's pro-Cathedral. The corner stone of this edifice was laid on June 19, 1904, by the late Bishop O'Connor of Peterborough.

When the new diocese of Sault Ste. Marie was created, Father Scollard was consecrated as the first Bishop. The consecration ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. R. A. O'Connor at Peterborough on February 24, 1905.

The newly created Bishop expressed the desire to remain at North Bay, continuing his life's work there, and special permission was granted. For over a quarter century he had labored in his spiritual domain extending from North Bay to Rainy River.

During that time new and important parishes have been opened up in the diocese. Convents, hospitals, orphanages, Catholic high schools and colleges have been established in different sections offering tangible evidence of Bishop Scollard's ability as an administrator.

Not only was Bishop Scollard a power in Northern Ontario, where he had to surmount physical, religious and racial barriers, but was widely regarded as an authority on ecclesiastical matters. Had he not from deliberate choice shunned the limelight, there is little doubt that Bishop Scollard would have occupied a much more important and exalted position in the Catholic hierarchy of this Dominion.

Japanese Decide Upon Naval Parity

TOKYO, Sept. 7 (C.P.).—Japan definitely committed itself to-day to a policy of being second to none in naval armament.

The Empire determined to renounce the present scheme of naval limitation, and demand in naval matters a ranking in all respects equal to that of Great Britain and the United States.

The formal policy received the approval of the nation's highest authorities, including, it was stated, the Emperor.

It was stated that the program now definitely drawn up will be the guide for Japanese negotiations at the naval conference next year, and at conversations in London preliminary to the conference.

SERIES EVENED HASTINGS LOOP

Clerks Defeat Tanners 17-12 in Third Game Before Large Crowd.

SECOND THROWN OUT.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, Sept. 8.—The Clerks defeated the Tanners 17 to 12 in the third game of the play-offs on Friday night before a bumper crowd. The win evens the series as the second game was thrown out on a protest by the Clerks. The final game will be played on Monday night, the winner meeting Elgin for the local softball championship and the Uncle David Cup.

Hahn started on the mound for the Tanners but was away below his usual form. The Clerks getting to him for five hits, two walks and an error in the outfield for seven runs in the first inning. The same number of hits with sloppy support gave the winners five more in the second. With two runs in and one out in the third Hahn was yanked in favor of 'Curly' Scriver who fanned five and with the exception of the sixth when Wilson hit for the circuit to score two runs ahead of him, he held the Clerks at bay. Whitred on the mound for the winners was touched for 17 hits, but his teammates gave him airtight support and helped him out of many tight places. Lemoire with five hits out of five times up was the big man with the willow for the Tanners. Wilson led the Clerks with two singles, a double and a homer. Dr. Doug Hay pulled off the sensational stops of the game around second base.

ORIGIN OF MORRO CASTLE FIRE SEEMED INCENDIARY, SHIP'S OFFICERS TESTIFY

Acting Captain Warms Says Blaze Discovered in Ship's Locker.

OFFICIAL ENQUIRY.

Officer Breaks Down in Recollection of Captain's Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10. (AP).—Testimony that the fire which swept the liner Morro Castle, causing the deaths of 133 persons, was apparently of incendiary origin was given to-day by Acting Captain William F. Warms and Clarence Hackney, second officer of the ship.

Testifying before Federal investigators, Warms based his belief on the fact that there had been a fire, apparently incendiary, on the Morro Castle during a previous voyage.

The ship's master, who succeeded to his post just before the fire, told the New York inquiry—being conducted by the Federal Steamship Inspection Service—that six or seven girls were carried very drunk to their staterooms before the blaze.

The flames which reduced the luxurious vacation vessel early Saturday morning to a charred hull flared as if they were caused by ignited gasoline, Warms declared.

Hackney testified that the rapidity with which the fire spread indicated it might have been "touched off."

When, speaking about the earlier fire, Warms said "someone set it," Inspector-General Dickerson N. Hoover of The Steamboat Inspection Service asked "How do you know?"

"I found charred paper on the cargo," he said.

The company's formal report of that fire, produced at the hearing, agreed with the details of the chief officer's story.

Long Smouldering

"I think somebody put something in that locker that burned and smouldered fire a long time" Warms testified.

"It smoked, and we saw that smoke first, and then it burst into flames."

"Any other place?" asked Hoover.

"The only other place seemed to be the lounge."

"Then" asked Hoover, "you base

ROCHETER, N.Y., Sept. 10 (AP).—Investigation by the owners of the Rochester-Cobourg car ferry Ontario No. 1 into its near capsizing late last Friday night was completed to-day as more of the 65 persons injured were discharged from hospitals.

Two inspectors of the claim department of the Canadian National Railways, which with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad controls the Ontario Car Ferry Company, Ltd., came here Saturday night and made the round trip yesterday.

Capt. Charles Redfern, commander of the boat, said they ascribed the accident to "an act of God."

Thirteen of the persons injured when the boat rolled and pitched in the trough of a heavy sea, tossing them about a glass-strewn deck, remained in hospitals to-day. Mrs. Harriet Sequin, 35, the most seriously hurt, was reported improved. Her lung was punctured when a heavy slot machine was torn loose from its base and struck her.

Spark From Fire Laid to Brew Tea for Harvesters Blamed for Tragedy.

SWAN RIVER, Man., Sept. 10. (CP)—The charred ruins of a little farmhouse in the big woody district, 13 miles west of here, to-day told a story of tragedy. Mrs. James Walsh and five children perished in flames which destroyed their homes Sunday night.

Neighbors cared for three other children rescued from a blazing bedroom by their father whose condition was reported as "just fair." He was removed to hospital badly burned about the face and body in a futile effort to reach other members of the family.

The husband was found unconscious lying in a room near the foot of the stairway leading to the sleeping quarters. Overcome by smoke he had collapsed and was rescued by farm workers drawn to the scene by the blaze that was visible for miles.

His wife and five children were trapped in an upstairs room when flames ignited by a spark from a kitchen stove, roared through the dwelling. The children ranged in age from two to 14 years. They were; Kenneth, 14; Mabel, 13; Rita 12; Dorothy, eight; and Mary, two.

Hurled to Ground

The husband was returning home when he noticed the fire. With a ladder he attempted to force an entrance at an upstairs window. He was thrown to the ground when a wall of smoke and flame enveloped him. Badly burned about the face and neck he crawled through a kitchen window and from the smoke and flames carried Nita and Evelyn outside. Ada,

GERMANS MADLY ACCLAIM HITLER AT NAZI RALLY

Ovation Could Not Have Been Greater for Caesar or Kaiser Says Newsman.

EASY MARK FOR ASSASSIN

(By Louis P. Lochner. Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press)

NURNBERG, Sept. 10.—Adolf Hitler, accustomed to adulation, was frankly elated to-day at the amazing demonstration of unquestioning fealty accorded him as the huge Nazi convention here entered its final phase.

Mediaeval Nurnberg, jammed to suffocation, acclaimed him with astonishing fervor yesterday. Hundreds of thousands of persons of all degrees clung to turrets, crowded old ramparts and swarmed over historic churches as Hitler left a Storm Troop rally in gigantic Luitpold Arena and drove slowly to the Castle of Citadel, perched high over the venerable city.

Every window along the five-mile route was jammed with men, women and children.

One U. S. Reporter

The only American among five foreign correspondents, I attended the Storm Troop and Schutz Staffel exercises yesterday. Not only were we given front row seats, ahead of those occupied by Konstantin Von Neurath, Foreign Minister, General Werner Von Blomberg, and other members of the Government, but we were placed in the automobile immediately behind that of Der Fuehrer.

We were thus intimate witnesses of the drive through the city by Germany's uncrowned king, during which Hitler received an ovation which could not have been more en-

LEVEL CROSSING TAKES 2 LIVES CARS 6 OTHERS

Two Men Die Instantly Near Woodstock as Express Hits Auto.

3 WOMEN VICTIMS.

Toronto Man Arrested for Manslaughter After Crash Fatal to Girl.

(By the Canadian Press)

Highway and level crossing accidents today left a week-end death toll of eight lives in Ontario. Three women were numbered among the dead, victims of auto accidents. Two men were killed when a passenger train plunged into their auto.

Wesley Brown and Hugh Conley of Burgessville, Ont., were the level crossing victims. Brown, driver of the car, drove onto the track, believing a wig-wag signal indicated a stationary freight train nearby, but a passenger train on the Canadian National Railways line, passing through Beachville near Woodstock, struck their car, bringing almost instant death.

The three women killed were Miss Blanche Berntrand, 23, of Fort Coulonge, Que.; Miss Margaret Sills of Sillsville, Ont., and Miss Alma Bannerman, 28, of Toronto. Miss Bertrand died in North Bay hospital from injuries suffered when the auto she was in collided with a truck, four miles north of North Bay. Miss Bannerman was killed in Toronto when Edward Hinchcliffe's car hit her, the driver being arrested on a manslaughter charge. Miss Sills died after the auto she was riding in smashed into a truck near Napanee.

When George Armstrong, 46-year-old cattle drover, drove his car into the rear of a motor bus, four miles south of Exeter, he suffered fatal injuries but none of the bus passengers was injured although the rear of the vehicle was demolished.

The two other crash victims were

CHARRED LINER FLOATS TO BEACH VIEWED BY 70,000 PEOPLE SUNDAY

Fire Still Smoulders In Ruin Of "Morro Castle"—Identified Dead Number 79 Early To-Day—Cause Of Fire Still Undetermined.

(By the Associated Press)

A revised list of casualties in Saturday's sea tragedy when the Morro Castle burned at sea showed today:

Identified dead	79
Missing, passenger	27
Missing, crew	31
Total	137

The identified dead total includes Captain Robert Willmott, whose body has not been recovered. He died of natural causes before the Morro Castle caught fire.

The liner, which carried 318 passengers and a crew of 236 lies beached just off the Asbury Park Convention Hall and boardwalk. More than 70,000 persons viewed it yesterday.

Searchers sought additional bodies aboard the ship today, as far as the still smouldering fire permitted. They sought also, some clue to the cause of the fire, which is as yet undetermined.

A general morgue has been established at Jersey City, and 2 unidentified bodies lie there.

The condition of the several injured in various hospitals is reported as satisfactory.

Federal Enquiry

A federal investigation was begun by the United States Department of Commerce in New York today, with Dickerson N. Hoover, Inspector General of Steamships, in charge. Three inspectors, sitting with Hoover, constitute the Board of Inquiry. The first witness to be heard was Chief Officer William F. Warms, who was acting captain when the boat caught fire.

A member of the crew made charges of laxity in fire drills aboard the Morro Castle, and said that the Merchant Marine's tradition of "passengers' first" was not followed. He was to tell his story to the federal inquirers today.

Two Explosions To-day

ASBURY PARK, N.J., Sept. 10 (A.P.)—Two explosions in the flame-ravaged wreck of the Morro Castle to-day balked searchers in their efforts to penetrate the pyre that until early Saturday morning was one of the Atlantic's "luxury liners."

More than 100 passengers are known to have died in the inferno. The still-blazing hull of the ship beached at the foot of Convention Pier, continued to guard its ghastly cargo.

The first of the two blasts came this morning. It occurred in the aft section of the wreck.

A half hour later came the second and louder explosion. There was a terrific detonation. A geyser of sparks, flaming cinders and white smoke shot up from the aft funnel.

Officials decided not to place the lives of the searchers in jeopardy for fear of further blasts, and it was felt the fire should be allowed to burn itself out before continuing operations.

Two Bodies Float Ashore

ASBURY PARK, N.Y., Sept. 10—Two more bodies, presumably from the Morro Castle's passenger list or crew, came in on the surf to-day at the foot of Eighth Avenue, not far from the beached hulk.

Both were bodies of men.

GRAVE INJURIES TO SCHOOL GIRL STRUCK BY CAR

Mary Aiken Stepped From Behind Truck Into Path Of Auto.

SKULL FRACTURED.

William Lanuette, Driver, Swerved Car, Trying to Miss Child.

Struck by a motor car as she was crossing the street just before noon to-day, Mary Aiken, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aiken, 12 Inverlea Avenue, suffered a severe fracture at the base of the skull and lies in Nicholls Hospital in a critical condition.

The child was returning from Queen Alexandra School and was walking east across the intersection of Barnardo Avenue and Water Street toward her home when the accident occurred.

The car was being driven south on Water Street by William Lanuette, 266 King Street. Witnesses of the accident stated that Mr. Lanuette was passing a truck when the child stepped out in front of his car. He swerved sharply to the left to avert hitting the child, but she continued to walk in front of it. She was struck near the curb on the east side of the street.

Removed immediately to hospital, she was attended by Dr. A. Moir. Her chief injury is the severe fracture at the base of the skull.

Lone Armed Bandit Loots Toronto Bank

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (C.P.) — A lone armed robber entered the Dominion Bank branch at Lappin and Dufferin streets to-day, forced two employees into the cellar and made his escape. It was not known immediately how much money, if any, he took.

The bandit walked in while only the two employees were in the bank. He asked for a telephone book and then slugged George Lindsay, teller, over the head with a sandbag. Lindsay was then knocked down the cellar stairs and the second employee was ordered down after him. The robber had the bank to himself before the employees were able to summon help.

Explosion On Liner Heard Early To-Day

ASBURY PARK, N.J., Sept. 10.—A loud explosion occurred early today on the beached liner "Morro Castle," sending a shower of brilliant sparks and flaming cinders shooting up from the aft funnel. The explosion was accompanied by a large puff of white smoke that issued from the funnel.

Earliner in the day a crash echoed across the water. It sounded as if a large girder or section of deck had fallen into the hold.

The fire, which now seems centered at the bow, raged throughout the night. Some plates near the bow on the port side of the liner parted slightly and a streak of red flame was visible.

$18,000 BLAZE RAZES CONLEY MINE BUILDING

Outbreak Near Madoc Sweeps Structure Before Fire-fighters Arrive.

3 P.M. SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

Cause is Unknown—Only One Watchman on Duty Over Holiday.

MADOC, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—The large compressor building of the Canada Talc Company's mine, commonly known as the Conley Mine, near Madoc village, was totally destroyed by fire on Sunday afternoon.

The alarm was given by phone from the mill at 3 p.m. and before men or the fire engine arrived on the scene, the building was totally destroyed.

It is not known how the fire started as there has been no fire in or around the structure.

The day and night shifts were off duty owing to Sunday holiday, and one man, Mr. Gawley, was left in charge of the electric pump in the shaft. The first intimation he had that anything was wrong, was a flash of light and the cable from the hoist came coiling down the shaft with the broken end red hot.

Mr. Conley and other workmen were soon on the scene, but nothing could be saved. The Madoc fire engine was taken there, but owing to the fire cutting off the water power, water was not available to even save lumber and coal lying near.

Manager Absent

An attempt was made to get in touch with Mr. R. Taylor, manager, who was away in Coe Hill with Mr. D. Bernahan, foreman, inspecting the diamond drills at work on the new mine in Coe Hill, but this failed. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Kernahan reached Madoc about six o'clock after a hurried trip.

The damage is estimated to be about $18,000, which is partly covered by insurance. No work can be done in or near the mine for a few days, but the pumps will be repaired as soon as possible and the ground cleared for rebuilding.

Six men were employed on the day shift in the mine, and five at night; with as many more in the compressor building to handle the motors and transformers.

The building was about forty feet square, two stories, and contined the machinery for the working of the hoist, the crusher, transformers and all the motors.

About one month ago, the blacksmith shop was burned down, but was rebuilt at once.

Mr. Leonard Hawley of Marmora received word on Tuesday of the death of his brother, Mr. Howard Hawley, at Watertown, N.Y. The late Mr. Hawley was a Marmora boy and his friends here will regret to learn of his sudden death in a motor accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hawley left on Wednesday night for Watertown to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Dave Wellman and Miss Esther Best visited at Everett Heaths on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Leonard Hawley visited her son, Mr. Thomas Sophia, on Wednesday evening.

Miss Grace Murray and Mr. Thomas Heath were married on Saturday, September 1st, at West Huntington. They spent a short honeymoon at Toronto. They will reside at Seymour West.

Hundreds Perish As Liner Burns After Lightning Bolt

Struck by lightning and immediately catching fire eight miles off the New Jersey coast, the 11,520-ton Ward liner, Morro Castle, shown above, burned with loss of life estimated at approximately 350. So swiftly did the fire spread that only six lifeboats could be launched. The ship's captain, Robert Wilmot, died at sea from a heart attack only a few hours before the disaster. One Canadian, William J. Kedy of Bridgewater, N.S., was listed as a passenger. Many of the passengers were sleeping and most of those who escaped the blazing inferno were members of the crew according to reports.

SPRING LAKE, N.J., Sept. 10.—William O'Sullivan, deck storekeeper aboard the ill-fated Morro Castle, said to-day he intends to tell Federal Steamship Inspectors that no water came out of the fire hoses of the vessel when the crew attempted to fight the fire that swept the ship.

He also intends to tell them, he said, that crew members were ordered into life boats and lowered away ahead of passengers; that weekly fire drills were not properly carried out; that the fire had spread over the midship section before any alarm was sounded.

He said the Morro Castel had another small fire two weeks ago, the passengers unknowing. It was put out, he said, by the three night watchmen and fourth mate. Only some tar paper in the hold burned.

"We had fire drill every Sunday afternoon," he said, "but only two stations responded to it. They were the stations on the fore deck and on the "D" deck aft, where passengers could see and be impressed.

Barthou said that "regrettable incidents occurred in the Saar last week." He gave no details, but expressed the hope "such incidents will not be repeated."

FIREMEN RUSH 50 MILES TO SEA TO SAVE LINER

Aid Crew Quelling Flames in Sweeping Hold of Santa Rita.

NO PASSENGERS HURT.

BALBOA, C.A., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The Grace liner Santa Rita, a fire smouldering in her hold and passengers sleeping soundly in their cabins, steamed into port to-day under her own power. Canal zone firemen who sped 50 miles into the Pacific Ocean to fight the blaze on the vessel were credited with saving her possibly from a fate like that of the Morro Castle.

A flood of carbon-dioxide gas, rushed out to sea by the canal zone tug Favorite, helped to check the fire which was working slowly through the cargo in number three hatch.

In one compartment of the ship, fire still smoldered in the cargo of cotton, wool and coffee, but Captain Stevenson said it was under control.

Captain Stevenson said there was no excitement, and no one was injured.

The fire started Friday night, and the cause remains unknown, the captain said.

GIRL RECOUNTS HORROR OF FIRE

Leaped From Burning Ship Into Cold, Dark Sea.

IN NIGHT CLOTHING.

By KATHERINE LIEBLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—No one who hasn't gone though what we had to go through last night can possibly begin to imagine the horror of it....

There was that huge ship aflame. The waves seemed to be roaring up to try to put it out, like firemen at a big office building but the waves, when they did hit the flames, just caused more smoke.

It was stifling. Thick clouds of smoke rolling everywhere over the ship. Down below in the darkness the sea was roaring; men were shouting, children crying and women screaming.

Men "Splendid"

Everybody was rushing madly about trying to get to the rails. The men were splendid. They let the women and children go first.

I was awakened about 4 o'clock by a steward pounding on my door. He said nothing about a fire. He gave me and my roommate life preservers. We were scared stiff because only last night at dinner we had discussed the possibility of anything happening and said how everybody should keep their heads in an emergency.

We rushed out in our nightclothes. Flames and smoke were sweeping through the corridors. We rushed out madly and dashed up the stairway. We were on C deck.

When we got out in the open it seemed as if we were in a madhouse. Screams and yells and cries. It was maddening. I was slammed here and there and up against a porthole. I lost Mildred somehow and haven't heard from her since.

Flames Crackle

The flames were crackling madly. I saw one woman tearing her hair with both hands and screaming for her boy.

I was going to talk to her but somebody shoved me ahead and I found myself along the rail. Some of the men helped me over the rail and told me to slide down the rope he put in my hand. I was petrified with fear.

I had only my night clothes on. I never saw anything so horrible as that inkly black water. I hesitated and a man said:

"Go on, kid. Scram."

I took one look back at that roaring furnace—the whole ship seemed on fire—and I thought it would be easier to drown than to burn in that hell hole behind me.

I made sure my life preserver was okay and then I said to myself, "God help me, here goes."

And I went.

Charred remains of the mother and the five children were found in the blackened ruins of the farmhouse. In her arms she clasped the burned body of Mary, the baby. The others lay nearby.

A spark from a fire that was laid to brew tea for harvest workers was believed to have caused the fire.

Dr. Victor Drach, district coroner, said no inquest would be held.

RUMOR KIDNAP SUSPECT HELD IS UNCONFIRMED

Nothing For Publication Says Roebuck Queried on Labatt Case.

THREAT NOTES DIFFER.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (C.P.). — Rumors that a suspect had been trapped in the police search for the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, could not be confirmed in official circles to-day. It was disclosed, however, Chief Inspector John Miller of the Provincial criminal investigation department, was expected to arrive in Windsor, where the police search was said to be centred.

Attorney-General Hon. Arthur Roebuck said three was "nothing further for publication," when asked if one of the reputed kidnappers had been captured. Other officials of the department said they knew nothing of an arrest being made.

It was said authorities had centred their search along the border area in the belief the kidnappers who released the wealthy London, Ont., brewer under a promise to pay a ransom of $25,000, were from the State of Michigan. A former Detroit drug store clerk with a long police record was said to be one of the men sought.

Meanwhile, a handwriting expert disclosed that a threat mailed to Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario had not been written by the same hand as that which penned the kidnap note written to the victim's brother. There was no similarity in the writing, the expert reported to authorities.

$10,000,000 Donation Weather Forecasts

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Sept. 10 (C.P. Cable via Reuters)—Provided the governments of South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and South America think the scheme is worth while, an unidentified scientific society is prepared to spend $10,000,000 during the next 10 years in an effort to make it possible to forecast the world's climates.

Sir Herbert Wilkins, noted explorer, said to-day he could not disclose the name of the organization which is interested enough in meteorological observation to promise a grant of $1,000,000 annually for 10 years. The promise, he said, was subject to the furnishing of £250,000 (about $1,000,000) by South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and South American countries for establishment of 12 observation stations in the Antarctic.

By a correlation in all temperatures, Wilkins said it would be possible to forecast world's climates. He said he hoped to maintain five stations in the Arctic and 12 in the Antarctic for one sun-cycle period.

Lindsay Residents Pass Away Suddenly

(Special to The Examiner.)

LINDSAY, Ont., Sept. 10.—Death came suddenly to two well known residents of Lindsay on Saturday night in the persons of William Tresidder and Frank Cotey. The late Mr. Tresidder was seated in a chair in his dining room when death overtook him. He was born in Verulam township fifty-eight years ago, and for a number of years was in the grocery business under the firm name of Tresidder and Killaby. After death of the latter member of the firm Mr. Tresidder conducted the business until a few months ago. He was a member of the Queen Street United church and is survived by his wife.

Frank Cotey, who died from heart failure at his home on Cambridge street, was in his forty-eighth year. He was born in Lindsay and conducted a tonsorial parlor up until the time of his death. The deceased was a well known hockey player and was a member of the local team that won the O.H.A. intermediate championship in 1909. He was a prominent member of the Independent Order of Foresters, and is survived by his wife, one daughter and two brothers.

Behind the Scenes in Hollywood

By HARRISON CARROLL.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8—.The story sends shivers up and down my spine. This week a certain Hollywood couple who have been married many years hovered on the brink of the divorce court. The husband, an actor, nearly 50, had become infatuated with a pretty young thing in her early twenties. The triangle had reached the stage of a showdown. The actor's wife consulted an attorney. It even became necessary to tell the couple's young daughter. And what did the sweet kid do? Bravely suppressing her tears, she came up to her father, and said:

"I can understand someone falling in love with you, daddy, but I can't understand you falling in love with them."

FOR TWO

and a half months, Jean Parker has received flowers from a mysterious admirer. They come regularly, twice a week—gardenias on Monday and red roses on Wednesday. No card was ever inclosed. The whole family was consumed with curiosity — Jean, her guardian and particularly Francis Lucas, schoolmate of the youthful star, whom Jean says she will eventually marry.

Jean Parker

All efforts to trace the sender failed—until Wednesday. Then Jean got a call on the "Limehouse Nights" set from her guardian. A card had accompanied the flowers at last.

And if it isn't giving away secrets, the sender is Aubrey Austin, son of a Santa Monica banker.

"LET'S TRY AGAIN",

RKO-Radio Picture which has its first showing Monday at the Capitol Theatre, presents a daring treatment of a dilemma faced by almost every married couple.

"Let's Try Again" is a subtle drama of mature love, and it concerns itself with that crisis in the lives of a husband and wife when they have become used to each other and the ecstasy of young fervor should be passing into that state of serene affection which makes lasting marriage possible.

Diana Wynyard and Clive Brook, stars of the internationally successful "Cavalcade", have the principal roles. They head a splendid cast.

have to wait six months to see the hunting trophies of Darryl Zanuck. The twentieth century producer left them in Africa to be temporarily cured. Then they will have to be shipped across the Pacific to San Francisco, and from there to Denver, where a firm of taxidermists will spend at least three months on the permanent mountings. Darryl got 75 trophies, but is bringing back only the best—about 45 heads and capes, including elephant, rhinoceros, African buffalo, lions and the leopard which Virginia Zanuck bagged. Darryl's original plan was to build a projection room onto his Beverly Hills home and to keep his trophies there. Now, he may store them in Denver until he builds his new house next year.

Corn-Stuffed Peppers.—Six green sweet peppers, two cups whole kernel cooked corn, one-half cup thin white sauce, five tablespoons tomato catsup, two tablespoons sugar, two teaspoons onion salt, butter, corn flake crumbs, grated cheese. Cut off tops and remove seeds of peppers. Put peppers and top slice in cold water and bring to boil, boiling five minutes. Cut cooked tops of peppers into small pieces and add to corn. Add catsup, sugar and onion salt and pack into the parboiled pepper cases. Put lump of butter on top of each and cover tops with corn flake crumbs and grated cheese. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) until brown on top.

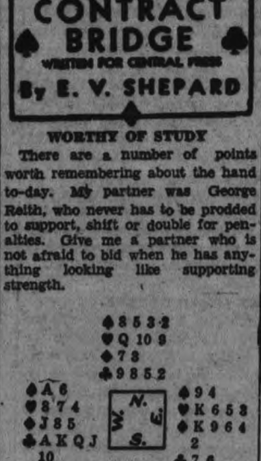
CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

WORTHY OF STUDY

There are a number of points worth remembering about the hand to-day. My partner was George Reith, who never has to be prodded to support, shift or double for penalties. Give me a partner who is not afraid to bid when he has anything looking like supporting strength.



I dealt and bid 1 spade. Bidding then went: West, 2 clubs; East, 2 diamonds; South, 2 spades; West, 3 clubs, largely on account of the honors; North, 3 spades; South, 4 spades, which West doubled.

The opening lead was the king of clubs. East started an echo. Then came the queen of clubs, followed by the jack I ruffed with the 10, as I had to enter the dummy holding one trump lower than the 8. West's ace of spades captured my king. My jack ruffed a lead of West's fourth club. I had to lead my queen of spades to pick up the last two opposing trumps Then my 7 of spades had to be led, to gain entry to dummy with the 8. Fortunately dummy had no more clubs, and had one long trump to ruff any return by West, in case he was able able to gain entry when I had to take my finesses in both red suits.

I first led dummy's queen of hearts, ducking my jack, to enable me to again lead that suit from dummy without danger of blocking its run. When the queen was not covered dummy's 10 was led. That also was not covered. Of course I then had to switch to diamonds, leading the 7 from dummy, and winning with my queen when East played low. That finesse seemed quite safe, as East had bid diamonds and should hold the missing king, and perhaps the jack also, but I took no stupid chances by attempting a useless double finesse.

I took my two red aces, then dummy's last trump ruffed by 10 of diamonds, giving our side its doubled contract of 4 odd.

Hands like the foregoing frequently are held. They offer no particular difficulties. They do, however, deserve thought to play them as foolproof as possible.

There are four points in play worth remembering. The first is to ruff high, preserving the one trump lower than the 8 held by dummy, to insure trump entry to the North hand. The second point is to drop South's jack under North's queen of hearts, to avoid blocking the suit. The next point is to omit a third round of hearts, so as not to be left stranded in the declaring hand. The last point is not to attempt a useless double finesse in diamonds

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

Cosmetics usually receive nothing but condemnation from doctors. Those who use them are sneered at as mere victims of vanity, and their dangers, and the poisonings resulting from their use are emphasized with a sort of ghoulish glee.

It is refreshing therefore to find certain members of the medical profession beginning to defend cosmetics and cosmetic users. As a matter of fact very little harm is done by them, in general they are not only perfectly safe, but even protective, and beneficial. It is unfortunate that they have suffered so from exaggerated and lying claims and from the misbranding of those that are dangerous. At present the government has no regulations to prevent such misbranding. And it is astonishing that the vast majority of honest manufacturers allowed themselves to be stampeded by a minority into opposition to the pure food, drug and cosmetic bill of the last session of congress. Hundreds of letters and personal inquiries to me have asked: "How are we able to tell the harmless from the dangerous cosmetics?" The answer simply is, "At present there is no way to tell. If you had forced your congressman to pass the pure cosmetic bill, you would have been protected by the government." Plainly, all the injustice has to be borne by the honest manufacturer of cosmetics.

But even at present most of the preparations are, as has been said, quite safe.

Carleton, in 1933, published her investigation into vanishing cream. She tried it on forty subjects. In most it was harmless, although several had naturally dry skin. In 13 the cream was, in fact, beneficial. In one case it caused dryness. Vanishing cream does not really vanish: it becomes a greaseless adhesive surface on which powder is spread.

More men than women use hair tonic. Occasionally it causes a mild skin eruption on the palms and fingers ends where they have been used to rub it in. A man with thinning hair and scruffy skin on his finger ends is probably using hair tonic.

Rouge is mainly zinc oxide to which chalk and dyes have been added. It is almost always harmless the same to be said of lipstick and eyebrow pencils.

Liquid nail polishes are made of an acetone base with tincture of benzoin and, according to Dr. Downing of Boston, may be helpful in preventing infections that might have resulted from the none too sterile tools of the manicurist.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

George Rogers,
Indian River, Ont.

Your handwriting indicates an inquisitive turn of mind. Sometimes we term this analytical because the person to whom it belongs seems to desire to acquire knowledge and to learn the why and the wherefore of everything.

You ask if I can tell you anything about people who cross their 't's' at the very top. Well, as you do this so often in your own writing, you should have a pretty good idea of what it means; though in your case the defect is modified because you have at least six types of 't' crossings. You see, your disposition is changeable, and you do not like to stick to one thing for very long at a time. However, you have many fine characteristics, and should learn all that you possibly can about electricity for I believe you should be able to make excellent use of this knowledge in the future.

If you care to delve deeper into the mysteries of the science of graphology you may apply to me for lessons upon the subject, then you could amuse your friends with your experienced knowledge of their 't' crossings.

Margaret McGrath,
Hastings, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample reveals that you have a rather placid disposition, but that you are friendly and quite adaptable. You seem to possess the power to reason things out, and so avoid trouble or quarrels.

Your capital letters show artistic tendencies which should be developed in order to bring you more happiness as time progresses.

There is a nervousness noted in the manner in which your letters are written, it is as though you fear to express yourself either in words, or in deeds.

Your capital 'G' shows that you have an ear for music, but it is not at all necessary for you to be able to play an instrument, though I believe you could if you wished to do so.

Your 't' bar crossings are so soft and light, that I know you are not very self-willed or stubborn. Kindness predominates throughout the writing, and I am sure that your friends must admire you very much for your fairness and sympathetic emotions.

Your capital 'O' in Ont. shows that you can adapt yourself to conditions as you find them, and I wish you much joy and love in the future, for one with your kindly disposition deserves the best.

Mrs. Goole,
Havelock, Ont.

The handwriting which you have submitted for analysis reveals that you are a genuine friendly person. You are not too strict in your manner or your ideals, but believe in letting every one have a chance to express their own opinions. This, of course, makes your friends wonder how they could get along without you. No doubt you quite often wish that some of them could.

There is a rather generous characteristic noted in the manner in which you spread your capital letters, and it might be well for you to draw in the lines as it were before too many unworthy creatures impose upon your good nature, and cause you mental stress.

The lower loop attendant to your letter 'G' shows a keen interest on the out-of-doors recreations, and your type require more than the average of sunshine and fresh air.

Your will power is normal and your imagination that of one who has sufficient common sense to avoid imaginative nonsensical flights into the realms of make believe.

THE WIVES COMPLAIN.

It is not surprising to find that in a number of municipalities where cash relief has been established wives are asking that the voucher system be restored, inasmuch as the money that should be devoted to providing for the family is being spent on beer, tobacco and entertainment.

The fear that such a result would follow the introduction of cash relief has led The Examiner to consistently oppose the suggestion that the cash system should be adopted in Peterborough.

We are quite willing to admit that in a great many cases there would be no abuse of the privilege and in not a few the money would probably be spent to greater advantage than accrues from the voucher system; on the other hand, however, there is the danger that in many instances the relief allowance, if paid in cash, would be frittered away in the beverage rooms and on other non-essentials, while the families would go short of food.

That this has been the experience in those places where the cash plan has been adopted is exactly what we would have expected; human nature being what it is, the honor system cannot be depended upon in relief administration, and while it is unfortunate that the thrifty and the sensible should have to be penalized for the sake of the extravagant and the foolish, there does not seem to be any other feasible way out than to control relief so that there is reasonable assurance that the necessities of life will be provided.

BRITAIN FORGES AHEAD.

Without any NRA or Blue Eagles or radio, newspaper and platform publicity, Great Britain seems to be making a good job of dealing with unemployment problem, and at the same time to be accomplishing a return to better general conditions than any other country in the world.

The British housing program under which slums in many centres are being eliminated and thousands of decent, comfortable homes are being constructed is providing employment to large numbers of workers in the building trades.

And while this is the case, further provision has been made to take care of Britishers who are without jobs, and the new Unemployment Act which is now coming into force means that an additional $40,000,000 in unemployment relief will be distributed.

Under this measure workers who have contributed to the unemployment fund for a long period of time now are eligible for additional benefits beyond the 30-weeks-a-year plan that has been in force up to now. It is also provided that those who have made contributions for five years will receive benefits for a further 26 weeks a year, with others who have contributed regularly for shorter period will benefit accordingly.

At the same time some 700,000 young people have been brought within the scope of the act by lowering the legal limit for school attendance to 14 years.

Britain, in short, is weathering the storm and beating her way back to the harbor of prosperity in a manner that challenges the rest of the world.

HOME INFLUENCE A FACTOR.

Blame which is heaped on movies for lowering moral standards of youth may, in part, properly be directed towards parents and home life, suggests Dr. John Dewey, dean of American educators, writing in the current Rotarian Magazine. While "recent investigations, conducted with scientific care, have shown that many boys and girls have been stimulated in unwholesome ways by the movies," he points out that "the influence of movies upon children is fixed by the general tone and level of the child's surroundings."

"A boy or girl from a cramped environment that provides few outlets," he continues, "reacts very differently from one in which the movie is not the main vent for romance, and for acquaintance with conditions very different from those that habitually surround him.

"The luxury of scenes depicted on the screen, the display of adventure and easy sex relations, inoculate a boy or girl living in narrow surroundings with all sorts of new ideas and desires. Their ambitions are directed into channels that contrast vividly with actual conditions of life.

"The things that a boy or a girl from a well-to-do and cultivated home would discount or take simply as a part of the show are for other children ideals to be realized—and without special regard for the means of their attainment. The little moral at the close of the picture has no power compared with the force of desires that are excited."

One "healthy effect" of the depression seen by Dr. Dewey is "a more general questioning of the primacy of material values." With parents putting less stress on wealth, their example will become an important factor in forming more wholesome attitudes among children, wherewith to counteract any unwholesome suggestion motion pictures leave in the youthful mind. Schools also help in this, but, Dr. Dewey declares, with the child in the schoolroom only five to six hours a day and much time devoted to routine work, the teacher's influence is secondary to that of parents, the home and other factors.

A FRIENDLY BUT CANDID CRITIC.

That complaints against the working out of the new beer regulations are not confined to those who may be described as temperance people is shown by the fact that the Canadian Hotel Review, a journal which, as its name implies, is concerned with furthering the interests of the hotel trade, has been looking over the situation in Ontario and has found a great deal with which to find fault.

Here is the Hotel Review's indictment of existing conditions:

"Premises are not being kept in a satisfactory condition in certain hotels; managers of beverage rooms on occasions have sold beer to patrons who were in no condition to drink more beer; undesirable persons have been permitted to frequent the premises; rowdiness has sometimes prevailed; there have been fights; closing hours have not been observed. It is suggested that 4.4 per cent. beer has been sold in some cases as beer of the usual strength sold through the Liquor Control Board. There have been other infractions."

Coming from a candid friend of the trade this criticism is significant and should be helpful in convincing those engaged in the sale of beer that the system must be rid of its abuses or the reaction on the part of the public will lead to the ultimate doing away with the sale by the glass.

Unless there are reforms, voluntary on the part of beverage room proprietors or insisted upon by the Government, it does not require the prophetic ability of a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter to predict that there are rocks ahead for the new system.

AN "IF" BY LLOYD GEORGE.

In one of the later issues of his war memoirs Mr. Lloyd George, ever critical of what others did in the World War, whether soldiers or civilians, makes rather a strong indictment of the late Sir Edward Grey, who was Foreign Minister in 1914. If, says Mr. George, instead of writing the pre-war dispatches in roundabout diplomatic language, the Foreign Secretary had bluntly declared that Great Britain would enter the war if Germany violated Belgian neutrality, the war would never have begun.

That is a serious accusation, and, like certain other of his charges in his somewhat provocative memoirs, is made against a man not now here to defend himself. Germany knew quite well, however, that Britain, like herself, had guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium, and that Britain would keep her bond. Germany was prepared under the plea of military necessity to renounce the treaty, and did so, hence the infamous "scrap of paper" speech of Chancellor Bethmann von Hollweg. The real reason why she violated Belgian neutrality was because she believed Britain's hands were then about to be tied by civil war in Ireland. She gambled on that, and was shocked when, in the light of the bigger event on the continent, Ireland calmed down for the time being and enabled the British Government to concentrate on the war, until later, aided by the traitorous Roger Casement, Southern Ireland added to the difficulties by attempting a revolt hatched in a German prison camp.

Had Mr. Lloyd George been Foreign Minister in July, 1914, being the pacifist he then was, it is most unlikely he would have shaken a mailed fist at Germany as he says Grey should have done. He would probably been just as "diplomatic" in his dispatches.

The whole history of history is made up of "ifs."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

NO WHEAT QUOTA THIS YEAR.

The Winnipeg Free Press hails with great glee the fact that the London wheat conference has disbanded without fixing export quotas for 1934-35.

The general situation for Canadian wheat has greatly improved during the past few weeks. The carryover announced by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on August 11 is 193,000,000 bushels in Canada compared with 212,000,000 bushels a year ago. This season's crop is variously estimated around 280,000,000. Canada will therefore have about 460,000,000 bushels to market. With home consumption put down at 105,000,000 bushels there will be a balance of 355,000,000 bushels available for export. And eminent wheat authorities predict that Canada may sell abroad this year 300,000,000 bushels or more.

The drought of recent weeks has taken the United States out of the world market this year. She will not have any more than enough wheat to meet home consumption. Australia, after two successive short crops, has no abnormal carryover and she will not be a serious competitor in the European market. The wheat conference, therefore, has been in recent weeks pretty much of a contest between Canada and Argentina as to which nation should have the larger quota. About that, the Winnipeg Free Press has this to say:

"There was no reason in the world why Canada should give up the chance to sell a single bushel for the benefit of Argentina. When that country found six months ago that it had more wheat to sell than its allotted 1933-34 quota, it went ahead and sold regardless of commitments, exceeding the quota by 30,000,000 bushels. From a world point of view, it is all to the good that Argentina sold that extra wheat. The world needed it and Argentina supplied the demand which was certainly more sensible than keeping the grain at home in elevators. The fly in the ointment, from Canada's point of view, was that Canada might have got a share of the business if Canada had competed actively and not stuck to its quota."

It is quite probable that Canada will not lose anything in the 1934-35 season on account of the collapse of the wheat conference. It happens that the wheat outlook for this country is relatively satisfactory.

It is true that Argentina broke her quota agreement covering the 1933-34 season; but that is not an adequate reason for abandoning the whole idea of quota selling, as the Winnipeg paper urges. We are not experts on selling wheat, but the idea of having some understanding between the big wheat exporting nations making toward orderly marketing appeals to us. Apparently it would not be an advantage to Canada this year to be hampered by a quota—but perhaps next year or the year after we will want the protection of a quota. A measure of co-operation might pay better in the long run.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

ARDHILL, SASKATCHEWAN.

This is one of the few towns in Canada which derived its name from a jesting remark.

A cockney Englishman, visiting the district in the early days of its settlement, observing the large hill nearby, remarked, after climbing it, "It's a damned 'ard 'ill."

A facetious settler professed to have received inspiration from the remark as to how the place should be named and, accordingly, christened it Ardhill, and there were no dissenting voices.

ALL OF US

THE BROWSER.

Books are beginning to come in again from the publishers . . . and this is the time of the publishing year that the Browser likes best of all. In fact, he's sort of soppy about it. Autumn's at hand, the red apples are ripening on the trees, the trees themselves are taking on a bit of color, leaves are burning in the gutters, the wind begins to bluster about the corners of the house, and the publishers' catalogs have come in the mail and all the little authors are standing a-tiptoe to see what impression their precious darlings will make upon the public . . . It's sad to think of the little books, with their creators' heart-strings bound round and round them, that are doomed to fade away unread, that are like bashful children that come timidly into the room hoping to be noticed and nobody even knows they are there. The thought of that almost persuades the Browser to be kind to every book he reads this year, just because of those poor sensitive authors. . . . But, of course, he'll not do that. He has a mean streak in him, and besides, after all, there may be one or two people who might read a book because he recommended it, just out of sympathy, and be angry at the Browser when they learn how he's fooled them. But it's all very complicated. Sometimes the Browser ignores a book completely or gives it a light slap, and readers pay no attention at all to him and they read it and like it just the same. And other times he praises a book skyward and is told in a few days that he should never have been so free with his enthusiasm. . . . The Browser doesn't mind, however. He has no dictatorial ambitions. All he asks is that he should stir a little feeling about books in readers' hearts, amuse them a bit, inform them slightly, share with them some of the excitement and pleasure he receives from good books, and forgive him his errors.

During the week the Browser has been deep in William Wister Haines' "Slim", and if you are one of those earthbound mortals like the Browser, who have admired and envied those cowboys of the air who erect the steel transmission towers that stride across our hills, then you'll get a heap of pleasure out of Mr. Haines' novel. . . . It has a background untouched until now by any American writer, and Haines ought to know his field because, although he is only 23, he has worked as a lineman for seven years. His publisher's blurb describes him as one who writes "with a humorous ear for dialect, and with a sturdy masculinity that mark him as a coming figure". They also call his book "a piece of genuine Americana". And the Browser agrees with those judgments. True, Haines will be a better writer after a while, when he has mastered his craft more surely, knows more about the business of leaving things out and putting the right things in—but he'll probably never write more lovingly about anything than he has in this book about those sinewy lads who raise the towers and string the hot wires over the length and breadth of this land. . . . A man's heart is in this book and you see the pulse of it and hear it beating.

The Browser had a talk with Darwin Teilhet and asked him how he happened to write his good mystery story, "The Talking Sparrow Murders". Teilhet said he didn't know. He didn't have the slightest idea where the idea of the book came from. . . . But, a couple of years ago he had a manuscript he wanted the Browser to read, but he tore it up before the Browser even saw it, and one night, still discouraged, he sat down and wrote the first chapter of this mystery story without knowing anything about the rest of the book. . . . The first chapter has the "talking sparrow" in it and the old man who said the sparrow had spoken to him. Teilhet put that in just for mystery's sake and the book was three-fourths finished before the author himself was able to work out the solution. (But he did it quite satisfactory.) . . . Firm muscular writing in this book. A capable setting of normal people against a background of horror. Teilhet himself doesn't read mystery stories. He merely writes them and says he doesn't know how it's done. . . . The fibber. . . . Saved for the end of the column is William L. Stidger's book of religious and nature verses, "I Saw God Wash the World". The Browser knew that the square-jawed friendly "Bill" Stidger wrote books of biography—of men like Ford and Markham—and books of prayers and sermons—but didn't know he wrote poetry. But here they are, lovely things and wise. And the title poem of the book is a perfect thing. It reminds the Browser of an etching he has at home, a delicate exquisite scene, made by another two-fisted, husky-handed fellow who had beauty in his heart. "Bill" Stidger's like that. His poems are like that etching.

CALL COUNCIL IN NOVEMBER

Warden Davey of United Counties May Hold Session Early.

TO DEAL WITH PROBE

COBOURG, Sept. 10.—(Special).—Judicial probe into charges of maladministration of county road affairs, in connection with Northumberland and Durham, raised by Reeve C. H. Curtis last December, was halted in its initial stage Friday when His Honor Judge L. V. O'Connor expressed his unwillingness to proceed with the enquiry until documentary evidence of a more definite nature was submitted. Judge O'Connor suggested to Warden Wilbert Davey that the counties council appoint an outside solicitor, rather than its own lawyer, to arrange for witnesses and compile the evidence necessary to warrant the investigation to be launched further.

With Col. F. D. Boggs, K.C., acting for the counties and J. E. Peck of Gananoque appearing on behalf of the Department of Public Highways of Ontario, the matter of the investigation, opened pursuant to a resolution of the June session of counties council. Three affidavits, filed in connection with Reeve Curtis' allegations, and a copy of the resolution of last January's session relative to holding an investigation, were all the documents in the hands of the judge when the hearing opened.

"What am I to investigate? All I have here are copies of the affidavits and the declaration," declared Judge O'Connor. "I think it would be much better if these charges were put in some concrete form so that they could be more readily dealt with. If the parties laying these charges would employ counsel and formulate some issue on which to base an enquiry, we could proceed."

Warden Davey after consultation with Reeve Curtis suggested to His Honor that he call a special meeting of the council to appoint another solicitor as he would not like to incur the cost without consent of council.

"A special session would cost more than this whole enquiry. Deal with it at your next regular session," suggested Judge O'Connor in adjourning the hearing sine die.

Warden Davey intimated that in order to expedite matters, he might call the next session in November instead of December.

LAKEFIELD W.M.S.

Ladies Hear Helpful Talk on Feeding of Children by Miss F. A. Mackenzie, R.N.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence) — The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon in the Town Hall, with a fair attendance present. Owing to the funeral of Mrs. Henry Smith (mother of Mrs. S. E. White, the president), the meeting was postponed from Wednesday.

With "Health" the topic of the afternoon's program, the roll call was answered with home remedies and healthful hints, in which cures for colds, burns and poison ivy rather predominated. Mrs. E. S. Kelsey, convenor of the health committee, had secured the services of Miss F. A. Mackenzie, a graduate nurse of St. John's Hospital, Toronto, who gave a very interesting paper on the feeding of young children and their care, emphasizing the value of a properly-balanced ration in raising healthy, normal children. The diet means so much in the normal development of children and cannot be too carefully studied.

Miss Mackenzie received a hearty vote of thanks for her excellent paper.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. White, the first vice-president, Mrs. J. H. Moore, was in the chair.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

WOLSELEY AND CANADIAN SOLDIERS.

On this date, in 1870, Colonel Garnet Wolseley, who had commanded the Ontario and Quebec Rifles to the Red River, left Fort Garry for the east, after having been entertained at Government House. Before leaving he paid his compliments both to the regulars and to the Canadian militia, saying of the latter:

"I can say without flattery that, although I have served with many armies in the field, I have never been associated with a better set of men. . . . You have only to attend as carefully to the orders of the officers to whose command I now hand you over, as you have done to mine, to become shortly a force second to no corps in Her Majesty's service. I bid you all good bye with no feigned regret. I shall ever look back with pleasure and pride to having commanded you, and, although separated from you by thousands of miles, I shall never cease to take an earnest interest in your welfare."

Years later, when a field marshal and a viscount, in his "Story of a Soldier's Life", he made a notable prediction concerning Canadian soldiery when he said: "I can draw no distinction between the relative merits of the military value of the regular soldier and the Canadian militiaman who went with me to Red River; each had arrived at Prince Arthur's Landing with special attributes peculiarly their own, but by the time Fort Garry had been occupied each had acquired the military value of the other. What it is that a large army of such men under some great leader could not achieve I, for one, know not".

Had he been alive in 1915-18 he would have found the answer to his prediction, for what better justification for his pride in Canadian soldier men could there have been than the record of the Canadian Army Corps.

SCHOOL RATE IS REDUCED

Separate School Supporters at Hastings to Pay Three Mills Less.

COUNCIL MEETS

HASTINGS, Sept. 10. (Examiner Correspondence). — The tax rate for Separate School supporters in Hastings has been reduced three mills this year and Public School supporters one mill by the rate struck at the regular meeting of the village held on Friday night in the council chambers with Reeve G. B. Stevenson in the chair and councillors Kelly, Brooks, Doherty and Fairman present.

On a total assessment of $267,630 which is somewhat higher than last year, the rates for 1934 are as follows, (the 1933 rate appears in brackets): Street lighting, 5 (6); Public School, 10 (10); Separate School, 10, (12); county rate, 12 (12; debenture, 10 (10); general, 10 (8); overdraft, none, (3); a total of 47 mills for taxpayers. The rates were confirmed on motion of Doherty and Fairman.

The council received a refund of $1,178.75 on street lighting surplus from the Hydro, also a reduction in rates which will mean a saving of about $300 a year to the corporation.

The following accounts were read: Hartley Simpson, $2.50; S. Hatherly, $7.05; H. Gibbs, $5.20; T. A. Walsh, $5.85; Fire Department, re grass fire, $9; G. Lynch, $7; W. Boyle, $8.33; J. H. Calberry, Municipal World, $1.54; D. Noonan, $1.00; A. Scriver, $1; Hydro Electric Commission, town hall, $2.83; F. Dodd, $25.34; Bell Telephone Co., Fire Chief, $2.05; town hall, $2.69.

Moved by Kelley, seconded by Brooks, that the accounts as read be paid and orders drawn on the treasurer in the usual way for the several amounts.

A delegation composed of Messrs. Hogarth, Smith, Thomas and Du Fort waited on the council in regards to improving the condition of the road on Homewood avenue. The council decided to have gravel put on this road as soon as possible.

Tax Collector T. A. Walsh submitted to the council the names of those who are in arrears of their 1933 taxes. The amount still outstanding is about $690.

Constable J. H. Calberry reported a number of poll taxes paid and also that all dog owners had secured their tags but two. These two owners will be dealt with according to the by-law in a few days.

Moved by Brooks, seconded by Fairman, that Reeve G. B. Stinson and Councillor Kelley be appointed members of the Park Committee during their term of office.

The council have to appoint five other members for a term of two years. The following names appear to be the likely choices. Rev. Father P. J. Kelley, Messrs. L. F. Daly, J. V. Findlay, Mrs. W. M. Fowlds, president of the Women's Institute and Mrs. A. S. Spooner.

Moved by Doherty, seconded by Fairman, that the Park Committee be given permission to use Front street on the night of Monday, September 17th, for the holding of a street dance.

The council decided to make a tour of the village on Monday night for the purpose of inspecting the street lighting.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point. Wheat, 90c to 92c; oats, 35c to 36c; barley, 60c to 64c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 55c to 56c; buckwheat, 55c to 58c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Jarred by a sudent break in the cotton market, lower prices for wheat and corn became the rule late Saturday, reversing an earlier upward trend.

Profit-taking sales incident to a week of almost continuous gains, did much to help ease wheat values down at the last. The fall of cotton prices followed issuance of Government figures showing a yield of cotton in excess of trade expectation.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to ⅝c under Friday's finish, December, new, $1.07½ to $1.07; corn, ⅝c to ⅝c off; December, new, 79⅝c to 79⅞c; oats at ⅝c to ¼c advance, and provisions varying from 5c loss to 6c gain.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Egg prices rose sharply on the Montreal produce and dairy market last week. Butter quotations were fractionally easier, while cheese and potato prices were unchanged.

Advances of 4c were made on each of the two top grades of eggs, and a 1c gain in price was made on each of the two lower grades. Graded shipments in carlots or less ended the week at 27c to 28c a dozen for A-large, 25c to 26c for A-medium, 18½c to 20c for B, and 18½c to 19c for C. Receipts for the week totalled 8,712 cases, as compared with 70,47 cases in the previous week.

Butter was quoted at 19c to 19¼c a pound for fresh No. 1 in carlots or less against 19⅝c to 19¼c a pound the week before. To the retail trade, small lots brought 20c a pound for solids and 21c for prints. Arrivals for the week totalled 16,490 boxes, in comparison with 17,731 boxes during the preceding week. Exports for the week were 20 boxes, the same total as that in the week before, and compares with a total of 2,710 boxes in the corresponding week last year.

On the cheese market, quotations were unchanged, Ontario colored being at 16c to 16½c a pound, and Quebec cheese bringing 9⅝c to 9¾c a pound. Receipts for the week were 27,891 boxes, against 27,366 boxes in the previous week. Exports for the week totalled 17,295 boxes, as compared with 16,218 boxes in the preceding week, and 29,808 boxes in the corresponding week last year.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Heaviest hedging pressure of the current harvest season jogged wheat prices loose from early gains on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Saturday and left the market ¼ cent lower to unchanged at the close.

Export support, strength at Liverpool and commission house buying had bolstered quotations earlier. Relinquishing gains of better than ½ cent, the market ended at the day's low points.

October wheat closed at 88⅝c, December at 85c and May at 90c. A heavy load of offerings was brought out by heavy country receipts Friday, which touched their highest level of the season with 4,250,000 bushels marketed.

Foreign business accounted for 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, and other buying came from Chicago sources.

Spreads on top grades of cash grains improved fractionally. Coarse grains were about firm.

LIGHT LOSSES IN INDUSTRIALS

Sell-off of Liquor Stocks in Montreal Houses Reported at Toronto.

WESTONS AT NEW HIGH.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (CP).—A general break-down of prices occurred this afternoon on the industrial board of the Toronto Exchange but losses, except in the distillery and some of the miscellaneous shares, were limited to fractions. Local brokers reported Montreal houses were selling the liquor stocks. Westons registered a new high for the year at 47 1-2 on a report from London that a subsidiary had acquired control of a large London bakery.

Weakness was entirely traceable to a downward trend on the New York board, all interlisted issues closing on the down side. Smelters was offered at 132, off 3 points and Nickel closed at 23 3-8, off 1-4. Ford "A", Brazilian and C.P.R. weakened 1-4 to 3-8.

In the distillery group, Distillers Seagrams was the volume leader and it closed at 13 3-8 for a loss of 1 5-8. Walkers Common dropped 1 3-4 to 24-1-2 and Industrial Alcohol "A" sagged 1-2 to 8.

WEAKNESS FELT IN MINING LIST

Volume is Small in Senior Golds Outside of Teck Hughes, Down 5 Cents.

SILVERS EASIER.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (CP).—Mining shares developed sufficient weakness today to give holders a feeling of nervousness. The golds particularly coming in for a selling attack. Volume was small in the senior group outside of Teck Hughes which traded heavily and held its loss down to 5 cents. Noranda sagged more than $1 and other base metals recorded unimportant recessions. The silvers eased down narrowly.

God's Lake bore the brunt of the early selling wave and receded to 2.05, recovering only partially from that level. Gunnar Gold, Little Long Lac, Buffalo-Ankerite, McKenzie Red Lake, Larkland Lake, Reno and B.R.X. all worked lower.

Sylvanite, Central Patricia, Pickle Crow, Read Authier and Macassa held fairly steady.

In the higher priced group of golds Bralorne, Wright Hargreaves, Hollinger Pioneer and Dome were off 25 cents or less.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 10 (AP).—Weakness in metals unsettled the stock market in afternoon trading today, following earlier steadiness. Dullness prevailed, although some increase in activity accompanied the reaction. The late tone was somewhat heavy. U.S. Smelting sagged more than 5 points, while Howe Sound, Du Pont, Santa Fe and Chrysler were off around a point each. U.S. Steel and American Telephone eased. Transfers approximated 450,000 shares.

Wednesday Markets Revived This Week

After a lapse of twenty years, a Wednesday morning farmers' market on the Market Square is to be revived this week in addition to the regular Saturday market. The move is being made in response to a widespread demand among farmers of the district, J. B. Brown, market clerk, said to-day.

The marked predominance of garden produce on the market during the past few years is believed to justify two markets each week. Ten years ago, hogs, hay and other bulky products of the farm featured the trading, but to-day perishable garden stuffs are the principal commodities. A number of the regular visitors to the Saturday market have already indicated their intentions of bringing their offerings to the city on Wednesdays.

The move is, of course, experimental, and the mid-week market will be discontinued if it does not prove a success, Mr. Brown said. He pointed out, however, that Belleville, a smaller community than Peterborough, has been holding successfully three market days a week for some time past.

Kinmount Fair Held Despite Bad Weather

Kinmount defied the heavy downpour of rain on Saturday and staged the annual fair, which was comparatively successful, taking into account the severe handicap under which it was held.

It was officially opened by a procession from Austin Jackson's Hotel, headed by John Clark, president of the Bair Board, and the Hon. Dr. A. J. Faulkner, Minister of Health, who declared the fair open. Other prominent persons present at the opening of the Fair included James Newman, James Hawthorne, J. J. Duffus, Thomas Petrie and Jack Selkirk.

There was a large entry of exhibits with a particularly fine showing of horses, cattle, sheep and swine, and noteworthy displays of fancy goods, dairy products, and flowers.

ORIGIN OF SHIP'S FIRE

your belief that the fire was set on your previous experience and the fire in the locker."

"Yes Sir."

"Do you think lightning hit the ship?"

"That was not true."

The inquiry, presided over by Dickerson N. Hoover, Assistant Director of the Bureau of Navigation at Washington, opened before a packed hearing room at the New York Custom House. The first scheduled witness was Chief Officer W. F. Warms.

At the hearing table with Hoover, was Martin Conboy, United States Attorney, an "observer", John L. Crone, Superintendent of Steamboat Inspectors of the Second Inspection District; James Smith, Local Inspector of Boilers; and Captain Carl C. Nielson, Local Inspector of the hulls.

Chief Officer Examined

The questioning was conducted chiefly by Hoover and Nielson.

Warms testified Friday night his vessel was in the tail end of a hurricane.

Captain Robert Willmott died of indigestion and heart failure earlier, Warms testified, and he took the bridge.

"We laid out the captain—God rest his soul—and I went to the bridge," Warms related.

"He had not been sick on the way out."

"I'm not myself," Warms said.

Then, his head dropped and he placed his handkerchief over his eyes and wept, sobs shaking his shoulders.

"We were pals," he sobbed.

After a moment he pulled himself together.

"OK," he said. The questioning continued.

Warms said the first word of fire he had was at 2.45 a.m. when the night deck watchman informed him.

"He reported he had seen smoke and fire coming out of ventilators on the portside amidships."

"What did you do then" Nielson asked.

"I sent the second officer to investigate.

"Then the salon night watchman reported fire in the library."

"Did you leave the bridge," Nielson asked.

"No, Sir."

General Alarm Sounded

He said a locker "blew out" as the second officer put a fire extinguisher on it. "There was gasoline in it."

"I sounded the general alarm a few minutes before 3 o'clock."

"I told the lookout man to turn out the crew and ordered the stewards and saloon watchman to waken the passengers and use tin pans if necessary."

"I believe there was gasoline or kerosene in it," he said.

"What did you do about the fire?" Nielson asked.

"Everything I could."

Warms went on to say that after the fire was reported it came up swiftly.

"Went Up in a Puff."

"After the alarm was sounded the ship amidships just went up in puff, it seems."

The first radio signal went out at 3:16, a "Qt" signal.

Then, Warms said, the radio operators reported to him and asked for orders.

"Why did he have to ask for orders?" Hoover asked.

"I don't know."

"Then what happened?" asked Hoover.

"About a minute later (3:15 a.m.) the SOS went out."

Warm said he had every confidence in his crew.

"What about reports that 70 or 80 of the 86 or so to land in a lifeboat were members of the crew?" asked Hoover.

"I don't know anything about that," Warms replied.

"Did the crew leave the ship without helping passengers?"

"The boats were not lowered until I gave the orders."

"Where were you?"

"I never left the bridge."

"Was there any trouble?"

"I saw some panic among the passengers. I saw, too, a steward force a woman into a lifeboat."

Warms was questioned about the failure of lights and power.

Ship's Power Failed.

About 20 minutes after the fire was discovered, he said, the chief engineer said the engine crew could not go on and all power failed.

"He said," Warms related, "it was so thick with smoke the crew could not remain."

"I told Mr. Freeman, the first officer, to go forward and get the anchor ready, we were without power."

Smith asked if there was any discontent in the engine room. "We were just like one happy family," Warms replied in a strong voice.

Warms said he could get no response from the engine room or the engine room telegraph or bridge telephone.

"The men had left," he added.

It was after this attempt to reach the engine room by communication system that the chief engineer appeared on the bridge.

"When the chief engineer came up to the bridge I told him then for God's sake to go forward and drop the anchor. He did and swung around into the wind."

Asked by Crone to comment on reports of survivors of lack of water pressure on the fire hoses, Warms replied forcefully:

"All the hoses I saw had tremendous pressure."

Warms said some passengers did not want to come out of their cabins when the fire alarm was given.

"I undestood there had been several drinking parties and also that they carried six or seven girls in their rooms who were very drunk. I did all I could. I brought the ship around until the wind was on our quarter. I used all the hose and water I could."

Auxiliary Not Used

He said there was an auxiliary lighting system but "blinding smoke" probably prevented anyone from getting to it.

"When you sent the SOS," Warms was asked, "did you sound an alarm?"

"Yes, Sir," replied the officer.

Warms said he heard suggestions to beach the ship.

"From my experience on the Jersey coast," he asserted, "I knew if we beached the ship everyone would have been lost."

Eyes were wet in the stifling hearing room as Warms told how he tried to get out the body of his lifelong friend, the ship's captain.

At this point the hearing was recessed for luncheon.

FORCE OF LAW WILL BE GIVEN LABOR PACTS

Labor Promises Supporting Legislaton to Industral Agreements.

TRADES CONGRESS.

Fiftieth Convention Opens Today in Toronto—New Deal Hints.

By HAROLD J. FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Sept. 10. (CP).—Organised Canadian labor was given hints of a new deal in the Dominion to-day as the 50th meeting of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress started its weeklong sessions.

Delegates heard the Federal Minister of Labor Hon. W. A. Gordon demand public bodies protect the workers of the Dominion. They heard the Ontario Labor Minister, Hon. A. W. Roebuck forecast industrial codes for Ontario workers and they heard Ontario's Lieutenant Governor, Hon. H. A. Bruce score slum conditions in Toronto and plead for a nation-wide housing scheme. They also applauded Mayor W. J. Stewart of Toronto when he claimed his city was "a good employer of labor" and championed the minimum wage.

"I never intend to ride into power into any public office on a policy of political wage-cutting". The Ontario government recognized the importance of the Labor movement not only in its militant features but also in its ability to bring an intelligent discussion of Social questions, declared Mr. Roebuck, adding any permanent solution of the more drastic difficulties of the last few years must come from a larger knowledge of social conditions and economic principles.

Mr. Roebuck specified two phases of the labor movement. First was organisation—"by militant sotion make yourself strong—" and secondly he mentioned "the agreement you force from the employers."

Will Support Agreements

A government can assist in undertakings between employer and employee by bringing about legislative pressure, he said, and promised the Ontario government would introduce legislation at the next session of the legislature "which will give the power of law to agreements you enter into with your employers."

He promised an agreement entered into between employer and employees would be given the force of law when approved by the Ontario Minister of Labor and enforced by the Minimum Wage Board. He complained, however, "the minimum wage has been accepted too often as the prevailing wage."

"But," he declared, "if you combine a minimum wage for men and women with the idea of codes for men and women, you may abolish abuses and establish in industrial centres a uniformity of conditions.

"They made a serious mistake across the line in attempting to regulate prices as well as hours and wages. In Ontario we are going to allow competition to regulate prices," he said.

Men and women should not be discharged for any belief, political or other which they hold or in connection with political activities," said Mr. Gordon in his address.

FILM FIREMEN IN SCREEN TEST

Talking Pictures of Local Candidates Are Being Made Here.

SEEN AT CAPITOL.

A talking motion picture, "The Spirit of Peterborough," was in the making to-day as Director Jack Goldeng and technicians of the Hollywood Studios arrived in the city to carry out three days of screen testing in connection with the regular Capitol Theatre programs. Members of the city and provincial police departments, the Fire Department and the Post Office staff were "shot" this morning while volunteers from the audience at the theatre will take the leading roles to-night.

"The Spirit of Peterborough" is being made to give local people an idea how regular Hollywood productions are carried out and also to provide for the city a pictorial and sound record of its activities. Factory scenes and street views will be combined with stage sequences in the reel.

Plans For Screen Tests

At the theatre, candidates for regular Hollywood screen tests will be photographed "with sound" at each performance to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday. All those who have been anxious to see themselves in real, talking pictures will be given the opportunities they have been wanting at no cost to themselves beyond the regular admission charge to the theatre. The test films are to be exhibited before Hollywood casting directors at a later date.

"I want to make it clear that those who take screen tests at the theatre will be subjected to no embarrassment whatever," Mr. Goldberg said this morning. "Nothing will be said or done to ridicule or make fun of our camera subjects in any way."

Candidates who have specialties in the way of singing or dancing will be given an opportunity to display their talents. Under expert direction, all will be given complete voice and photographic trials. The stage will be rigged like a miniature Hollywood studio set with lights, camera, sound equipment and other apparatus for the purpose.

Will Be Shown Here

The results of the tests along with the "Spirit of Peterborough" sequence will be shown during the first three days next week. Two prints are to be made from the film negative, one being sent here for display and the second to Lincoln Productions, Incorporated, the firm's Hollywood connection.

More than 700 tests were made by the Hollywood Studios at the Toronto Exhibition in the Ontario Government building. In addition to Peterborough, Oshawa is the only other city in Ontario to which a screen test visit is planned. In the case of each test, a number identifying the subject is kept on record.

With Director Goldberg are seven assistants. The cameraman is Charles Roos, a former Toronto man of wide experience in the realm of motion picture photography.

MELTED GLASS, WARPED STEEL INDICATE TO SEARCHING PARTIES INTENSE HEAT OF FIRE ON LINER

Three Bodies Found Sunday in Coffin of "Morro Castle."

DECK WINDOWS SMASHED.

Clothing, Vanity Cases, Slippers Litter Main Decks of Ship.

(By John Ferris)

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 10. — (AP) — Searchers picked their way with care today through the coffin of dying fire that was the Ward liner "Morro Castle", seeking a fuller story of one of the sea's most terrifying tragedies.

City firemen and Coast Guardsmen who have had little rest since the liner burst into flames eight miles off this place before dawn Saturday, had small hope of finding more than ashes and charred bodies.

No one could hope to have survived the flames that melted glass, warped and twisted metal beds, burned through doors, partitions and deck planking, and ate their way through the great hulk of the liner.

Three bodies were found yesterday. One, apparently that of a boy, was brought ashore from the Morro Castle on the breeches buoy which Coast Guardsmen rigged between the stern of the Morro Castle and the pier. Another was sighted at the foot of a companon way leading to the engineroom, but the heat and smoke made its recovery impossible.

The third body was a torso, washed ashore late in the afternoon. It was so badly burned it was impossible to determine whether it was a man or woman.

Captain's Body Missing

Somewhere in the ship lies the body of Capt. Robert Wilmott the veteran skipper who died of a heart attack seven hours before his Chief Radio Operator began tapping out the SOS call which brought four steamers and all available Coast-guard craft racing to the scene.

Frank B. Canover, a correspondent for the New York Board of Underwriters, is technically in charge of the Morro Castle to-day.

City firemen again, as they did yesterday, planned to get a line of hose aboard and wet down the decks and pour water into the forward part of the ship where cargo is burning, and where, it is reported, a number of big tanks of fuel oil are threatened by the intense heat and flames.

The upper decks from the charred boat deck to "C" deck, were searched yesterday, not only by firemen but by reporters and photographers, who groped their way behind flashlights through the stifling heat of the corridors, moving with difficulty and caution.

Litter of Personal Effects

Near the stern on the three decks lay shoes and pieces of discarded clothing, vanity cases, singed powder puffs, stateroom keys, lipsticks and handbags—evidence enough of the terror that lay hold of the passengers as they were herded aft by the fire and smoke.

A crowd estimated at about 70,000 persons came here yesterday for a view of the boat. Thousands paid 25 cents for the privilege of a close view from the end of the convention pier.

The evidences of disaster were vivid in the bright sunlight. The flames had blistered the masts and the twin stacks, blistered the sides until the red lead showed and worked through the super-structure until the top became a mere blackened frame.

Where passengers, in anticipation of their arrival at New York, gathered for farewell parties in the Salon, the ashes are ankledeep today. Metal parts of a trap drum lay on the floor, and throughout the ship investigator found the metallic coupling of hose, the brass nozzles and melted bits of fire extinguishers.

On the promenade deck all windows are gone, stove in by the crew, for splinters of glass lay among the debris. The deck plates had buckled under the heat.

Bedsprings, warped by the flames lay in the staterooms where they fell when the beds gave way to the flames. No one could get to the captain's cabin under the bridge for the fire was still burning forward and the bridge and chart room were too hot to approach.

Find Marriage Certificate

Oddly enough, pieces of paper here and there escaped the fire—how, no one could know. A certificate of marriage, dated August 30, 1934, and signed at the city hall of Gloucester Mass., by Frank Loveland, Jr., 32, and Nathene Turk, 24, was found on the deck. Near it lay stubs of motor tour tickets which the couple had taken in Cuba. They were reported to have been saved after swimming in the sea for seven hours.

Most of a page from Eva Le Gallienne's autobiography, "My 30 Years of War" was also found.

Larry Froebuck, a New York newspaper photographer was overcome by smoke on the ship and was found by others in the party, hanging over the rail. His hands were blistered, his camera red hot. He was taken to Pitkin Memorial Hospital after physicians revived him.

Other newspapermen wore gas masks or wrapped towels around their heads as they moved through the ship over decks so that their feet stung.

Courage of Priest

Fresh stories of heroism among those on board the ship were being told to-day by survivors. Helen [illegible] saved, told her brother, James, of Hartford, Conn., that a Fordham University priest, Father Egan, stood at the head of a companionway as the rain-laden gale lashed the flames aft towards the passengers and gave the Roman Catholic general absolution to all on the deck before him.

The men, women and few children gathered there were already nervous and agitated, but all knelt on the deck while the priest prayed. Huddled together, Miss Brodie said, the passengers felt for the moment a feeling of peace

Coastal mariners here said to-day the job of getting the Morro Castle off the beach would not be an easy one, and doubt was even voiced that it could be done at all.

The ship lies in six or eight feet of water at low tide. Her bow is buried deep in the sand and her propellers are visible.

Two tugs got hawsers aboard yesterday, but could accomplish little and gave up as darkness fell.

JAPANESE GIVE ITALIANS WORRY

Oriental Penetration of Abyssinia Cause Troops, Munitions to be Sent.

FOOTHOLD NEAR EUROPE.

(By John Lloyd, Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

ROME, Sept. 10 (AP)—Japanese penetration into Abyssinia is causing considerable concern to Italy, it was stated in informed quarters today, after it became known that troops and munitions have been sent to Italian colonies in Eastern Africa.

A sense of uneasiness because of Japanese activity was increased, it was said, because of growing militartistic manifestations in the Ethiopean empire of Abyssinia.

Soldiers and supplies, consequently, were dispatched to Eritrea, Italy's colony on the Red Sea, and to Somaliland.

An official spokesman asserted that the Italian expedition into Africa is not to be interpreted as an aggressive movement. The protection of colonists, he said, was the only immediate concern of the Government at Rome.

The spokesman said that an extension of Japanese trade into Abyssinia, and the favors which Emperor Haile Selassie of that African state has been bestowing on the Japanese "should serve as a warning that Asiatic peoples are establishing a foothold near the doors of Europe."

C.N.E. BOOKINGS HIGH FOR 1935

Attendance is 83,000 Over 1933—Exhibitors Tickled Over Sales Results.

IMPRESSIVE CLOSING.

TORONTO, Sept. 10 (C.P.) — Workmen to-day completed the task of removing the numerous exhibits from the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds as officials continued to express optimism regarding the business outlook, basing their beliefs on the excellent results from the Fair.

The Exhibition came to a close Saturday night when 50,000 people crammed the grand stand, and with raised hands took the oath of allegiance that featured the drumhead service of the Canadian Corps Reunion here. The famous Kneller Hall Band of Twickenham, England, played the National Anthem, while the packed stands stood at attention. The Exhibition chorus of 2,000 voices and members of the Canadian Corps took part in the closing ceremonies.

Col. F. H. Deacon, President of the Exhibition, described the two-weeks' display as more than fulfilling the hopes of directors. Electric, radio, automobile, candy, sewing machine, soap and creamery industries reaped benefits, and heads of the firms were emphatic in declaring the results had surpassed all expectations, one of them stating it was the best exhibition he had seen in 30 years.

The soap manufacturer said his business had been quadrupled compared with last year, while a bicycle manufacturer said results were "100 times the total head office expected."

Directors revealed firms reserved space for the 1936 show while the Fair was underway, something that had never happened before. Exhibitors of British Empire products prepared to return next year and F. E. B. Gourlay, Ceylon Trade Commissioner, said he was "amazed at the results."

Attendance figures, despite many rainy days mounted to 83,000 above last year, 1,503,000 persons crowding into the grounds during the two weeks.

Remarkable Close-Up of Burning Liner

Above is a splendid close-up of the prow of the S.S. Morro Castle, burning at sea off the New Jersey coast in a major disaster that swept 137 persons, mostly vacation-cruising passengers, to a watery grave. A wing of the plane from which this photo was made is discernable. The liner was returning from a week's vacation cruise to Havana.

Mr. Umphrey read the address, while Miss Betty Ormiston made the presentation of a three-piece brush, comb and mirror set of ivory, mounted on amber in a beautiful case, also a fountain pen.

Miss Inkster made a suitable reply, after which Rev. S. A. Kemp spoke a few words. Hymn, 'God Be With You Till We Meet Again' was sung, after which the gathering assembled in the dining hall where coffee, sandwiches and cake were served by the ladies of the congregation.

FRIENDS HONOR WARSAW MEN

PRESENTED BILL FOLDS.

WARSAW, Sept. 10. (Examiner Correspondence). The young people of Warsaw got up a splendid going away party for George Bennett and Eric Jackson, two young Englishmen who have been working in this district for several years and showed themselves worthy citizens.

The party, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 4, took the form of a corn roast at the back dam. Watermelon accompanied the corn on the bill of fare. A jolly evening was spent in games and community singing.

Each of the young men was presented with a leather bill-fold. Elias Thompson made an address to which Eric Jackson on behalf of himself and George Bennet replied.

The party broke up after singing 'Auld Lang Syne' and 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.'

The young men leave to-day for England and all who know them wish them bon voyage.

member of the crew is supposed to take his station at fire drill The majority of them lay in their bunks."

Story of the Fire.

Relating his experience in the fire of Saturday which burned some and caused others to leap to their deaths in a turbulent sea, O'Sullivan said:

"I was at my station within two minutes after the alarm was given.

"We tried to fight the fire from 'A' deck. As far as we could see down to the dining saloon the entire midship section was a mass of roaring flames.

"We spread three fire hoses. No water came out of them. One of them broke at the coupling.

"We were helpless. I grabbed the nozzle of the hose that broke and smashed in a cabin window to get a passenger out. I could not find anybody and I got lost in the smoke. The second officer pulled me out.

"The crew dropped the waterless hoses when the order came to release the grips on the life boats on the deck above us.

"Our boat, No. 5, was lowered to 'A' deck. The order came to 'get in that boat.' We got in, myself and 10 other members of the crew. Through the whole thing I saw but one passenger, and he was not in the life-boat.

No Panic Among Crew.

"We were lowered away, just the 11 of us."

He said the life-boats were supposed to carry 70.

There was no panic among the crew, he said, and no reason that he could see why the crew members should have been lowered away without passengers.

He had no explanation for the failure of water pressure. The pressure was present, he said, during the Sunday drills.

Reckless?

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 10.—(CP). There's nothing Scotch about Albert Pickard, movie proprietor, even though he hails from Glasgow.

When he was brought into a London court for driving his car past traffic lights, he produced a sketch of the road.

"What is this?" asked the magistrate.

"Have you made the plan on a £5 note?"

"No, no," replied Pickard, "this is a £100 note. It is the only piece of paper I had."

Pickard had only £99 when he left court.

SUGGEST CHEAP OCEAN, RAIL RATE ON IMMIGRANTS

Would Stimulate Flow of British Stock to Dominions, Department Told.

BRITAIN PAY HALF.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (CP Cable).—For a time in the future when economic conditions have improved and Empire migration again is feasible, the British Government has before it recommendations for cheaper passage to Canada. But the report of an inter-departmental committee on Empire migration, made public last night, was obviously a report for the future.

Cheaper rates to Canada should be restored "if and when conditions appear to justify such a scheme," the committee suggested. The £10 rate for British emigrants to Canada, which was in force from 1929 to 1931, was mentioned with favor in the report. The present full ocean rate to Quebec is £17 5 shillings.

The committee, which conducted a lengthy investigation into migration matters, recognized that any large-scale land settlement in Canada or any other Dominion is out of the question of the present time. But for the future it laid down a plan under which the British Government would join with Dominions in assisting settlers.

Not only the ocean, but the rail rate, was taken into consideration by the committee which suggested settlers be given a rate of £10 to Montreal and east of Montreal; £12 to Winnipeg or east of the Manitoba capital to Montreal; £14 to west of Winnipeg. The United Kingdom Government would in no event bear more than a 50-per cent share of the reduced rate cost.

No Ottawa Comments

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—(CP)—Canadian government officials would not comment today on the published report on migration of the international committee of the United Kingdom government. Minister of Immigration Wesley Gordon and ranking officers of the department were out of the city and the report, itself had not reached Ottawa from London by mail.

For two or three years, Canada has maintained strict regulations against immigration from the United Kingdom while practically refusing new citizens from other countries. This was the result of the depression and the high cost of relief throughout the country. In effect, immigrants from the United Kingdom could enter Canada if they demonstrated their financial ability to make a go of their new life and not become public charges.

In recent years two schools of thought have developed in this country over wide-spread immigration. One group say it will be years, probably many years, before Canada will be in a position to welcome immigrants on any scale because of the plight of agriculture and the instability of farm markets here and abroad. The other group say it is imperative that Canada increase its population in the near future because of the ever-increasing load of debt, national, provincial and municipal. In addition, they say Canada's railways, highways and physical framework were built for a population far in excess of 10,000,000.

Weddings

SLACK—COSTELLO

DOWNEYVILLE, Sept. 10 (Examiner Correspondence).—St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Saturday morning, when Mary Costello, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Costello of Downeyville, was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Slack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Slack. Rev. Father Feeney performed the ceremony and also said the Nuptial Mass.

The bride's gown was of white organdy chiffon and picture hat of white taffeta and carried a corsage of sweetheart roses and lily-of-the valley. She was attended by Miss Madeline O'Connor as bridesmaid in rose georgette with back hat and carried talisman roses. Mr. Slack was attended by the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. Eugene Downey of Downeyville.

Immediately after the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families at the home of Miss Madeline O'Connor. The bride's travelling costume was a smart grey suit with matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Slack will reside in Kingston on their return from a brief trip to Rochester, N.Y., and Toronto.

"Six years ago I fell and received an injured back," writes Mr. D. E. Raby of 567 Albert St., Ottawa. "I tried many prescriptions but they did not help me to get better. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. A well-known druggist in Ottawa advised Dodd's Kidney Pills. After using two boxes my back started to feel better; I kept on taking them and today my back feels fine. No more soreness. No more weakness nor sickness as long as I have Dodd's Kidney Pills." 011 thusiastic or touching for a Caesar or a Kaiser of pre-war Germany.

GERMANS MADLY ACCLAIM HITLER

When we entered the streets through which Hitler was taken slowly as he stood erect in his car an easy mark for any would-be assassin, the cheers reverberated among the houses. They struck our ears with an intensity equal to the great swell of sound in the Gorge of Niagara Falls.

Bouquets From Blondes

Occasionally some blonde Gretchen, despite Hitler's orders to the contrary, would pop through the lines and with deep blushes and a curtsy, hand him a bouquet.

Sacrilegious though it may seem, Germany of to-day can be explained to the foreign only if he is made to realize that the great German nation has a Messiah-complex and that Hitler is the incarnation of their hopes for better days.

Anglo-Saxons reared on democratic ideas may differ violently with Nazi principles and practises, but unless they understand this Messiah-complex, they are bound to be wrong in their estimation of the German situation.

Hitler was in a happy frame of mind as he sprang from his car at the conclusion of the trip to greet the five correspondents.

"I am particularly glad you could see with you own eyes that we are not compelling our people to be enthusiastic, but that their enthusiasm is genuine and spontaneous," he said.

Romantic Nuremberg.

Then he entered the castle and viewed the spacious halls with interest. Again and again, however, he stepped to some window to point out to his guests a superb view of the city of the maestersingers.

"There is romanticism for you," he said with pride. "One really cannot understand romanticism in music, poetry, and architecture unless one knows Nurnberg."

As he pointed out a particular turret to me, someone far below in one of the crooked little streets espied Hitler. As he cried "Heil Mein Fuehrer," the little street filled with excited citizens.

Someone handed him a pair of field-glasses and he studied the crowd.

"That's wonderful," he said, almost in a whisper and visibly affected. Then he turned to me, saying, "This is strenuous work but it has great compensations.

"To know that one is thus carried on by the love of one's people helps a public man over many dark hours. But he can keep the affections of a people only if one works continually with them. They must ever be won anew. One must never lag."

The Heart

Here a French correspondent joined the conversation.

"Herr Reich Chancellor, I have studied your speaking technique and I have noticed that you always try to reach not only the brain but also the hearts of your hearers."

A theme dear to Hitler's heart had been struck and he replied at length:

"The decisive thing about speaking is not so much what you say or how you say it, but that you 'put it over'," he said. "That decides everything. My critics made a mistake trying to analyse my speeches, attempting to find out that here my style is pure, or there a word was misplaced. What did it matter?

"Throughout my years of campaigning I have always asked myself, 'How can I say what I have to say in such a manner that the humblest man of the people will understand me? How can I establish contact between myself and my hearers?'

"I was aware that often I was saying something that to the intellectual seemed a platitude, and I can understand why intellectuals wondered why in addition to pronouncing self-evident facts I even dwelt upon them and illustrated them. Yet I always said to myself, there is this or that humble man in my audience who does not yet comprehend quite what I am driving at so I must make it clear to him by the humblest illustration from daily life."

Hitler, his eyes wandering into the distance, resumed, "and how we worked to win over people!"

Once Full of Reds

He walked impulsively to a window and said, "There, you see that boy sitting on the roof. That house was filled with Communists before we seized power. Nurnberg was a hotbed of Marxism.

"When I spoke in Nurnberg for the first time in 1919 I expected every moment to be thrown out of the window. And to-day the cheering boy sits on the roof of a house that once was 'Red'!"

"But what of written speeches which you as a responsible chief of state must deliver," I asked. "Are you sure you reach your audience in these speeches also?"

"Before I write an address I visualise both the immediate audience and those beyond whom I try to reach," he said.

"Having been so long among and with people I do not find it difficult to write my speeches as though I already were addressing living persons."

The Nurnberg Burgomaster now asked us to share a simple lunch before descending to the Adolf Hitler Platz for a 4½-hour review of the Storm Troops and Schuts staff.

Hitler, who is a total abstainer, contented himself with a glass of water and a few sandwiches, going to a window from time to time in response to urgent demands of the crowds.

The lunch finished, Hitler turned sharply on his heel and climbed down the narrow spiral staircase leading to the courtyard of the castle.

A few moments later Hitler took a stand in the blazing sun, and there for five solid hours stood in his car saluting thousands of times without a sign of fatigue.

SANDY GAINS SECOND ROUND IN U. S. GOLF

Somerville Breezes Through First Play for 2 and 1 Victory Over Kirouac.

CAMERON ALSO UP.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 10 (CP)—C. Ross Somerville, starting another attempt to win the United States amateur golfing crown he held in 1932, to-day breezed through the first round with a 2 and 1 victory over Eddie Kirouac, former Massachusetts State champion.

The Canadian shotmaker was accompanied into the second round by Jack Cameron of Montreal, who scored a walkover victory from Richard Ashley of Kenosha, Wis. The Montrealer shot par on the outgoing nine and won the 18-hole round 5 and 4.

Francis Ouimet, Boston veteran, and twice a holder of the title, was eliminated by 18-year-old Bobby Jones of Detroit. Jones won by one up in a match that went the 18-hole limit.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 10.—(AP). The big scramble for the United States amateur golf championship, with 180-odd players seeking the crown now worn by George Terry Dunlap, Jr., of New York, started under excellent conditions this morning.

Fifty-six first round matches, over the 18-hole route, were scheduled but the number was reduced at the outset by the withdrawal of Robert A. (Bob) Gardner of Chicago, a former champion, who was called home by the serious illness of his mother.

Among First to Tee

Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian star who won the United States championship in 1932, was among the first of the favorites to tee off. He promptly won the first two holes from Eddie Kirouac, former Massachusetts state champion, who was wild with his drives. Sandy lost the next hole, however, due to a poor approach and was one up after halving the fourth.

Somerville, after halving the fifth, went two up at the sixth where Kirouac flubbed his approach.

Charles Dexter of Dallas, Tex., set off the first real scoring fireworks when he shot the outgoing nine in 34 strokes, one under par, to become four up on George Rayner, Jr., of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Dexter's card showed eight par fours and a birdie two on the 185 yard seventh hole.

Somerville won the seventh with a par three, then halved the next two holes to reach the turn three up on Kirouac. The card:

Somerville, out ..445 545 344-37
Kirouac, out 554 455 444-40

Somerville lost the 12th and the 14th to Kirouac and was only one up with three to go after halving the 16th in par.

Somerville, after a streak of wildness, increased his margin to two holes when he sank an 18-foot putt on the 170-yard 16th for a birdie. It was all over when the next was halved in par. Card:

Somerville, in ...454 464 24x-x
Kirouac, in 453 454 34x-x
(Somerville won, 2 and 1).

FUNERAL TRAIN FINISHES CRUISE OF BURNED LINER

Grief Stricken Relatives Tour Death Cots Seeking Faces of Loved Ones.

RED CROSS ON DUTY.

(By Morris Watson)

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Sept. 10 (AP)—The Morro Castle's cruise ended here to-day on a funeral train.

Forty-seven of the dead—27 of them yet to be identified—were brought from the militia camp at Sea Girt and carried on their cots and in their white sheets to Waters' undertaking establishment.

The train came over the tracks of the New York and Long Branch Railroad at a funeral pace—20 miles an hour. It left Camp Moore at Sea Girt shortly before 10 p.m. last night, arrived here at midnight.

The slow pace was ordered by M. L. McIleny, Superintendent of the road. McIleny was a passenger on the burned Morro Castle, and was rescued.

From early yesterday until shortly before the bodies were removed from the earswhile camp restaurant of the militia, people came in groups of two, three and four to pick out their dead

There were four rows of cots in the restaurant, 18 cots to a row, a body on each cot, covered with a white sheet.

Touching Scene

A woman and an escort would enter. A Red Cross nurse would guide them down the aisle, at the feet of the dead. At each cot they would stop while a negro soldier lifted the sheet of each to expose the head.

"No." A shake of the head.

Another.

"No." Quietly.

Another.

"Oh, oh, that's him! That's him!"

Quickly the negro soldier would cover the face. The Red Cross nurse would put her arms around the aggrieved, comfort her and escort her to a little side office for a drink of water and a brief rest on a chair.

The cots were side by side, touching. Sometimes a mother picked out a son, a wife her husband. Men were no less affected.

Sometimes grief was made even more bitter because of uncertainty, because beneath the white sheets there was not the face that was sought.

Dr. Braulia Sanz of Cuba found his daughter. But what of his wife and three other children? Dead and still in the ocean? Or alive some where? Little hope of that.

Some came to see the dead already identified. R. A. Holden of Cincinnati, saved with his two sons, learned from his cousin yesterday that his wife was in the morgue. He rushed to see her. The cousin made the identification the day before, but he wouldnt awaken Holden from a sleep of exhaustion.

OWE GREAT DEBT TO CARTIER AND HIS DISCOVERIES

Explorations of French Sailor Have Meant Much to Canada Declares T. J. Carley.

ROMANTIC APPEAL.

Story of Cartier's Voyage to Canada Eloquently Told to Rotarians.

The romantic appeal of the story of Jacques Cartier was eloquently told to the Peterborough Rotary Club to-day by Rotarian T. J. Carley, who stressed the important part in Canada's history and development played by the voyages of the French explorer.

Mr. Carley pointed out that the effect of Cartier's discoveries was more marked than Canadians often realized, inasmuch as it led to the condition of the representatives of two great races living in peace and good feeling as citizens of the one country.

The speaker, who was introduced by President J. Fred Reed, began by declaring that while the early years of Cartier's life were obscure, it was not difficult to visualize his imagination being fired by the stories of di distant lands told him by sailors in his native town, the famous old sea-port of St. Malo, in Britanny, France. Rotarian Carley told of Cartier's first visit to the mouth of the St. Lawrence in 1534, his subsequent voyages and exploration of the St. Lawrence as far as Quebec and Hochelaga, the site of Montreal; of his experiences with the Indians and of his final voyage with Roberval and the colonists. Of the last years of Cartier's life, he said, few details were known, although there was a hint that he might have paid a visit to Brazil.

The speaker stressed the debt that was owing to Cartier and the other French supporters and the part their discoveries played in the history of the Dominion.

Sympathetic reference was made by the president to the sudden death of Mrs. Hugh Bertram, relict of a former member of the Rotary Club.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Wm. Jones in Car Driven by Walter Underwood.

DRIVER ARRESTED.

Walter Underwood, formerly of Milverton but at present a resident of this city, was arrested by Provincial Constable D. Silvester and charged before Police Magistrate Langley to-day as being responsible for the motor accident yesterday afternoon in which Mrs William Jones, Romaine street, suffered severe head injuries.

The accident occurred on Highway No. 7, one quarter of a mile east of the locks bridge.

Underwood drove his car into the rear of a car driven by Keith Breakwell, of 32 Annette street, Toronto. In the Breakwell car were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Breakwell, parents of the driver, and another son.

Mrs. Jones was a passenger in the front seat with Underwood, and the force of the collision caused her head to go through the windshield. She had a severe gash on the forehead and was cut about the mouth, chin and nose. Dr. C. M. Scott attended her and stitched her wounds.

Other passengers in the Underwood car were: Mrs. Conroy, Armour road, and her two children, none of whom were injured.

Both cars were travelling east. The Breakwell car was in front and was slowing up, when the car driven by Underwood crashed into its rear. Both vehicles were badly damaged.

WORLD CRISIS MOST SERIOUS MAN HAS FACED

Touches Ideals, Morals, Religious Beliefs, Social Political Conditions.

BENES TELLS LEAGUE.

(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

GENEVA, Sept. 10 (C.P. Cable)—World crisis was the keynote as the 15th Assembly of the League of Nations opened to-day. Edouard Benes, veteran Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, President of the League Council, spoke frankly as in the opening address he summed up the League's debits and credits.

"There can be no denying," Benes declared, "that the world to-day is passing through a deep-seated crisis comparable with the greatest crisis the history of mankind has ever known: It is a crisis in ideas, in morals, in religious beliefs; a crisis in world economic affairs; a crisis in internal social and political conditions; and a far-reaching crisis in international relationships with threats of wars and revolutions of all kinds—in short a state of general instability and uncertainty as to what tomorrow has in store for every sphere."

On the League's debit side he placed the state of the Disarmament Conference, the departure of Germany and Japan, the war in the Chaco, the situation in the Far East, the failure of the World Economic Conference.

To its credit he placed the increased co-operation from the United States, efforts to bring Russia into the League, settlement of the dispute between Peru and Colombia, with various pacts of friendship and peace.

The League's Position

"Though the activities of the League have not yielded all the results which have been expected," Benes continued after a reference to Manchuria, "and though perhaps these happenings have put it to the supreme test, there can be no doubt of the lesson to be drawn from them.

"They have indeed proved that if in the future any power were to provoke similar events in other parts of the world, for example in Europe, it would inevitably lay itself open to direct sanctions applied by a large number of other members of the League, or else assume the crushing responsibility of having brought about the final disappearance of the League and the outbreak of an unexampled general catastrophe in which it might itself be engulfed.

"For us this certitude is not a result to be despised. We are forewarned, and to be forewarned is of the greatest importance, especially in the present state of the world."

And striking the balance between debits and credits he found the result not discouraging for the League. The League was still a force with which the world could not dispense, he declared Its undue weakening, or its disappearance, would bring the international organization of the world into complete chaos. The door would be thrown wide open to upheavals, revolutions, violent conflict of every kind.

E. J. Sandler, veteran Minister of Foreign Affairs for Sweden, was elected president of the new Assembly, and after the transaction of routine business the Assembly rose until this evening. The main debate will commence tomorrow.

Goodfellow; and partitions and other woodwork was finished by Peerborough Wood Products.

Office furniture and chairs for the waiting-room were obtained from D. Belleghem and Sons, and the linoleum and window shades from A. Comstock and Sons.

Dr. Murray Fraser intimated that the Chest Clinic operating under auspices of Peterborough Health Association and conducted by Drs. F. C. Neal and C. B. Waite, was to be given the facilities provided at the new department of health offices, as also was the mental health clinic. In short, Dr. Fraser stated, all branches of public health will be looked after through his department, and it is his hope that other clinics may also be established.

Since he assumed his duties at the beginning of August, Dr. Fraser has made an inspection of all milk producers, bakeries and restaurants in the city, besides having visited a number of houses.

Dairymen, bakers and restaurant keepers have been warned they must comply with existing by-laws. If they failed to do so drastic action is to follow.

Generally speaking, the medical officer of health remarked he had found a satisfactory state of affairs. As far as restaurants were concerned, he said, "with very few exceptions they are clean and sanitary."

Bears End Season With Double Loss At Home

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

SATURDAY'S opening at Thorncliffe was marred by bad weather but nevertheless a large turnout of fans were on hand to welcome the bangtails back to the Queen City after an absence of nearly three months. Despite the inclement weather some fine racing was witnessed and it looks like another successful week for the popular Billy Woollatt. Slow racing strips were the order of the day at all the important tracks on Saturday, which accounts for the generous prices paid in many instances, as there is nothing that will change the mind of a better quicker than adverse track conditions. On a rainy day at any race track the words on everyboy's lips are, "Can he run in the mud?"

THEY TELL us that this horse Crofter is in tip top condition and just waiting for the question. Acajou from the same barn has enjoyed a good rest and might drop from the clouds any day now. Donna Julia the good McLaughlin two-year-old made amends on Saturday at Thorncliffe, for her recent defeat at Saratoga, when she had the honor of capturing the first race on the program. Fred Schefke sent a smart Canadian bred two-year-old to the post in the second event when his Beechview took all the money.

LIVE ONE who was scratched on Saturday due to track conditions is almost sure of grabbing a purse at the present meeting if the footing becomes dry. He will travel with the most select company too. Jockeys Keester and Rosengarten again on Friday each rode three winners. These two lads although about a thousand miles apart, are waging a great battle for riding supremacy, and the eyes of the turf followers in America are on both of them.

WITH THE closing of the long meeting at Saratoga the other day the old argument has started again in New York of mutuel betting vs. the bookmaking style of wagering. The Saratoga people are all for the latter form while the tracks in New York City favor the mutuel style. To back up their claims the Saratoga people show where the bookmakers at the recent meeting done five hundred thousand dollars worth of business each day and they defy anyone to show where any mutuel track on the continent handles that amount or anywhere near it over a thirty day session. Personally we are in favor of the pari-mutuel system but they say figures don't lie so we can't very well argue against the bookmaking system in the face of these statistics from Saratoga.

Both games scheduled in the local soccer were postponed on Saturday, owing to the field being flooded and in a dangerous condition to be played on. Also some person had broken one of the crossbars thereby compelling the officials to call the games off. President William Anderson notified Lindsay that the game between Caledonians and Lindsay had been postponed. He notified them in the afternoon.

To-morrow evening, the C.G.E. and Packers meet in an important league engagement on King Edward Park. Kick off at 5 o'clock prompt. Referee, J. Morgan.

A special meeting of the P. and D.F.A. will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Tuesday evening. Representatives and executive please note that meeting is called for eight o'clock.

DETROIT GOES 10 INNINGS TO BEAT HUB CLUB

Yankees Make Gain on Leaders by Taking Double Decisions from St. Louis.

GIANTS LOSE 1-0.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Despite the strenuous and generally successful efforts of the Tigers and the Giants to attain the 1934 major league pennants in the shortest possible time, their leading rivals, the Yankees and Cardinals, have shown no signs of giving up the chase.

Detroit won a game yesterday, after a stiff 10-inning struggle with the Red Sox, but at the same time the Yanks came through with two hard-won victories and reduced the Tiger lead to four games. The Cards recorded an even greater gain when they belted over the Phillies twice while Pittsburgh's Pirates were overturning the Giants 1-0 in a mound duel between Larry French and Fred Fitzsimmons. They reduced New York's margin from 6½ to five games.

Trouble for Rowe

The Red Sox gave Schoolboy Rowe plenty of trouble as he went after his 22nd victory but he finally got it by a 5-4 count in the 10th. The Yanks had to go 14 innings to take the opener from St. Louis 6-5 with George Selkirk's homer providing the winning run after Lefty Gomez had failed to hold a 5-1 lead. Lou Gehrig's 45th circuit clout, coming with one aboard in the sixth and last inning, won the second clash, 2-1.

The Pirates and Giants played a game for the book as they struggled through eight innings with only two runners reaching third and Gus Suhr won it for Pittsburgh with a ninth-inning homer. Their St. Louis rivals found things somewhat easier as they pounded the Phils for a dozen hits behind Paul Dean's four-hit, 10 strikeout pitching to take the opener, 6-1, then went on with 13 more blows for a 7-3 triumph in eight innings.

First Sunday Double

It was the first Sunday doubleheader in Philadelphia's baseball history and, judging by the result, the Phils won't repeat the experiment.

The Cubs lost a chance to duplicate the St. Louis gain when they got no better than an even break with the Braves. Chicago took the opener 4-1 behind the six-hit flinging of Jim Weaver and Bud Tinning but Boston came back with an 11-1 triumph for Huck Betts as Wally Berger drove in five runs with four hits, including his 32nd homer.

Two Brooklyn pitchers, completely subdued Cincinnati while the Dodgers took two decisions, 5-0 and 3-0. Ray Benge granted only two hits and Van Mungo three. Even then it took a homer by Joe Stripp with two aboard to beat Bennie Frey in the second clash.

The Indians made third place in the American League quite safe for Cleveland when they beat the Athletics twice, 8-3 and 6-5 with the aid of timely circuit swats. Hal Trosky nicked Rookie John Wilson for his 32nd four-ply smash in the opener and Johnny Burnett's homer in the 10th won the afterpiece after Earl Averill had tied it in the ninth by the same method.

Chicago and Washington divided their bargain bill, the White Sox pounded out 15 hits, including Zeke Bonura's 24th circuit drive, for an 11-3 triumph in the opener and the Senators taking the second clash 2-1 in the 10th when Dave Harris' double broke up a mound duel between Alex McColl and Phil Gallivan.

KY LAFFOON WINS GLEN FALLS OPEN

Denver Star Defeats Runyan by Four Strokes in Play-off.

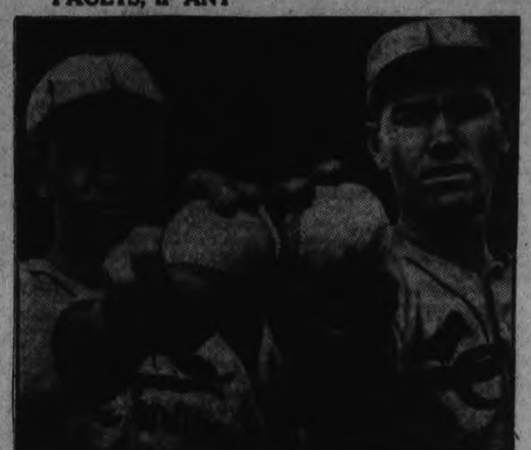
GLENS FALLS, N.Y., Sept. 10.—(A.P.)—Shaving four strokes off par with a sparkling 67, Ky Laffoon, Denver's sensational golfing star, yesterday won the sixth annual Glens Falls open, beating slender Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N.Y., by four strokes in an 18-hole playoff.

Displaying the same fine brand of golf which characterized all his rounds in the 72-hole tournament concluded Saturday, the golfing typhoon whizzed over the outward stretch in 32, four under par, and came home in regulation figures of 35. Runyan, with three bad holes to offset otherwise steady golf, equalled standard figures on both nines.

HERE'S ADVICE TO MESSRS. ROWE, BRIDGES, OTHER TIGER PITCHERS IN RE: THOSE N.Y. GIANTS' HITTERS

DEAN BROTHERS AND DUROCHER OF CARDS, DESCRIBE FAULTS, IF ANY

"SCHOOLBOY" ROWE
Detroit pitching ace is told how to hurl to the Giants by the expert Dean brothers and Leo Durocher.



PAUL DEAN

JEROME "DIZZY" DEAN

LEO DUROCHER

Tommy Bridges

(By James Francis)

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Hear ye, Schoolboy Rowe! Hearken carefully, you Detroit pitchers, Tom Bridges, Eldon Auker and "Firpo" Marberry.

You've probably been lying awake in the dead of night, trying to figure how to stop the Giant hitters in the new-pretty-well-established entent of New York versus Detroit in the world's series of 1934. How about getting the low down, the up-up and the left to right from a pair of pitchers who might be said to deal with the subject on some degree of authority, the Dean brothers, Dizzy and Paul (of Daffy), of St. Louis? If they don't know, nobody does. All they've done between them this year is win nine out of eleven from the Giants.

It was deep into August before the Giants were able to beat Paul (or Daffy), and then only because he blew up behind a lead in the ninth inning. They beat Dizzy (or Delirious) because, after he'd vouchsafed a shut-out against the Giants the day before, the Cardinal management brought him right back as a relief piecher and it was just no go.

So, it may be assumed that these strange young men have a general grasp of the New York situation and here, according to Leo (Lippy) Durocher, the St. Louis shortstop, is a thumb-nail graph of the system:

Bill Terry—Give him everything you have. He's the one man on the club who must be stopped

Joe Moore—Don't make them too bad or he'll walk. Don't make them too good or the ball will leave the park. You've got to play the corners with him on every pitch.

Lefty O'Doul—He's tough, but he can be stopped because he's willing to gamble on a long hit. He's always aiming for the stands.

Travis Jackson—If there's runners give him the Sunday pitch on every ball. If the bases are empty, he's just another ball player.

Mel Ott—We pitch to him outside and try to hold him to singles.

Leo Durocher is called Lippy, one suspects, largely for the same reason that the elder Dean is called Dizzy, meaning that the one doesn't walk in circles, and the other does not talk that way. Lippy's strictly a gentleman who knows the time of day.

"The rest of the Giants don't matter a whole lot," Durocher says. "Of course, they can bust up a ball game on you, but that can be written off as an act of God. But you have got to stop Terry, Ott, Moore and Jackson and, if he pinch hits, O'Doul.

"Lefty can be pitched to, because he's always drawing a bead on the right field bleachers. He'll concede you that first strike all the time, unless the bases are loaded and the Giants need a homer. But, either way, Lefty's no bargain to an opposing pitcher Jackson is the same type. He'll go hitless all day and then, when the pinch is on, the pitcher will try to slip one by him and—blooey! We never give Jax a good ball in a pinch.

"Ott, Terry and Moore are a different matter. Unless the winning runs are on base, we're satisfied to work the outside corner with Ott and hold him down to one base. Moore, of course, is a problem to any team, there being only one rule to follow: Never give him a good ball any time. As for Terry, he's one of the great hitters of baseball. If I really knew any way to stop him, I wouldn't be a shortstop. I'd be a $30,000-a-year pitcher."

Before concluding his oration, Mr. Durocher had something searching to say about alleged bickering in St. Louis under the management of Frankie Frisch.

"Frisch," said he, "is an outstanding manager. He's tough, but that's why we have a fighting club."

"Yeh, a fighting club," we said, brightly. "You have no harmony."

"Harmony!" (The man seemed pained by our ignorance).

"Heck!" said he, "you can find that on a quartet It doesn't matter much on a ball club, just so they play ball."

Bisons and Rochester Redwings Divide Double Over the Week-end.

SENATORS SPLIT TWIN.

(By the Associated Press)

The International League has closed its regular 1934 season and now looks ahead at the post-season play-offs starting to-morrow at Newark and Rochester.

The pennant - winning Bears brought their campaign to a somewhat inglorious close at Newark yesterday, bowing twice to Baltimore Orioles 6-4, 4-1. With nothing whatever depending upon the outcome, the Bears took things easy. Bill Lohrman held their safe in the opener until the ninth when Joe Glenn's homer with two on made the score close. Manager Bob Shawkey of the Bears and business manager Jack Ogden of the Orioles started for their respective clubs in the second game. Shawkey was touched for three innings while Ogden called it a day after the first frame in which he yielded one harmless hit. Norman Kies' homer represented the only damaging blow the Bears got off George Granger in the last six frames of the seven-inning game.

Splits With Bisons

Second place Rochester split two games with Buffalo, winning the first in 14 innings, 4-3 and dropping the second, 8-0. Fabian Kowalik allowed only three hits in the nightcap to earn his 16th victory. Lincoln Wasem, young Bison catcher, collected six hits during the afternoon and Ollie Carnegie, Buffalo outfielder, slugged his 31st homer.

Albany and Syracuse divided shutouts. The Chiefs won the first, 3-0, behind Tim McKeithan's five-hit pitching, and the fourth place Albany outfit won the second, 1-0, on Jake Powell's home run and the four hit pitching of Herring and McCorry.

Toronto Game Off

The doubleheader between third place Toronto and Montreal was cancelled because of rain.

The opening play-off pairings leading to selection of a team to represent the International League in the little world series send Newark against Toronto and Albany against Rochester. The survivors then will meet in the finals. All play-off series are on a best four-out of seven basis.

The play-off dates: Sept. 11-12, Toronto at Newark and Albany at Rochester; 13-14-15, Newark at Toronto and Rochester at Albany; 16-17, Toronto at Newark and Albany at Rochester.

FIVE CANADIANS COMPETING IN UNITED STATES' AMATEUR

Schedule Calls for Six Rounds of Match Play as Prelude to Semi-finals.

NASH DRAWS BYE.

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 10 (A.P.)—A new deal in amateur golf based on an old idea, to-day marks the start of the 36th United States championship over the historic course of the Country Club of Brookline — with the pay-off on rugged individualism.

For the first time in 31 years the tournament is on the matchplay standard, from start to finish, with every man for himself and the final outcome in the lap of the golfing gods.

Instead of the two-day qualifying competition, which has been customary as a fore-runner to championship matchplay, hand-to-hand battle was ordered to-day for nearly two-thirds of the field of 184 entries, comprising the pick of American amateurs as well as one British threat, the veteran Tony Torrance, and five Canadians, among them C. R. (Sandy) Somerville, of London, Ont., a former winner of the United States title.

Nash Draws Bye

After some withdrawals had been posted, 56 matches remained on to-day's first round slate over the 18-hole route. Sixty-eight players, including Phil Farley of Toronto, Jack Nash of London, Ont., and the defending champion, George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, drew first round "byes" and will not start play until tomorrow. The schedule calls for six rounds of 18-hole play including two rounds each on Wednesday and Thursday, as a prelude to the semi-finals at 36 holes on Friday and the championship round, also at 36 holes, on Saturday.

Except for the noteworthy fact that Dunlap and one of his foremost rivals, William Lawson Little, Jr., of San Francisco, the long hitting holder of the British amateur crown, are both in the fourth quarter, the "blind" draw for the tournament resulted otherwise in a good distribution of top notch talent.

Match play was scheduled to start at 7.30 a.m. (EST), the principal pairings include the following:

C. R. Somerville, London and E. P. Kirouac, Walpole, Mass.; Jack Cameron, Montreal and Richard Ashley, Wis.; Gordon Taylor, Montreal and Jesse Guilford; Francis Ouimet, Boston, and Bonny Jones, Detroit; Chick Evans, Chicago and Crawford Rainwater, Atlanta.

Teacher Congratulates Star Pupil

Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, chatting with Mickey Cochrane, catcher and youthful manager of the Detroit Tigers, apparent pennant winners in the American League struggle. Mickey learned all he knew of big league baseball under the tutelage of Mack, and turned that knowledge to such good advantage that in his first year as pilot, he is on the verge of winning the championship.

TERRY'S GIANTS MUCH STRONGER THAN LAST YEAR, SAYS VETERAN

Thinks New Yorkers Will Beat Detroit Because They Are Better All-around Club.

WILL BE CLOSE BATTLE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—At 60, John Henry (Hans) Wagner, coach of the Pittsburg Pirates, is an ultra-conservative old gaffer who usually garnishes his baseball predictions with entangling modifications.

Hence it was unexpected and electrifying today when the great Wagner, the game's heroic shortstop with the Pirates from 1900 to 1917, came right out and predicted flatly that the New York Giants would beat Detroit's Tigers in their quite probable World Series next month.

"Yes sir," said old Honus, shifting a sizeable quid from port side to starboard of the undershot jaw which threatened to meet his overhanging beak of a nose. "I say the Giants will beat Detroit because they're the better all-round club. But it's probably be a good fight.

"Bill Terry's Giants are stronger than last year. A great club. No, I wouldn't say one of the greatest, because there have been teams in both leagues without weaknesses. The Giants are somewhat weak at thir base. Verges is not playing as well since his appendicitis operation.

Distance Hitters

"But they're strong than the Tigers. They have better pitching, fielding and distance hitting. Yes, that's right, better distance hitting. Although the Tigers are batting over .300 and the Giants about .280, the Detroiters haven't any four men who can drive 'em out like Terry, Ott, Jackson and O'Doul. It's quite important in a World Series. Detroit's only club advantage, as I see it, is speed in running bases.

"Of course, Manager Cochrane of the Tigers is a better all-round catcher than Mancuso because he's so dangerous at bat. But Mancuso, like Cochrane, is a mighty fine backstop and a great handler of pitchers."

New York's "Big Four" pitchers, Hubbell, Schumacher, Parmelee and Fitzsimmons, are better this season that last, according to Hans, and superior to Rowe, Bridges, Auker and Hogsett. He claimed either Hubbell or Schumacher should beat Rowe, Detroit ace.

"I hear Cochrane figures he has tops as a second-base combination in Rogell and Gehringer," he continued. "Well, they're not as fast and smart as Critz and Jackson. Of course Gehringer is more dangerous at bat. Both have good outfields. Give me the team with good pitching, good fielding and long driving. That's the Giants."

U.S. Tourists Mulcted In Exchange Racket

GRIMSBY, Sept. 10.—The present exchange on United States currency has given certain business people an opportunity to work a new "racket." A United States motorist stopped at a highway stand near Grimsby and purchased a basket of peaches for 90 cents. Tendering an American $10 bill in payment, he was charged six per cent. exchange, or 60 cents. He received $8.50 change in American money on which the dealer had already collected six per cent. exchange amounting to 45 cents.

The game will be played here on Saturday, Sept. 15.

Lawn Bowling By Herb Martin

On Wednesday, September 12th the Central Ontario Lawn Bowling Association will hold their annual tournament.

—o—

This Event is looked upon as the classic bowling meet in this district. There will be rink doubles and single competitions. The games commence at 9 a.m.

—o—

Many Of Our boys thought that when that cool weather came that the bowling for this season was over and many either took their bowls home or locked them up for the season. But this is not the case, because in looking up our last year's records we find that we had wonderful bowling all last September and well on into October—in fact we had a mixed tournament on Thanksgiving Day.

—o—

To-night We Will play the finals in the rink schedule for third and fourth positions between W. Zeihr and G. Coleman.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES By ALEX. J. MORRISON

NUMBER 396.

Very often my pupils will come to me with sore hands. Blisters that are in the wrong place or sometimes swollen fingers.

Such discomforts can easily be avoided. In these cases the player generally abuses his hands, either by hitting too many balls on the practice tee or simply by trying to set a record for the buckets of balls hit at a driving range.

I'm in favor of practice, particularly at driving ranges, but a little common sense should be used.

I've even had noted surgeons abuse their hands trying to kill the ball and knock them out of the park. Before starting put a glove on the left hand.

If you haven't a glove then put rings of tape around the left little fingers, left forefinger and left thumb.

HAS EVEN CHANCE

OTTAWA, Sept. 10 (C.P.)—T. O. M. Sopwith has a 50-50 chance of lifting the America's Cup this year, in the opinion of Sir Walter Smiles, commodore of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, who is here on a visit. The odds, he said, were the best an English yacht has had in many years. He will attend the cup races off Newport later in the month.

LABORITIES PLAN BANKING REFORM

Australian Opposition Leader Would Have Government Bank Handle Business.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Sept. 10 (CP)—Banking reform is the chief plank of the Opposition party in the Australian general election.

Former Prime Minister James H. Scullin, whose Labor government was overthrown by the United Australian Party of J. A. Lyons in the 1931 election, is staking his bid for return to power on a plan for putting complete control of banking and credit in the hands of the commonwealth government.

Candidates favoring the Douglas credit scheme are numerous in the present campaign which ends in polling Sept. 15, but the Labor platform is separate from this.

Mr. Scullin proposes to make the Commonwealth Bank a nation-wide trading bank handling the ordinary busines sof the community, and a savings bank performing the ordinary functions of such a bank. He also plans to introduce a credit system providing advances to primary producers and home-builders, in which aspect the Labor platform most closely approaches the Douglas scheme of providing credit against potential production.

The Commonwealth Bank, under Labor's plans, would enter into vigorous competition with the private banks "to secure for the people the profits and privileges of banking which are now practically monopolized by private banking companies," says the Labor platform.

Legislation would be passed restoring the management to a governor of the bank, as was originally the case. "Outside control by private interests will thus be removed, and the bank will function in the public interest only. The banking accounts of all public bodies, boards of works, etc., will be placed in and operated through the Commonwealth bank.

"The expenditure by commonwealth and state governments is equivalent to half the national income. Add to that the money handled by other public bodies and it will be seen this will be a big stride towards complete national control."

The main purpose in securing national control of banking and credit is "to utilize the credit of the nation for the benefit of the people." "Why," asks Mr. Scullin, "should governments pay heavy interest charges to private banks for the right to operate on credits which belong to the whole community?"

He hits back at his opponents: "Attempts are being made to create fear in the minds of depositors. It is alleged that their deposits will be confiscated. No heed, whatever, should be paid to this prejudiced propaganda. Not a penny of depositors' money will be interfered with. The sound practical development of the Commonwealth Bank will naturally take place by the voluntary transference of deposits and loans from private banks to the nation's bank, which will have the weight and power of the whole nation supporting it.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Omemee gals play C.G.E. lasses in tonight's softball game at the Bowl, if the weather's oke. This is an important contest as the schedule winds up this week and the O's and Electrics in third and fourth place now are battling hard to get a playoff berth. Omemee has won five and dropped three in this half, while C.G.E. has won five and lost four. Keene is in second place with six wins and three reverses, while the top-place Westclox damsels have only suffered two defeats in eight starts. We doubt if the playoffs will get started this week.

• • • • • •

The girls' league hasn't done so well this year. They've had tough luck, and also they haven't been managed any too well. The first half-schedule couldn't be played at the Bowl, but the last half has and still there isn't too much interest exhibited. Why? Well, the schedule is dragged out too much—too many open dates—playoffs not starting till the best weather is gone. Ti.-games that weren't replayed, protests that haven't been attended to yet, games starting too late and being stopped by darkness—all this stuff has cost the loop a lot of faithful fans. Best thing to do now is to rush the playoffs along and insist that the teams start on time and have no open nights till the champion is declared.

• • • • • •

The Hepburn cabinet Friday appointed several members to the Ontario Athletic Commission. Miss Alexandrine Gibb, assistant sports editor of the Toronto Star, has been made vice-chairman to Chairman F. J. Mulqueen., Harries Ardiel, of the O.H.A., is a new member; and so is W. J. (Peeney) Mills, Belleville's baseball star. The old commission has been wiped out completely.

• • • • • •

Lou Marsh in the Star says: "About W. P. (Peeney) Mills of Belleville, I know nothing personally except that he was a ball player and is now president of the Eastern Amateur Baseball Association. Dr. Faulkner must know him for he comes from his home town." Tut, tut, Lou, haven't you got him mixed up with someone else? Peeney not only was but still is a ball player, and manager of the Belleville Nats. And this is the first time we ever heard of him being prexy of the E.O.B.A. Must be another Mills. Incidentally, Peeney has stated that this is his last year as a player. We understand Belleville would like to get that catcher Napance imported for next season.

• • • • • •

Seems the Petes have to go to Belleville Wednesday for the third O.B.L. playoff game, since the Saturday one here was rained out. We had expected the third one—that is, the postponed contest—would be run in here, say, Tuesday, and then go back to the Quinte town if a fourth were necessary. But Belleville insists on the next game, now that the Saturday one wasn't played, and the league has decided that the original dates stand. It's a tough break on the Petes' club, losing that home gate if the locals' cop the title in three straight. Of course, if Belleville won Wednesday, then the Petes would get another home gate here Saturday. The Nats might be willing to transfer their Wednesday game to Peterborough, since they won't draw well at home now, but we don't know any more about it at this writing.

• • • • • •

According to an announcement in the Kingston paper the other day, Cogs are billed to play their first intermediate series game at the Fair Grounds in Kingston on Tuesday, with the return one between Hawks and Cogs here next Saturday. Two tussles in this O.B.A.A. playdown series have so far been postponed, the first one here 'cause the Hawks had car trouble and didn't arrive in time last Wednesday, and the second one in the Limestone town when the Fair Grounds were taken Saturday by a carnival. We're not even positive if these latest arrangements are official, but they sound authentic.

• • • • • •

And the Kingston scribe has this to say: "Better balance, better pitching and better all-around playing have won two games for Peterborough seniors and there seems hardly a question now but that the Petes will be the team to represent the C.O.B.L. in the playdowns. And the betting is just as strong that the Petes won't go as far as the Ponies did last year." A nice cheerful guy—always the hammer-thrower! Of course, this crack about the betting is purely the bunk; what he means, with that charming sense of sportsmanship peculiar to those in Kingston, is that he hopes the Petes won't make as good a showing as the Ponies did last season. We think they will.

• • • • • •

The Ross-McLarnin fight, after repeated postponements in N'Yawk due to rainy weather, has been laid over till next Saturday. It means the fighters will swing back to their training grind again and go through the worry over an "edge" and their weight once more. Not so good for scrappers, but it couldn't be helped. These outdoor shows at this time of year are risky business insofar as weather goes. At any rate, this added publicity ought to boost the gate a lot.

Nothing new regarding the minor ball teams here . . . . No tennis Sat'day owing to dampish weather . . . . Local lacrossers should keep in shape while waiting the next playdown round . . . . BOO FASCISTS IN HYDE PARK

Sir Oswald Mosley's Shouted Speech Scarcely Heard.

LONDON PARK CROWDED.

LONDON, Eng., Sept. 10.—A twin political demonstration, one of the biggest ever held in London, passed off in comparative peace here Sunday afternoon as Fascists and anti-Fascists, singing, shouting and making speeches, spent nearly three hours trying to drown each other out.

The police were the real victors in the contest as the two demonstrations, held simultaneously in Hyde Park, passed off without a single disturbance.

Sixteen persons were arrested during isolated outbreaks while some 30 were treated at first-aid tents and hospitals for minor injuries.

Elaborate police precautions were taken as the temper of the opposed crowds threatened to develop grave violence.

A human wall of police surrounded the contingent of 5,000 uniformed Fascist men and women mustered around seven platforms—the biggest turnout in the two years since the British organization was founded.

Meanwhile, moving contingents of mounted and foot police kept an open space between the Fascist and the surrounding throngs, the greatest part of which consisted of curious sightseeers, well-dressed habitues of the west end and tourists.

An estimated 100,000 persons, the biggest crowd ever gathered in the famous park, were packed so densely together that they saw little of the blackshirt show.

The climax came when the tall, bronzed leader of the British Fascists, Sir Oswald Mosley, took the centre platform, but so loud were the boos and catcalls that many of his followers heard nothing of his speech.

Missles were also flung at Sir Oswald, most of them falling short of the mark, as he shouted at the top of his voice that the 'organized attempt' had failed to break up the meeting.

"From Baldwin (Acting Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin) to Pollitt (Henry Pollitt, Communist leader), the front against the Fascists is now unbroken," Sir Oswald cried. "They know that Fascism means the end of parties.

"To-day they seek to suppress us. To-morrow we shall suppress them.

"Behind the hooligans are the alien Jewish financiers supplying palm oil to our foes."

Pollitt and other Communists and Socialists were speaking simultaneously from half a dozen nearby platforms but most of the anti-Fascists gathered around Mosley's army.

Nearly 2,500,000 Britons have been found to be at least partially deaf.

Many apartment houses are being constructed in Poland.

SILVER SLIPPERS

By Temple Bailey

CHAPTER 35

It was very still in the house. Joan rose and went to the window. It was snowing heavily. The street lights showed the whirling flakes. An early winter . . .!

Up at Penelope's the woods would be heavy with white, the breakers would rise and crash and run back into a leaden sea—the sea which had been silver-gray last summer under the fog.

And with that memory her thoughts returned to Drew. She had tried to put him out of her mind but she had known she must come to it. All day long his figure had detached itself from the background of ancient relatives and other guests at the funeral. And in that one moment when she had been alone with him he had let her know how his mind tended. "You haven't forgiven me, Joan? Are you as hard as that, my sweet?"

She was very honest with herself. She knew that she wanted more than anything else in the world to be with him at this moment, to be sheltered by his arms, soothed by his caresses. Yet there was bitterness back of her need of him. He had been willing to let her suffer . . . he had not dared to come out in the open against Adelaide, he had tried to bring her to terms by his silence . . . and all this he had done because he had wanted an old woman's money.

Joan flung up her head. Why should she accept a tardy devotion? Surely she had pride enough to hold her own against him? To surrender now would be to court humiliation.

She returned to her bedroom and sat down in the chair in front of her dressing table. In the mirror she saw herself, all in black with her white pearls and her white face. She had a feeling that the reflection was not her own, not the Joan Dudley who had taught school and faced hardships, been broken-hearted. This was, rather, a changeling heiress, owner of this great house, mistress of millions, a woman whose hand would be sought in marriage not because of what she was but because of her possessions.

She began to take off her pearls, but stopped suddenly, her hand still wound in the milky beads.

Had someone called?

She went to the door. Listened. Heard nothing. Not with physical ears. Yet through the air . . . insistent . . . came the echo of Drew's voice: "Joan, Joan."

With all the strength that was in her she fought against the insistence of that ghostly summons. How silly to go down and find nothing. Drew was, undoubtedly, in bed. Everybody was in bed. Her sense of being called was simply a hallucination.

Yet she found herself presently in the hall, descending the stairs. Lights were burning below. The stairway was an imposing one, curving from the second floor, with statues in niches along the way, and a marble Mercury on the newel post. It was heavily carpeted with velvet and Joan's steps were noiseless. The pearls which still hung about her neck made a gentle clicking as they swung against a small jet buckle which fastened her dress. The sound was the only one in the vast silence.

When she reached, finally, the first floor, she stood very still, then moved on like a person in a dream to the dim drawing room. The glow of the Chines lamp made a great moon on the wall behind it. Joan found herself walking towards that moon. And then, suddenly, a voice said, "My sweet," and she saw Drew standing beside the lamp.

She looked up at him. "I didn't know . . . you were here."

"Yet you came . . .?"

"I thought some one—called."

"I called you, Joan."

"No." It was almost a cry.

"Yes!" His laugh was triumphant. "My dear, I couldn't sleep without seeing you again. You are mine, I brought you here that you might say it."

"How can I say it?"

"Why not?"

"After everything that has happened."

pened."

"What has happened? Only that I was a fool. I'm willing to admit it. I know what you are thinking of me, that I failed when you needed me . . . and that I am trying to crawl back. But it isn't true. Heaven knows I'd do anything to set myself straight with you, but my conscience is clear. I've loved you and I tried to work things out so that we might be happy. If I made mistakes, I made them. And now all that I ask is that you'll give me a chance to serve you. I won't hurry you, dearest. I simply want you to let me prove myself. To be your friend. To help you over the hard places."

She had listened with her face turned away from him, "How can we be — friends?"

He put a finger under her chin, in the old familiar gesture, and made her look at him. "Why not, Joan?"

Her voice was cold and self-controlled. "Do you know what Browning says of friendship after love?"

"What should I care what Browning says," roughly, "it is what I say, Joan."

"'Bluest outbreak—blankest heaven; lovers—friends!'"

She had drawn away from him. But he would not let her go. He dropped a hand on her shoulder and held her. "Do you mean that you don't care?"

She tried to meet his eyes and could not to say, boldly, "It's all over . . ." But she knew it was not all over. She was fighting with all the strength that was in her not to let him know the spell his presence wove about her.

And then it came . . . the thing she dreaded . . . "My sweet . . ."

"No . . . Drew . . . no . . ." For he had lifted her in his strong arms, "Mine . . ." The old question! The old enchantment . . .

Far back in the hall the telephone rang, with Jason's controlled voice answering presently: "Miss Dudley? Just a moment, please."

"Drew . . . it's for me . . ."

He released her, and she went nto the hall: "I'm here, Jason."

Drew, listening, heard her say: "yes . . . where are you?" . . . A long silence while some one spoke at the other end . . . "Yes . . . great changes," and then, after a time, "—I am glad you said it . . ."

He heard the faint click of the receiver as she hung it up. In a moment she would fly back to him. He would not keep her long. He knew now what he wanted to know. That he could still play upon her emotions, and that she cared.

It was not Joan, however, who appeared presently between the velvet curtains, bu Jason: "Miss Joan told me to say she had gone upstairs. She will see you in the morning."

Joan, running swiftly and silently up the stairs had a wild sense of escape. If Giles Armiger had not been moved in some miraculous way to telephone her at that moment, she might have promised Drew—anything.

And she had not wanted to promise. She had been like a bird wooed by the fowler's pipe, "My sewet, my sweet." Safe in her room, she shut her door and stood with her hand on her heart. Giles Armiger had saved her! She had found it incredible to believe when she had heard his voice. He had spoken to her from his island across all the miles of storm. He had read of Adelaide's death in the paper and that Joan was at her bedside. He had expressed his sympathy, and then, quite simply and naturally, he had asked her to look up a little verse which he had found for her. Such things helped sometimes. And would she believe that he was always her friend?

There had been no more than that. Yet as she had listened, something of her old faith in him had revived—there had returned to her the sense of peace which his presence had always brought. For a moment she had forgotten the things which had separated them in the days since she had sought his advice in the dim bookshop. And when the brief conversation was over, she had given Jason the message, and had fled from Drew.

When she reached her room, she found herself trembling. Where was Drew? What was he thinking? Had he come upstairs? She listened at the door until she heard the muffled sound of his footsteps on the thick carpet. After that she undressed, and putting on a padded dressing gown, curled up in the window seat. She searched in her shabby old Bible for the verse Giles had chosen for her . . . for in the time of trouble he shall hide me . . . in the secret of his tabernacle shall he hide me . . . he shall set me upon a rock . . . ."; and as she read, it seemed to her that Giles spoke—as if she had come through him to some island of serenity in the midst of the storms which shook her.

With the little book on her lapshe looked out of the window. The snow was falling heavily: She thought of Adelaide asleep under that whit blanket. Yet only the frail old body lay beneath that pall, somewhere Adelaide's thwarted soul was finding rest and fulfillment.

Adelaide had lived and loved, and now it was all over. Some day it would be all over for herself and Giles and Drew. As she crept into bed, Joan felt very young, very helpless, very unequal to all that was before her. Yet she fell asleep comforted by the words she had read . . . in the secret of his tabernacle he shall hide me.

For Tuesday, September 11

An auspicious state of affairs both business and private, is presaged from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. Employment should have excellent prospects, and on the whole it is a propitious time for approaching those in place and power for favors, promotion or other tokens of esteem and reward. A particularly lively and eventful condition should prevail in the home, social or romantic ties, with a hint of some spectacular development. But be discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a particularly lively and eventful, if not sensational, adventure in the social, romantic or domestic relations. It is time for cultivating those of prestige and power for favors, promotion or preferment, as these will be found susceptible and generously inclined.

A child born on this day should be clever, gracious, well endowed for social and romantic life, which may be eventful. It may have friendships in high places, being popular with employers and superiors.

CLAIM CONTRACTS FOR $4,000,000 ON T., N. O. LET WITHOUT TENDERS

Company on Ground Chief Engineer Clement Explains at Probe.

MEANT TIME SAVING.

NORTH BAY, Ont., Sept. 10. — (CP)—Contracts worth more than $4,000,000 for construction of the northern extension of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway were awarded without any call for tenders, a witness revealed today at the resumed probe into affairs of the railway.

Armand Racine, Windsor lawyer conducting the probe, deduced from a report supplied by Chief Engineer S. B. Clement of the railway that contracts had been awarded F. H. McLean, Limited, construction company, worth $4,246,281 and that tenders had not been called.

Clement said the contract had been awarded the McLean concern because it was already on the ground and the railway commission was "anxious to have the road completed as soon as possible."

He was reminded by Mr. Racine that after the road was finished the Commission did not wish to open it for a year.

Playing Cautious

The Windsor lawyer also read from the railway commision's minutes of Nov. 30, 1931, the statement that the commission did not wish to spend further money on the extension until a prospect was seen of more traffic than was then believed likely.

A. Freeman, chief employment agent of the T. and N.O., was requested to prepare a report of complete pay roll figures for the months of July and August.

A. B. Odlum, assistant secretary to the railway commission, was called to identify reports he had prepared with regard to engineers' findings on the James' Bay extension and minutes of Commissioners' meetings over a considerable period.

S. B. Clements, chief engineer for the railway, was next called to the stand.

Tenders for the extension were read from a report supplied by, Mr. Clements. They were: Construction and Engineering Limited, $675,866; F. H. McLean Limited, $710,566; Angus and Taylor, $756,-118, and Foley Brothers Incorporated and Chambers, McQuaig and Caffrey, $891,753.

On Mr. Clement's recommendation the contract was not given to the lowest bidder, but to the MacLean interests, witness stated. After the contract had been awarded a higher price was set for the handling of hard pan.

Arthur Steele of Ottawa, commission auditor, said extension of the line to the Moose River had been accomplished through "negotiations with H. F. McLean and Engineer Clement."

No Tenders for Bridge

"That was a $1,000,000 bridge over the Moose River but no tenders were called," Mr. Racine commented.

Clements maintained if the work was to be done at all it had to be done by the McLean Company.

Mr. Racine declared contracts worth a total of $4,246,281 had been awarded the McLean Company by Engineer Clement without tenders being called.

Minutes were introduced of a railway commission meeting at which Clement was instructed to negotiate with the McLean Company and to "deal fairly with them and as liberally as possible." With regard to revision of a price paid for hardpan encountered in grading operations.

Mr. Racine asked what motive actuated the commission inletting contracts to the McLean company without calling for tenders.

Mc. Clement said: "They were anxious to have the road completed as soon as possible and as the company were on the ground they were in a better position to do that."

BLACK KNIGHTS CHURCH PARADE

Weir Preceptory and Visiting Knights Attend Divine Service.

The Royal Black Knights of Ireland last evening paraded from the Orange Hall to attend Divine Service at the Salvation Army Temple, where an inspiring address was preached for the occasion by Adjutant Neil Warrander.

Held under auspices of Weir R.B.P. No. 261 of which John A. Holden is Worshipful Preceptor, the annual church parade of the Order was attended by visiting Knights from Millbrook, Blackstock and Lakefield. Approximately fifty Knights took part in the parade attired in traditional frock coats and silk hats.

The parade was headed by the Salvation Army Band and on the return to the Orange Hall, a meeting was held. Worshipful Preceptor John A. Holden presided and speakers included Robert Ritchie of Peterborough, Provincial Deputy Grand Preceptor of the R.B.P. of Ontario East; Creighton Devitt of Blackstock, Past Grand Preceptor of R.B.P. of Ontario East; and E. F. Reid of Peterborough, Deputy Pronvincial Master of the Loyal Orange Order.

Thanks were tendered to Adjutant Warrander and to the Corps bandmaster and also the leader of the Songster Brigade. Adjutant Warrander briefly responded on behalf of the Salvation Army, assuring the Knights of the co-operation of the Army at any time.

Long Drought Fatal To Nova Scotia Cattle

YARMOUTH, N.S., Sept. 10 (CP). —Cattle are dying of thirst on the pastures of Yarmouth County. Nothing more than light showers have fallen in this section of Nova Scotia for 49 days, and the draught is taking a heavy toll.

More than a score of cows have been found dead on lands where in others years there was always plenty to eat and drink. One Kemptville farmer, searching through wastelands for missing cattle, found eight carcasses beside what had been a pool.

GIPSY KING DEBUNKS TALES OF SORCERY, WITCHCRAFT

But His Knowledge of Legends of Romany Not Very Clear.

3,000,000 IN EUROPE

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN, Central Press Canadian Writer.

OPAVA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 10. —Gipsies do not snatch children. They are not cannibals. They are neither white slavers nor counterfeiters. They do not practise polygamy. Their women and girls live a very normal life. Sorcery is an abomination to them. They are not a people without culture, and they are not heathens. They do believe in God, only they call upon the Deity with the name which we reserve for the devil. It is also true that their womenfolk sometimes enter churches to spit on the image of the Madonna. Perhaps I destroy some fond old imaginings with these cocksure statements, but I have my information straight from a man who ought to know: King Michael III, ruler of all the gipsy tribes who roam the eastern plains of Europe, nearly three million strong. I am his majesty's guest for a day or so at this frontier encampment, which is more of a No Man's Land than the road up above Arras ever was. There are twenty-five thousand gipsies assembled here and more arriving every hour.

"Look," said King Michael, sweeping his hand majestically over a swarm of half-naked children, "do you think we need to steal other people's children, when we have so many of our own. I assure you it is hard enough to feed all these mouths. Sometimes we don't succeed." Hard it must be indeed if you consider that gipsies have no country of their own on which they can rely for foodstuffs.

Will Not Settle Down.

"But why," I asked, "don't you settle down somewhere and be done with this roving? You can get a piece of land somewhere and cultivate it, have enough to eat, build villages and even towns in time? Haven't some governments made your people an offer some time or other?"

"We can't settle down," replied the king. "It is impossible. There is a curse on us!"

"A curse? What curse?"

"We originally dwelled in Egypt," explained his majesty (which is not true, of course), and when we lived there Joseph and Mary and the Infant Jesus arrived. Joseph asked one of our kings to give him shelter, and our king refused. For this refusal we are cursed and must roam the face of the earth for seventy years."

A long seventy years since A.D. 1!

But then gipsies have no exact conception of time, and seventy years is only a way of speaking with them, denoting a very long period. The gipsies appeared in Europe in the first quarter of the fifteenth century. They came out of Asia, like the Turks, and were driven onward by the conquering Moslem hordes, but, unlike the Turks, they did not embrace Mohammedanism. I have no encyclopaedia at hand, so I can't look up the exact dates, but I do remember from school days that the gipsies nearly bamboozled the inhabitants of the Netherlands and of Germany in the Middle Ages with a story that they were on their way to make a pilgrimage to the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. Pilgrims were generally considered fine fellows in those days, although there were an awful lot of scoundrels and nudnicks amongst them. On the strength of that tale, though the gipsies were loaded with gifts of money and food by old women and other credulous persons who could not sleep at the thought of the unspeakable Turk sitting in the Holy City.

Have to Make Money.

"The gipsies in America . . ." I began. "They are my subjects," the king interrupted proudly.

"Do they pay tribute" I asked. "No," he said, "they haven't paid a cent since 1928, but we are in communication." This statement tends to show that the depression hit the gipsies a year earlier than the rest of us.

"Well, now," I went on, "would your majesty tell me something about the religion of your people? Is it true that some tribes engage in certain dark practices; brewing love-philters, distilling poisons, casting spells, worship of the devil and necromancy?"

The king picked his teeth reflectively, then he replied frankly: "We have to make a living, don't we?" I nodded my head. That was a perfect explanation. When you come to think of it, King Michael's explanation explains an awful lot of things—and men and movements.

But now comes the surprise, it was so to me at any rate. "The world does not appreciate us," said the king. "We have had many great men who have done wonders of good."

"For instance?"

"For instance, Giovanni Boonyoonno!"

John Bunyan a Gipsy?

Giovanni Boonyoonno! At first I was puzzled, but mentally stripping the name of its sonorous endings . . . "But that's John Bunyan in English," I exclaimed. Was Bunyan a gipsy? He did indeed mend pots and kettles, a typical gipsy occupation. "Do you mean Bunyan, the great religious writer?" I asked King Michael.

"Si, si, il grande profeta Boonyoonno," he exclaimed, overjoyed that I shc have recognized the name. "Wasn't he a great prophet?" he asked, all smiles.

"He certainly was. Any others?"

"Many," the king assured me. "Lizst, Silvester, Shelo, Kiri. . . ."

Liszt, the composer, may have been of gipsy descent. He certainly had a predilection for gipsy music. But the other names I did not recognize, unless Shelo be Shelley, and unless with Sylvester is meant the celebrated Sylvester Boswell, not to be confused with the entertaining Lord of Auchinleck, Dr. Johnson's loquacious companion, who, of course, belongs in all eternity to those "who ha'e with Wallace bled," and they certainly are no gipsies, God forbid! Even so, I would not be surprised that it is with the gipsies as with the Jews (of course, I do not compare the gipsies with the Jews), but on one occasion when King John of Portugal told his prime minister that he intended to exterminate the Jews and all their descendants, the prime minister is said to have replied: "Your majesty may begin with me and then commit suicide, for we have both of us more than one drop of Jewish blood in our veins!"

Has Written Book.

Considering, on the one hand, the undisputed and indisputable beauty of the gipsy women, and on the other, the unknown amateurs of feminine pulchritude who have sat upon Europe's thrones in the course of time, many things are possible and even probable.

Many!

The king fetched an old book from his covered wagon and showed it to me. It was entirely in manuscript, the language a sort of Romany, half Italian, half Roumanian, with many incomprehensible words. I asked his majesty who had written the book. He did not know. But to my question about the gipsies in England, he said that the gipsies in that country, which he had visited, had adopted English names. The Tinkers, the Coopers, the Barrows and the Lovells were anglicised gipsy families. It was King Michael who told me. I don't take responsibility for this. King Michael's knowledge about the origins of his people were very hazy on other subjects, so why not on this? I took it that the gipsies in England had probably taken their names in much the same way as the negroes in the southern states have taken theirs from the whites among whom they dwelled. The ancestors of Mr. George Washington, Henry Ford of Tallapaloosa, Tennessee, certainly were not known by that patronymic in the jungles of Senegambia!

I found one passage in English in that strange book. I copied it, but the king did not know who had written it down. It read as follows:

"For years we have traversed the face of the earth,
And thousands have gone to the regions of death,
Unheeded, despis'd and abandon'd by all,
Great God, wilt thou not hear the poor gipsies' call?
The bright hours of mercy will soon pass away,
O, Christians, be active while yet is the day!
Withhold not the boon of salvation that's given—
That gipsies may join in the chorus of heaven."

MUSTY FAN MAIL YIELDS HOT LETTERS TO RADIO'S VALLEE

"Belong to You," Girl Wrote—Never Saw Her in His Life, Says Crooner.

AWAITS LEGAL SUIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(I.N.S.)—Rudy Vallee, whose fan mail would rival the Empire State Building in height if placed in one place, dug a packet of musty old love letters out of the huge collection Thursday and perused them with careful scrutiny.

The writer of the letters was Frances Singer, pretty little song and dance girl of Kansas City. The crooner's sudden interest in the missives followed announcement of Frances' lawyer that Rudy will be served with a summons in a $250,000 suit for breach of promise.

Vallee claims he never saw or spoke to the girl. She bases her claims partly on what the wild radio waves were supposed to be saying. Every time the crooner went on the air, she says, his songs carried a "special message of love" for her.

'BELONG TO YOU.'

Some of Frances' letters were hotter than an Eskimo in a Turkish bath. She said in one note:

"Damn it, I belong to you."

Another read:

"Oh, my God, Rudy, please don't go away and leave me. I couldn't bear the thought even. I remember when you were gone last Summer. I need your love."

Hyman Bushel, Vallee's lawyer, interrupted with a snort. He said:

"This is the young lady that Rudy is supposed to have proposed marriage to!"

Bushel and Rudy await with impatience the girl's next communication, which her lawyer has promised will be a bill of particulars, setting forth the exact occasion on which the ardent Frances alleges the crooner broke down and proposed.

CLAIM WOMEN USED TO PROMOTE INTERNATIONAL SALE OF ARMS

Senate Group Also Told King George Intervened to Hinder Sale of U. S. Guns to Poland.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 0.—(CP-AP)—That women were used to promote international sale of armaments, and that King George had "intervened" to hinder the sale of American guns to Poland, were among bizarre charges put in the record of the Senate committee munitions enquiry yesterday afternoon.

The statements were contained in communications from agents of the Driggs Ordnance firm of the United States to the head office, placed in the record as Louis L. Driggs, head of the firm, was on the stand.

A cablegram from London in 1932 asserted the King had intervened in a prospective sale by Driggs to Poland. The cable said the King had summoned the Polish ambassador to intervene. Asked what he made out of that reference, Driggs stated:

"It's the same sort of gesture that British royalty has been indulging in lately, such as sending the Prince of Wales to South America. It's simply that the British royal family is interested in getting orders for British business."

A letter from Herbert Allen, Driggs' agent, charged that Vickers, Great British armaments firm, employed women to help get business in Turkey. Vickers, said Allen's communication, "had almost an entire embassy in number working for them, and used women of doubtful character frequently."

Driggs said the Kemal Pasha had however cleaned up "graft" in Turkey.

A letter to Driggs from his Polish repreesntative in 1927 stressed the necessity for "influencing" a large number of persons in order to get Polish orders, by "influencing," Driggs said, he meant "entertaining."

BACK ONE YEAR.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10 (C.P.)—Babe Ruth has found a year of his life that he lost decades ago.

The swat sultan, who thought he reached 40 years last February 6, said to-day recently while rummaging up data for a passport application he discovered his birthday was February 6, 1895. For years, he said, he has listed the year of his birth as 1894.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE SYMPTOMS OF CONSTIPATION

Get Relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, and sleeplessness are often warning signs of common constipation. Unless checked, constipation may impair health.

Today, you can usually get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than taking patent medicines.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with every meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

GERMANY RAPIDLY PREPARING INDEPENDENCE IN FOOD SUPPLY

Official Claims Even Now No Boycott or War Could Starve Nation.

EXCELLENT HARVEST.

(By Louis P. Lochner, Associated Press Foreign Staff)

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 10 (AP)—No untoward happening, such as war or boycott could starve the German people, Walter Darre, Minister of Foods and Agriculture, told the Nazi Party convention here yesterday.

Germany is now independent of foreign countries for grain, Darre said, in his discussion of the Nazi agarian policies.

"The significance of our policies of shifting the centre of gravity from the world to the domestic market will become evident whenever foreign countries for some reason or other are unwilling to place their resources at our disposal," the Minister asserted.

"In view of the present foreign exchange situation the question of the necessity of importing foodstuffs is of decisive importance.

"We are proceeding from the theory that the entire demand for foodstuffs by the German people must be satisfied adequately. Even applying this standard I can say the new harvest is sufficient to supply the nation with bread and grain without having to fall back on foreign countries."

Darre said that importation of other agrarian products, like oilcake, eggs, meat, fruit, butter and vegetables is declining sharply. The only importations which have increased are animal fat and some fruits from South Europe.

This striving for independence, Darre said, does not mean hostility to foreign importation. Agricultural imports would be welcomed in exchange for German industrial exports, he asserted.

More than 200,000 persons in London are playing bridge for money every week.

Only six passengers were killed in railway accidents in Britain in the last year.

APPEAL COURT REJECTS CLAIM IN LOCAL SUIT

Mr. Justice McEvoy's Judgment in Cobourg Trial is Sustained.

THREE JUDGES AGREE.

Action in Behalf of Lillian Walkey of This City.

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—(CP)—In a judgment of Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy, dismissing an action that the Royal Trust Company, administrator of the estate of the late William Horace Walkey of Belleville, previously of Peterboro brought on behalf of Lillian Walkey under the Fatal Accidents Act against the Globe Printing Co., Toronto, and Roy Mc McLean, the Ontario Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall concurred.

Walkey was one of three men who were killed as a result of a collision between a truck belonging to the Globe Printing Co., and an automobile owned by McLean near Baillieboro on the Peterboro-Port Hope Highway on November 7, 1932. The Royal Trust Co., as administrator of Walkey's estate claimed damages from the owners of the two vehicles on the ground that Horace Walkey stood in the position of a parent toward his mentally sub-normal sister, Lillian, who is 52 years of age.

Mr. Justice J. A. McEvoy, who tried the action with a jury, allowed the case to go to the jury which assessed the damages to the woman at $8,000 and divided the negligence that caused the accident 90 percent to the Globe Printing Co. and 10 percent to McLean. Then Mr. Justice McEvoy allowed a motion for non-suit and dismissed the action holding that Walkey had not been shown to have stood in the place of a parent with respect to his sister.

At the conclusion of the argument before the Appeal Court, Mr. Justice Riddell announced that he and his associates, Justices Masten and MacDonnell, were agreed that the appeal should be dismissed.

BLACKMAIL RING OPERATIONS END

Warrants Issued for Biggest Clean-up in History of Western Ontario.

NO NAMES REVEALED.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 11 (C.P.).—Warrants were taken out to-day for the arrest of several people, whose names are not yet divulged, alleged to be implicated in one of the biggest blackmail rings that has ever operated in London and Western Ontario. It was announced shortly before noon that arrests are imminent and city court cases will follow within the next few days.

Acting Crown Attorney Norman Newton stated that arrests will culminate a lengthy investigation by city detectives and Provincial police who have been working on the matter for some months.

The names of the complainants on the warrants were not disclosed by either Mr. Newton or the police, but it was stated that thousands of dollars are involved.

Two separate investigations have been conducted, one by the city detective department and the other by Provincial police under District Inspector T. W. Cousans.

Misner waded in and pulled her out. It proved to be Mrs. Leona Fordham, West Main street, who told police she was heartbroken.

Law Breakers

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 11. (CP). They don't know it, but every motorist in Butler, nearly, is a law-breaker. An ordinance was passed in 1906, prohibiting motor vehicles of all kinds from the public square, due to many pedestrians being injured after "gasoline buggies" frightened horses and caused runaways.

Although not enforced for years, the law still stands, and it provides fines of $1 to $100 for each violator.

CHIEF ENGINEER RELATES STORY OF LEAVING SHIP

Took No. 1 Lifeboat With 30 of Crew and Only 2 Passengers.

SAW NO MORE.

Thought All Below Were Burned—Made No Search on Decks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP).—Eben S. Abbott, chief engineer of the liner Morro Castle, to-day told a board of inquiry that within half an hour after an alarm awakened him the morning of the fire he took off the No. 1 lifeboat with 32 persons, two of them passengers.

"What I want to know" demanded Dickerson N. Hoover, chief of the Department of Commerce inquiry, "why No. 1 boat did not take off more passengers.

"When I left 'A' deck, there were no passengers on deck," Abbott replied. "Anyone down below must have burned up. We saw no passengers. There were none in sight."

Abbott said he took the boat on orders of the captain, and he believed his boat was the third to get away from the burning liner.

While Abbott was testifying at the Department of Commerce inquiry, three bridge officers and a wiper appeared at the Federal building in answer to grand jury subpoenas in U.S. Attorney Martin Conboy's investigation of the disaster.

They were Chief Officer William F. Warms, Acting First Officer Clarence C. Hackney, Acting Second Officer Ivan Freeman, and Ellish Beaumont, a wiper. They were accompanied by a group of attorneys.

Behind Barred Doors

They were questioned behind closed doors.

While the witnesses were being question in advance of the meeting of the grand jury, agents of the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice were seeking additional witnesses.

All four men, it was learned later, refused, on advice of counsel, to answer questions before being taken to the grand jury room.

Shortly before noon George I. Alagno, second assistant wireless operator of the Morro Castle, appeared at the U.S. Attorney's office and was told to report to

PARAGUAY HAS NEW OFFENSIVE

Officials Claim Two of Fort Ballivan Defenses Captured.

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 11. (AP).—A Paraguayan offensive today was launched at Fort Ballivian, last major Bolivian stronghold in the Chaco Boreal, and two of its principal defenses were captured, the war ministry announced to-day.

Bolivian forces suffered heavy casualties in the action, the war ministry asserted, adding that Paraguayans took numerous prisoners of the Fiftieth Bolivian Regiment.

In the Bahia Negra sector on another front of the Chaco conflict Paraguayans defeated the Bolivian Infantry Regiment Uijarro No. 13, the communique said, and drove the enemy out of its post there, called "Quijarro No. 2."

In their retreat the Bolivians abandoned quantities of munitions and water tanks, the war ministry asserted.

TORONTO BANKER HELD FOR THEFT AFTER ROBBERY

Arrest Follows Reports He Had Been Slugged and Herded Into Cellar.

NOW IN HOSPITAL.

Police Find $4,630 in Safety Deposit Box and in Chair Leg at His Home.

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (C.P.). — George Lindsay, 26-year-old bank teller, who claimed he had been slugged and robbed by a bandit, today faces a charge of stealing $4,800 from a branch of the Dominion Bank of Canada here.

His arrest followed police investigation of reports a bandit had entered the bank, slugged Lindsay over the head, herded him down into the cellar with two other employees, and escaped with the money from the teller's drawer. Police said they had recovered most of the money said to have been stolen.

Officers said they found $4,630 in a safety deposit box at the bank and more in the leg of a leather chair at Lindsay's home. Lindsay was placed under guard at the hospital, where he had been taken as physicians feared he was suffering from a fractured skull.

Police failed to divulge the manner in which they believed Lindsay was injured. They said they were questioning other persons and that further arrests might be made.

Remanded Week

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (C.P.) — George Lindsay, 26-year-old bank teller, was remanded to-day until Sept. 18, on a charge of robbing the Dominion Bank of Canada of $4,800 and staking a fake hold-up. Lindsay said he had been slugged on the head by a bandit. He was taken to hospital last night after being arrested and probably will remain there for several days.

WARNINGS GIVEN BY TERRORISTS

Cubans Check All Cargoes for Liners and Planes Fearing Destruction.

HUNT RADICALS.

HAVANA, Sept. 11. (AP).—While the government conducted a four-fold investigation to-day into charges that Communists fired the Munro Castle, Cubans heard warnings of destruction of other vessels.

The warnings were issued by an announcer over an unidentified and unlicensed radio station.

A telephone warning also was received by the Pan-American Airways line that terrorists were planning to smuggle a bomb aboard one of the company's planes.

Police discounted the threats of the radio speaker. It was generally believed the work of a crank. But officers took all possible precautions, extra guards were placed at all radio stations to prevent their seizure by radicals. Careful examinations were being made of all parcels taken aboard aeroplanes, and a check was being made of cargoes being loaded on boats at Havana docks, at which numerous strike disorders have occurred recently.

George Grant Mason, Jr., representative of the Pan-American Airways in the Caribbean region, said that anonymous warnings of danger have been received before. None of the disorders predicted have materialized.

Capt. Oscar Hernandez, Havana's chief of port police, held to his conviction that the Morro Castle was set afire off the New Jersey coast "by an agent of the Caribbean Bureau of The Third Internationale."

NEW DEAL WINS MAINE SUPPORT IN STATE VOTING

Governor and Two Congressmen Democrats Returned in Republican Stronghold.

REPEALS PROHIBITION.

Governor Brann Re-elected By Plurality of 30,000.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 11.—The election of a Democratic governor and two Democratic congressmen apparently was Maine's answer today to a Republican appeal for repudiation of Rooseveltian policies.

A United States senator and one congressman appeared to be the only offices held by the Republicans in yesterday's biennial election in this once rock-ribbed Republican state. The senatorial fight was still in doubt with 40 precincts still unrecorded.

The birthplace of prohibition, Maine persisted in its stand of a year ago in the national prohibition repeal movement, repealing state prohibition by an overwhelming majority.

Gov. Louis J. Brann, popular Democratic leader for whose defeat Republicans called as an expression of disapproval of the new deal, was returned to office over Alfred K. Ames, Republican by a plurality of nearly 30,000.

Returns from 591 precincts out of 631 in the state gave Brann 154,366; Ames 123,733.

Senator Frederick Hale, Republican veteran of 18 years in the senate, held a slender lead over F. Harold Dubord, Democrat, in contrast to the sweeping victories he has won in past years.

Returns from the same number of precincts gave Hale 131,676, Dubord 126,985.

Child Badly Hurt Pinned Under Truck

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 11 (CP)—Pinned for nearly three-quarters of an hour beneath a half-ton truck which had rolled backward down a hill near Hurkett and toppled over a six-foot embankment into a creek, Pauline Haukkanen, nine years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Haukanen was critically injured and is in St. Joseph's Hospital here.

She suffered a dislocation of the spine at the neck, serious injuries to her right eye, face, right leg, back and multiple other injuries.

Doctors said to-day it was doubtful if she would recover.

LOW RELIEF COST

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 11 (CP) —There was not an able-bodied man left on the relief lists in Port Arthur, Mayor Charles W. Cox stated to-day. Last week only 30 men eligible to take jobs were left on the relief lists, and these men have since been placed at jobs in various parts of the city or district.

THREE MIDLAND TOWN OFFICIALS HELD FOR FRAUD

Conspiracy in Relief Administration Charged to Clerk, Tax Collector, Relief Officer.

$50,000 INVOLVED.

Municipality Caught Last Year Says Croll—Blames Conservative Government.

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (C.P.). — Three officials of the town of Midland to-day awaited hearing on charges of conspiring to defraud the Ontario Government in connection with direct relief administration in Midland. They will appear in court Sept. 19 on the charges, said to involve approximately $50,000 allegedly credited to the town treasury.

The men are Ralph R. Wilson, town clerk; Stanley Wilson, relief officer, and David A. Patchell, tax collector. The Wilsons are not relatives. They are free on $4,000 bail each.

The Charges.

Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario Minister of Public Welfare and Municipal Affairs, charged the Government had been overcharged for fuel; tax arrears accounts were padded; municipal employees were paid with relief vouchers; refunds of from five to 10 per cent. had been demanded from merchants on food vouchers after the town had paid merchants their relief bills and charged them to the Government. The town then, it is charged, retained the money thus acquired.

It was further charged by the Minister a 20 per cent. refund was demanded of the Public Utilities Commission and that repair work done on houses had been paid for with relief funds.

"The practice in Midland," the Minister said, "has been for merchants to receive payment through the town for their accounts, which were then submitted to the Government for settlement of the province's contribution of 80 per cent. of the cost of direct relief.

"After the bills were paid, the grocers and clothing dealers had to refund to the town five percent of their bills, the dairies refunded 10 percent, the bakers refunded one percent a loaf or about 14 percent and the public Utilities Commission refunded 20 percent. When some grocers refused to make the five percent refund, they were refused relief business.

"In the case of two grocers who refused to pay the five percent rebate because they could not afford to, the town authorities helped them to remain within the charmed circle by letting them pay off the accrued secret rebate at $10 a month."

Mr. Croll charged in one case an adjoining township cut wood with relief labor, sold it to a Gravenhurst fuel dealer and Midland bought it from this man at $3.50 a cord "for which the government presumably was charged $7.00 a cord."

"The government thus paid twice," the Minister said. He alleged on threat of losing their business milk companies were instructed to raise their price from seven cents to nine cents a quart and return to the town the two cents.

Caught Year Ago

"Justover a year ago the town was caught carrying on improper practices with regard to relief and was required to pay $16,000 to the Provincial Treasury," Mr. Croll declared. He charged the former Conservative government with being aware of some of "these fraudulent practices."

The government relief inspector "apparently was blind," he continued, and this man was "fired at once" when the government's inquiry was completed. The former Conservative government was charged with lacking the courage to put a stop to these practices. A member of the Attorney General's Department had made an investigation for the Liberal government, he said, resulting in the charges and arrests.

AN OLD ONE.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11 (C.P.). — "I was just trying to mail a letter." Edward J. Maguire told firemen when they found him leaning a bit unsteadily, they say, against the fire alarm box to which they had hurried.

"We've heard that one before," said the firemen, and Maguire was jailed for malicious mischief.

DOMINION PLANS AN EXTRA TAX UPON GASOLINE

Announcement of Disturbing Reports is Made at Good Roads Conference.

MAY LESSEN SALE.

Official Also Sees Action Striking Blow at Tourist Trade.

MURRAY BAY, Que., Sept. 11.—(C.P.).—W. G. Robertson of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Automobile Association, told the annual meeting of the Canadian Good Roads Association to-day of reports that the Dominion Government intends entering the gasoline tax field.

"Motor vehicle owners throughout Canada," he said, "have been disturbed by the report that the Dominion Government has in mind placing a tax on gasoline. The Provincial taxes are considered excessive already, and if an addition were to be made by Federal authorities it would no doubt result in lessening gasoline consumption, and might also be expected to adversely affect tourist traffic from the United States."

Mr. Robertson said motorists are paying "with increasing reluctance" Provincial gasoline taxes. The reason, he thought, was because while taxation has been increased, expenditures on highways have diminished. A recent statement by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario that highway revenues should be ear-marked "for highway account only," would be welcomed by motorists, Mr. Robertson said.

"It is to be hoped," he added, "that with the general improvement in Federal revenues during recent months, the Dominion will not press its claims for taxation of gasoline, but leave that field of revenue to the provinces. The provinces, on the other hand, should see to it that revenues from this source are not diverted from road work which is at once the justification of the gas tax and its logical application."

ORLEANS VOTERS MARK BALLOTS

Will Choose Between Candidates of Sen. Long and Mayor Walmsley.

TROOPS WITHDRAWN.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—(A.P.)—Voters of New Orleans marched between the battle lines of Senator Huey P. Long and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley to-day to make their choice in the fight for control of city affairs.

Neither Long nor Wamsley were candidates for office in this election, a Democratic primary, but each staked his political domination on the outcome of the balloting on the slate of candidates he was backing for other offices.

Armed forces of the two leaders were held beyond the polling bounds to-day under an arbitration agreement to keep armed men away from the polls and afford a peaceable and orderly election.

Senator Long went into the election with a challenge of the nomination of Judge F. Porter, of Lake Charles, an anti-Long candidate for the Supreme Court from the Third District, who was unopposed after the death Sunday night of Justice Winston Overton, incumbent, seeking re-nomination with Long's support.

DETROIT POLICE FEAR ROEBUCK'S ACTION WRONG

Claim "Putting Finger" on Albert Pegran Will Give Him Chance to Escape.

BOOTLEGGER, RUM RUNNER

Second Man, Meisner, Said to be One Who Rented Muskoka Cottage.

(By the Canadian Press)

Names of two suspects wanted for the kidnapping last month of John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer, were published today at Toronto and Detroit and police in Canada and the United States were seeking them over a wide area. The men were Albert Pegran, former United States bootlegger and rum-runner, and David Meisner, a Canadian said to be known to officers on both sides of the border.

Revelation by Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck that Pegran was one of the wanted men caused Detroit police some misgiving. Fred W. Frahm, chief of detectives in the American city, and Inspector John Hoffman, his assistant, said publication of his name would give Pegran "the chance to know he is wanted and get away."

Hoffman and Frahm, however, revealed the full name of the second suspect whose last name only was known to Ontario police. The Detroit detectives said Meisner was the man who rented the cottage near Bracebridge, Ont., where Ontario police said Labatt was held after he had been seized Aug. 14 for ransom which was not paid.

Labatt who was released Aug. 17 was believed to have helped in the identification of Pegran, also known as Albert Leon and Jack Snead.

PRAIRIE CATTLE SALE HITS SNAG

New Low Freight Rates Only Apply When Going to Foreign Market.

OUTLET TOO SMALL.

REGINA, Sept. 11 (C.P.).—Disposition of surplus cattle from prairie points struck a snag to-day which, in the opinion of Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan Minister of Agriculture, will probably nullify the value of a plan announced by Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

The difficulty, Mr. Taggart explained, lay in the fact that while the Federal Government had secured 25 to 30 per cent. lower rate for shipment of the processed product, the special rate was to apply only when the product was shipped out of the country to points other than England.

The Minister could not see sufficient markets in other countries to take care of anything like the amount which would have to be sold should sufficient number of cattle be slaughtered to really improve the feed-shortage situation in the dry areas. Unless there's a market, the scheme will back up on us, he declared.

BREWER PICKS 2 PHOTOGRAPHS IN GROUP OF 45

NO DETAILS ON ARREST.

Officials Enlarge Their Check on Pictures of Known Criminals.

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—(CP)—Identification of two of the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, wealthy London, Ont., brewer, led police today to study more photographs of known criminals who might have turned to the kidnap racket for lucrative returns. In Detroit Fred W. Frahm, chief of detectives, announced Labatt had recognized two of his kidnappers after scanning 45 pictures.

Ontario Provincial Police were reported enroute to the Wildewood district of Muskoka, near Gravenhurst, with photographs of criminals in the hope Horace Prowse would recognize some of them as the men to whom he rented the cottage where Labatt was held for 66 hours after being kidnapped while driving from Sarnia Beach to London Aug. 14. He was released early Aug. 17 with a promise to pay $25,000.

Major General V. A. S. Williams, commissioner of the Provincial Police, and Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck announced yesterday a man was being held for identification in Detroit but police of the Michigan City denied knowledge of any arrests or anyone held for questioning. Major General Williams and Mr. Roebuck did not divulge any further information.

Nabbed After Plot Failed

It was reported the man was arrested after a Labatt brewery employe had failed to contact kidnappers and hand over the $25,000 demanded when Labatt was released. The employe made the attempt in Windsor but presence of a number of police officers in the district blocked ransom payment.

Inspector John Miller, Acting Chief Inspector of the Criminal Investigation Department, was said to have journeyed to Windsor with a number of other officers, including Inspectors A. B. Boyd, William Ward, H. Gardiner and Detective Sergeant Frank Crowe of the Toronto Police Force.

FIVE FEDERAL SEATS AT STAKE OVER PROVINCE

Dominion and Ontario Political Leaders Prepare for 2 Weeks' Drive.

HEBURN ACTIVE.

(By The Canadian Press)

Political leaders of the Dominion and Province to-day prepared for what promises to be a hectic two weeks' campaign for five Federal by-elections in Ontario. Official nominations were held in two ridings yesterday, Frontenac-Addington and Kenora-Rainy River, while Cabinet Ministers and Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario launched the fight for the votes which will be case Sept. 24.

W. R. Aylesworth, Cataraqui farmer, was officially nominated Conservative candidate in Frontenac-Addington, and Colin Campbell, mining engineer of North Brook, received the official sanction as Liberal standard-bearer. In Kenora-Rainy River the official nominees were Hugh B. McKinnon, Liberal-Labor, and Joseph Derry, Liberal-Conservative. North York, Toronto East and Elgin West will be the scenes of by-elections also.

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Hon. D. M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence, were the Cabinet Ministers who entered the campaign last night in support of Conservative candidates.

Stevens at Enterprise

In his address at Enterprise last night, supporting Mr. Aylesworth in the Frontenac-Addington fight, Mr. Stevens described prices received by the farmers as "outrageously low" and declared they were the result of chain store operations which sold beef at 10 cents a pound, making it impossible for farmers to compete. He declared 50 per cent of the beef on the market to-day was inferior and he declared his department intended to "find out just what is wrong with the beef market."

An entire family in some cases worked in clothing factories for $1.50 a day due to the mass buying system, which resulted in clothing being sold "at ridiculously low prices." Workers would never obtain a fair livelihood as long as prices were "dictated by higher-ups and too many slices came off before workers got what was due them."

Hepburn at Toronto

In his address in Toronto East in support of the candidature of Major H. P. Shelgrove, Premier Hepburn charged Mr. Stevens as chairman of the Mass Buying Committee of the Commons, was in collusion with Prime Minister R. B.

TROOPS PATROL ALL MILL AREAS

Two Carolinas, Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island Take Precautions.

NO SIGN OF AGREEMENT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (A.P.)—Additional troops were called out to-day in textile centers to prevent violence as the Presidential Meditation Board sat down to discuss the United States textile strike with manufacturers.

National guardsmen were ordered on duty in Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island, while troops continued to patrol mill centers in North and South Carolina where some mills reopened yesterday.

Although the Meditation Board asserted it believed the dispute was "not incapable of solution" and that a "settlement can be reached which will be fair to workers, employers and in the public interest," the difficulty in reaching a solution was indicated in the diverse views on how a proposal for arbitration should be carried out.

George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, insisted such negotiations must be between owners and workers of individual mills.

Different Angle

Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader, said settlement must be made with the "textile industries as such."

"That means," he said, "there must be settlement with the entire cotton textile industry, with the entire wool and worsted industry, with the entire silk industry and so on. There will be no settlement mill by mill in any of the divisions of the industry."

Nevertheless, the decision of Sloan to call a number of manufacturers to meet with the Meditation Board was regarded as a hopeful note. Although the names of those who will join in the conference to-day was not made public, it was understood they will include 10 or 12 of the most prominent manufacturers in the north and south. Among them will be Ernest M. Hood, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, comprising the Northern Mills, and W. D. Anderson, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, the Southern Mills.

Willie, 11, Jimmie, 16, Ruby 9, and Clifford, 7, were lively at the finish and Knull says the first 1,000 miles are the hardest. They had been on the road since July 4.

Knull said the drought drove him from Oklahoma. Thirty years ago he was a teamster in Harrisburg.

VESSEL'S DEAD BURIED TO-DAY

Asbury Park Council Wants Morro Castle Wreck as Attraction.

GRAND JURY HEARING.

(By Dale Harrison).

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (A.P.).—Federal inquiries poked with fresh determination to-day among the coals of testimony, hunting the cause—be it God's lightning, a fool's cigarette or a madman's torch—of the Morro Castle disaster.

They sought some definite evidence, some real prop, to support the suspicion, voiced without substantiation by Acting Captain William F. Warms yesterday, that "someone set that fire."

While a new procession of witnesses was forming here to appear before the board of inquiry, other processions were taking shape at private homes, churches and mortuaries—funeral processions of the Morro Castle's dead. Many funerals were set for to-day and to-night. Others will be held to-morrow.

Would Exploit Ship.

There is a third procession, inevitable wherever tragedy rests: the procession of the curious—the camp followers of catastrophe. More than 100,000 persons have flocked to Asbury Park, N.J., where the hulk of the $5,000,000 Ward liner, still burning, sets in the sand.

Already, though she is still the coffin for unknown dead, the Morro Castle is the object of tentative negotiations. The Asbury Park City Council wants to make some arrangement by which the hulk, a flame-scarred monument to an estimated 133 dead, can be retained where she rests, just off Convention Pier.

The councilmen have found her an attraction, drawing visitors from many miles around.

Grand Jury Hearing.

As the inquiry by the Department of Commerce continued, moving from the Customs House to larger quarters in the Federal building, a United States grand jury subpoenaed Acting Captain Warms and other Morro Castle officers to tell it their stories. District Attorney Martin Conboy expected to direct the grand jury investigation.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED IN LINDSAY SHOPLIFTING

LINDSAY, Sept. 11.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Wesley Switzer, a resident of Gooderham, was this morning given two years suspended sentence by Magistrate Jordan on the charge of shop lifting. He is also called upon to pay all costs and to refrain in the future from the use of intoxicating liquors. He is out on a five hundred dollar bond. Switzer visited town last week, cleaned up on a couple of stores, the loot being found by the police in his car.

POOR PAY.

BROWDER, Ky., Sept. 11 (C.P.).—Burglars entered the post office of this little Muhlenberg County town, and left with only eight cents—all the cash they could find. Federal authorities were notified by W. E. Wickliffe, postmaster.

PLOT COLLAPSED AS GANG SPLIT OVER DETAILS

Story, Held Genuine by Police, is Unfolded by Ottawa Burglar Suspect.

THREE OTHERS INVOLVED.

Two in Toils, Third Sought—No Extra Charges Laid.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—(C. P.) — Premier R. B. Bennett was shadowed by a kidnap gang who planned to snatch him and hold him for a large ransom a few days before he left Ottawa for Geneva as a delegate to the League of Nations, police announced today.

Inspector Mortimer Culver of the city detective bureau said a prisoner held on a housebreaking charge disclosed detailsof the plot which called for the Prime Minister to be taken from his apartment in the Chateau Laurier hotel. Police declined to reveal the name of the prisoner nor details of the plot but insisted it was a genuine kidnap setup. Federal police denied knowledge.

According to the man's story, as related to police, there were four Ottawa men in the gang counting himself. Three are held here on housebreaking charges and police are searching for the fourth. Police say they will not lay attempted kidnapping charges because they cannot secure corroborative evidence which is necessary when an accomplice turns state evidence. Police refused to say definitely but it was understood the two other prisoners denied the plot.

Chateau Shadowed

According to the story told the police, the Chateau Laurier was shadowed by the gang but the plot failed when the men disagreed over details. Prime Minister Bennett often walks unguarded from his office to the hotel and at other times in driven by his chauffeur. He left here Aug. 31 for Geneva.

"It was apparently a genuine kidnapping plot," said Inspector Culver while Chief of Police Emile Joliat said the plan was feasible and he did not believe the man was talking for publicity.

Police declined to say why the gang failed to go ahead with the scheme but it was believed they fell out over hideout locations. In his confession to the police, the prisoner said he merely was asked to join the gang and did not know all details.

City police said two or three weeks ago they heard many rumors of plans to kidnap the Prime Minister, probably influenced by the John S. Labatt snatch.

ROAD MACHINE LOSES ROLLER

LINDSAY, Sept. 11—Fred Chambers, of Fenelon Falls, is out on bail following a head-on collision on Highway No. 35, about four miles north of Lindsay. Chambers was on his way to Lindsay and it is understood that he cut in sharply in front of a car driven by Mrs. F. Wilson to avoid the Fenelon-Falls-Lindsay bus. He crashed head-on into a road oiler, snapping the front roller from under it. Provincial Officer Massingham investigated and laid a charge of reckless driving.

A nervy case of shop lifting during the past few days is reported by a local store. A woman cleaned up on several counters containing wearing apparel, etc., but the loss was not noticed at the time. A day or so after the theft the woman called at the store and wished to exchange a few articles. The manager of the store at once became suspicious, and linked the woman up with the theft. She made a hurried exit, however, before the authorities were notified.

It was rumored on the street today that the temperance forces would call a meeting at an early date to deal with the situation in Lindsay following the selling of beer and wine. A prominent temperance worker when interviewed by The Examiner would not confirm or deny the report.

Lindsay has lost another pioneer resident in the passing of Mrs. Peter Groselle in her eighty-second year. The deceased was born in the Province of Quebec and took up residence in Lindsay when twelve years of age. A year ago she journeyed to her birthplace. Her husband predeceased her eighteen years ago. Four sons and two daughters survive.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Fruit juices can be canned for winter beverages and sauces. A small amount will give a novel flavor, and, in some instances, a delicate coloring. Imperfect fruits can be used successfully if the imperfections are cut out. All fruits do not need to be peeled. Oranges, lemons, and pineapples, and other fruits with thick skins must be peeled, of course. Sometimes zest is imparted by adding spices such as ginger, and cinnamon,, and citrus fruits give increased piquancy to sweet fruits. It is not too late to include some of these fruit juices to your preserve closet supplies.

SPICED CRAB APPLE JUICE

Stem crab apples and cut in quarters but do not remove cores. Boil down in water to cover until pulp is very soft. Strain through jelly bag but do not squeeze or the liquid will get cloudy. Drain over night. In the morning measure and add 1 cup of water to each 2 cups of juice. Add 3 cloves and 1 stick if cinnamon to each 2 cups of this liquid and one-quarter cup sugar. Bring to a boil and continue simmering for half-hour or until the juice is three quarters as much as when boiling began. Bottle immediately and seal.

* * * * * *

GINGER PEAR JUICE

Any kind of pears can be used for this. Cooking pears are excellent for the purpose. Stem and quarter without coring. Put in preserving kettle with water to a little more than cover. Boil until pears are soft and mushy. Strain through jelly bag without squeezing, letting the juices drain for 24 hours. To each 4 cups of pear juice add 1½ cups orange juice, rind of oranges, and 1 ounce bruised ginger root. Simmer 1 hour, strain, through colander to remove orange rind and ginger. Bring juices to boil again and bottle and seal immediately.

TOMATO JUICE

Cut ripe tomatoes into quarters. Measure and to each 2 quarts add ¼ scant teaspoon salaratus. Put in preserving kettle with a little water, not enough to cover as the tomatoes will liquify quickly. When reduced to juice, strain through jelly bag, add ½ teaspoon salt to each 2 quarts of tomato juice. Put back on fire. Bring to boil and bottle and seal immediately.

BISHOP BURIED AT NORTH BAY

Impressive Funeral of Late Rt. Rev. D. J. Scollard.

RITES ON AMPLIFIERS.

NORTH BAY, Sept. 11.—Bishop D. J. Scollard of the Roman Catholic diocese of Sault Ste. Marie was buried here today after an impressive funeral ceremony at which Mgr. Andre Cassulo, Apostolic Delegate to Canada, chanted Solemn Requiem High Mass. Bishop Scollard died last Friday from heart disease.

The dead bishop was eulogized by Bishop P. T. Ryan of the diocese of Pembroke and Bishop L. Rheaume of Haileybury. Bishop Ryan spoke in English and Bishop Rheaume in French. Loud speakers carried the service outside the cathedral where a large crowd stood bare-headed, having been unable to gain entrance.

From the cathedral of St. Mary's-on-the-lake over which Bishop Scollard presided for many years the cortege moved to the Roman Catholic cemetery along a route lined by a guard of school children. About 300 clerical visitors were at the cemetery as well as many out-of-town laymen representing many organizations and parishes of the diocese.

From Peterborough the following attend the funeral: His Excellency Bishop O'Connor; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Scollard, Miss Veronica Scollard, Patrick Scollard, Rev. Paul Costello of St. Peter's Cathedral; Rev. John J. O'Brien of Sacred Heart Church; Rev. J. V. McCauley of Ennismore; Rev. Frank Grant of St. Peter's Cathedral; Mother St. Philip of St. Joseph's Hospital, and Rev. Father Garvey of Lakefield.

On their way to the Melburne centenary are the members of the band of the Grenadier Guards of Great Britain, who will play in many Australian cities and towns.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS AND "LET'S TRY AGAIN."

The audience at the first show cheered loudly last night as six of Peterborough's policemen stood on the stage and got shot. At least, they had a shot taken of their many visages and trim uniforms. It was one time, anyway, when the policemen took orders and did as they were told.

They formed Exhibit "B" in the line-up for the taking of moving pictures by the representatives of the Lincoln Production Company of Hollywood, who are here straight from the Toronto Exhibition, where they spent two weeks at the big Fair, doing the same thing; taking moving and talking pictures of individuals, groups and places.

Last night's two efforts and the matinee performance provided plenty of entertainment for those who took part and for their audiences. The contestants included a courageous and very well poised young woman who sang "With My Eyes Wide Open," with no accompaniment whatever; a youth who did so well with his ditty about his Newgate belle that he was invited to return to-night; another lad who told vocally about a bunch of violets; a lassie whose theme was "Won't You Buy My Pretty Flowers?"; and a group of assorted small fry, eleven in number (not forgetting the smallest, Georgie Glyde, with his wide smile), who warbled of "O Canada" in somewhat "diminuendo" fashion, it is true, but nevertheless very firmly proceeded to a somewhat gargly close, still without any accompaniment.

(We are not forgetting "Mr. Stooge," who wanted a love scene with Jean Harlow).

And then there was Mose Yokom's orchestra, the highlight of the evening, with their trig outfits and their cream-clad leader, playing their smooth, toe-tapping music for the "mike" and the audience alike. Curly Gibson had a solo in the number, "You Could Have Knocked Me Down With a Feather When I Saw You With Somebody Else," and joined also in a trio, with Andy Rutter and George Gatfield, in "I Saw Stars." They were snappy, smart, syncopated numbers that brought the boys a big hand from the house.

Peterborough's men are somewhat more camera-conscious than its ladies, apparently. There was only a sprinkling of the fairer sex on hand last night. But;

"We had some beautiful girls on the stage yesterday afternoon," was the enthusiastic remark of the manager, Jack Oldberg, who commented also on the fine variety in the singing and dancing offerings of the afternoon.

Peterborough's Capitol is the first theatre in Canada to have this added entertainment on its stage. The Hollywood Studios go from here to Oshawa and Montreal. Their headquarters are in Los Angeles, and every picture taken outside of the parent office is sent on there, for examination and in search for new talent.

Already, the Post Office and its staff; the Mayor and civic staff; several factories and schools, and the city's Police and Fire Departments, with some of the equipment of the last named, have been placed on record in these moving and talking pictures. The "mike" and several tall, speciall-constructed cameras, along with powerful flood and footlights, constitute the equipment. Everything is rehearsed once before being "shot."

"Let's Try Again

Although this picture is American-produced, it has all the earmarks of a British talkie. Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard, who scored so heavily in "Cavalcade," have the major roles of husband and wife, with whom a decade of matrimony has dulled the edge of matrimonial bliss, and who decide to try for a divorce, for a change.

The piece is spoiled to a certain extent by too much talking. The actors dissect their emotions and reactions in words to such an extent that nobody wonders why they can't along. The little butler has the relieving bit of comedy, which, however, has the same touch of heaviness that permeates the entire dialogue of the piece. A little less wordiness and slightly more action would pep up this picture to a great extent.

Clive Brook is the good-looking Dr. Jack Overton and Diana Wynyard is his wife, Alice. Helen Vinson has the part of the pretty patient who goes for the doctor in a big way, and there is also Alice's love interest, Paul. A physiological angle, however, removes this swain as an obstacle to wedded harmony, and the two main actors decide to make a try of it again, to the tune of a dance orchestra in the offing. The whole affair is propaganda against divorce, and the propaganda angle probably accounts for the heavy touch.

The charming little Betty Boop does a gay song, "There's Something About a Soldier," in an animated cartoon, and the balance of the program is devoted to the Hollywood Studios.—Jeanette.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

A STIFF CONTRACT.

I was awaiting my turn to play at the table, when the following hand was dealt at the Army and Navy club. You will find the hand interesting and instructive. Only North and South were vulnerable.

	♠ K Q J 10 7 4 ♥ 6 5 4 ♦ 9 5 4 3 ♣ None
♠ None ♥ A Q J 9 ♦ Q 10 8 2 ♣ Q J 7 4	W E N S	♠ A 9 6 5 3 2 ♥ 10 3 ♦ None ♣ A K 6 5 3
	♠ 8 ♥ K 8 7 2 ♦ A K J 7 6 ♣ 10 9 8.

Bidding went: South, 1-diamond; West, 1-heart; North, 1-spade; East, 2-clubs; South, 2-diamonds; West, 2-spades, showing no losers of opponent's spades plus unusual support for clubs; North, 3-diamonds, seeing that East might hold all missing spades; East, 4-diamonds, showing void diamonds; West, 6-clubs; East, 7-clubs. South doubled and West redoubled, although I fail to see how he dared do so.

South made the best possible opening lead, the 10 of clubs. Dummy's J won the trick, as the declarer wanted to start ruffing diamonds. After North had discarded the 7 of spades, he ceased to be a factor in what took place.

East ruffed a diamond. He led back his 10 of hearts, overtook with dummy's J, then led another diamond and ruffed it, using his K for this purpose. He led back his 3 of hearts, overtook with dummy's 9, then led the ace of hearts, to discard a low spade from his own hand. He had to use next to his last trump to ruff dummy's losing Q of hearts. East led his ace of spades, and discarded one of dummy's diamonds. This was the eighth straight trick for the declarer, but bad times were ahead of him.

East led a low spade, to enter dummy and ruff its last remaining diamond. South split equals, ruffing with his 8 of clubs, forcing dummy to lose the trick or ruff with the Q. He overruffed with the Q.

I question if until that moment the declarer fully realized what he was up against. Dummy held three small trumps and the losing Q of diamonds. East held three low spades and the lone ace of clubs. Either he had to give South a trump trick or a diamond trick. The language East used was the sort which old army officers are said to employ when much annoyed. He had to go down one trick, doubled and redoubled, East being to blame for the grand slam contract and West for the redouble.

Before tomorrow see if East should have fulfilled his contract against the 10 of clubs' opening lead.

Be Beautiful

After every summer season, those sweet young things who have scorned the protection of a hat all during the sunny days, discover that they have reaped a large harvest of very fine wrinkles.

Whereat they become panicked and wonder what caused them. Squinting causes these lines and wrinkles under the eyes and around the mouth. When the sunshine beats directly upon your face you defensively screw up your eyes and contort your mouth to protect them, and give the wrinkles a fair start in life. With sufficient repetition in the habit of squinting, the lines are helped out of the starting stage and are firmly established.

All facial mannerisms are disastrous to beauty, and squinting is one of the worst of them. But there is one facial habit of many women that can't be blamed on Old Sol, and it can mean the complete ruination, both of the forehead and upper eyelids, through the creation of fine lines.

This habit is the one of lifting the eyebrows. I have warned you of it before. Every time you raise your eyebrows you stretch the fine skin of your eyelids. This skin is very flexible and elastic, and easily loses its resiliency. And when it becomes stretched and loosened it sags in unbecoming wrinkles and puffs.

Loose-skinned eyelids constitute an infallible sign of age. And there is no facial exercise that can undo the harm of loosening the skin of this area. When it begins to lop over the eyelids to a disfiguring degree, only plastic surgery can remedy the condition.

Prevention is worth a pound of cure for such a calamity, so break yourself of the eyebrow raising habit at once, if you have it, and spare yourself these premature marks of age.

SOUNDS LIKE A GOOD THING.

The movement that has been launched to establish a code of fair competition among the automotive dealers of Canada similar in principle and operation to the NRA codes in force in the United States would seem to be a good thing for the trade, and also a good thing for the public.

Undoubtedly the elimination of unfair competition, cut-throat prices and the other handicaps under which the retailing of automotive transportation in Canada has to a considerable degree been suffering would mean much to the automotive trade, while the assurance of a square deal to the ultimate consumer and to employees would materially assist in putting the sale of motor vehicles on a sound and healthy basis.

It is claimed of the plan, as it has been similarly claimed by automotive dealers in the United States that among the other benefits that might be expected from the establishment of a code of fair competition in Canada are the following:

(1) It would save the invested capital of the independent dealer.

(2) It would attract independent capital to replace factory money now invested.

(3) It would entail the re-establishment of normal bank credit.

(4) It would retain and attract to the trade competent, high-grade business men.

(5) It would re-instate the art of salesmanship as a profitable vocation.

(6) It would create a feeling of mutual respect and confidence between dealer and manufacturer.

A GRATIFYING GAIN.

The improvement in the Federal Government's income during recent months has been so great as to be striking.

In five months of the current fiscal year Government revenues have increased by $20,000,000 over the same period of last year.

In other words, the Ottawa Government is taking in almost a million dollars a week more than it did last year, and if the improvement continues will probably be $50,000,000 more at the end of the fiscal year than it was at the beginning, a condition that gives every reason for satisfaction.

The gain means more, too, than that much additional revenue, for, as the Ottawa Journal points out, a gain of more than $6,000,000 in custom revenues and of more than $9,000,000 in excise revenues means that we are buying more goods from abroad, just as we are selling more abroad and selling and buying more among ourselves.

And more goods moving means more people working.

The improvement in the country's financial condition is most gratifying, not only for its own sake and the hope that it gives of some relief in the tax burden, but because of the evidence that it gives that business, manufacturing and even the agricultural industry are all experiencing better times than a year ago.

Certainly if this were not the case these sharp gains in customs and excise revenue would not be reported; they are founded on solid facts and not materialized out of thin air.

MAKING IT EASIER FOR TOURISTS.

Closely following upon Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion's speech stressing the value of courtesy as an important factor in developing tourist trade, comes an announcement from the Department of National Revenue to remove portable boats and canoes from the list of goods on which customs deposits are required.

This is a step that will be generally approved, for it removes a piece of red tape that did not mean any revenue for the country and at the same time was an annoyance to American visitors.

A great deal had already been done along this line, inasmuch as many articles commonly used by campers and tourists, such as outboard motors, tents and other camping equipment, were some time ago taken off the list of articles upon which tourists had to make a deposit on entering the country as a guarantee that they would not dispose of these things during their sojourn in Canada.

Now when a tourist comes along with a boat tied on the top of his car or towed behind in a trailer custom officials will admit these articles without calling upon the owners to endure the annoyance and loss of ready money involved in making a cash deposit.

As Dr. Manion remarked in his speech, courtesy should begin at the border points where tourists enter, and in doing away with this deposit requirement in the case of tourists' boats and canoes the Government is setting a good example in giving visitors a favorable impression of Canada as they cross the border.

THEY COST MONEY.

It is impossible to even estimate the financial cost of the great textile strike in the United States, but some idea of the economic waste represented by the tieing up of a whole industry can be obtained by figures recently released by the Minneapolis Junior Chamber of Commerce, dealing with the truck drivers' strike in that city.

The Minneapolis disturbance, although a nasty enough affair, was a small thing compared to the textile strike which involves many thousands of workers, but nevertheless the trouble in Minneapolis was evidently a costly matter.

The report shows that the truck drivers themselves lost in wages some $576,000.

During the same period employers lost in diminished business the tidy sum of $20,000,000.

At the same time the taxpayers through the calling out of the National Guard were compelled to foot a bill amounting to $450,000.

These figures do not exhaust the losses involved in a strike, however, for they do not include the effect upon other business of the loss of buying power represented in the idleness of the striking truck drivers, nor do they take any account of the fact that in the long run the losses sustained will be passed on to the public.

When you add the deaths, injuries and property damage incidental to a large scale strike you have a bill staggering in its proportions.

If the textile strike is as expensive proportionately as the Minneapolis strike—and it will probably be more costly—it is to be imagined that almost any kind of a compromise would have been cheaper and more satisfactory.

GREATER ENDURANCE THAN BYRD'S.

Our fellow citizen, Mr. R. W. Johnson, on the occasion of Admiral Byrd's "rescue" by members of his party from "Little America" (which, by the way, was used forty years ago by a Norwegian exploration party, and more than twenty years ago by Sir Ernest Shackleton, so that the name given to the place by the admiral is somewhat unjustified and misleading) wrote to the Globe and to the Times-Journal pointing out that his vigil had been surrounded with a great deal of ballyhoo which exaggerated his "feat" far beyond its merits. Not only had he a very comfortable caboose to live in, but he had wireless apparatus which enabled him to receive messages from his men at the base, and even from the United States. So that although living alone far south of his base, he was not lonely. He had plenty of books to read, light, and a stove that gave him hot meals right to the end. In fact, his first words to his "rescuers" were "Hullo, fellows. Come in and get warm. I have some hot soup for you."

Beside these experiences, those of the young Englishman, Ausgustine Courtauld, who lived in a snow-walled tent in the Arctic for five months of the winter of 1930-31, were far more severe, yet when finally released by a search party, and learned that the newspapers of the world were making a great deal about his adventure, he was exceedingly annoyed and pooh-poohed the writeups as a "lot of poppycock." That was just his British way of belittling his experience, but it stands almost without parallel in history.

Courtauld undertook to gather weather and atmospheric data in the Arctic similar to Admiral Byrd in the Antarctic. The New York Times, recalling his exploit, relates that he selected to be left in isolation on the summit of Ice Cap, 8,000 feet high. The journey from the base on the east coast of Greenland was expected to take three weeks, but owing to terrible weather it took the party 39 days to reach there. He had a tent covered with a snow house, and connected by a tunnel with two smaller snow houses for his stores. On December 5 there was a farewell dinner, and he was left alone. He had books, tobacco, food aplenty and a coal-oil stove. Storms blew up greater than he could cope with. He became so frostbitten that he could only work ten minutes at a time. He had to cut a hole in the roof of his house to go out and take scientific observations. The temperature was as low as 64 below. He had no radio; he was utterly alone on a high mountain in the Arctic, knowing nothing of what was going on in the world.

He had constantly to fight the snows, and about the middle of March he was completely snowed in. His supply of candles gave out, and in the darkness he upset his coal-oil tank and had nothing to cook with. There he was sitting or walking about in his tent for nearly six weeks in complete darkness, unable to read, without hot food or drinks, and having to fumble his way around to find the things he had any need of. He could do little except sit and think—and wait. As it was dark all the time he became a victim of sleeplessness. Under such conditions most men would have gone crazy, but Courtauld retained his mental poise, and on May 5, the leader of what he deprecated being called a "rescue expendition," headed by H. G. Watkins, reached his abode, of which nothing was visible above the snow except a Union Jack.

"Many people might imagine that I was bored living with no company, no scenery, and little occupation, but this was far from being the case. One cannot be bored living an entirely novel life under such interesting conditions. My physical and mental condition, the weather, speculation about the work of the expedition and the doings of friends at home were subjects which fully occupied my mind."

Such was the adventure this hardy Englishman made light of. And there are trappers in the far north who live in isolation for months at a time every winter, more isolated than Admiral Byrd, and to them it is all in the course of their job.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

So far as Hon. T. B. McQuesten's appointments are concerned there are evidently no forgotten men in Hamilton.

After a lull of considerable length, the C.C.F. campaign gets under way again with the visit to Peterborough of the eloquent Wm. Irvine, M.P.

At least, according to reports from Western Ontario, we are sure of a record onion crop. But don't breathe it to anybody.

Well, taxation has really come down so far as the race tracks are concerned.

Canadian railways during the first eight months of 1934 were nearly twenty-one million dollars better than last year. That certainly indicates business conditions are on the mend.

COVERING FOR MARKET.

Editor of Examiner,

Dear Sir,—During intervals in the past years much has been said regarding putting a cover over the market square. Last Saturday's experience with the incessant downpour of rain and a crowded market of fruit, vegetables and other products exposed to the elements, and men and women with their wearing apparel drenched with rain, showed a real need. It would seem an opportune time to bring this question before the public through the medium of your valuable paper. Other cities have realized the benefit of covered market places. Peterborough's market is very attractive and is fast becoming a sales centre for a radius of fifty miles around. It would be a source of comfort to both vendor and purchaser to know when they reached the market place they would be protected from unfavorable weather conditions both in summer and winter months. It would also be an encouraging feature to the hundreds of people who come in on our many highways to do their shopping in this city during week days and who park their cars on the market place.

Not wishing to disparage the scenic drive from the east end of Hunter street bridge to Nicholls Ovals which our city representatives have decided upon and which will involve a large expenditure of money, but would not money expended protecting the market place from unfavorable weather conditions meet with the approval of the greater number of citizens, and also be an asset to the city?

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for so much space allowed in introducing this question to your many readers.

THOS. E. SARGENT.

NEED OF HOUSES.

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Two evictions in one day are enough to warn all concerned. What is coming next? Unless the City Council does something at once to arrest the oncoming of a very unpleasant situation. The foremost problem of those on relief is the housing problem. Within our boundaries we find relief recipients dwelling in houses that are being condemned by our medical officer of health as unfit for human habitation. It is a well-known fact that landlords to-day prefer to have their houses vacant rather than to accept relief rent. The reason for this attitude on the part of the landlords is well known to all, and I don't need to dwell upon it here.

Another factor worth considering here is the fact that since 1929 hardly, if any, new houses have been built for to let.

In view of the above stated facts, the municipal government will have to adopt drastic measures to meet the most burning problem of the unemployed and their families. The only thing for the municipal government to do is, with the support of the Federal and Provincial Governments, to build large apartment houses to house the unemployed who dwell in rented houses. To do this it will be not only a humanitarian deed, but also an economy deed. We will take for granted that out of 700 or so families receiving relief at least 400 live in rented houses. To figure at the rate of $10 per month per family we have $4,000. Fuel at $2.50 per month makes it $1,000. Lights and water at $1.25 per month, $500. Total, $5,500 per month, or $66,000 per year. I do not say that these figures are correct to a cent, but to my mind it is not far from the mark.

When we come to realize that the unemployed problem is here with us to stay, only then can be realized the importance of municipal-owned apartment houses to house the unemployed. These apartments to have a central heating plant with plenty of hot running water, a gas stove and separate gas meters, a large laundry room with built-in washtubs, general baths and lavatories, a large playground for the children, etc. As an emergency measure to relieve the housing problem immediately, I would suggest that the city rent or buy the largest suitable buildings in the city and turn those into apartments for the unemployed families, and such buildings are not hard to find. We'll take, for instance, the old Oriental Hotel with its hundreds of rooms on Hunter street or the Patte house on Water street, etc.

We must also bear in mind that it would give work to men in the building trades industry, which has been the hardest hit. I would like to hear the opinions of other readers of this paper through its columns with regards to this plan, because through general discussions and enlightments we will solve the most burning problem of the day, the housing problem of the unemployed.

Thanking you for your space in the Voice of the People, I am,

Yours truly,

R. H. RUSKIN.

FEARS BEER PARLORS.

Editor of Examiner,

Dear Sir,—I cannot help but view with alarm the approach of the coming fall and winter season in relation to the well-being and safety of our young people. With the closing of the season of outdoor games and interests, the temptation and lure of the newly established beer parlors will be intensified. Already attendance at these places, and drinking in them, by teen age youths and girls is greatly in evidence in many places, and the debauching of our young people is actively in progress. What can we do to save them? I would earnestly urge every young person to avoid the entrance to a beer parlor as they would the entrance to the bottomless pit, as indeed they prove to be to many souls that enter.

Then, again, I would urge every parent, guardian and teacher, by prayer, precept and example, to seek to throw around our young friends every safeguard and protection possible, and seek to bring them to Christ whose saving grace and keeping power is the only sure refuge. Then I think that something should be done along the line of pledges. Many a youth in the old days was saved from taking the first step, drinking the first glass, by the fact that he had pledged himself not to touch, taste, nor handle. I recognize the fact that a pledge is often broken, but to a man or woman of honor it is a remarkable strengthening factor. To those who are responsible for these things, both in introducing the measure and putting it in force, as well as those who seek to increase their wealth by this traffic, I can only say that theirs will be a very heavy responsibility, and that they will have to give an accounting to the Eternal God for their actions.

Thanking you,

Yours faithfully,

GEO. LEADER.

A Thought

"STICKING"

There was a little postage stamp
No bigger than your thumb,
But still it stuck on the job
Until its work was done.

They licked it and they pounded it
'Til it would make you sick,
But the more it took a lickin'
Why the tighter it would stick.

So friend, let's be like the postage stamp
In playing life's rough game,
And just keep on a-sticking
Though we hide our heads in shame.

For the stamp stuck to the letter
'Til it saw it safely through.
There's no one could do better;
Let's keep sticking and be true.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

BOSTON BAR, B.C.

Here again the Indians had a hand in the naming of a town. It was customary for them to refer to a white American as "Boston Bar", from the fact that a hotel run by an American was close by. A white Englishman was referred to by them as a "King George man." "Boston Bar" was used so often in the local conversation that it was logical that the town should adopt the name.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

HERE'S UGLINESS, HERE'S BEAUTY.

In the garden all is still, all is restful. Here is a restful green, here is glowing color. Beneath the old apple tree a bed of gallant nasturtiums spread flower and reach up through the dappled shadow to the sun, while close to them bends the tree carrying its burden of ripening apples proudly . . . The butterflies hover over the butterfly bush, and the blue flowers are lifted high in the air and sway slowly in the summer breeze. . . . There are marigolds over there in that corner where the sun shines so warmly, and here in this damp place a few ferns grow. A rose climbs boldly up the side of the house and looks down in quiet condescension to the rose that stands so straight below and has no climbing ways but bears a nobler flower. . . . The iris are resting now. They bloomed before any of these others and were the heralds of the spring . . . The pansies make no fuss and go serenely about their business of creating yellow and purple beauty . . . Birds sing, in the sunlight, in the mellow moon rays. . . . The garden is a lovely place, quite perfect in its unassuming splendor.

Beneath this quiet is unending struggle. The tree takes the sunlight from the flowers beneath. The aphis and the scale attack the apple tree and wither its leaves. The slimy slug haunts the shaded places. The slow and ruthless snail climbs the delphinium plants and eats away its tender leaves . . . The gopher tunnels his way to the roots of tender plants and pulls them below to devour in the darkness of the earth. The merciless mole pursues his hidden ways. The innumerable ants march unresisted across the terrain of this green place . . . A blue jay comes and ravages a nest with all its tender young. . . . A cat slinks by and crouches, writhes and pounces. Beneath this shifting pattern of sunlit green are struggle and terror and ruthless competition.

And yet, beauty is there. Sharp teeth, steel claws, ravenous hunger, selfish intention, these exist in the garden as they do elsewhere, but nevertheless the beauty is there in the garden, too . . . and may not, must not, be denied.

30 Countries Favor Russia In League

GENEVA, Sept. 11.—(C.P.-A.P.)—Some 30 countries are disposed to sign an invitation to Russia to enter the League of Nations, circulated at the opening of the League Assembly today with the backing of France, Great Britain and Italy.

If favorable action is taken on the further question of giving Russia a permanent seat on the League council, it is planned the invitation will be despatched to Moscow.

If Russia consents, the signatories to the invitation will then ask the assembly to make a resolution in favor of the admission of Russia, following which formal election is the next step in admittance of the Soviet.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

A GREAT CANADIAN EDUCATOR

On this date, fifty years ago, Dr. John William Dawson, principal of McGill University, was created a knight bachelor. He is not remembered by the present generation, but he should be, for not only was he the man who made McGill University one of the leading colleges in the world, but he was one of our greatest scientists. Born in that cardle of so many men and women of genius, Pictou, Nova Scotia, he was a student of the famous Pictou Academy and when he went to Edinburgh University he took front rank, so well had he been grounded in the historic academy. When only 30 years of age he was appointed superintendent of education for his native province, but Nova Scotia, in his case, as in that of so many others of her sons, was generous and when Canada called she gave.

McGill had been in sore plight for years; her friends in Montreal decided that something must be done if the college was to be saved; a new charter was obtained in 1852, the man was needed to guide the university. Luckily for McGill in 1855 the eyes of the searchers turned to Halifax and found John William Dawson. He did not want to come west; he preferred Halifax; but duty called and he never regretted his acceptance, though it meant years of labor, sometimes heartbreaking; but Dawson had faith; and, like most men of faith, he won out.

The McGill University of today is the living memorial of Sir William Dawson. Modest, bearing his honor gracefully, he was always a Christian gentleman, whom it was a privilege to meet and an honor to study under. He was the first president of the Royal Society of Canada, concerning whose creation he had much to do when it was proposed by the Marquess of Lorne. Sir William was one of the real makers of Canada.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

MARY AUSTIN, AUTHORESS.

IN "The Examiner" of Tuesday of this week appeared my first article about Mary Austin, the authoress. We met in Mexico City. The incident about the crayon drawing by Morris Topchevsky was told. In this article we write about an address given before our Commission on Latin Affairs. She spoke on the "Difference between Folk Art and Sophisticated Art". Her theme was wide of the problems before the Commission. Being different it was refreshing and restful. Like variety in all gatherings of people, her address was like the introduction of something sharp in contrast. And I must tell you a little about her short address. Her theme made a setting for some of the issues before the Commission.

Among her first words were these: "We have found we could not use the term 'Arts of the People' or 'Popular Arts'. Anything popular in the United States is a thing that sells. So we have had to go back to an older term and talk about 'Folk Art'. It was not the original intention of the founders of the American Republic that there should be a folk. A folk is a people completely enclosed by its environment, receiving no influence from any other environment. Europe was full of folk, and it was the belief of the founders of the American Republic that through the institution of the public school, in which all would learn the same thing at the same time, there would be no such thing as groups. But the continent of America was too large for us. The environmental surroundings were too different. The groups which achieved satisfactory adjustment to environment took on the color of that environment just as tribes would everywhere. The Kentucky mountaineers, the Dakota farmers—each became a distinct group. As a result, we have groups in the United States entitled to be called folk groups." To me this was a new view. It set another intellect questioning. At another time there will follow a study of the groups mentioned.

THE UNITED STATES OF MEXICO.

THREE nations side by side are experimenting with the problem of the manufacturing and sale of intoxicating liquors. One of the three should find the solution. All three will eventually. The solution to be effective must be in harmony with the teachings of the Bible. Here is one line: "Look not upon the wine when it is red, or giveth its color to the cup, for at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder".

Upon my desk lies a communication from Rafael Ramirez, chief of the department of Rural Education under the Ministry of Public Education of Mexico. It was my rare privilege to meet Ramirez in Mexico City. Among other significant thoughts are the following:

"The social revolution in Mexico which began in 1910 has not yet ended. A terrible and formidable enemy of the people is still in action. It is alcoholism.

"Wherever one may go in the country he always encounters its advance forces and back of them its organized battalions in full sway, destroying the welfare of the peasant and working people; destroying their health, degenerating their offspring and putting out in their souls the light of the hope of redemption."

Ramirez has, in these words, spoken truth about the effect of alcohol on the Mexican peasant. My trip through Mexico is sufficient confirmation of what he has written as far as I am concerned. I saw with my own eyes all that he relates, and more. I was in the vast state of Chihuahua. The Tarahumara occupy this region. They are an indigenous race. The physical conditions of every family is perfectly wretched. Suffering from hunger has become chronic and clearly has entered a stage of physiological decadence.

It is no wonder than that he takes recourse to alcohol which stimulates him and gives him at least momentarily an illusion of well-being, strength and pleasure. A question: "Is physiological decadence the secret of much alcoholic indulgence in Canada as well as in Old Mexico?"

ALABAMA.

MUCH has been written about the cause of the Textile Strike. The statement that radicals, Reds, Communists were the instigators is false. Read this from a cotton-textile from Alabama: "There'll be open mutiny in the mill towns of Alabama within two months unless the local representatives of the federal relief agencies stop acting as strikebreakers within two months unless the local representatives of the federal relief agencies stop acting as strikebreakers and begin feeding our starving men, women and children. Yes. I mean mutiny — perhaps revolution — with storehouses looted and pillaged".

The speaker was in dead earnest. He was on a visit to New York for the first time. And rather felt his cats, as he made known that he was a delegate to the National Convention of United Textile Workers' Union. As soon as the convention was under way the sentiment that pervades the Southern States was evident. In the mill towns the bitterness against the employer class is very strong. To get their rights recognized the workers saw clearly that but one course held promise. The textile mills from Alabama to Maine must be closed by a general strike.

At the convention the mill workers told their story. It can be summarized in such words as these: When we first received word about the Textile Code, the Blue Eagle and our right to organize and bargain collectively, it seemed too good to be true. It was a real New Deal for us. The new wage minimum meant much to us. What has happened, though, is that the established minimum has been made the virtual maximum. Thousands of our people earn less today than they did two years ago. The minimum was not and is not enforced. J. P. Holland, secretary-treasurer of the Alabama State Textile Council declared that he could produce hundreds of pay envelopes to prove his statement. I have on my desk, signed affidavits from workers in mills in Alabama, which will be given the readers of the Examiner in its next issue.

Munition Trade Secrets To Be Bared

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.— (A.P.)—From submarines and artillery, the United States' Senate Munitions Investigating Committee turned to-day to aircraft chemicals and other instruments of war.

The hearings on the practices of American armament manufacturers entered their second week with officials of E. I. Dupont de Nemours Corporation, makers of powder, high explosives and chemicals, ready to testify.

They had sought unsuccessfully to prevail on the committee to withhold from publication information as to trade secrets.

Saying that muntions makers have been "doing business secretly for so long" it was about time their affairs were made public, Chairman Gerald Nye (R-N.D.), overrode the protests of Irenee Dupont, head of the corporation, with the statement:

"The inquiry will go on."

Teck Hughes Holds Centre Of Interest

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (CP).—The mining section of the Toronto Exchange experienced a day of conflicting price movements with the weight of changes on the down side. Teck Hughes held the centre of interest, selling of the stock expanding to around 40,000 shares on a price decline of 25 cents to $6. It closed at 6.05. Other senior gold shares were mildly soft and base metal and silver shares held fairly steady in quiet trading.

Cecille, the third heaviest, led with one and three-quarters of an ounce, Yvonne, the largest of the sisters, following with one and one-half ounces, to reach eight pounds, one and one-half ounces. Marie, the smallest girl in the family, on her 106th day of life weighed five pounds, seven and one-quarter ounces.

PROPOSALS FOR TRADE MISSION TO ORIENT IN 1936 ARE MADE

Channels Opening Up Again Canadian Chamber of Commerce is Told.

BY R. E. THORNE.

(By S. G. Ross, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 11 (CP)—Proposals for a trade mission to the Orient in 1935 were laid before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here yesterday by R. E. Thorne, Montreal, chairman of the chamber's foreign trade committee.

Wasting no time, the 200 delegates from Eastern and Western Canada and the United States opened the ninth annual convention, appointed committees, received reports and heard W. Sanford Evans, Winnipeg, deliver his presidential address.

"The channels of foreign trade are opening up again and cargoes to and from our shores are on the increase," declared Mr. Thorne, in his review of foreign trade. Domestic trade, too, was on the increase.

Recalling the trade mission to Japan four years ago when a short side-trip to China was made, Mr. Thorne declared the time now opportune for an extensive trade mission to China. China was anxious to trade with Canada, he declared, and had extended an invitation for a visit by Canadian business men.

"My recommendation to the chamber now is that the mission be organized for the autumn of 1935," said Mr. Thorne. "Here is a market of 400,000,000 people, and even granting that the per unit purchasing power is low, yet the total offerings run into very large dollar scales.

"Some of the Canadian products which have been eagerly sought from the Chinese market during recent months include wheat, flour, rubber tires, cured fish, unmanufactured leather, and meats and products, evaporated and powdered milk, felt manufacturers, lumber, paper and numerous manufactured goods."

GOOD TRADING FORD 'A' STOCK

Loblaw 'A' and Distilleries Active Although Price Level Steady.

WESTONS DROPS POINT.

TORONTO, Sept. 11 (CP).—A steadier tone ruled on the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange today. Volume was substantial in Ford "A", Nickel, Loblaw "A" and the distillery shares without working any worthwhile improvement in the price level. Westons Common was under profit-selling and the price was pushed down to 46 1-4 for a loss of a full point.

FIND AVIATORS AID TO BUSINESS

Munition Salesman Names Amelia Earhart, Ruth Nichols, Chamberlain.

PROBE GOES ON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (A.P.)—A letter by a munitions company official saying he was well acquainted with Amelia Earhart, Ruth Nichols, Eleanor Smith and other prominent Americans in the aircraft industry, and that he found them "most useful in the pursuit of business," was given yesterday to the United States munitions committee.

The letter, written by A. J. Miranda, Jr., to an official of the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation of Cleveland in 1932 concerning the firm's efforts to sell aeroplanes to Japan, China and the Argentine, said:

"I am intimately acquainted with such well-known flyers and executives as Major Aldrin, vice president of Standard Oil Company, in charge of aviation, Clarence Chamberlain, Roger Williams, the entire executive personnel of Curtiss-Wright, the entire personnel of Pan-American Airways, including Pressler, the chief engineer, and Gledhill, the purchasing agent, Ruth Nichols, Eleanor Smith, Amelia Earhart, Luther Bell and Charles Parker of the chamber, Bernarr McFadden, etc. All of these people I know well and I find them most useful in the pursuit of business."

A few minutes earlier the committee had been told that American commercial and military attaches in Rio de Janeiro had "been "100 per cent helpful" to Miranda in his efforts to sell munitions in South America in 1933.

Competition

PITTSBURGH Sept. 11 (C.P.)—It was Lee O'Brien's 16th birthday. He had a new bicycle, but no way to lock it. He went into a hardware store, came out with a lock—and found he had no bicycle. Someone had beaten him to it.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (AP).—Irregular price movements gave the stock list a spotty appearance today. Metals firmed after forenoon easiness. The industrial list was narrow. U.S. Smelting rose 2 points after having been off nearly 4. Cerro de Pasco and Howe Sound were higher. U. S. Steel, Santa Fe and American Telephone were steady. Du Pont dipped a point while Eastman Kodak lost 2. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

MONTREAL EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (CP).—Prices on the Montreal Stock Exchange were irregular at the close today. Many morning losses were erased in the afternoon trading.

Brazilian Traction advanced 1-8 at 9 3-4. Canadian Pacific remained unchanged at 12 3-4. Montreal Power was down 1-4 at 32 in heavy turnover. Sherwin Williams Preferred advanced one point to 85. Hollinger was off 10 cents at 18.80.

PLANE EXPORTS BEING PROBED

Gov't Monopoly Only Control for Munition Racket Says Chairman.

EMBARGOES USELESS.

WASHINTON, Sept. 11 (A.P.)—The practices of United States and foreign firms in selling aeronlanes to belligerents and nations on the verge of war came before the Senate munitions investigators to-day.

Turning from records of graft and bribery in the competition for arms contracts in South America, the committee steered its inquiry to-day into the channels of the Curtiss-Wright export corporation in selling military planes abroad.

Chairman Gerald Nye, seeking ways of taking the "profit motive" out of deals in death-inflicting weapons, said the testimony thus far shows that munitions manufacture is a "racket that you can't control except by government monopoly."

The committee received a statement from E. I. Dupont de Memours and company, America's largest manufacturers of powder and munitions, asserting they were not engaged in fomenting war through their sales.

"The Du Pont Company does not want war and has vastly more to gain from peace," said the statement issued through its president, Lommot Du Pont, who has been summoned to appear this week.

Denies Conspiracy

"The charges of conspiracy against the peace of mankind which are currently made against the munitions makers of the world have no foundation whatsoever," so far as the Du Ponts are concerned, the statement said.

Discussing the hearings so far, Nye said to newspapermen: "Embargoes don't embargo."

Yesterday's hearing, the beginning of the second week of testimony, produced testimony that.

A futile effort was made by the Soley Armament Company, Ltd., of London, to have the United States government buy war materials from it to help China against Japan.

Representative Britten (R.-Ill.) accompanied representatives of the American Armament Corporation of New York, to the State Department last June to seek approval of an arms shipment to Bolivia outside the presidential ban.

CHICAGO GIRL "HONOR SLAYER" IS FREED OF MURDER CHARGES

Anna Maietta Placed in Charge of Uncle, Eager to "Mother" Her Family.

BRUTALITIES TOLD

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Anna Maietta, 15-year-old "honor slayer," was freed of murder charges last week by the grand jury.

Moved by a report of the child's family life, the jurors refused to indict her for killing James Maietta, her father, and her mother, Jennie, during a quarrel on August 30.

Warden Moneypenny sent the girl from the county jail to the Juvenile Detention Home, where authorities released her under $1,000 bond to custody of her uncle, Joseph Tortorici. Although freed of criminal charges, Anna is still regarded a juvenile delinquent and must be present for a hearing Wednesday in Juvenile Court, where her future will be determined.

Eager to Go Home

Her own desire is that she will be permitted to take in her home the place of her mother, whom she killed accidentally in an effort to save her from the father's brutality.

Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of Behavior Clinic, read to the jurors a report of an examination of the child made by him and Dr. Harold Hurlburt, who was retained by Attorneys Samuel A Rinella and Rocco de Stefano in Anna's defense.

The investigation showed that Maietta had abused Anna and beaten her mother on numerous occasions. On his orders, the child was not permitted to enjoy the company of other children, but kept in the family home. The report stated:

"This patient, with proper supervision, could make a good adjustment to her environment and be a useful member of society, but if she is placed in a penal institution there will be a gradual deterioration. She is not the type of individual who would be a repeated offender."

Story Corroborated

Anna's own story of events that led up to the double killing—an account substantiated by other witnesses who appeared before the jury—was thus given in the report:

"Father hit mother in the mouth and caught her hair. Mother could not scream because he was choking her. Her color changed, she was pale, her eyes were wide open and she could not catch her breath.

"I ran into the bedroom and got his gun from a drawer. I held the gun in my two hands and shot it to take him away from mother. There were four shots—two and then two again. He fell down and crawled up to me on his knees and tried to turn the gun toward me while I hung on to it. I ran out the back way and screamed and everything turned black. . . ."

JERSEY YOUTH BEATS FORMER OPEN CHAMPION

Jacobson Wins by One Up at 19th Hole in Second Round Match.

SOMERVILLE IN THIRD.

Jack Cameron of Montreal Accompanies Sandy in March Towards Cup.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 11.—(C.P.).—C. Ross Somerville of London Ont., marched into the third round of the United States amateur golf championships to-day, defeating John Foley, Jr., of Detroit, 2 and 1.

Jack Cameron, Montreal's symphony in gray and shorts, entered the third round of the United States amateur golf championship to-day by defeating Kenneth Wolcott, Trenton, N.J., 3 and 1, in the second round.

Cameron, who scored a smashing victory of 5 and 4 over Richard Ashley of Kenosha, Wis., in yesterday's first round, was accompanied into the next by the Canadian amateur titlist, Albert "Scotty" Campbell of Seattle. The latter easily smothered Perry E. Hall of Philadelphia, 5 and 4.

Goodman Eliminated.

Another youthful star exploded the fireworks to-day as 16-year-old Bobby Jacobson of Deal, N.J., second youngest player in the tournament, eliminated Johnny Goodman of Omaha, former open king. Jacobson won by one up at the 19th hole in a second round match.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 11 (AP)—Under sparkling weather conditions but with the Country Club course still heavy from the latest series of storms, the field of 128 Canadian and United States survivors stepped out briskly this morning for the second round of elimination play in the United States amateur golf championship.

Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans youngster who holds the southern amateur and Western junior championships ,teed off with Knox M. Young, Jr., of Pittsburgh, the conqueror of Max Marston, in the day's first match. Haas halved the first hole but was bunkered and took a losing six on the second.

Goodman Takes First Two

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, still gunning for his amateur title after a career studded with brilliant achievements, took the first two holes from his 16-year-old opponent, Bobby Jacobson of the Hollywood club of Deal, N.J.

T. A. (Tony) Torrance, British Walker Cup veteran and the only overseas threat in the tournament, halved the first hole with Philip Little of Minneapolis, but took the lead with a winning four on the second.

A birdie three on the ninth put Philip Little one up in his match with Torrance after the Briton had squared their see-saw match with a birdie on the eighth.

C. R. (Sandy) Somerville, the Canadian veteran, started sensationally and negotiated the outgoing nine in 34, one under par, but he was only one up on John Foley, Jr., of Detroit, who was also in fine form.

ARMS BUSINESS NOT SECRETIVE DIRECTOR SAYS

John Ball, London, Declares U. S. Senate Evidence Incomplete.

LEGITIMATE TRADE.

Armaments Sold in Accordance With Wishes of Governments.

By BUZDETTE T. JOHNS

Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 11—This sensational talk of huge secret stocks of armaments shipped in will-o'-the-wisp fashion to renegade illegal factions in any section of the world is "pure eye wash" so far as British armament firms are concerned, said Capt. John Ball, the Irish director of the Solely Armament Company to-day.

Ball conducts his business from a large sitting room in an old dwelling house overlooking Regent Park. He puffed at an Irish pipe to-day as he cracked down on the Washington senatorial inquiry as giving an incomplete picture of the correspondence which passed between him and a united States armaments company.

He referred to Kipling to call the inquiry "muddying the well of truth by stirring with the stick of suspicion."

Officialdom Silent

While the foreign office again told the Associated Press that it had nothing to say either concerning the arms inquiry in Washington or the possibility of a similar inquiry in Great Britain and that the initiative, if any, for such a quiz in Great Britain would come from parliament, Ball amiably talked at length.

He said British arms firms conducted their business just as openly and above board and just as legitimately as any other businesses which buy up surplus stocks of army shoes, shirts, and blankets and sell them to whomever will buy.

Ball said that an incomplete picture of his company's connection with American armaments had been given in the United States hearing, at least so far as London press reports revealed.

Abide By Law

He exhibited copies of letters sent to the American Armaments Company as proof of his point that the Solely Company had made plain that the American company should abide not only by the laws and regulations of the United States and other governments concerned in the sale of armaments but that it must even abide by "the wishes" of those governments.

FIRST MEETING OF INSTITUTE

Women's Association at Millbrook Begin Season's Activities.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 11.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The opening meeting of the local branch of the Women's Institute following the summer vacation was held on Saturday at 8 p.m., at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong.

The president Mrs. T. G. Harkness, took the chair, and among business items discussed was the purchase of material for a quilt at which the members will work at the monthly meetings during the social hour. The president and treasurer will buy the goods and choose the pattern, and the quilt will be sold on completion. A letter was read by the secretary, Mrs. George Fallis, from Agricultural Representative A. E. Summers, of Port Hope, thanking the branch for donation of three dollars for a special prize for the junior farmers' judging competition.

Miss E. J. Grandy was in charge of the program, but owing to the inclement weather few of those promised to take part were present, and this program will be proceeded with at the October meeting, to be held at the home of Miss Grandy. Misses Jean and Gloria Dawson pleased the audience with their musical selections which included two vocal duets, and after the singing of "The Church in the Wildwood," the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The roll call on Saturday evening was answered with "Canning Recipes," as most suitable to the season. On motion, it was decided to have the usual booth for the sale of ice cream, soft drinks, etc., at the Rural School Fair on September 21, with the executive in charge.

Durham School Fairs.

Inclement weather has featured the Rural School Fairs so far held for Durham—at Orono on Saturday, September 7, and Maple Grove the following afternoon—but conditions were better for the one at Hampton, on Monday, September 10. Exhibits and attendance, however, are reported good. The list as completed includes the following dates:

Enniskillen, Tuesday, September 11; Blackstock, Wednesday, the 12th; Newtonville, Thursday, the 13th; Ballyduff, Friday, the 14th; Fleetwood, Monday, the 18th; Welcome, Tuesday, the 18th; Garden Hill, Thursday, the 20th; Millbrook, Friday, the 21st; Ida, Saturday, the 22nd, and Centreville, Monday, the 24th.

Harvest Thanksgiving.

St. Thomas' Anglican Church was well filled on Sunday evening for the annual harvest festival service, the special preacher for the day, which had been featured by similar services throughout the parish of Cavan, being Very Reverend Dean R. Ragg of the diocese of Calgary, who is in the East on his way to the sessions of the General Synod meeting at Montreal.

The interior of the beautiful church was attractively decorated with fruits of the harvest, grains particularly, with mountain ash berries being used, together with fall flowers, and the whole producing a most tasteful effect. The rector, Rev. William Simpson, B.A., had charge of the service, and the soloist for the evening was Mrs. R. Roden, of Toronto, who sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" to a beautiful setting. Miss M. L. Collins presided at the organ and the hymns were all of a harvest thanksgiving character.

Dean Ragg chose his text from Galatians 6:7-8, "Be not deceived: God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap," his opening remarks telling of a personal notice of the grain fields in the vicinity of Calgary, suggesting to the speaker the thought of the eternal harvest. Under four headings the message was brought forcibly home to the hearers:

"(1) Preparation; It is easy to pick out the fields which have been properly prepared for the crop; so we are preparing our souls for the harvest time, and according to our preparation shall the crop be in the next life.

"(2) Seed; "Good seed is necessary to a good crop. Parents, what kind of seed are you sowing in your children's hearts? Good seed or weeds A weedy field is disastrous to a neighbor's grain, and a corrupt life hurts others to their eternal undoing.

"(3) The Harvest and (4) the Marketing: The Better the grain the greater the reward for labor. You and I shall be harvested one day, too, and the better our lives the richer our reward. When we are harvested, will there be any produce of value to put on the market of eternity?"

TANNERS BEAT CLERKS 15 TO 9

Winners Get Ten Runs in Fourth to Take Commanding Lead.

WILL MEET ELGIN.

HASTINGS, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Tanners earned the right to meet Elgin in the finals for the Hastings Softball championship when they defeated the Clerks, 15 to 9, before a big crowd of roaring fans on Monday night. Monday night's game was the fourth between these two classy outfits.

The Tanners won the first, 15 to 2; the second was thrown out on a protest by the Clerks; and the Counter Hoppers won the third by a 17 to 12 count.

The Clerks got to "Curly" Scriver's slants for six hits in the third for six runs; Hay and Crate getting circuit drives.

The fourth inning provided the fireworks for the Tanners, when they garnered in ten runs on thirteen hits, one being a homer by "Spook" Scriver. Dr. Hay's pets were guilty of some sloppy fielding in this stanza. The Tanners got six in the seventh and the Clerks had scored five when Umpire Hogan called the game on account of darkness; the score going back to the end of the sixth.

"Spook" Scriver led the heavy artillery of the Tanners with a homer, double and a pair of singles out of five trips to the plate. Crate had a perfect average for the Clerks with two walks, a homer, and a single in four trips to the plate. Hahn made a sensational catch when he pulled a hot one only an inch from the dirt in front of third. Two fact double plays were pulled, one by each team. Neither pitcher had a strike-out.

FIVE FEDERAL SEATS AT STAKE

Bennett to delude the electorate. He declared despite Mr. Stevens' attacks on chain stores and mass buying he had never been known to vote against his party.

Mr. Stevens, the Liberal Premier of Ontario charged, had supported every policy which contributed to the "misery of the people in the last four years, and he will continue to do so. "They are trying to fool the people," the Premier said.

Dr. Manion appeared at the official nomination meeting at Sydenham to support Mr. Aylesworth and he was bombarded with questions and his speeches interrupted on numerous occasions. He accused Liberals of indulging in nothing but destructive criticism and maintained the government had brought Canada through the depression years in better shape than any other country. A saving of $16,000,000 in government cost had been made.

Mr. Sutherland

An answer was made to Liberal attacks on Prime Minister Bennett for journeying to Geneva when the by-elections were being held when member in the legislature, defended East where T. L. Church, K.C., is the Conservative candidate. He declared Mr. Bennett had been subjected to "great pressure" before he accepted the Geneva journey. Momentous questions faced the League of Nations "and no one stands higher at Geneva than does our own premier," Mr. Sutherland said.

Russil Nesbitt, Conservative member in te Legislature, defended the government's record at a North York meeting which also was addressed by the Conservative candidate, Captain H. J. Breuls. He declared that due to the empire trade agreements "Canada's trade inward and outward increased by $132,000,000 in the fiscal year ending Mar. 31, 1934."

Mr. Ray Ketchen acted as best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with decorations in pink and white. The table, centred by the bride's cake, was done with pink and white flowers.

ALBERTA PASTOR IS GUEST SPEAKER

Rev. Alex Rannie of High River, Speaks to Campbellford Rotarians.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 11 (Examiner Correspondent).—There was a good attendance at the Rotary Club luncheon on Monday, with President Stanley Neale, recently returned from vacation, occupying the chair. The guest speaker was the Rev. Alex. Rannie, of High River, Alberta, who gave a most interesting talk, outlining his many experiences in his work as a missionary in Western Canada, in the early days.

The speaker, who is a native of Seymour and a former student of Campbellford High School, was introduced by Rotarian Stephen Maguire, who recalled the pleasant memories of school days under such teachers as A. G. Knight, A. E. Jewett, and Robert Boyce.

In describing High River, Mr. Rannie told his listeners that its location is really the gateway to the Prince of Wales' Ranch, one of the beauty spots of the foothills, where he commenced his work in 1894, and that the town is 16 miles from the south end of the Turner Valley oil fields, another point of interest in the district.

He also stated that travelling in those days was very slow, taking three days and three nights to go from Toronto to Winnipeg, and that at that time there was only one paved street in Winnipeg, and that the Red River water used for drinking purposes was not of good quality.

His first place of residence forty years ago was north of Mossomin, where he got a good start with his work and made many friends among the farming community, helping with the many chores when occasion arose, and told of how in the case of a neighbor's sickness, whole gangs of men turned out to help with the harvest; he also found that the Indians in that section were friendly and industrious and that his work among the different tribes had accomplished great results, many having become Christianized. He said that while at present the West was passing through a trying time, especially Southern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Southern Manitoba, and that he had actually seen crops in Alberta that would not average five bushels to the acre, but had also seen conditions in Western Ontario nearly so bad.

He paid greetings from his own club in High River expressing his firm belief that such service work as the Rotary Clubs were doing, was well worth while.

Rotarian Alex McCall expressed his thanks to the speaker for his very excellent address which was conveyed to him by President Stanley H. Neale. Dr. Bruce Longmore stated that arrangements for the local clinic on handicapped children would be held at the St. Lawrence Hotel on Friday afternoon.

TRENT RIVER, Sept. 11.—Claude Goodman arrived over the week-end from Toronto to spend his annual two weeks' holiday as guest with Mr. D. The larger one was caught in Thompson Channel and the smaller one caught a short distance above the big bridge. Bait used was "White red head."

Mr. Goodman was trolling from a motor boat in company with Mr. D. Walterhouse.

Both fish were caught the same day.

In the Yakutia region of Northeast Siberia 186,000 acres of spring wheat were planted this year in addition to 20,000 acres of the first Arctic winter wheat crop attempted.

SAFETY SPEED COMFORT SERVICE

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS

The Excellence of C.N.R. Service Exemplified by Dining Cars and Hotels.

With practically all forms of land transportation, other than railways, the only service rendered is the conveyance of the passenger from one place to another—that is all. Problems of personal convenience and comfort are left to the passenger to solve for himself as best he may. Railways, however, are the outstanding exception.

Not merely is this matter of transportation attended to, but it is done in such a way as to add to it the important considerations of safety, comfort and speed. The ideal striven for is to make the passenger feel—and be— as comfortable and as free from anxiety as he would be in his own home. That, at any rate, is the C.N.R. ideal. How this is being done can perhaps best be illustrated by taking C.N.R. dining cars and hotels as typical examples.

The dining car of a C.N.R. train is highly organized and expertly managed, and it meets adequately and unobtrusively the desires of even the most fastidious traveller. Here are to be had fixed-priced meals of a quality and variety which challenge those served under the most favourable conditions anywhere. In keeping with C.N.R. policy, the dining car service has been improved and modernised, and prices are as low as—and frequently lower than—prevail in city restaurants.

Then the C.N.R. hotels are among the best on the American continent. The Chateau Laurier at Ottawa, The Macdonald at Edmonton, and The Fort Garry at Winnipeg not only lend lustre to the cities in which they are situated, but are known all over the world. They have afforded hospitality to leading statesmen, financiers, and travellers from all corners of the globe, and their praises are proclaimed everywhere by those who appreciate and are able to command the best. One does not, however, require to be exalted in position or in purse to enjoy these and other C.N.R. hotels—their hospitality is available to all, whether it be for a sojourn of long duration or just for a meal.

The standards set by C.N.R. hotels and dining cars are very high. They are instanced here as being typical of C.N.R. service throughout the whole system. The desire is to provide the best at the lowest cost. You can test this for yourself. Travel by C.N.R. and be thoroughly satisfied.

MRS. E. B. MERRITT AT CONVENTION

Attended Assembly of Rosicrucians iat San Jose, Cal.

Nearly eight hundred A.M.O.R.C. Rosicrucians from every part of the world gathered at their sixth annual convention at San Jose, California, to witness the dedication of their new University founded on idealistic lines.

Mrs. Ellen B. Merritt of Lealie avenue, Peterborough, who has just returned from an extended tour of the Pacific Coast, represented the Rosicrucian membership of Peterborough and district.

Sir Francis Bacon, 1600 A.D. father of the modern school of scientific thought, conceived in his novel "The New Atlantis," a university whose object would be to scientifically investigate the hypotheses and theories advanced by learned men, which because of their nature were considered to be "beyond the realm of both religion and conventional science."

In her report Mrs. Merritt states that the Rosicrucians recognize Bacon as an early officer of the Order, and thus their science buildings of ornate Egyptian design, and housing chemistry, light, physics, radio and photographic laboratories will be dvoted to original research into strange phenomena.

The Weather

September has already brought us considerably more than twice the total amount of rain that fell during the whole month of August. On Saturday 1.55 fell and on the 2nd .91 come down. The total for the month is now 2.63, whereas for all of August it was but 1.15. This should refresh the pastures and help in other ways.—W.P.

A few light scattered showers have occurred in Eastern Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, and moderate to heavy showers in some sections of Saskatchewan and Alberta, while in nearly all other parts of the Dominion the weather has been fair. It has become quite cool in Alberta, but continues moderately warm from Manitoba eastward to the Atlantic.

Georgian Bay: Moderate southeast winds; fair and warm. Wednesday: Moderate to fresh southeast and south winds; mostly cloudy and warm, with scattered showers.

Northern Ontario: Fair and moderately warm. Wednesday: Mostly cloudy with scattered showers; not much change in temperature.

Appealing In Behalf Of Lillian E. Walkey

An appeal which came before Mr. Justices Riddell, Masten and Macdonnell at Osgoode Hall yesterday was adjourned until to-day, subject to any unfinished cases. The appeal was by the plaintiffs, the Royal Trust Company, from a judgment of Judge J. A. McEvoy, dismissing action brought on behalf of Lillian Walkey, a sister of W. H. Walkey, who it is claimed stood "in loco parentis" to Lillian E. Walkey.

Walkey died of injuries received in a collision near Bailieboro between motor vehicles, one of which was a truck owned by the defendants, The Globe Publishing Company.

After hearing evidence His Lordship granted non-suit, holding that W. H. Walkey did stand "in loco parentis" to his sister. R. G. Ferguson for appellant; F. A. Brewin for defendant Globe Publishing Company; J. W. Gordon for McLean.

McIlwaine Family Still Seeks House

Mr. and Mrs. William McIlwaine recently evicted from the house they tenanted on Princess street, are still searching for a landlord who will accept relief rent. Meanwhile the couple are finding temporary accommodation with friends on Patterson street, while other members of the family are obtaining shelter elsewhere.

Mr. McIlwaine visited The Examiner office to-day and said he was extremely anxious to obtain a house.

"he present arrangement is only a temporary one," he said, "and I would like to get into another house as soon as possible with the rest of my family."

For over seven weeks Mr. McIlwaine claimed he had canvassed every possibility of renting a house, but so far without success.

Referring to a statement printed in The Examiner quoting Mr. Metheral, the relief officer, as having stated that a member of Mr. McIlwaine's family had refused work on a farm, Mr. McIlwaine said that was not strictly correct.

The fact, he said, was that a daughter of his had been offered work on a farm, but the woman who as to have employed her had finally refused to do so, for reasons known to herself.

"No member of my family has ever refused to work," he emphasized.

Located a Home

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lawford with their family of three children are now established in a house at 286 George street south. Relief orders are being provided by the City Relief Department and relief rent will be paid to the owner of the house.

Mr. Lawford has taken exception to a statement made in report concerning his plight published last week. He states that he has earned only four dollars in the last three weeks, not, as reported, in the last three months.

WIDOW SUES FOR SHARE OF HUSBAND'S ESTATE

First Wife Claims Couple Estranged, Thus Nullifying Claim.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(A.P.)—Hearing on the application of Elizabeth B. Wadsworth to establish her claim to a half-interest in the estate of her husband, Horace Elliott Wadsworth was adjourned yesterday in Surrogate's Court to Oct. 10.

Mrs. Wadsworth said she was willed a half-interest in a trust fund on condition that she was not estranged from her husband at the time of his death. He died in Reno, Nev., on Aug. 10, 1933.

The widow's claim has been challenged by Mrs. Dorothy Platt White, Rochester, N.Y., Wadsworth's first wife and mother of his daughter, Mary Elizabeth, nine, who is the other chief beneficiary under the will. Mrs. White divorced Wadsworth in Los Angeles in 1928.

Mrs. White claims the Wadsworths were estranged at the time of his death, thus nullifying the request to the widow.

Mrs. Wadsworth stated that she has received no benefit from the estate, and that she has been compelled to rely upon her widowed mother of Stratford, Ont., for maintenance. She also declares her husband's share from the estate of his father was appraised at over $1,000,000 in 1929.

M.O.H. REQUIRES FRUIT COVERED

By-law of 1905 to be Enforced Dr. Fraser States.

SANITARY ORDINANCE.

An order for the protection against flies and dust of fruit exposed at the fronts of local fruit and grocery stores was given out by Medical Officer of Health G. Murray Fraser yesterday. The order will affect a large number of merchants.

No time limit has been set on obedience to the order but it is to be strictly enforced, the officer stated. If necessary, a by-law covering the situation, passed in 1905, will be invoked. The by-law reads in part:

"No person shall expose for sale upon any street or upon the market square or in any public place in the Town of Peterborough the carcass of any animal or any meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit or milk unless the same be so protected as to avoid contact with or contamination from dust, water or other noxious or offensive matter or substance which might tend to rend the same unwholesome or injurious or objectionable for the purposes of food."

Penalty for violation of the by-law is set at a fine not exceeding $50 or a jail sentence not exceeding 21 days.

Dr. Fraser states that a menace to the public exists in the present situation. Although by invoking another clause in the by-law quoted above merchants could be forced to withdraw all displays of produce from the fronts of their premises, he intimated that he would be satisfied if adequate coverings in the way of fine nettings were used for protection of the fruit.

In connection with this matter, complaints have been voiced by the grocers and fruit vendors themselves. They claim that unnecessary losses through spoilage are being suffered through the habit of pinching fruit to see if it is ripe indulged by shoppers and are asking the co-operation of the public in putting a stop to these losses.

PLOWING MATCH DATE SET.

J. J. Duffus, president of Peterborough County Plowmen's Association, announces that the county plowing match is to be held on October 4 in Smith Township. The exact location of the match has not yet been decided upon.

The event, it is hoped, will attract an unusually large number of entries, especially in view of the fact that it comes a week prior to the big provincial plowing fixture at Frank F. O'Connor's farm in York Township.

A meeting of the prize committee is being held during the course of the present week.

JUDGING SHORT COURSE.

A judging short course held at Donalda Farm in York Township recently was in charge of James McLean, Richmond Hill; J. J. Duffus, Peterborough, and Clark Young, Milliken. Those attending the course attended from all parts of the province at their own expense.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Duffus will be judging plowing matches at Deseronto on October 2; at Leeds County on October 16, and at West Dundas on the day following. On October 18 he will be acting in similar capacity at the Eastern Counties Plowing Match, one of the largest plowing matches in the province.

LOST CHILDREN RECLAIMED

Found wandering on George street today forenoon, obviously lost, two demure little maids were taken to the police station by a kindly officer to await reclamation by their anxious parents.

Of such tender years that neither of them were able to give their addresses, the children were entertained in the charge room, the officers securing toys and wooden picture blocks. The children were delighted, the officers equally so.

At noon the children still remained unclaimed, so Nurse Helen Anderson took them home with her to await the anticipated call from their parents. It came shortly afterwards, and the children were reunited with the parents none the worse for their little adventure.

FATHER AND SON LAID TO REST

Cressman Funeral it Attended by Old Employees of the Cressman Company.

The remains of Alva Whiting Cressman and his son Harry Cressman former resident of this city were interred at Little Lake Cemetery on Monday, following arrival here over the week-end from Vancouver.

Mr. A. W. Cressman founder of the firm of Cressman and Company Limited for many years one of the city's leading department stores, passed away suddenly in Vancouver, where he had been living in retirement, at the age of 72 years. His son Harry predeceased him by a few weeks.

During his long business career here Mr. Cressman had made a host of friends earning an enviable reputation as a citizen. He was deeply interested in the community's welfare and was an active member of Trinity United Church here before he left for the coast.

As a tribute to his memory, and as indication of the affectionate esteem in which he was held, thirty old employees of the Cressman Company visited Comstock's Funeral Home following the arrival of the remains of Mr. Cressman and his son. Yesterday they were present also at the committal service conducted by the Rev. Frank M. Wootten, pastor of Trinity Church, at Little Lake Cemetery.

Banks Nelson Upholds Fresh Air Camp Need

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Sept. 11 (C.P.)—A fiery outburst by Dr. S. Banks Nelson, of Hamilton, enlivened an otherwise drab session of the Hamilton Presbytery meeting here. A suggestion to drop a fresh air camp aroused Dr. Nelson.

"This camp is to help the poor people, there has been some suggestion of taking a deaconess away from two Hamilton parishes; if you are going to leave the poor people like this you will meet the fate that the orthodox church of Russia met and you will deserve it," he declared.

Objection was taken to the remarks and the matter remained unsettled when the presbytery adjourned for lunch.

DETROIT POLICE FEAR ROEBUCK'S ACTION WRONG

ran was believed to be the man who drove the automobile in which Labatt was kidnapped and that the suspect was a citizen of United States with a long criminal record.

He said a photograph of Pegran, showing him standing beside an automobile, had been identified by seven persons connected with the kidnapping, including, he believed, Labatt himself.

The Attorney-General exhibited two pictures of Pegran, one the snapshot and the other a rogues' gallery picture from the United States.

"This man was a suspect for some time prior to his identification," said Mr. Roebuck. "Then the police succeeded in getting these pictures of him and seven people who saw the car in which the abduction occurred identified him positively. We are sending out a circular to all the police throughout both countries and we would welcome, indeed, any information as to this individual's whereabouts."

Mr. Roebuck refused to say where Pegran accumulated his aliases and his record, other than that it was in the United States and not in Canada. Neither would he state what crime or crimes had caused his likeness and fingerprints to be in the rogues' gallery.

Descriptions

Meisner was described as being 42 years old, five feet six inches tall and about 165 pounds in weight. Police said he had brown hair and hazel eyes and a United States flag tattoed on his right forearm with an additional tatoo design of crossed hands also on his right forearm.

Pegran was described a being six feet tall.

It was reported an unnamed Toronto gambler who knows Pegran intimately would call on the Attorney-General with a suggestion of the identity of at least one other member of the kidnap gang.

Inspector John Miller of the Ontario Police Criminal Investigation Department with Joseph Sedgwick, Acting Deputy Attorney-General, left to-day for Windsor to take part in a concentrated search for the two suspects.

$50,000 BOND SENDS PIQUETT BACK TO CELL

Three Others Plead Guilty as Dillinger Aids in Chicago Court.

LAWYER FACES TESTIMONY

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Louis Piquett, veteran criminal lawyer and former city prosecutor, pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes on charges of harboring and concealing John Dillinger.

With three others, indicted ith him on conspiracy charges, pleading guilty at the same time, it was indicated that Piquett will be confronted with the testimony of his alleged accomplices in the face-lifting operations of Dillinger and Homer Van Meter, slain outlaws.

Arthur W. O'Leary, special investigator for Piquett, and the doctors who, the government alleges, actually performed the operations on the two gansters, Harold B. Cassidy and Wilhelm Loeser, pleaded guilty.

Judge Barnes overruled the motion of Attorney Benjamin Landis for a reduction in Piquett's $50,000 bond and ordered him returned to the county jail to await trial which will be set September 17. Sentencing of the others was postponed until after Piquett's trial.

Attorney Landis charged that the government in refusing to lower Piquett's bond was "railroading an innocent man" and pointed to the lawyer's long record in the courts.

William Finerty, his wife, Ella, and Marie Comforti, sweetheart of Van Meter, were arraigned before charges of harboring Dillinger and Van Meter, were arragned before United States Commissioner E. K. Walker and their hearing postponed.

GERMAN ZEP SOARS PAST AS FRENCH PLAY AT WAR

BESANCON, France, Sept. 11. — (AP)—While French troops executed manoeuvres today to thwart an imaginary invasion from Germany, the German Graf zeppelin suddenly appeared out of the mists.

The air liner, enroute to South America, flew at an altitude of less than 1,000 feet, its passengers looking down on the war games. The French soldiers, theoretically engaged in death struggle to prevent an attack from the direction in which the Graf came, craned their neck as the Graf disappeared in the distance.

Military leaders of the land watched critically as two divisions of troops went through the manoeuvres which France hopes will keep her frontiers inviolate.

CAPITAL MUST DEFER PROFITS UNTIL CONDITIONS STABILIZED

So East Windsor Man Tells Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

RESEARCH IS REVIEWED.

(By Sam G. Ross—C.P. Staff Writer).

WINNIPEG, Sept. 11 (C.P.).—Until the present changing social conditions become stabilized, capital must defer profits and its return on invested wealth, declared Wallace R. Campbell, East Windsor, Ont., in an address to the ninth annual convention of the Canadian Cramber of Commerce here to-day.

Resuming its work after a busy session yesterday, the 200 delegates from east and west heard the address by Mr. Campbell, another on "What Research is Doing for Business." by G. W. Huggett, Montreal and a review of employer and employee relationships by A. O. Dawson, Montreal.

During its sessions yesterday the convention discussed economies in government, suggesting reduction of membership of legislative bodies, and made suggestions to its policy committee on relief problems. The policy committee's report will be submitted at the closing general sessions of the convention to-morrow.

Upon capital rests the responsibility of taking initiative in establishing the new social readjustment through which the world was passing declared Mr. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. Capital must do this because capital had the imagination, the training and the ability to assume leadership. But it must do it with the welfare of the nation as a whole always in mind.

Work For All.

Until the proper balance was struck and noraml times restored, profits must be deferred. This had to be done to provide all persons able to work with adequate employment at such a return as to enable all to live in accordance with standards commensurate with the calibre of the Anglo-Saxon peoples. Industry would be the greatest factor in bringing about stabilized conditions.

Pointing out conditions generally were indefintely better in virtually every country than a year ago, Mr. Campbell declared there were still many problems facing the manufacturer. He reviewed steps taken in some countries to achieve prosperity, finding some based on courage and frugality and others seeking trade by lowering of the standards of living and flooding the world with its products.

"As far as Canada is concerned," he declared, "there can be no normal times until all of our people who are capable of work have an opportunity of gainful employment—free and unfettered by government aid. The employee's interest must not be subordinated to the interest of the shareholder. It is well to remember that industry does not support man. It is man who supports industry."

JAMES GETTAS TRIAL BEGINS

Kitchener Restaurant Man Indicted on Criminal Negligence Bill.

HIGHWAY FATALITY.

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 11 (CP) —A true bill in a criminal negligence indictment was brought in by the grand jury to-day in the case of James Gettas, Kitchener, who the Crown alleges, drove the motor car which struck and killed Provincial Traffic Officer Russell Lemon on the Kitchener-Preston Highway on March 12 last. A "no-bill" finding was brought in on the manslaughter indictment.

A true bill was reported by the grand jury in the case of Arnold Lockstein, Kitchener, charged with a criminal offense.

Gettas, who is represented by C. W. Bell, K.C., M.P., Hamilton, pleaded not guilty on the criminal negligence charge and is being tried on that count. Crown Attorney Bowlby is Crown Prosecutor.

There was some doubt on the part of Mr. Justic Kains and Mr. Bell on the necessity of excluding witnesses from the court room, as suggested by Crown Prosecutor Bowlby. The Crown Prosecutor then limited the exclusion to his own witnesses, stating he particularly wanted excluded the two people who were in the car with Gettas. Crown witnesses then left the court room.

Resident Engineer Cummerford of the Department of Public Highways, identified a blue print showing the location of the accident and the surroundings, which he had prepared for the Crown.

CHIEF ENGINEER RELATES STORY

the grand jury, without previous questioning. Chief Officer Warms, Hackney, Freeman and Beaumont also were taken to the grand jury room, where their attorneys were barred at the entrance.

George W. Rogers, chief wireless operator of the Morro Castle, also appeared at the grand jury anteroom.

Third assistant engineer Arthur Stamper was called to-day as the first witness of the second day's session in the United States' Department of Commerce inquiry into the burning of the luxury liner Morro Castle.

He was the first of the engine crew, deck watch and quartermasters scheduled to follow the three bridge officers who yesterday testified it was their belief that the fire which destroyed the Morro Castle early Saturday morning was of incendiary origin.

Chief Engineer Eben S. Abbott also was scheduled to take the witness stand to-day.

Leading the investigation was Dickerson N. Hoover, assistant director of the Bureau of Navigation; Steamboat Inspectors James Smith and John L. Crone, and Captain Karl C. Nielson, chief of hull inspection for the Second District.

Hoover, after the start of hearing, ordered Stamper off the stand and requested that Chief Engineer Abbott testify first. No explanation for the change in order of appearance was given.

Engines Perfect.

Abbott said engines and generators were in "perfect" condition. Neither was there anything wrong with the motor lifeboats.

He said he was asleep up until the fire alarm went off.

"No one wakened you?" asked Smith.

"No, sir."

"What did you do?"

"I jumped up and got in my clothes and went to A deck to see if the hose was working. Then I worked my way down to B and C decks. I met some of the crew helping passengers.

"I met the third assistant engineer on D deck. 'How are things?' I asked. 'Pretty bad,' he said.

"'Don't let anyone leave the engine room, but if you have to leave be sure to shut down the turbines and leave things in order,' I said.

"I went back up to the top deck then and reported to the captain on the bridge. I told him things were pretty bad down there and I didn't know how the men could stay."

"Were the electric lights still on?"

"I don't think so."

Emergency System Failed.

"Did the emergency lighting set work?"

"It failed, sir. It was the first time the emergency lighting set failed, sir, because the cables were burnt."

"Don't you think," asked Smith, "that it was strange the oilers, water tenders and men working down below were not called?"

Chief Engineer Take 4

"The alarm called them."

"Were the water tenders and oilers asleep?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where were the engine-room officers?"

"They took their posts at the engines and fire-rooms."

'Did you see the fire in the social hall?"

"Yes, sir, from the outside—it was all flame."

"In your mind, if they had put a hose with pressure of 100 pounds a square inch on the social hall, don't you think they could have knocked down that fire?"

"No, sir—not with 100 hose when I seen it."

"Did any of your men help passengers?"

"I helped some."

"Did you close the bulkheads down below?"

"No, sir, we were afraid the men below would never be able to get out. My crew and my engineers were good, I know they were true."

"Did you at any time go to the engine room?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Why not?"

"I telephoned and everything was in perfect order. Then I tried to work my way down, but I trapped myself among the passengers and tried to direct the hoses."

"In what way did you come off the ship?"

"I reported to the bridge and the captain told me to take No.1 lifeboat. I got it off."

"Do you know if you were first off?"

"I think No. 3 and 5 were away."

"Who was in that boat beside yourself?"

"Thirty-two altogether."

"Any passengers?"

"Two sir."

"All the rest were of the crew, then?"

"Yes sir. One was Dr. Cochrane and a lady passenger."

The Question.

"What I want to know," Hoover said sternly, "why No. 1 boat did not take off more passengers?"

"When I left A deck, there were no passengers on deck. Anyone down below must have burned up. We saw no passengers. There were none in sight."

"How long did all this take after you awoke at 3 o'clock?"

"Not more than half an hour—a half an hour at the most."

"What I am concerned about," insisted Hoover, "is if you made any attempt to take off passengers."

"We didn't see any."

"And not seeing any passengers, you didn't make any attempt to find passengers?"

"I don't know about that—I was ordered to take the boat off."

INSIDE THE PADDOCK

BY ART MURRAY

THE WEATHER man was more kind to Billy Woollatt on Monday than for the opener on Saturday. The weather was warm and balmy and an unusually large crowd turned out. It was the first ladies' day of the meeting and the fair sex were out in full force. The Monday washing must have all been attended to in the morning, and we guess a good many husbands had to do with a late supper last evening.

× × ×

AS WE TOLD you last week there is no shortage of horses at Thorncliffe, because on Monday's card no less than one hundred and four mavericks were entered in the seven races. Eighty-four is all that can be accommodated in any one day even if every race is filled to the track limit of twelve, so you can see that twenty had to be left off that day's card. Shady Well who was only beaten a nose in the feature event on opening day should be returned an easy winner next time out. Protractor is a sprinter whom we have an awful lot of respect for and the wise ones tell us he is in rare form these days, and that means an early win for him.

× × ×

THE SPORT is still flourishing down at Rockingham Park with an average week-day crowd of fifteen thousand people each afternoon. Apparently the short suspension placed on Arthur by the C.R.A. did not curb his winning ways any. It looks as if when the New York State Racing Commission put the ban on Tommy Gorman's contemplated fall meeting at Syracuse, they meant business as we hear Tommy has abandoned all hope of staging it and has jumped into hockey with a view to preparing his Montreal Maroons to win the famous Stanley Cup.

When Premier Hepburn made the announcement that the daily tax on all Ontario race tracks had been reduced to a nominal fee of one dollar per day, he practically saved the sport for this province. A few years ago the government exacted the sum of five thousand dollars for every day a track operated in addition to five per cent of all wagering and twenty-five cents on each admission whether by pass or a ticket purchased. The daily tax has been reduced from time to time until this summer when the five hundred dollar per day stipend was charged up until now. Most of the tracks said they would not operate this autumn at all unless some relief was forthcoming and the premier looked at it in a broad light and figured it was better to get the admission tax and wagering percentage than nothing at all, so now everybody is satisfied.

KIRBY THROWS UPSET OF DAY IN U.S. TENNIS

South African Now Meets Perry in Semi-final Bracket To-day.

TOP ACE FAVORED.

(By Edward J. Neil—A.P. Sports Writer).

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 11.—(A.P.).—The formalities of getting to a point where the tournament committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association can give Fred Perry the United States singles tennis championship trophy again continue to-day at the Westside Lawn Tennis Club.

Not since Big Bill Tilden was taking these championships in stride has there appeared a champion who overshadows his field as completely as does Perry.

The situation was such, in fact, that the semi-final stage of the tournament, found Perry jousting with what practically amounts to a sparring partner, Vernon G. Kirby, a left-hander, who ranks number three in South Africa, and who came here principally to keep the acknowledged world champion from the depressing feeling that comes with travelling overseas alone.

Wood vs. Allison.

On the other side of the bracket line were two Americans, well and favorably known by Perry. One was Sidney B. Wood, recently returned from a disastrous experience at the Englishmen's hands in the Davis Cup challenge round at Wimbledon, and the other was Wilmer Allison, who almost played doubles on this year's cup team but wasn't considered for singles. The winners of these two matches meet in the final to-morrow, after which the cup can be disposed of for another year and all hands can sigh with relief.

Perry worked out lightly but perfectly yesterday, trouncing Cliff Suttern 6-3, 6-0, 6-2; Kirby staged the biggest upset of the entire play in downing Frank Shields, top ranked American, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3; Wood walloped young Frankie Parker, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, and Allison won the one set needed to finish his postponed match with Lester "Little Rollo" Stofen, 8-6, 4-6, 11-9, 6-8, 6-3.

GREENBERG'S TWO HOME RUNS WIN FOR TIGERS OVER RED SOX GIANTS SUFFER THIRD DEFEAT

Elden Auker is Detroit Star in Mound Duel With Hub City Club.

YANKEES ARE IDLE.

Pirates Put Over 5 Runs in Ninth to Gain 9 to 7 Victory Over Giantmen.

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League lead melting away rapidly before the thrust of the western clubs, New York Giants sought to apply the brakes and avert a dangerous skid to-day.

The situation was not yet precarious but the world champions were doing no cheering over the fact the juicy seven-game lead they enjoyed over St. Louis Cardinals four days ago had shrunk to four. Not when they are confronted by a four-game series with the Cards in general and the Dean brothers in particular starting Thursday.

Fold Up in Ninth.

Folding up in the ninth like a worn-out umbrella in a windstorm, the Giants surrendered their third successive game to Pittsburgh's rampaging Pirates yesterday 9-7 while the Cards, behind Dizzy Dean, rolled over the Phils 4-1.

Home runs by Mancuso, Critz and Ott, the latter's 33rd, gave the champions a 5-0 lead in the first three innings and Hal Schumacher, although unsteady, still was leading by three runs going into the ninth. But errors by Verges, Mancuso and Leiber, coupled with singles by Grace, Lloyd Waner and Vaughan, a pass and a long fly gave the pirates five runs, the ball game and their seventh successive victory. Burleigh Grimes, disguised in a full beard, received credit for the victory.

The Cards, meantime, walked in to their triumph over the Phils as Dean, allowing only five hits and fanning seven, outpitched Curt Davis. Cincinnati nosed out Brooklyn 6-5 in the only other National League game.

Tigers Increase Lead.

The situation was comparatively quiet in the American League where Detroit increased its lead over New York Yankees, held idle by rain, to 4½ games by winning a 2-1 decision from Boston Red Sox. Hank Greenberg, Tiger first baseman, took personal charge of the game, belting one home run in the seventh to tie the score and another in the ninth to win it. Eldon Auker gave the Sox only three hits and blanked them after the first when Mel Almada's single drove home Max Bishop, who had walked, from second.

A five-run rally in the sixth, fairly effective pitching by a rookie, George Caster, gave Philadelphia Athletics a 9-6 victory over Cleveland while Cliff Bolton's pinch home run with the bases filled and two out in the seventh carried Washington to a 7-4 decision over Chicago White Sox.

Adam Comorosky, Reds—His great running catch of fly for final out saved game against Dodgers.

Kingston Hawks Here On Wednesday

Kingston Hawks play the Cogs here tomorrow (Wednesday) at 4.15 o'clock in the Exhibition Grounds in the second O.B.A.A. intermediate playdowns. This date has been settled definitely by the Ontario body for the first game of the series, the second of which will be staged in Kingston on Saturday. Twice already, the opening is again decidedly unfavorable, the contest will be put on here Wednesday. Both teams are anxious to get the series settled.

A large crowd is looked for to root for the local Clubmen. The Cogs cleaned up on the E.P.I. championship without losing a game, and then eliminated the Lakeshore League winner with a strong battle. They hope to take Kingston in two straight. Little is known of the Hawks, but they are said to be experienced and fast. They have the feeling that the local team will be easy pickings, but Bowmanville found out differently, after feeling the same way. Masterson, Vannest and Billingsley are available to do the hurling for Manager Dorsey Davis, and the team will be at top strength for this important number.

McNAUGHTON MARRIES

VANCOUVER, Sept. 11 (CP) — Duncan McNaughton, Canada's 1932 Olympic high jump champion, has brought a bride back to his native Vancouver.

Dunc and Miss Frances Todd, of Los Angeles, were married in Las Vegas, Nevada, last week, and arrived to-day to make their home here.

GIANT FIELDER GIVEN EDGE ON WALKER AND FOX

Ott's Superior Batting Offsets Tiger Stars' Lead in Defensive Play.

McGRAW RESPONSIBLE

When John J. McGraw, greatest of the old Orioles, winged his way into the West he left behind a youthful protege who ranked in his affections second only to the immortal Matty.

The name is Thomas Melvin Ott, greatest outfielder of the World Champion Giants.

Ask any member of Bill Terry's astonishing championship crew to name you the one position where the Giants will be most superior to the Tigers, should the two clubs meet in the 1934 World Series, and you will get a quick and convincing answer—right field.

No Previous Experience

At the age of 26, Mel Ott, mad walloper from the bayous of Louisiana, holds the distinction of having served nine years in the National League with not a single day's previous experience in organized baseball.

Ott was signed by the Giants in 1925 while only a shy kid of 16. Some friend from the rural precincts of Louisiana wrote McGraw that he had found "a great prospect."

There was nothing for "Muggsy" to do but appear interested. He wrote back and told his friend to bring along the "prospect" the next time he was coming to New York.

It was the next Spring when Ott's neck creaking, and his heart pounding, was led into the Polo grounds. He was given a uniform and told to "git out there."

McGraw Changed Him

"I'm a catcher," he told McGraw.

"No," answered the Giant leader, "you were a catcher. Throw away that mitt and try the outfield."

There was some strange attachment between McGraw and the kid from the first meeting. McGraw refused to farm him out. Ott stayed with the club during 1925, but was used only as a benchwarmer.

In 1926 Mel gained a place in the record books by playing 35 games in the outfield. He has been there ever since, succeeding from the outset such an illustrious flychaser as Ross Youngs, whose health failed soon after the Louisiana kid joined the club.

Has Good Average

This was the unusual start of the man whose playing feats Pete Fox and Gerald Walker must try to match should the Autumn classic be fought between the Tigers and the Giants.

From the moment he first stepped into a Giant uniform, through this week's averages, Mel Ott has amassed a lifetime batting average of .323.

1929 His Big Year

Not including this season, Ott looks on 1929 as the greatest year he ever had. That year he batted .326, drove in 135 runs, scored 138 runs and walloped 42 home runs.

This season the Giant star is sure to beat the runs-batted-in mark of 1929, stands an excellent chance of scoring more runs, and already has 32 home runs with several weeks to go.

Besides these 32 home runs, the pounding Giant ace has hit 26 doubles and nine triples.

In the item of speed, Ott, although far from being a truck-horse, must bow in favor of both Walker and Fox.

On the field, Ott is quiet, but a very good mixer. He prefers to let the other fellows tell the jokes and do the talking. He serves always as an interested audience.

Members of the Giant squad seem unusually proud of Mel. They never miss an opportunity to sing his praises. He returns the compliments with whistling base hits.

During the off-season, Ott, who is married and has a young daughter, lives at New Orleans. Golf, racing and fishing are his favorite recreations.

Born In 1909

In passing it might be worth mentioning that Ott was born on March 2, 1909. Pete Fox was born March 8, the same year. Gerald Walker is a year older than either.

That Ott is a feared batsman in his own diamond colony is evidenced by the fact that in 1932 he was issued more bases on balls than any other batsman.

Houses built with state aid in Scotland from 1919, when the plan was inaugurated, to the end of 1933, numbered 164,700.

BLAKE OR SCHOTT TO START FOR LEAFS IN INITIAL GAME

Walter Brown Will be on the Hill for Newark Bears on Home Lot.

INTERNATIONAL PLAYOFF.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The International League today set about the task of finding an opponent for the American Association champion in the 'Little World' series with Newark, Rochester, Toronto, and Albany meeting in the first games of the play-off series.

Newark Bears, winner of the league championship during the regular season which closed Sunday, were at home to the third place Toronto Maple Leafs, Rochester Red Wings, runner-up for the second straight year, played host to Albany Senators.

Each series was to be decided on the best four-out-of-seven basis with the winners meeting a similar length series for the right to tangle with the Association title-holders. The first of the two games to be played at Newark was to be played in the afternoon with the second Wednesday under the light. The Wings and Senators were to start their series under the lights and play the second Wednesday afternoon.

The opening games will find four of the circuit's leading pitchers in action. Walter Brown, Giant right-hander who led the league with 20 victories and six defeats, was Manager Bob Shawkey's selection to oppose either Sheriff Blake, former major league veteran, or young Gene Schott. The latter had the better record during the regular season but Blake was expected to get the call from Manager Ike Boone because of his experience.

Cy Blanton, strike-out king of the league as ace of the Senators' hurling staff, will carry a record of having struck out 38 men in his last two starts into the Albany-Rochester encounter. Norbert Kleinke, who won 19 and lost eight for Rochester during the regular season, was the Albany star's probable opponent.

The play-offs are nothing new to the Bears and Red Wings. They met in the first round last year after finishing one, two with the Wings taking the decision. Toronto moved up from fifth place under Boone's direction while Bill McCorry drove Albany from seventh to fourth position.

Set a beggar on horseback and he will ride at a gallop.

McGill Rugby Men Leave For Training

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (CP)—A number of candidates for McGill University's senior football squad, the "Big Red" team that hopes to finish the coming season with Toronto Varsity's inter-collegiate crown on its own head, left here to-day for Knowlton Que., to begin training.

With several of last year's stars missing, 10 men left in cars for the Brome Lake resort. Practices will probably begin this afternoon, soon after the squad's arrival, Coach Frank Shaughnessy said before departure.

"SILVER FOX" PLANS BUILD YOUNG ROSTER

Pick of Last Year's Amateurs in Canada Will Constitute "Training School."

OUTSTANDING JUNIOR.

By GEORGE MAGUIRE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (CP.)—Winnipeg, hub of Western Canada hockey activities, will be the scene this Autumn of one of the most striking pre-season training innovations in the history of the major leagues.

Les Patrick

Lester Patrick, silm, debonair and as enthusiastic about the ice sport and its progress as he ever was, has announced plans to corral the 17 young stars he and his scouts have spotted and take them to Winnipeg for about 10 days of intensive training prior to the appearance of the New York Ranger regulars. The latter are due at Winnipeg on or around October 20th.

Planning for the future the silver-haired sage of hockey will personally supervise the "training school." Aided by capable assistants Patrick aims to not only teach the ambitiou and youthful puck brilliants a few tricks and fundamentals of the game they probably never knew existed but also get a line on their ability while they are performing in their own kind of company.

Outstanding Puck Chasers

The players Patrick will ask to report at the training school constitute a lineup that should make any amateur coach with Allan aspirations turn decidedly green with envy. It includes six seniors, Bert Connelly, of the Moncton Hawks, Allan Cup champions; Earl Nicholson, Saskatoon Elites; Andy Young and Jack Church, Regina Aces; Lynn Patrick, Montreal Royals and Vincent Papalk of the Baltimore Orioles.

Best of Juniors

The juniors are Bert Gardiner and Mel Hill of the Saskatoon juniors; Murray Armstrong, Regina Pats; Dick Adolphe, Wilcox, Saskatchewan; Neil Colville and Mac Colville, Edmonton Athletics, runners up to Toronto St. Michaels for the Canadian junior crown last season; Walter Pratt, Kenora Thistles; Ray Getliffe, Stratford Midgets; Verne Johnson, Brandon, Man.; Joe Cooper and Alex Shibicky of the Winnipeg Seikirks.

DETROIT BOBBY FEATURES PLAY

CANUCKS IN TO-DAY.

By BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 11 (A.P.)—The heavy artillery wheeled into action to-day against the first round shock troops in the all-match play of the United States amateur golf championship. Sixty-four matches brought the entire surviving field into second round competition.

Idle by virtue of first round "byes," such big guns as George T. Dunlap, Jr., the titlist, W. Lawson Little, Jr., Johnny Goodman, Johnny Fischer, Jack Westland, and Albert (Scotty) Campbell, Canadian champion levelled off for their first bombardment against the opposition.

It was the first time out, too, for Phil Farley of Toronto, Jack Nash of London, Ont., Tony Torrance, the British Walker Cup team winner, and Jesse Sweetser, who won the crown 12 years ago over this same country club course. Along with 60 other contenders given first round passes they were bracketed with 60 survivors of the opening day.

Watch Jones

These highly favored performers launched the 38th annual tournament into its second day with interest centering in the exploits of Robert Carpenter (Bobby) Jones, 18-year-old Detroit conqueror of Francis Ouimet, as well as in the initial showing of Dunlap and Little.

Although Jones to-day blinked in the unaccustomed glare of the spotlight he earned the honors in a way that would have done credit to his famous namesake. In spite of three-putting the 18th hole, Bobby II accounted for the downfall of the twice-former champion with a one-over-par round of 72.

Well, we've finally got this intermediate O.B.A.A. series question straightened away. It has been definitely settled now that Kingston Hawks and the local Cogs open their second round playdown serial in Peterborough Wednesday. They'll tangle tomorrow at 4.15 in the Exhibition Grounds, with return game in the Limestone burg Saturday. The Clubmen deserve a big crowd of fans, say six to eight hundred, as they've been plugging along and going places in a quiet unassuming way and with mighty little support to date. They play good ball and they stuck to the Exhibition Grounds, instead of taking their money tussles to Riverside, just to give their followers a break—seeing as the Exhibition Grounds was their spot all summer.

C.G.E. gals got downright rough at the Bowl last e'en and slapped Omemee around till all the O's could make out was a tune that sounded like an 18-7 licking. As a matter of fact, that's just what the tune said, though it didn't altogether wreck Omemee's hopes of a playoff. A meeting of the gals' loop exec. will be held in the "Y" tonight to settle those two disputed games with Westclox. If they both go against Westclox, then Keene is in front, while's there's a three-way tie for second place, Westclox, C.G.E. and Omemee all being in on it. If this should happen, two sudden-death games would be necessary. In the meantime, the schedule is all finished at last—which must be a big relief for everyone!

• • • • • • •

P.C.I. footballers started working out lightly at the Oval last p.m. The Collegiate intends to operate just two teams this fall, a junior one coached by E. F. Legon and a senior squad coached by H. L. Bamforth. Coach Legon wants to work his team up from juniors so that they'll be using his system under him next year in senior company. The two men also expect to have more weight on their squads this autumn, though we imagine they'll still have the old Garnet and Gray hallmarks of speed and science. Both are experienced coaches who need no boosts from this column, and we're looking for real action and perhaps a return of P.C.I. gridiron supremacy ere the snow flies. No intermediate team will be fielded at all.

The O.A.L.A. has informed the Peterborough Kiwanis lacrossers that they are to meet Burlington in the next playdown round next week. And the local club has informed the O.A.L.A. that they could pick themselves out a nice large, sharp tack and use it for a stool—in other words, ix-nay, say the lads from here, we'll do an am-scray right out of your Association if we 'gotta jump clean over two Toronto group winners and go the extra distance to tackle the tough Burlington bunch. Why should we? Well, pals—since everyone is informing everyone else of things—we'll inform ya why. It would simply never do for the O.A.L.A. semi-finals or finals to roll around with no Toronto team lolling in sight. After all, we must think occasionally of Hogtown, the old alma mater.

• • • • • • •

We've been boosting lacrosse for years, and there is a live bunch of enthusiasts here who go to much trouble and expense to keep the game alive around this district from year to year. But the O.A.L.A. does not go out of its way at all to help this section. And it has several times passed out orders to us that looked decidedly unfair. The Norwood team—with a number of Petes' players—last year had to go all the way to Cornwall for a series, with Streetsville cooling its heels in between. Now comes this order when a team will be ready in Toronto to meet us just as soon as Burlington will. What should be done is for the Toronto group to declare a winner and playoff with us, with Burlington then meeting the survivor while Cornwall got a bye into the finals. Money is mighty important to lacrosse teams when they haven't much—so how about a square deal, Mister O.A.L.A. for a good lacrosse town?

• • • • • • •

The O.B.A.A. has given the Toronto Association an extra week to declare a winner, since rain has postponed several games. This gives the C.O.B.L. a week more to declare a champion, the winner of this loop then tangling with the T.A.B.A. winner in the Ontario semi-finals. Kruschen's, champs of the Western City League last night eliminated Findlay's by a 5-3 count and now meet Siberry's. The way things are shaping up now in the Queen City, we're looking for either the Kruschen team or the G. W. Grads to cop the duke.

• • • • • • •

The Petes must go to Belleville tomorrow (Wednesday) for their next playoff game, starting at three, standard time. Strong efforts were made by the local officers to persuade Belleville to transfer that game here, since Peterborough fans were disappointed when the Saturday game in Riverside was rained out, and the loop ordered the next one in Belleville. The Nats were even offered expenses and half the local gate to come here, and they were tempted. However, they wired this a.m. that since their advertising was all out, they could not change and the game would have to stand—that is, the Petes in Belleville Wednesday. It's too bad for the Petes and for their followers, but there you are. If our team wins Wednesday, the series is over. If they lose, the fourth game will be here Saturday.

• • • • • • •

Our minor ball teams, Terrier juveniles and King Edward bantams, will surely get into action this week in O.B.A.A. competition. Terriers have been waiting a long, long time since they knocked over Oshawa, but it is almost sure that they'll be playing a Toronto team in the semi-finals by the end of the week. And our bantams will no doubt be going shortly. According to a despatch from Thorold in the Mail and Empire today, Waterloo bantams won the Ontario semi-finals last eve from Thorold, 2-1, and will now meet Peterborough in the finals. Something official should be heard any day now.

The Bailieboro softball tourney, called off due to rain last week, will be held this Sat'day with several local gals' teams in . . . . Nothing new on that proposed independent rugby loop of Peterborough, Belleville, etc. . . . . Archie Deyell will most likely hurl for the Petes in their C.O.B.L. tilt tomorrow . . . . C.G.E. Wins Slugfest From Omemee 18 to 7

C.G.E. girls showed too much power with the willow last night at Ashburnham Bowl when they stepped into the Omemee team and carried off an 18 to 7 victory, in their last scheduled game of the second half. This gives the Electrics third place, but the Westclox and Omemee are still at grips over a postponed game and a meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. tonight to settle the matter.

The winners started Helen Newson on the box, but she ran into a jam in the second and was replaced by Margaret Snowden, who pitched a splendid game, fanning seven and allowing one single. Hickson twirled the seven frames for the visitors, but was hit hard and her teammates booted the ball repeatedly to give the opposition several soft counters. She fanned three and was nicked for nineteen bingles which included triples by Marg English and Dot Self.

The teams:

C.G.E.: English, lf; Todd, 1b; Gates, 3b; Millar, c; Hodson, rf; W Snowden, ss; Newson, p; Byers, 2b; Martin, cf; M. Snowden, p; Self, rf.

DETROIT MEN TARGETS FOR DAFFY LETTERS

Akron Postman Claims He Will Shown Auker How to Throw Real Curve Ball.

GEHRINGER ON PAN

Doting Mothers Name Offsprings After Some of Tiger Players.

It's a daffy old sports world, but the daffiest of all the daffodils are those people who persist in writing fan letters to baseball heroes.

A few of the Tigers started comparing fan mail experiences yesterday. It was a great game while it lasted, but fell to the lot of Mickey Cochrane to deliver the blow that decided the issue—once and for always.

"I got the goofiest letter from a guy in Akron," said Elden Auker. "He's a 43-year-old postman. He wrote me a book and topped it off by inviting me to come to Akron for a visit. He said he would show me how to throw a curve.

"The man included a drawing illustrating just how a curve should break, and he quoted everything from Shakespeare to 'The Face on a Bar Room Floor.'

"And do you know what the goofy guy did? He took it for granted that I would make the trip to Akron. He added: 'Don't awake me before 9 o'clock and you'll have to see me between 10 and 11 a.m. I go to work at 11.30'."

Fred Marberry chimed in:

"That one is not so hot. I had a feller write me and ask that I get him two tickets for the World Series. Said he played with me 10 years ago and I never got him any tickets to a World Series game."

Marvin Owen seems to pack the most appeal with the mothers of the nation.

"Received another letter today," he said, "from a lady in Pontiac. She named her boy for me. That's the third one this year that carries my name. I had one last year, too."

Gerald Walker interrupted here

"Well,' he told Owen, "if you are going back to last year I can qualify. I had one named for me here in Detroit. But nothing much has happened to me this season."

Schoolboy Rowe almost broke up the game before Cochrane got his swing.

"I've had a baby somewhere in Michigan named for me," drawled the Schoolboy, "but danged if I remember where it was. I get so many of those crazy things.

"But today I got a crazy letter. There was no address or anything. There was a picture of a schoolhouse, a boy and a row boat. The postman delivered the letter safely.

"Still, that's not the worst yet. I've had invitations to attend church picnics miles away—even one organization invited me to Pasadena, Cal., for some sort of a picnic. I'll have to write 'em my regrets, I reckon."

Goose Goslin estimates he has received something like 50 or more letters this season much after the fashion of Rowe's recent epistle.

They only draw a picture of a goose on the envelope. Apparently all postmen are baseball fans. They never miss the cue.

Charlie 'Gehringer, the silent knight of the diamond, had to chuckle as he told his story.

"I didn't get a fan letter," he said, "but I got a red hot 'pan' letter. Some Detroit person wrote me and gave me h—— for not hitting in the pinches. Said he had followed me for years and this was the worst season I ever had.

"There isn't much you can do about that sort of a letter—except take it."

And then came Mickey Cochrane's turn. The ball sailed over the fence. The game was over.

"A pitcher writes," Mickey said solemnly, "that he will pitch four games for us in the World Series against the Giants. He wants $10,000, but says he won't accept a cent unless he shuts out the Giants in all four games.

"He enclosed a three-cent stamp for a reply."

The game, ladies and gentlemen, was definitely over as Mr. Gordon Stanley Cochrane completed his pretty little speech.

Salvador shoe makers have been obliged to use only the lower priced leathers because of rising prices of this commodity.

Chihawks Set Price For Lionel Conacher

MONTREAL, Sept. 11 (C.P.).—As the Chicago Black Hawks want Jimmy Ward and "Baldy" Northcott in exchange for Lionel Conacher, negotiations for the return of Conacher to the Montreal Maroons of the National Hockey League have fallen through, Tommy Gorman, manager of the Maroons, stated here yesterday. Major McLaughlin, the Black Hawks' owner, wanted Ward and Northcott, "so negotiations are off, as we can't make a trade on that basis," declared Gorman.

CHAPTER 36

When Farley came in the morning, Joan said: "Farley, I am going to spend Christmas in Maine with Mrs. Sears. I won't need you up there. Have you any relatives you can visit during the holidays, or would you rather stay here?"

"I'll stay, if you please, Miss Joan. Mrs. Delafield always let the servants that were in the house have a feast for themselves. I thought maybe you'd want to keep on with that."

"Of course. Shall I give Jason the orders?"

"It will be best, if you don't mind, miss. He was asking last night if you'd be here."

"I shall be in Maine for a time. I am not sure about later plans. Perhaps Mrs. Sears and I will go abroad. And you will, of course, go with us."

"Jason was saying if you'd take a house in London."

Joan shook her head. "Too grand and gorgeous for me, Farley. If we go we'll travel a bit on the continent."

Farley wished she dared ask if the Hallams would be asked to join the party They had been included in Adelaide's plans. "It wouldn't be the thing for Miss Joan to help pay their way like Mrs. Delafield," Farley speculated shrewdly, "but there's no telling what they'll get out of her."

What they would get out of her was one of the things which Nancy Hallam was much exercised about at the moment.

Drew had burst into her room the night before, raging, "Well, you've done it," he had said.

Nancy, reading in bed, with a rose-colored light on the headboard making a flaming sunset of her hair, had rebuked him: "Drew, don't be so noisy. What will people think?"

"I don't care what they think."

"What happened?"

He told her, and was maddened by her laughter, "She left you standing on the hearth-rug?"

"Yes."

"And sent a message by Jason?"

"Yes. Nancy, don't be a—fool."

"I can't help it. You've always been such—a conqueror."

"I'll be a conqueror yet," grimly.

Nancy lay looking at him, "How are you going about it?"

"Try to keep her near me—we must manage that. I love her, and I'm going to have her, Nancy."

"She's going up to Maine to eat Christmas dinner with that Sears person."

"How do you know?"

"She told me."

He meditated on that for a moment, "If we could get her to go away with us . . ."

"We can't afford it. Adelaide was going to foot most of the bills."

"We must manage somehow . . ."

Nancy remarked, "We sound like conspirators. We're a worldly pair, Drew."

"Why keep putting it that way?"

"Because I am willing to face my sins and you aren't."

In the black satin gown with the writhing dragons Nancy found her way the next morning to Joan's room. "Want me?" she asked from the threshold.

"Yes. Had your breakfast?"

"All I'd let myself eat. It's not the easiest thing to preserve my elegant thinness. I suppose you had hot chocolate and buttered toast. I adore them, but they'd add a pound."

She sat down. "Beastly storm."

"I rather like it."

"I shall be glad to get away from the cold. Drew and I were planning with Adelaide for a winter on the other side. But now we're not sure . . . Drew wants—Spain. He's quite mad about it. Says its a magical country and not spoiled by tourists. You'd adore it."

"Would I?"

"Yes. Why don't you join us? Think of it, Joan, you'd be away from all this," she waved her hand towards the window where the snow thudded against the glass like the wings of frightened birds. "Have you any other plans?"

Joan hesitated. "Not definite ones."

"My dear, will you take a bit of advice from a worldly-minded old maid?"

Joan smiled at her, "Are you that, Nancy?"

"Yes. You've got a chance now to make of life a corking adventure. So don't sit back and let everything go by you. With your money, the right clothes, everything . . .! Joan, there's a new heaven and a new earth before you, if you want it . . ."

Joan caught fire from the flame of her enthusiasm. "It sounds marvellous."

"Think it over, and remember this, that if you bury yourself now, you may never dig out."

Nancy let it go at that, and went down presently to Drew. "I've given her something to think of."

Just before luncheon a box of violets came to Joan, with a note from her lover: "Let me see you for a little moment, before I leave. I shall ask nothing but that moment. Last night when you fled from me my world was dark."

When she went down later, to the drawing room, Joan found some of her departing guests assembled. Drew detached himself from the others and came towards her. "Can't we run up to the library?"

She shook her head.

A quick light flamed in his eyes. "Joan, you're afraid of me."

"Perhaps I'm afraid of—myself."

"Then, why not?"

"Because . . . I must wait. Think it all out reasonably when I'm away from you."

"Why be reasonable? Why not be—happy?"

"Because to be happy I must be—reasonable . . ."

He saw that further argument was useless. "How cold you are."

"Not that . . . and you know it." She turned away from him and went towards the others.

When a little later, she said, "Good-by." Drew kissed her hand, "I shall write," he said, "and some day I shall come."

She had no answer for him. She stood quiet and composed in her black dress, her face white as her pearls, and with no sign of the emotion which shook her.

The storm sweeping over Baltimore was raging also over Giles Armiger's island. For 24 hours, with Scripps and Amelie and Jose and Margarida, he had been shut in. The sea was a black surging waste of waters. Jose coming back from town on the first day of the storm, had reported a perilous voyage. . . . He had brought supplies to last a month. "If we're shut in," Giles had said, "we won't have to worry."

They had, indeed, made the best of it. Amelie, happy in having Giles at home had been gay as a child. They had played bridge, popped corn, read aloud. Giles and Scripps had even built a snow man for Amelie, and she helped them, looking like a snow maid herself in her white wool coat and knitted cap.

On the night that Giles had called Joan, Margarida had made the dinner a festive affair—spending much time on it and producing rather superlative effects in soup and roast and salad . . . with a pudding for dessert that was rich in fruit and almonds—it was in fact a Christmas pudding, prematurely served since the occasion seemed to warrant it.

After dinner, Giles and Amelie had danced to the music of the radio. Amelie was slim and glowing in her pomegranate frock. "I haven't had such a good time since Paris," she said, when she stopped.

The two men had looked at her, startled: It was the first she had spoken of France or of the things she had done there. Yet now it came as naturally from her lips, as if that strange silence about it had never been.

Giles, feeling his ground, tried to say carelessly, "Those were great days. Do you remember the little restaurant where we tried to get you to eat snails?"

"Don't ask me to remember anything," she said wearily, and put her hand to her forehead.

So the light which had flickered for a moment went out. And when finally Amelie went up to bed, the two men did not speak of the thing which had happened. Scripps stood by the window and tried to pierce the gloom outside. "Such a night and such a sea—do you hear it booming, Giles?" He turned away from the window, and began to climb the stairs. "There was that old petition—God help the sailors on their ships—one feels like saying it tonight."

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, September 12

According to the dominant planetary configurations this is to be a day of large opportunity for increasing and stabilizing the fortunes, albeit there may also be loopholes for squandering or dissipating them. But with sagacity, sound judgment and conservation there is every prospect of the co-operation of those in high places, or in big business, who will be found disposed to recognize and support industry, fidelity and sound propositions. The besetting dangers will be found in speculation and too much confidence in strangers. There should be satisfactory increase in real possessions.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which there will be excellent opportunity for enhancing the position, stabilizing the fortunes and increasing the real possessions. Big business and those in high place may be ready to support sound propositions or to reward industry, but deal conservatively with strangers and do not indulge in wild speculation or gambles. Private life may encounter and enjoy much happiness and activity.

A child born on this day may be industrious, capable, popular, gracious and versatile, but may be subject to fluctuating fortunes.

Dr. Bruce Reports On Slum Menace

TORONTO, Sept. 10.—(CP)— A slum-investigation committee headed by Lieut.-Governor Herbert A. Bruce of Ontario today published a report in which it said provision of housing accommodation up to a minimum standard for every family in Canada at a rent with the family capacity to pay is a "public responsibility."

The committee found through investigation that 1,500 houses in Toronto are "unhealthy," while districts of the city may be described as "lighted areas," a shortage of 25,000 dwelling units would exist if city wage-earners were to recover reasonably full employment.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK — By R. J. Scott

THEORIES AND TARIFF BONDS ARE RESTRAINTS ON BUSINESS

Sandford Evans Says Some Regulation May be Necessary.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

By SAM G. ROSS

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 11 (C.P.) — Frowning on codes and calling for slashing of international cords tying up business, W. Sanford Evans, Winnipeg, yesterday delivered his presidential address at the opening of the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here.

Recognizing a degree of regulation was necessary, Mr. Evans declared it must not infringe on individual rights nor curb the enterprise of commerce. Character and development of the individual was the product by which the whole system would be judged, he declared.

Mr. Evans declared he would not sing "a lullaby of selected percentages" but instead would present the "stern call of a full balance sheet." Gains in business had been made. Prospects were brighter than for many a day. But conditions to-day were not prosperous and disturbing theories and experiments were tripping commercial ventures.

"Commerce is bound by heavy cords," Mr. Evans said. "These should be cut by international joint action, for they were applied because of conditions in the international sphere. But instead they are being left to be unravelled strand by strand through the difficult and tedious process of bipartite agreements and primitive bartering.

Business Lacks Confidence

"Strange theories are still being set on thrones. Continuous experimentation is keeping up a fatal uncertainty and business cannot act with confidence. Nothing but a lowering of the average standard of living can enable humanity to accommodate itself to the cramped conditions of to-day. There is still much that is wrong with the world. The problem is how to make it right."

Some business malpractice existed, he admitted. By its very nature business was individualistic. Business, in which a majority of human beings was engaged, had never attempted to organize a self-governing state within a state and it would not be well that it should.

The view that business should undertake to issue decrees and punish the law breaker was impracticable and improper. Laws and punishment were for the state alone. Nevertheless, there was a wide range for useful action. By conference, agreement might be reached on some fundamentals of business conduct, upon its proper standing and upon general lines of progress.

Problem of Unemployment

"The great special problems at the moment are not the hundreds or thousands receiving sweatshop wages but the tens of millions who can get no wages at all," declared Mr. Evans. "The problem is not the few businesses which by unfair treatment of producers of materials or of their own workers, have an undeserved margin, but the tens of thousands of businesses with sound practices which can work out no margin."

Detroit Police Deny Kidnap Suspect Held

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 11 (C.P.). — Other than the fact a suspect was detained over the week-end and later released, little could be learned from Detroit police to-day concerning their activities in connection with the hunt for the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer.

Detroit police denied reports from Toronto that they were still holding suspects and professed to have no knowledge of grounds for the report.

Fred W. Frahm, chief of detectives, last night declared two of the snatchers had been identified but he declined to reveal their identities or reveal whether they were Canadians or Americans. Other police officials were equally reticent on that point.

Department of Justice agents said they were uninterested in the case, as they had no evidence Labatt had been brought across the border. They announced their willingness, however, to aid Canadian authorities on any way if appealed to.

GIPSY QUEEN WOULD RETIRE FOR JOB IN PARIS THEATRE

Romany Tribes Hold International Reunion in Polish Border Town.

DON'T KNOW HITLER

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Central Press Canadian Writer

OPAVA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 11—Cazzara, queen of all the gipsies in the world, sixteen years old, sensuously perfumed, smooth black hair, rings on her fingers, blood-red tinted toe-nails, and a pair of eyes that would melt the heart of a Nazi Judge, Cazzara, who is attending a great international reunion of the Romany tribes near this border-town along with her husband, King Michæl, told me in strict confidence that the royal business is no snap. She stuck out her tongue to emphasize her disgust for the whole glamorous pageantry of monarchy.

"What I want," she said, "is a job on the stage in Paris, city clothes, red-heeled shoes, lingerie, flowers, lots of lovers and then after a while I'd write my memoirs!"

"But King Michæl," I said, referring to her husband, "what's to become of him if you should go away?"

For answer the queen stuck out her tongue again. That seemed to narrow her likes and dislikes down to brass tacks, so to speak. "Would you," she asked in a melodious whisper, "make inquiries for me in Paris and see if not some theatre will take me? It doesn't need to be a big house," she specified. "I am willing to start at the bottom!"

I pulled a serious face at this. Frederick the Great had a Prussian officer who helped his sister elope, beaten on the soles of his feet till the man could never walk again. And Frederick, so historians inform us, was an enlightened monarch. What might not the king of the gipsies do to me if I became involved in a plot to whisk away his queen? Obviously it was a moment to use tact and diplomacy. Moreover Mike himself was not far away.

Tired of the Throne

"Your subjects, Queen Cazzara," I said as gravely as any prime minister in a full cabinet council, "your subjects look upon you as a symbol of unity. Without you, the Romanys would fall apart into warring tribes and become an object of derision." . . . I could not go on with my speech. The queen stuck out her tongue so comically this time that I had to laugh myself. "You talk French like a Parisienne, Cazzara," I said to get her thoughts on another subject. "That's why I want to go on the stage," she came back at once. "I can talk French and I can dance," she added.

"Look here," I said resolutely, fully aware of the historic importance of my task, "you must not think of it. Your departure would mean anarchy, chaos, revolution, an empire in ruins, Bolshevism" . . .

Out came the tongue again! "Pour qui me prenez-vous?" she asked, otherwise said: Boloney! The worst of it is that I knew it was boloney. My diplomatic career ended right then and there. I promised her to make inquiries, come what may. What did the Tarsiot say? "The things I do not want to do, these I do" . . .

Still that was the first time in my life I met a person who was weary of the royal job at so tender an age. If I go along the line of ex-monarchs I have met, from Alfonso of Spain to George of Greece, they all seemed quite anxious to resume what they called the heavy burdens and responsibilities of rulership. No, come to think of it, I met another one who had quit of his own free will. It is true he did not stick out his tongue, but he rolled his eyes to heaven in an even more expressive manner; the shah of Persia. The shah used to run a little perfume shop on the Rue Vivienne in Paris and turned a deaf ear to all the pleas of the delegations that came from Teheran to urge him to mount the peacock throne again. He never sold any perfume either. He sprinkled his stock away on the ladies who passed his emporium and then went to the nearby tavern to have a glass of wine with anyone who wished to join him. A philosopher!

Farmers Guard Belongings.

The gipsy reunion took the form of an endless banquet of horsemeat. Dancing started around noon and went on all day. In the meantime the king and his councillors palavered in the shade of a covered wagon, that is to say they quarrelled a good deal and came to blows several times. By nightfall peace was established and all went to see Queen Cazzara dance, which was worth the trouble. On the morning of the third day the Czechoslovak police decided that it was enough. It was explained that Rinci, a rival chief, who was supposed to have joined the congregation in order to have an explanation with King Michæl, had been held up by the Poles at the border and put in jail on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. The Czech police thus entered the camp and the tribes began to move away. If they hadn't gone then, the farmers of the neighborhood were going to come up with pitchforks. They, the farmers, were exhausted with loss of sleep standing guard over their chicken coops, beehives, orchards, hop-fields and cisterns, for the notion will not die in Europe that gipsies poison the wells when the get the chance.

I rode back to Opava in a rattling old landau, which might once have belonged to Madame de Pompadour, but which was now crowded with a swarm of gipsy kids and their father, one Marco, a gentleman of uncommon civility who spoke in a kind of lingua francs, pigeon-Italo-French, and who told me he was the high-priest of the tribe.

Hitler Unknown

Together we discussed one thing and another, Marco and I, such as: the fine points of gipsy theology; the weather; the condition of the road; the waywardness of women; the virtues of Roumanian wine; the brutality of the Czech police; the value of stolen jewelry in the Austrian market; the evil eye, which he said was a disease; the shape of the soul and of Czechoslovak money; the singing noise in the telegraph wires, which he said were evil spirits; the depression in Poland; be immimence of war, which left him cold; the benefit of being the seventh son of a seventh son, which he wasn't, alas, nor I; the strength of dudaim, a love potion that makes them fall without fail if you give it in the right dose else they go crazy and of which he tried to sell me a sample, vainly, let it be added; the foolishness of taking thumb-prints; the inside of Italian jails, of which he seemed to know more than Mussolini; the prevalence of crows in Solvakia and the necessity of having two cards with the ace of spades in a deck when you tell anyone's fortune. Chatting that way we came in sight of the church-tower of Opava and halted at the inn to refresh ourselves.

Before I left Marco, I inquired what he thought of Hitler. He had never heard of him.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point: Wheat, 92c to 95c; oats, 35c to 38c; barley, 60c to 64c; corn, 85c to 86c; rye, 55c to 57c; buckwheat, 56c to 58c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Eggs were again the feature of the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday, each of the top grades advancing 3 cents. Butter was qquoted fractionally higher, while cheese declined slightly in price.

Graded shipments of eggs in carlots or less were quoted at 30c to 31c a dozen for A-large, up 3c; 28c to 29c a dozen for A-medium, up 3c; 20c for B, unchanged; and 19c for C, steady. Arrivals were 925 cases.

Butter rase ¼c, fresh No. 1 in carlots or less being quoted at 19¼c to 19½c a pound. Small lots to retailers were 20c a pound for solids and 21c for prints. Receipts totalled 276 boxes.

Cheese prices tended a little easier, Ontario colored being ¼c off at 10c a pound, while Quebec cheese declined ¼c to 9¼c a pound. Arrivals totalled 1,346 boxes.

New Quebec potatoes maintained last week's level, being priced at 45c to 50c per 80-pound bag of No. 1 grade.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Pulled down by announcement of an increase instead of an expected decrease of the United States, wheat visible supply, wheat prices suffered losses late yesterday.

Heavy rains West and Southwest likely to improve soil conditions for domestic winter wheat seeding tended also to weaken values. Preceding the late decline of wheat prices, however, the market reflected considerable buying of futures for millers, and made moderate transient gains.

Wheat closed easy, ¼c to ⅝c under Saturday's finish: December, new, $1.06⅝ to $1.06⅝; corn, ½c to ⅝c down, December new, 70½c to 70⅝c; oats ⅝c off to ⅜c up, and provisions at 12c to 20c decline.

Corn and oats, nevertheless, took their cut mainly from wheat. The Government estimate of 1934 corn production, 1,494,603,000 bushels, compared with recent private forecasts of 1,446,000,000 bushels.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Heavy deliveries at Western Canada country elevators accounted for fractional downturns on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday. Closing wheat quotations were off ¼c to ⅝c.

The October option ended at 83½c, December at 84⅝c and May at 89⅝c. Deliveries over the week-end totalled nearly 4,000,000 bushels, but despite this pressure the market gave a good account of itself.

Best support came from Chicago traders and commission houses. Export demand was limited.

Statistics for the past week showed world wheat shipments up about 800,000 bushels, clearances totalling 10,252,000 bushels. North America's share of these shipments totalled 3,103,000 bushels compared with 4,621,000 bushels the week previous. Cash and coarse grains were inclined to sag.

BITTER MELEE RAGES HOURS THROUGH TOWN

3,500 Strikers Are Involved in Clash With Troops.

DRIVEN INTO CEMETERY.

Saylesville, R.I., Resembles War Torn Village After Night Clash.

SAYLESVILLE, R.I., Sept. 12. —(AP)— Saylesville resembled a war torn village today as 500 National Guardsmen patrolled the streets in the wake of bloody fighting between troops and strike sympathizers.

Guardsmen, with bayonets, tear and nausea gas and steel helmets, were stationed around the Sayles finishing plant, scene of wild rioting which has caused injury to 70 persons within the last 48 hours.

The latest outburst came last night when approximately 3500 strikers and sympathizers engaged in a fierce battle with the troopers which culminated in a running fight through the Moshassuck cemetery. Tombstones were used by both troopers and strikers as bulwarks during the engagement.

The clash came when the strike sympathizers armed with rocks and stones, surged over the deadlines established by the Guardsmen earlier yesterday after three persons, including a 73-year-old woman, were injured. The strikers group smashed hundreds of windows as they engaged the troopers.

It was estimated 50 were wounded yesterday, including 10 Guardsmen and a central Falls policeman felled by gas.

Men Still Work.

Throughout the rioting more than 500 employees of the plant, who reported for work at five o'clock, remained at their tasks. Mail officials said every department was operating last night.

Plans for getting the workers safetly out of the plant to-day and conducting the incoming employees to their departments were being made by Brigadier-General Herbert R. Dean, commander of the troops here.

Seven men were arrested by the National Guardsmen and turned over to Central Falls police. Some of those arrested were equipped with sling shots, which National Guardsmen said, could throw heavy rocks far inside the deadline.

Besides the Guardsmen and strikers injured during the riot several newspaper reporters and photographers were struck by flying missiles and badly cut.

Early this morning the rapidly diminishing crowd opened hydrants on Liberty street, one block from the mill, flooding the streets and endangering the wiring in that neighborhood.,

The First Shots

National guardsmen fired their first shots in this state this morning when they discharged a volley over the heads of strikers who advanced upon them in the vicinity of the Sayles Finishing Co.

The detachment of 24 guardsmen, under command of Col. Harold R. Baker, met the threatening group of strikers advancing across Moshassuk cemetery, near the plant, armed with rocks and stones. After their refusal to disband, Col. Barker gave the command to his men to open fire. A volley roared over the group as they fled. An Auburn haired woman and between seven and nine men were arrested by guardsmen and taken to the mill property where, guardsmen said, they were held for local police.

The Weather

For some time the weather has been unusually cool. It was not always thus. From the 9th to the 12th of September, 1931, we had a period of extreme heat that beat all records for September. There were five consecutive days with over 90 degrees in the shade, and on the 11th and 12th 98 degrees was officially registered.—W. P.

Douglas Brazendale Says He Was Chased Around Buildings.

Facing a charge of "shooting with intent to maim," Josiah Cowan, 58 year old Otonabee Township farmer this morning appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., and was remanded without plea for one week.

The accused, it is alleged, fired one barrel of a double-barrelled shotgun from a distance of 200 yards after the fleeting figure of Douglas Brazendale, 16 year old hired boy. The boy, otherwise unharmed, was stated to be "shaking like a leaf" when Provincial Constable David Silvester arrived to investigate the affair, after being called by Mrs. Cowan.

Accused is stated to have become enraged when the hired boy left his work in the fields and came to the pump in the farm yard for a drink of water. After having some words with the boy, Cowan is alleged to have returned to the house, to reappear some moments later with a double-barrelled shotgun.

Scared by his employer's threats the boy took to his heels in terror when the farmer commenced to chase him with the gun. The pursuer and the pursued, it is stated, circled the house and outbuildings of the farm, and then Cowan, it is alleged, discharged one barrel after the fleeting youth. The gun was discharged at a distance of about 200 yards from the boy, it is learned, and fortunately did not take effect, although some of the pellets are said to have ripped the youth's trouser leg.

The dramatic incident occurred shortly after eleven o'clock yesterday morning on the farm, which is on R.R. 1, Indian River. Receiving a call from Mrs. Cowan the provincial constable hurried down to the scene of the disturbance and placed Cowan under arrest.

When he appeared before Magistrate Langely this morning Cowan declined to accept legal assistance. He elected summary trial, and on his own request and that of the Crown was remanded without plea.

DRIVER OF CAR IN FATAL CRASH ON TRIAL HERE

Roy Walsh Charged With Manslaughter in Death of Jos. M. Maher.

IN SUPREME COURT.

Accident Near Springville September 30 1933—Alcohol Drunk.

Trial of Roy Walsh, 26, of Ashburnham, on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of Joseph M. Maher in a motor crash on Highway 28, near Springville, on September 30 last opened yesterday in Supreme Court here before Mr. Justice Henderson.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. conducted the prosecution and G. N. Gordon, K.C., the defence.

Medical testimony indicated that Maher's fatal injuries were caused when he was thrown against the steering wheel of the car.

John W. Pierce, land surveyor, submitted to the court a plan of the section of the highway just north of the village of Springville where the accident occurred.

Provincial Constable D. Silvester stated that in company with Highway Patrol Officer A. E. Hornick he went to the scene of the crash at 5.45 o'clock in the morning. The wrecked car was in the east ditch, while opposite it in the west ditch was found the body of Joseph Maher, which at that time was not identified. The car was so badly damaged that parts of it were scattered around for more than 25 feet and everything indicated that it had left the road and turned over several times, the officer stated.

Walsh Found Asleep

Evidence of the crash and the course of the car indicated that the vehicle had been travelling at terrific speed. Near the car was found a bottle which contained about an ounce of rubbing alcohol. Albert Bowles, a farmer, approached and directed the constable's attention to a man, Roy Walsh, who was asleep under a tree in a field 100 yards to the east of the road.

"Constable Hornick and I crossed the field to the man," Constable Silvester testified. "He was huddled up under a light coat. We shook him. He grunted and we knew he was alive then. We stood him on his feet. He made some statements."

At this point the jury was taken from the court room while argument was heard between Crown Attorney McElderry and Mr. Gor-

Train Reduces Auto Twisted Scrap Metal

When in the act of crossing the railway tracks on Bethune street to turn into a junk yard next to F. H. Dawson's feed warehouse, at nine o'clock this morning, a car was struck by a shunting freight train. Percy and William Henry, sons of William Henry, of Bensfort Bridge, occupants of the car, fortunately escaped injury, although the vehicle in which they were riding was completely telescoped.

Railway employees claim that the locomotive which was shunting the nine cars, was sounding the bell as the cars were being switched about in the yard.

ALIMONY SUIT BASED ON FEAR OF J. A. O'BRIEN

Wife Called as First Witness in Supreme Court Trial.

LEFT HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. O'Brien Tells of Threats Against Her Life.

Hearing of the evidence in the suit of Mrs. Alice Ann O'Brien for alimony from her husband, J. A. O'Brien, opened to-day in Supreme Court here before Mr. Justice Henderson.

Mrs. O'Brien was the first witness and told of the actions of her husband which caused her finally to separate from him.

Examined by G. N. Gordon, she said the action was brought by her against her husband, J. A. O'Brien, for alimony.

Mr. Gordon read a letter received by his firm, Gordon and Elliott, from Mr. O'Brien on June 4, 1934, regarding alimony for Mrs. O'Brien. In the letter, Mr. O'Brien stated he had not at any time refused to support his wife and stating that "I will do all in my power to support my wife and I do not wish to carry on negotiations with a rat like Mr. Gordon is."

Witness said she married Mr. O'Brien in Toronto on January 19, 1921, and they lived first at the Crown Apartments in this city. Later they moved to a house on Engleburn Avenue, and lived there approximately 12 years.

"The breaking point in our relations came in May, 1933," Mrs. O'Brien stated. "He stayed out all night repeatedly. He suggested that I should go away as I was 'cramping his style' and his good times."

"I went away and returned on September 9," witness said. "Between that date and October 19, he was away all night except three nights. On October 19, he came home in the morning. He had a black eye, a cut lip and his face was otherwise disfigured.

Solicitous by 'Phone.

"From then on he never returned to the house while I was there. He did go to the house on several occasions when I was at church. He 'phoned me now and then and asked me how I was and if I needed anything."

Last September, Mrs. O'Brien said, her husband suggested she should go away and stay away. At another time he told her to leave town and he would give her $150 a month.

Some time before he left, witness said, Mr. O'Brien moved into another bedroom. She maintained that she had always performed her duties as a wife to him. She denied that she had ever put him out.

With Another Woman.

"One night last May he came home in an intoxicated condition and I told him I couldn't live with him any more," she said. "I told him I couldn't live with him because he had been living with another woman, and while I was away he had brought her to my home and lived with her there. When I came back he moved to another apartment "with her."

She said he had threatened to kill her repeatedly. "I was in constant fear of him," witness said. "He often said how strong his fingers were and how easy it would be to choke me."

On numerous occasions, she said, he assaulted me, one time tearing her clothes from her back. On one occasion when witness and her husband were out driving, she said, "he began going at high rate of speed and said he was taking me to Whitby, that I was crazy." At another time while driving back from Toronto, he threatened to have a motor collision in which she would be killed. Still another time, when he was drunk, he tried to choke her.

RADIO ENQUIRY RECEIVED FIRST OPERATOR SAYS

Rogers Asked for Explicit Instructions From Acting Captain.

HEDGED BY FIRE.

Alleges Assistant Stirred Up Discontent Some Time Ago.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. —(AP)—George W. Rogers, chief radio operator of the burned liner Morro Castle, testified at a government inquiry today that some time ago his first assistant, George Alagna and another operator "Tried to instigate discontent on the ship."

Rogers testified hesitantly on this point and only after he received permission to consult his attorney, who subsequently was found not to be present. The witness said he feared his statements might be misconstrued.

Dickerson N. Hoover, conducting the inquiry for the Department of Commerce, told Rogers he wanted to learn whether discipline was maintained aboard the liner.

When his attorney did not appear, Rogers said: "Some time ago there was a strike among the radio operators. Alagna and another operator tried to instigate discontent on the ship by seeking signatures of a protest that the food on the ship was bad."

He testified he was awakened by the second assistant operator after the fire broke out. The time was 2:55 a.m., E.S.T.

"I dressed immediately and went into the radio room," he related.

"I told the first assistant operator, George Alagna, to go to the bridge to act as my messenger to receive any orders."

"Did you have any lack of confidence in the bridge?" asked Hoover.

"No, we were following routine practice. Smoke began to pour into the radio room shortly. At 3:13 Mr. Alagna returned to the radio room and told me:

" 'You'd better get out of here if you don't want to die like a rat.' "

Received Fire Query

"I asked him what about the distress messages.

"Then we received a radio message from another ship asking about a burning ship off the Jersey coast".

Roosevelt Demands Fireproof Liners

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Sept. 12.—(A.P.)—Aroused by the Morro Castle disaster, President Roosevelt wants the United States' Congress to enact legislation eliminating wooden passenger ships and requiring fireproof construction.

Also, Mr. Roosevelt disclosed at his regular press conference to-day that he expects the Department of Justice to take whatever action may be required as a result of the inquiry into the Morro Castle fire which cost more than 100 lives.

It is the conviction of the President that the time is past when passengers at sea should ride in vessels susceptible to a conflagration such as the Morro Castle blaze.

He feels that steel passenger ships can be constructed and that almost every piece of equipment aboard ship can be of a reasonably fireproof nature.

MORRO CASTLE TRAGEDY BLAME CLINGS TO CREW

Radio Officer Held Incommunicado After Startling Testimony.

ALL MATES SUBPOENAED.

Picture of Stark Panic Painted—Lad Tells of Hearing Shot.

By HENRY CASSIDY

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (A.P.) — The blight of the Morro Castle clung closer to her crew to-day, with the first assistant radio officer held incommunicado and all his mates under subpoena.

George Ignatius Alagna, 23-year-old radio operator, was locked up as a material witness in the investigation which was resumed to-day before the federal grand jury.

Civil warrants served on the others of the crew to prevent their sailing away from the investigation to-day on the Ward liner Siboney, for which United States Attorney Martin Conboy said some were signed.

The Morro Castle herself, not yet rid of her freight of fire and death, coughed out her life on the Ashbury Park, N.J. beach, where firemen expected to quell the flames to-day. Officials of the Ward line hope to be able to search the forward part of the ruined vessel soon for the body of of her late Captain Robert R. Willmott.

Starts Panic

The Department of Commerce carried on with its inquiry, painting a stark picture of panic aboard the ship Saturday morning as she was devastated by fire at sea.

To add to the testimony that members of the crew fled the liner early—in lifeboats holding few passengers—came the story of a 16-year-old passenger, Lewis Perrine.

He told newsmen that as he struggled to safety through the smoke, he thought he heart a shot, thought he saw an officer standing nearby and a sailor lying on the deck.

Acting Captain W. F. Warms denied that there was any insubordination, asserting: "I never fired a shot."

Joseph Prendergast, Assistant United States Attorney, said he probably will go to Princeton, N.J., to investigate Perrine's tale.

Alagna, who testified for two hours yesterday before the grand jurors, was considered one of the Government's most important wit-

JURY DECLARES C. P. R. CROSSING IS DANGEROUS

Recommends More Visibility Where Wm. Sutherland Met Death.

NEAR BENNETT FARM.

Suggests More Precaution Might Have Been Taken by Truck Driver.

William Sutherland, 53-year-old Scottish-Canadian of Orpington road, came to his death on September 5th, in the township of North Monaghan, from a fracture of the skull received when struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train while riding at the rear of a Canada Packers, Limited, truck, the coronor's jury declared at the inquest presided over by Dr. T. W. H. Young here last night.

"We are of the opinion," the jury said, "that this crossing is a dangerous one, and that more precaution might have been exercised by Frank Driscoll, the truck driver, before crossing the railway tracks at that point. We recommend that the proper authorities take action to make the view from the east at the crossing more visible."

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted examination of the witnesses. T. P. O'Connor and J. A. Stinson, claims agent, watched the interests of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Truck Driver's Story.

Frank Driscoll, employee of Canada Packers, Limited, testified that after setting out on his route on the fateful morning he met John Hickey at Westcott and George streets and picked the lad up to ride with him in the cab of the truck. He did not remember having been instructed not to carry passengers.

When proceeding along the tenth concession of North Monaghan some distance from the scene of the crossing smash in which his truck was involved, Driscoll said he saw Suth-

CROWDS CHEER WILDLY.

LONDON, Sept. 12 (A.P.)—Leaving his fiancee, Princess Marina of Greece, in Paris with her parents, Prince George came home to-day after an eventful holiday on which he won a bride.

The Prince was greeted enthusiastically as he stepped from an airliner at Croydon Airport. Crowds covering roofs of all buildings in the vicinity cheered loudly. The field itself had been cleared.

The Prince, bare-headed and bronzed by the sun, smiled happily as he was confronted by a crowd of cameramen. He was photographed many times as he stepped to his motor car to go to York House.

Prince George will leave to-night for Balmoral Castle in Scotland to join the King and Queen.

DISASTER FOR WORLD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP). Despite protests from some countries as to what the United States senate munitions investigation is bringing out, Chairman Gerald Nye gave the word to-day that "there will be no change in our plans."

The committee turned its searchlight to-day upon the 130 year old Du Pont Company, which hs furnished the United States with a large part of the material used in its wars.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, to whom protests have been made by other countries, conferred yesterday with Senator Nye, and it was following this conference that Nye said the committees plans would not be changed. Secretary Hull spoke of the inquiry as a "righteous" one.

A committee member said one of the subjects discussed at the conferences was testimony to be given by officials of the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Corporation on Wilmington, Delaware.

Testimony was received yesterday that Presiden Rodrigues of Mexico had interested himself in war material sales and purchases.

At Mexico, D.F., a statement was issued on behalf of the president saying "It is absurd and inconceivable to try to connect the name of the president of republic and the names of other Mexican functionaries in the investigation, and whatever declarations may be made before that committee do not affect in any way the reputations of these persons, nor do

HAVELOCK VOTES ON DECEMBER 3

First Monday of Year's Last Month Picked to Avoid Confusion.

BOON TO NEW COUNCIL.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 12. (Examiner Correspondence). — Changing the date for the municipal elections from the first Monday in January to the first Monday in December was probably the most important business conducted at the regular meeting held in the chambers last evening, Tuesday, when Reeve Richard Sanderson presided and all members were present.

While the opinion of the change was not unanimous, Councillor Spencer who seconded Joe Johnston's amendment to keep the old dates said the new ones would probably work out all right, and there was no material difference anyway. Some of the local citizenry when informed of the change queried "What will the candidates say when they won't be able to wish the electorate a 'Happy New Year' and all that".

Reeve Sanderson said that he had long been of the opinion that election day should be earlier for various reasons, and now that unemployment relief was such a vital question, he was firmly of the opinion that the change to an earlier date would be of great benefit in determining the policies of incoming council and getting an earlier start in the new year. The old dates too created much confusion in certain years when the Christmas and New Year holiday came on election and nomination day.

No added expense will be incurred in the change and if it does not prove entirely satisfactory it can quite easily be chang-

SHERIFFS TO GO.

Only Those in Essex, York, Wentworth Likely to be Retained.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—The office of sheriff in the Province of Ontario, as a separate administrative unit, may with the exception of four cases, be abolished shortly by the Hepburn Government.

Premier Hepburn intimated yesterday that a survey of the situation was being made by departmental officials with a view to effecting such economy and increased efficiency as in the Government's opinion seemed possible.

The plan which is under advisement is to link the sheriff's office, where possible, up with other posts such as county court clerk and county jailer. Only four counites, Essex, York, Wentworth and Carleton, are considered at present as excepted.

J. Wilkie Lawrason of Hamilton, will be the new sheriff for Wentworth, the Prime Minister announced. He succeeds the late Hon. Dr. Leeming Carr.

Two other appointments, concerned with the administration of justice, were also announced by the Premier. Harvey F. McColloch, Hamilton barrister, is to be Assistant Crown Attorney for Hamilton—a part-time job—at a salary of $1,500 a ear. Jaspar Foreman, Kirkfield, succeeds W. W. Staples of Lindsay, as registrar of the Supreme Court and clerk of the County Court for Victoria County. The post of registrar of the Surrogate Court has also been added to his duties without any increase in pay. Dismissal of Mr. Staples, a former Conservative M.P.P. for South Victoria, is by way of implementation of Mr. Hepburn's threats that all appointments made by the Henry administration in its fifth or "lame duck" year of office must go.

JUDGE GREETED BY BARRISTERS

Mr. Justice Henderson Begins Judicial Duties Here.

RECENTLY APPOINTED.

Newly-appointed as a Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Hon. W. T. Henderson heard his first case here yesterday afternoon when the county sessions opened before him at the court house.

Mr. Justice Henderson was welcomed to Peterborough by J. W. Stevenson on behalf of the local members of the Bar at the opening of the court. The Grand Jury in its report also extended its congratulations to His Lordship on his elevation to the Supreme Court bench.

The Grand Jury made its report as follows:

We, the Grand Jury, empanelled for the Supreme Court sittings of Ontario, held at the County Court House, in the City of Peterborough, Tuesday, September 11th., 1934, beg to report, as follows:

As suggested by your Lordship, we thought it unnecessary to inspect the different public Institutions in the City and County of Peterborough, owing to the fact that the same have been inspected in June 1934.

We did, however, inspect the Gaol, and find that considerable painting is being undertaken in the building, as recomended by the Provincial Inspector of Prisons. This, we believe to be necessary, and a marked improvement.

In looking through some of the Offices in the Court-House building, we would recommend that similar decorations be carried out, which would improve the interior of the buildings.

In conclusion, we wish to congratulate Your Lordship on being elevated to the Supreme Court Bench, and trust that your visit to this city will be a pleasant remembrance.

Members of the Grand Jury were: John Christie, Asphodel; A. S. Couper, 247 Engleburn avenue; Wm. Franks, North Monaghan; foreman, Chris Graham, 575 Glimour street; Robert Hendry, 313 Maitland avenue; Bruce Ingram, Harvey Township; Wm. B.C. Convicts' Strike For Wages Is Easing

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. Sept. 12 (C.P.)—"An increasing number of the strikers are declaring their willingness to return to work," Col. H. W. Cooper, warden of the federal penitentiary here, said to-day in commenting on the strike of 120 convicts, locked in their cells for refusal to work. The strike started on Sept. 1 when a gang of seven convicts laid down their tools and refused to work. They were locked in their cells. On Sept. 10, 37 more prisoners refused to work and were locked in, and yesterday an additional 26 prisoners went on strike.

The ringleaders told Col. Cooper they had no complaint against their treatment but asked wages for their work and a convicts' agreement to discuss matters with the authorities. Their demands were refused.

Trades Congress Told Workers Prohibited Having Own Organizations.

TO MAINTAIN RIGHTS.

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (C.P.) — Deliberate efforts of United States employers to evade the labor provisions of the National Recovery Act and to prevent workers having an organization that would enable them to maintain their rights produced the epidemic of strikes that swept the United States this past Summer, declared Joseph P. McCurdy of Baltimore before the Trades and Labor Congress convention here to-day.

Fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor, Mr. McCurdy addressed the convention and outlined labor conditions in his country. He sketched American industrial history from the creation of the National Recovery Administration down to the present and stressed the identity of interest between American and Canadian labor.

Business turned to the Government for leadership after the banking collapse of 1933 and joined in a national effort for recovery under the Recovery Act, he declared, pointing out for the first time in United States history there was set up a central organization to work out rules for industry. Its basic purpose was to create employment, increase purchasing power, restore domestic and foreign commerce, and eliminate those conditions in which unfair competition were rooted.

Boom for 3 Months

Fundamental in the recovery set-up were national organizations of labor on the one hand and employers on the other. Industry fell in line with the President's plan, and for the first three months of the code more than 1,500,000 men and women were put to work by shortening hours. Industry thrived.

Then came a change, he declared, and when business men "saw the opportunity for profits returning and their industries coming out of the red, their real attitude came to the surface."

Employers "revived old slogans, began to protest against 'government interference in business,' refused further co-operation in the program of shortening hours. Many openly defied Section 7 (a) of the Recovery Act, mandatory for every code, which give labor the right to organize and refused to deal with trade unions or to permit their employees to join in a bona fide union."

Refusal to shorten hours and raise wages a further ten per cent, as the President requested in the Spring checked progress towards recovery, Mr. McCurdy said, and in June of this year there were more unemployed than in the previous October.

LINDSAY FAIR WILL OPEN ON THURSDAY

Directors Expect Last Year's Record in Attendance Will be Maintained.

LINDSAY, Sept. 12 (Special to The Examiner).—The formal opening of Lindsay Central Fair will take place on Thursday afternoon, and with good weather the directors expect that last year's record both from the standpoint of exhibits as well as attendance will be maintained. Record entries in horses and live stock are reported. The Conklin Shows, the big attraction for the Midway, is expected to arrive in Lindsay on Thursday morning. A splendid card of racing events will be run off the three days of the Fair.

The Ontario Hydro Commission has notified the local Hydro Commisison that an interim rate of $43 per h.p. per year will be charged for power. This is a reduction of one dollar per horse power, but the consumer will continue to pay the same rate. The total saving for the year for the local Commission is expected to be in the neighborhood of $1,700.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Weldon, mother of Clark Weldon of Peterborough, took place at the South Valentia Cemetery, Mariposa Township, and was attended by a large concourse of friends of the deceased from Lindsay and district. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Harold W. Vaughan, of Toronto. The deceased was born at Valentia; her husband, David Weldon, predeceasing her 34 years ago. After his death she took up residence in Oakwood before moving to Lindsay, where she resided for the last 27 years. She is survived by three children and three brothers. The Valentia cemetery, where she was laid to rest, was formerly part of her father's farm, and was donated by him for use by the little Shiloh Church, where she sang in the choir as a girl.

Autumn nuptials were solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Eason, of Kinmount, when their eldest son, Wilfred, was united in marriage to Miss Pearl Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, also of Kinmount. Rev. Mr. Pelletier of Kinmount performed the ceremony.

With the exception of last year, the number of fur seals taken at the Pribiloff Islands, Alaska, during the season recently closed, exceeded the take during any season in the last 45 years.

SEES PROGRESS IN OLD COUNTRY

Extensive Construction Projects in South Impressed Chas. Coleman.

VISITED MOTHER.

Back from a five weeks' sojourn in his native England, Charles Coleman was impressed with the general progress that had been made since he was last in the homeland some years ago. He described as "amazing" large construction programs underway, particularly in the south-western shires, and spoke of the contented outlook of the average man on the street as being inspirational.

Since he crossed the gangplank at Montreal on the S.S. "Duchess of York" outward bound at the end of July, Mr. Coleman has experienced a round of pleasurable activity, which included visits with his 86-year-old mother, and his youngest brother, Jesse Coleman, a former resident of this city, and now in business for himself in Melksham, Wiltshire.

On the outward voyage Mr. Coleman travelled with officials and competitors representing Canada at the British Empire games at Wembley. Homeward bound on the S.S. "Montclare" he figured on the program of entertainment with such celebrities of the musical world as Boris Hambourg and Les Allen.

Melksham is the place of Mr. Coleman's nativity, and it is interesting to note that the early history of the place is closely connected with its Royal Forest which was sufficiently good hunting ground to attract the early kings of England. It possesses an ancient church dedicated to St. Michael and All Angels, the chancel of which was built about 1130 A.D.

In the same district is the ancient town of Bradford-on-Avon which was also visited by Mr. Coleman. It lays claim to an old church. H. V. Morton in his book "In Search of England" refers to it as follows: "What a church! If you are ever asked in a general knowledge paper to give the name of the oldest unaltered church in England remember Bradford-on-Avon. Here is a church just as it was a thousand years ago; a tiny yellow stone building with three foot thick walls, and a nave twenty-six feet long."

While in Bath Abbey, Mr. Coleman searched the visitors' register for the name of F. M. Dela Fosse, local librarian, and who was also "home" during the summer. Instead Mr. Coleman came across the name of Miss Helen Gerrard of the Peterborough Collegiate teaching staff.

In Bournemouth, Mr. Coleman looked up his old friend, Harry Sartain, a fellow confectioner, who left Peterborough about twenty-one years ago to take up residence in England.

Mr. Coleman visited London, of course, and besides "doing" a number of the theatres, he attended a cricket match at Kennington Oval, and went to Divine Service at St. Paul's Cathedral and The City Temple, the church of the Rev. Dr. Norwood.

Yesterday an Omaha newspaper received a note from the prowler. It read:

EVA COO'S FATE KEPT FROM MOTHER

Sister of Convicted Woman Keeping Papers From Mother in Haliburton Home.

HALEBURTON, Ont., Sept. 12 — The verdict of death for Eva Coo may seal the fate of her aged mother, unless the doings of a busy world can be kept forever from her ears.

Because "the shock would kill her," Mrs. Margaret Curry of Haliburton has not been told—even today—that the Eva who left home years ago to marry a railroad man in Calgary is on her way to the electric chair.

Keeping Papers From Her

"And she never will know," insisted Mrs. William Baker, a daughter. "I am keeping all papers, callers and telephone messages from mother unless I know first that nothing about Eva will be mentioned. She is too frail to stand the shock."

It is hard for the family to believe that the same Eva who lived in Haliburton can be the tigerish killer who murdered half-witted Harry Wright for his $3,000 insurance.

Left Seventeen Years Ago

Mrs. Curry thinks Eva is still on trial, and a merciful family plans to spare her the shock of revealing the truth by concealing the fate of their sister.

"It is seventeen years since Eva left," Mrs. Baker, a broad-faced woman, who resembles Eva strikingly, said to-day. "Time can make a lot of changes. The pictures we have seen so far look little like her, but it seems apparent she's our Eva.

"My brother Ross is still hoping he can raise the money to go to Sing Sing and make sure that it's the same girl. He is heartbroken and so are we all. It is beyond anything we ever imagined could happen."

Word from Sing Sing that Eva had given Haliburton as her birthplace left little doubt as to her identity.

Walls of the Sing Sing death house surround Mrs. Eva Coo, doomed to the electric chair for the murder of her handyman. But thoughts of the future do not seem to bother the Diamond Lil of the hills. Her chief worry is that her blonde-dyed hair is returning to its natural color—drab brown.

She complains she is deprived of the bleaching treatments, hair dyes and cosmetics which hid the normal ravages of her 42 years.

She is well-behaved and obedient because she has been told that if her conduct was good, face powder might be allowed later.

Painters who have been redecorating the woman's section of the death house stopped work yesterday because the odors irritated her.

Omemee

OMEMEE, Sept. 11. — (Examiner Correspondence).—The September meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon, August 6, with Mrs. Bradley presiding.

Following the opening exercises, Mrs. Lamb read the Scripture lesson. Any person who has articles for the bale are asked to leave them at the parsonage not later than September 18, and Mrs. Poast, Mrs. W. Earle and Mrs. Bradburn were appointed as a committee to look after the packing of the bale. Mrs. Lamb and Mrs. Williamson offered to continue as program committee for the next three months. The society is sending a bale of fruit to Toronto in the near future and the fruit is asked to be brought to the October meeting.

A very interesting address was given by Miss Gertrude Pogue, who is going to Africa as a missionary. Miss Pogue gave her experience of her conversion and outlined her coming work and trip to Africa. Prayer followed this talk by Mrs. Vaughan.

A vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Morcombe, "God Will Take Care of You." Mrs. Vaughan gave a report on the teachers' training school held in Whitby recently. The study book, "Builders of the Indian Church," was ordered to be bought to have to read at the meetings.

The ladies decided to hold a benefit tea soon, the proceeds of which will go to help pay Miss Pogue's expenses to Africa. The meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

Women's Guild.

The members of the Women's Guild met in the basement of the Anglican Church on Thursday afternoon, September 6, with Mrs. Nurse in the chair.

Several discussions took place and the ladies decided to buy two new mirrors for the choir room and shelves for the pantry. Plans were made for the Deanery meeting which will be held here on December 26.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent at quilting. Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Bent and Mrs. Ruth.

TEXTILE UNIONS ASSURED AID

Labor Chief Claims Finances Forthcoming to Sustain Strikers.

VIOLENCE INCREASES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Reports of increasing violence in Rhode Island spurred the United States Textile Mediation Board today in its efforts to break the deadlock between the workers and employers.

The board assembled for another effort to find some basis for peace after the manufacturers had rejected the labor proposal for arbitration.

Union leaders planned to issue new orders to the strikers, estimated now at 380,000.

As the labor offer for the Mediation Board to arbitrate the dispute expired at 6 p.m. yesterday, Francis J. Gorman, national strike leader, issued this statement:

"We have sought the way of peace from the beginning—from long before the strike. Peace is denied to us and we must face management on the field of conflict—we with folded arms; they with paid thugs, militia, machine guns and gas."

The strikers were encouraged by a statement from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that sufficient pledges of organizers and money had been received from other international unions to meet the present needs of the United Textile Workers in financing their walkout.

After meeting with manufacturers all day yesterday, the mediation board resumed discussions today. Silence was the response to questions as to whether any progress had been made.

CLAIM SOLOMON GREATEST COPPER KING OF WORLD

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12 (C.P.).—Solomon was the first, and still perhaps the greatest, of the world's copper kings, believed Dr. Nelson Glueck, just back from archaeological explorations in Transjordania of Asia Minor.

Professor at Hebrew Union College here, Dr. Glueck said research showed Solomon evidently worked his mines, in the valley of Arabah near Peinin, with forced labor, transporting the ore to Peinin to be smelted, and sending it throughout the then-known world to exchange for gold and silver.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1

THE MIDLAND SITUATION.

It is announced in connection with the charges that relief and municipal authorities in Midland have systematically defrauded the Provincial and Federal Governments in connection with relief operations that no effort is to be made to recover the money that went astray, but that those responsible for the situation will be prosecuted.

There is this feature, however, that is apparently being overlooked.

There does not seem to have been any attempt on the part of the accused officials to personally profit from the allegedly fraudulent operations; what they did was done to save the credit of their municipality and to relieve the taxpayers.

That being the case, is there any reason why those same taxpayers who have benefitted by reason of the money saved by the fraudulent conduct of the municipal officers should not now be required to refund the amount by which the Provincial and Federal Governments have been defrauded?

The officials, who apparently were acting for the community and not in the hope of getting anything for themselves, should certainly be called upon to account for their conduct and to stand punishment for anything they have done outside the code, but they should not, however, "take the rap" for the whole population of Midland.

Let the prosecutions go on and at the same time if there is any possible means of making the community pay back the moneys that were paid under false pretences, steps to that end should certainly be taken.

HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

It is bewildering sometimes to understand the viewpoint of politicians.

Several attempts have been made, for example, to have our Federal Parliament legalize sweepstakes, for the purpose of financing hospitals and other services, but on each occasion the majority of members held up their hands in horror at the idea of sanctioning a gambling proposition of this nature.

They took a high moral position on this issue, refusing to sanction anything so demoralizing as risking a quarter or a dollar in a sweepstake, and accordingly the measure was each time slaughtered by the votes of the shocked parliamentarians.

Yet here in Ontario we have the spectacle of our Provincial Government reducing the tax on race tracks to a nominal figure for the avowed purpose of keeping the tracks in operation, and thus giving the province a chance to collect its share of the wagers made by those who like to bet on the races.

Why it should be considered a terrible thing for one Government to legalize a very mild form of gambling to help hospitals and perfectly all right for another Government to encourage wholesale betting on race tracks to raise revenue for provincial purposes will be somewhat of a mystery to the logically-minded.

The good citizens who raised their voices to protest against legalized sweepstakes are strangely silent about Government encouragement of race track betting.

THE HIGHWAY PERIL.

If a city of 30,000 souls—say Suez, Egypt, or Asheville, North Carolina—were swept by a strange new pestilence that left not one person living, mankind would be shocked, says an editorial in the Rotarian Magazine. Brain cells in countless heads would be agitated and scientists would pool their wisdom to stop the scourge already eating its way into another city of like size.

And yet—and yet last year in the United States alone, 30,000 persons were killed in motor accidents. Add to that the 850,000 more persons who were injured and still you do not have the total toll of suffering and heartache. The ghastly part of it all is that it will be increased in the year 1934.

Informing the public is the first step in stopping this modern plague. Everyone who grips a steering-wheel should know the practices which breed trouble. A large insurance company, after an extensive study of causes of accidents has set them down in this order:

1. Drove too fast for conditions—this accounted for approximately three-fourths of all mishaps in 1933 assigned to driving blunders.
2. Failed to slow down at intersections.
3. Failed to keep to the right.
4. Tried to pass another car going in the same direction when view was obstructed.
5. Failed to slow down for approaching pedestrians.
6. Passed on the right of a preceding vehicle.
7. Ignored important traffic control devices.
8. Parked at dangerous spots.

We live in a motorized age; from that there is no appeal. We are going to have automobiles; that fact is basic. But individually and collectively we have got to make streets and highways safe, not only for the man at the wheel, but for the pedestrian. Human life is too valuable a thing to sacrifice wantonly to the antics of the ignorant or the "cheese-brained" individual.

Those 30,000 men, women and children must not be forgotten.

U. S. TREATY UNCERTAIN.

One authority on trade and business matters that sees little hope at present of a reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Canada, even although the expressed desire of the United States to establish such treaties with foreign countries may be so interpreted in some quarters, is the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

In referring to this matter in a recent communication, it is pointed out that, although the idea has been discussed a great deal in both countries, it is still uncertain whether a new treaty will be made.

The whole thing, according to the Institute's survey, depends upon political developments across the border.

It is realized that the trade relationship of the United States and Canada has suffered in recent years as a result of tariff walls which have been established by them, and also that better commercial arrangements would be of great benefit.

However, it is the opinion of the Institute's writer that in view of the political situation prevailing in the United States it is doubtful whether any movement toward a new treaty with Canada could be made at present.

"For a number of years," he says, "Canada has been one of the best customers of the United States, and it is realized that the reduction both in exports and imports was the result of tariff muddling. Whether or not it will be possible to eliminate some of the tariff barrier is still uncertain, and will depend to a large extent on political development in the United States."

THE GOOD EARTH.

Impatient of surplus and depression, man took a turn at the regulation of nature's forces.

Current events indicate the futility of man's measures and that Providential adjustment is bound to take place. Time and nature are the slow but sure healers of production-out-of-balance. Depression's paradox, poverty midst plenty, will soon be out of date.

A world surplus of wheat was reputed. The International Wheat Committee clings to life and is still bearish on wheat, particularly its Canadian section. But is bearishness called for? The present drought in North America, coupled with poor crops in many parts of Europe, considered at first a left-handed blessing for reducing surpluses, now means calamity in parts of the world.

Further, drought augers reductions in surpluses to nearer and nearer the point of normal granaries.

Nor was man's hand laid only against wheat production. Coarser grains and other crops were tampered with. Nature has seen fit to place these "reserves" in the category of commodities now in increasing demand and not likely to be too plentiful in the long run of things. This year Germany will import wheat, the United States will be an importer of some hard wheat, hay and other feed, Canada will use a greater percentage of her new crop, and will likely export more wheat than last year.

In our neighbor's country last year mother sows and piglets were killed and spread about as fertilizer. This year of necessity, swine and cattle were humanely killed for lack of feed and water with which to keep them alive. Latest estimates indicate that one-sixth of all cattle and one out of every ten sheep in the United States will be slaughtered due to conditions of drought. Meat surpluses there, for some time to come, are not indicated.

The calamity of live stock in Canada has not been so widespread. Our main problem is to move about 400,000 head of cattle from drought areas in the three Western provinces to areas where pasture is available. Disaster has struck Saskatchewan most heavily where nearly 40,000 families will, it is reported, require relief, but by no means are the provinces east or west of Saskatchewan free from the effects of nature's forces. Crops, generally, are suffering from insufficiest moisture.

With the levelling, even serious levelling, of so-called surpluses, one is inclined to turn away from plans to reduce acreage and to limit live stock, to the conservation of those means of production which nature has given us. A bleak and barren Sahara has been predicted for whole Canadian prairie sections, if we do not heed constructive measures for the preservation of moisture and soil. Reader interest in "Mighty Medicine for the West" in our last issue indicated Canadians possess this apprehension. This year's drought, poor crops and dust storms are not isolated experiences. They occur in the fourth of four lean years and as bumper crops seldom immediately follow small crops, so next year, too, is not likely to be the brightest in agricultural history.

In our ardor to expand production, to "mine" wheat, the greatest natural resource of Western Canada, land, has been forgotten. Grass lands have gone under the plow, windbreaking and moisture-retaining trees have had too little value, swampy wet land has been reclaimed for crop soil. Our job is to win back this resource, land.

This problem awaits our application of proven remedies. Tree planting, already begun on a national scale in the United States, would in time provide shelter belts and retard evaporation. Hedge growth would pile up snow-fall. Some progressive irrigation plan would provide moisture reservoirs. A more scientific practice of agriculture including mixed farming, crop rotation and varied tillage methods is all to the good. A return of partial areas where buffalo formerly roamed, to range or grazing land would be a further beneficial step.

The latter suggestion may shortly be effected in view of the announced program to resettle further north some 45,000 Western farmers who have been stricken by drought. Resettlement, permitting worn out land to become revitalized, is not the least important among the remedies at hand.

Obviously, these needs of the West are not awaiting action by individuals alone, nor even by agriculturalists, but rather by the co-operative efforts of every citizen and governmental unit. A definite policy on reclamation is immediately warranted.

Undoing man's damage, not regulation of nature's output, is the greater need of Canadian agriculture to-day.—Canadian Business.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The politicians had it all wrong. Mr. Bennett probably went to Geneva to dodge the kidnappers.

Mayor Stewart's name appears frequently in by-election speeches. It is a little puzzling to know just why Toronto's chief magistrate should be considered a federal issue.

The office of sergeant-at-arms is being abolished. Probably the provincial police will be expected to keep the boys in the Legislature in order henceforth.

The relief situation in Midland suggests that some folks in that town must have imagined that the Dominion and Provincial Governments were Santa Claus and that a perpetual Christmas was in existence.

Several features of the Morro Castle disaster require a lot of explaining, but the correct answer will probably not be forthcoming.

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

BRESAYLOR, SASKATCHEWAN

This is a coined word from the names of the first three settlers to come to the district, about thirty years ago. Their names were Bremner, Sayres and Taylor, and they came from the portage plains. The name was coined from the first syllables of the first two and the last syllable of Taylor. The compounding of the word was the work of M. H. MacLeod, then chief engineer for the Mackenzie-Mann Construction Company.

ALL OF US

(By Marshall Maslin.)

SECOND THOUGHTS AREN'T BEST.

For years I tried to get Jimmy, who draws funny cartoons, to let me use one of his "preliminary sketches" in the paper—just as it was, without any improving, without any finishing touches.

But I never succeeded . . . Jimmy would come into the office with a number of ideas for cartoons, rapidly sketched on yellow paper in black ink. It was my job to look at them and say which seemed best, to decide which would go into the paper. . . . I'd look at them and laugh. And then I'd hold up one and praise it and say, "Let's use this, just as it is!" And then Jimmy would object. No, no! It was too crude. It wasn't finished. He could make it a lot better. He'd go upstairs and tack a piece of nice white paper onto his board and sketch it out again and ink it in—and I'd see for myself how much better it would be . . . But I never did see, it never was . . . The finished product was sure to be good. It would be funny and those who saw it would laugh at it and show it to others, who'd laugh at it, too. But for me it was never quite as funny as that first rough, crude, hasty sketch, in which he had set down his idea as it had come laughing from his brain through his hurrying fingers.

But Jimmy isn't the only one. Every artist worth his salt is like that. Every human being who does anything worthwhile is something like Jimmy. Genius isn't really a capacity for taking pains. Joy isn't the sum of many little pleasures; it is a fine chuckling, unpremeditated explosion and there is no substitute for the natural, the instinctive glory that is at the center of all achievement. Creation was at the heart of Jimmy's little first sketches, and all his thoughtful polishing never made them effervesce, at least for me, as his first sketches did.

And this experience with Jimmy merely verified for me something I am certain is true in all phases of living . . . If you are normal your first idea, your first impulse; your first emotion is more right than those that follow. It buds out of YOU, it is essentially YOU, it IS you and it will make you happy and you will never regret it deeply. It may turn out to be a mistake, as the world measures things, but it will never be a serious one for you . . . You may, eventually, follow your second impulse and be praised for your sensible judgment, but the natural, untamable fellow who lives inside of you will never be completely content.

MANY BABIES ON PERFECT DIET OFTEN FOUND TO NEED COPPER

Scientists Learn Asphalt Causes Cancer in Mice, But Not in Man.

CHEMICAL WIZARDS MEET.

(By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Editor.)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12 (A.P.) — New human uses of Science came with a rush at the American Chemical Society here to-day.

If the baby has a perfect diet, yet is ailing, perhaps he needs copper. If you like bread crusts, it's all right to eat them, but not if you want Vitamin B1.

Asphalt causes cancer among mice, but apparently it is harmless to man, and certainly so in pavements. If the doctor prescribes calcium, there's a new and better way of giving it in hypodermic "shots" called calcium-levu-gluconate.

The copper report was made by Dr. C. A. Alvehjem of the Department of Agricultral Chemistry, University of Wisconsin. With Dr. Dorothy Reed Mendenhall he studied the diets of 700 children brought to the child health centres of Madison.

He reported: "We are compelled to believe that many supposedly well fed infants are slightly amaemic and that their diets are deficient in iron or copper or both."

The effects of baking on Vitamin B1 in bread were reported by Prof. Agnes Fay Morgan, of the University of California. She found that "there was a surprisingly small loss of viamin produced by baking." The exception was in the crusts of whole wheat bread. In them there was considerable loss of B1.

The studies of common substances of daily contact which tend to cause skin cancer were reported by Dr. Emil Bogen and Russell N. Loomis of the Olive View Sanitorium, Olive View, Calif.

They started with the well-known medical fact that too much handling of tars induces cancer, even in man. Likewise they found that asphalt gave mice skin cancer, but not that its human uses are dangerous.

Studebaker Employee Fired First American Shell In World War

Alex Arch, who fired the first American shell towards the enemy in the World War, is employed by The Studebaker Sales Corporation of America in the Company's South Bend plant.

Studebaker is now the only car on the market less than $1,500 with power brakes. Power brakes provide the world's safest, surest stopping—and with a minimum of pressure on the brake pedal.

Better Business

Studebaker retail deliveries during July in the United States were greater than July of 1933 by 11.4 per cent and the best of any July since 1930.

See Monster Car

More than 200,000 visitors to Chicago's World's Fair have inspected the enormous model of a 1934 Studebaker "Land Cruiser" on exhibit in the Travel and Transport Building and have attended the "movies" shown in the theatre that is located in the car.

For Invalids

Studebaker has produced a combination ambulance - sedan for transporting the aged and infirm. The car comes equipped with a "wheel stretcher" making it very simple to take bed-ridden patients motoring.

400,000 OPIUM USERS COUNTED

Report of "Drug Census" in Province of Kiangsu.

INCLUDES SHANGHAI.

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 12. — (C.P.)—In a recent survey of the province of Kiagsu, which contains the large seaport of Shanghai, and the capital of China, Nanking, the special opium suppression committee discovered there are in excess of 400,000 opium addicts living within the boundaries of the province. The total population of Kiangsu is stated to be slightly in excess of 32,000,000 people.

This "drug population census" was carried out in accordance with the special opium suppression regulations, and is declared in some quarters to be the forerunner of an opium monopoly to be established in Kiangsu province. Using the number of opium addicts in each district as a basis the opium suppression committee will determine the number of government-authorized opium sales agencies and opium smoking dens that may be established throughout the province.

The work of licensing opium sales agencies and opium-smoking dens, however, seems to be in danger of being taken over by the military affairs commission, should the military take over the direction of the opium monopoly it will result in a decided reduction in the provincial revenues, and a corresponding increase in the military acquisitions.

The military declare that by taking over the direction of the sale and consumption of opium they can eradicate all drug smuggling in the province.

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Red Williams

THE FIRST ROBERT ROGERS

On this date, in 1760, Major Robert Rogers was despatched by General Amherst of Detroit to take formal possession of that strategic point on behalf of Great Britain. The capitulation of Montreal on the 8th by Vaudreuil had sealed the doom of New France. The victory of Wolfe at Quebec the previous year had been completed by the final hauling down of the fluer de lys at Montreal and it was necessary that Detroit should be protected against the hostile Indians and any raiders from the wild country to the West.

No better man could have been selected for the job than Rogers. A native of New Hampshire, he had raised Rogers' Rangers and made them a terror to the French. When he left Montreal for Detroit he had 200 Rangers in fifteen whale boats. The expedition reached Fort Frontenac (Kingston) on September 25 and on the 31st came to where Fort Rouille had been, the site of the present Toronto, and he described it as a "convenient place for a factory".

The boats made the trip across Lake Ontario to Niagara in one day and then did quick journey to the straits where the French flag was lowered and the British hoisted in its place. Six years later Rogers was appointed Governor of Mackinaw. Still daring in his relation to the hostile Indians he was a big factor in bringing Pontiac to a treaty of peace; but he had his enemies and was charged with intriguing with the Spaniards, for which he was recalled to Montreal, tried by court martial but acquitted. In the revolutionary war he commanded the Queen's Rangers, retiring in 1777 in favor of J. Graves Simcoe who was the first lieutenant governor of Upper Canada.

Rogers was, like his namesake of Manitoba a century and a half later, a great fighter and a true loyalist. He had his faults, but he had more friends than foes. He was the right man for that border job and he must have much resented the British diplomacy which in 1783, a year before his death in England, handed Michigan over to the new republic.

CLAIM DORMANT INVENTIONS KEY TO ECONOMIC RECOVERY

Lagged Since War, While Depression Has Stimulated Industrial Research.

CASH HARD TO RAISE.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—Inventions lying dormant in the patent offices of the world hold the secret for quick industrial and economic recovery, Sir James B. Henderson told the British Association for the Advancement of Science to-day.

Industrial research has been greatly stimulated by the depression, said Sir James, professor and inventor, while since the war development of inventions has lagged. Since the war, he said, "the only type of invention which has been in demand has been one which will further reduce employment by saving costs of production."

It is much easier to-day, he reported, to find $250,000 for the commercial working of an invention which has been developed to the commercial stage, than it is to find $25,000 for its development from the patent stage upward.

"The history of industrial progress," he said, shows that it has been due in large measure to a combination of inventors with scientific vision with promoters having capital and economic vision. Since the war this type of combination has been greatly reduced."

Another section of the association learned that science has produced a method for detecting the watering of milk.

Dr. J. F. Tocher, professor at the University of Aberdeen and bacteriologist, said that a fool-proof method of detection has hitherto been one of the main difficulties of those charged with seeing whether milk measures up to statutory regulations.

Many cases have occurred, he said, where genuine milk has been held to be watered.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

ONTARIO GRAIN

Approximate prices track shipping point—Wheat, 92c to 95c; oats, 35c to 38c; barley, 60c to 64c; corn, 85c to 88c; rye, 56c to 57c; buckwheat, 55c to 58c.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Eggs and butter continued to advance on the Montreal produce and dairy market yesterday. Cheese held steady at yesterday's levels and potatoes were unchanged in price.

Eggs advanced one cent per dozen on each of the first three grades, while grade "C" was ½ cent higher. Graded shipments in carlots or less were quoted today at 32 cents a dozen for "A" large, 30 cents for "A" medium, 21 cents for "B" and 19½ cents for "C." Arrivals totalled 2,248 cases.

On the butter market, improved demand sent the price of Fresh No. 1, in carlots or less, up one cent a pound, today's quotation being 20 to 20½ cents a pound. Small lots to the retail trade were also higher, solids being priced at 21 cents a pound and prints bringing 22 cents a pound, each up one cent. Receipts totalled 106 boxes. At the weekly auction held at the Board of Trade, 670 boxes were offered, No. 1 grade selling at 19¾ cents a pound.

Ontario colored cheese sold at 10 cents a pound, and Quebec cheese brought 9½ cents a pound, both unchanged from their former levels. Receipts were 2,034 boxes. At the weekly auction No. 1 Quebec white cheese sold at 9 5-16 cents a pound and No. 1 Quebec colored cheese brought 9¾ cents a pound, offerings totalling 563 boxes.

New Quebec potatoes were unchanged in price, No. 1 grade being 45 to 50 cents per 80-pound bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Wheat futures advanced late yesterday, responsive to the fact that cash wheat and cash corn had risen to fresh top price records for the season.

December wheat, which earlier dropped to $1.06, rebounded 1¾ cents. Expectance that the Canadian Government crop report would make a bullish exhibit was an additional stimulating factor.

Closing quotations for wheat were firm, 1c to 1¼c over Monday's finish; Dec., new, $1.07⅜ to $1.08½; corn, ⅝c to ⅝c up; Dec. new, 79⅝c to 79⅞c up; and provisions varying from 10c decline to 22c gain.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Bolstered by switching of hedges to the distant option, October wheat displayed independent strength on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and closed 1⅛ cents in advance. The May option offered stubborn resistance to the short selling, but ended ⅛c down.

Closing figures on October were 84⅝c, on December 85⅝c, and on May wheat 89⅛c. Traders buying in their October wheat hedges found that option hard to buy, with the result the price was quickly run up.

Eastern and Southern buyers were credited with a little buying in the December and May deliveries. Export business was not a factor.

Cash grains demand was only moderate and spreads closed about unchanged. Coarse grains were steady.

GOLD ISSUES FINISH SOFT

Heavy Selling in Teck Hughes Unsettles Toronto Mining Market.

SILVER SHARES SLOW.

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP).—Decided weakness in Teck Hughes, attended by heavy selling of the stock, unsettled the mining section of the Toronto Exchange this afternoon, the whole gold group closing with losses. Substantial recessions were boarded for Little Long Lac, San Antonio and the senior gold group. Base metal and silver shares were slow and only mildly weak.

New York holders were reported to be the chief sellers of Teck. The day's turnover of the stock was above 50,000 shares. The close at $45 was off 55 cents for the day.

Braiorne, Pioneer, Hollinger, Lake Shore and Wright Hargreaves all took losses ranging from 20 to 50 cents.

Losses Predominate In The Industrials

TORONTO, Sept. 12 (CP).—Steady and even strong at times, the industrial market took on a moderately soft tone at the tail end of the session, influenced somewhat no doubt by the heavy selling of the golds that was proceeding on the mining board. Losses had a margin over gains at the close. Beverages made a fair showing and the oils, metals and utilities retained a preponderance of advances.

Nearly all the interlisted issues close on the up side, including International Nickel, Brazilian, Ford 'A' and C. P. R. Smelters sagged a point. Distillery issues dropped early gains with exception of Walkers Common which held a small fraction above the previous close. The Brewing Corporation issues were up 3-8 to a point in fair volume.

J. Gettas Discharged No Defence Required

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 12.—(CP)—The defence motion for dismissal of the criminal negligence charge against James Gettas, Kitchener, was granted this morning by Mr. Justice J. C. Makins without the defence putting in any evidence, Gettas was immediately freed.

The case was taken from the jury because Judge Makins ruled that the Crown had not shown any gross, wilful or wanton misconduct on the part of Gettas as required by the statute.

Gettas, prominent restaurateur, was arrested March 12 and charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Traffic Officer Lemon of the Provincial Police on the Preston Highway half a mile from this city. Lemon had just checked up another driver in regard to lights and was walking away when he was struck and fatally injured by a car going toward Preston.

The grand jury yesterday reported no bill on the manslaughter charge, substituting one of criminal negligence. C. W. Bell, M.P. Hamilton ,defended Gettas.

Resuming Standard Time In Factories

With the return of factories to standard time schedules during the next two weeks, a confusion which has existed in the city during the past three months will disappear. The De Laval Company has already reverted to standard time and others are to follow.

Throughout the summer a considerable portion of the population has been living according to advanced time, although the official clocks of the city remained unchanged. The larger factories found a time adjustment necessary for the maintenance of close business connections with the other business centres of Canada and the United States. A belief is now widespread in the city that voters will no longer hesitate to endorse daylight saving after the present season's experience.

The Canadian General Electric Company, two plants of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds and other firms which adjusted schedules this summer will likely return to standard time at the end of the month. The local brokerage offices and The Examiner, who found adaptations necessary due to close Toronto connections, will also change back at that time.

Two Sarnians Saw Pegram And Meisner

SARNIA, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—Two reputable Sarnians to-day identified press photographs of Albert Pegram, alias Albert Leon, alias Jack Snead, and David Meisner as men they had seen in this city about the time of the kidnapping of John H. Labatt, London brewer.

One citizen is prepared to swear he saw Pegram on the day after Labatt's release while the other man claims he observed a man answering Meisner's description standing nearly all day at the intersection of London Road and Christina Street, where through traffic from Sarnia to London turns, on the day preceding the abduction.

Mid-Week Market For Local Farmers

The mid-week produce market, an old feature of the city's business life recently renewed, saw a brisk demand for butter and eggs this morning, but none were offered.

Farmers who "stood market" outside appeared to be quite satisfied with the possibilities of a mid-week market being revived and transacted such a volume of business that it is expected the market will again be held next Wednesday morning.

SNOW IN EDMONTON

EDMONTON, Sept. 12. (CP).—Snow was falling here this morning following 36 hours of rain and sleet which brought three-fifths of an inch of moisture. Snow and rain was reported all through the Peace River country with two inches at Spirit River and one inch at Fort St. John, B.C. Snow was also reported at Dawson Creek, Falher, Pouce Coupe, Grouard, Beaverlodge, Grande Prairie and Fairview. Harvesting in Central and Northern Alberta appears to be indefinitely postponed as a result.

ONTARIO HOG PRICES

TORONTO, Sept 12 (C.P.)—Bacon hog prices were practically unchanged at market points to-day.

Kitchener hog price was $8.25 to $9.25, unchanged. Peterborough and Stratford prices at $8.25 were also unchanged.

London hog prices were steady at $8.20 to $8.35. Barrie down 5c to $8.20. There were no hog quotations at Brantford.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP).—Stock prices milled about indecisively today. There were several substantial gainers, but the rank and file followed a narrow range. The late tone was a trifle irregular. Continental Can and American Smelting were firm. Case, American Telephone and General Motors ruled fairly steady, but U. S. Smelting and U. S. Steel receded fractionally. Transfers approximated 350,000.

BANK GOVERNOR HAS VETO RIGHT

and the Solicitor of the Treasury. The provisional directors will act without pay until a permanent board is appointed. They will, after disposal of the shares, send out notices of a general meeting of shareholders after the statutory three month period has elapsed. With the notices will be forms of nomination of directors, and a nomination, to be valid, will require 250 shares endorsing it.

Directors will be chosen according to occupations and are divided into three groups, two representative of primary producers, two representing commerce or manufacturing and three representative of other activities.

Method of Election

Those receiving the highest number of votes in their respective classes will be elected. The two directors in any group receiving the greatest vote will hold office until the six annual general meeting; the two receiving respectively the next greatest number of votes will hold office until the fifth annual general meeting; the two receiving respectively the next greatest vote will hold office until the fourth annual general meeting and the remaining director will hold office until the third annual meeting.

The bylaws as made public today will be the basis upon which the bank will operate and supplementary by-laws will be enacted from time to time with the approval of the Dominion cabinet.

The governor and deputy governor of the bank, (Mr. Towers and an official yet to be selected, presumably a central bank expert from some other part of the Empire), will hold office during good behavior and will be outside the control of the government as well as the board of directors. The governor will be the supreme head and while he may be refused approval of his actions not covered by the statute and by-laws, no action may be forced upon him by the board. He will hold office for a period of seven years certain and be eligible to re-appointment.

Functions of the directors will be mainly advisory and the diversified selection is designed to bring to the bank the viewpoints of all classes. Meetings will be held at least four times a year and the directors will receive fees and travelling expenses.

RADIO ENQUIRY RECEIVED FIRST OPERATOR SAYS

"We sent out a stand-by message so that when I did get orders to send out an S O S we would have a clear channel.

"At approximately 3:18 to 3:19, I sent another stand-by message.

"Then all the lights went out. Smoke was getting thick and you couldn't see."

Rogers said an emergency light in the radio room, required by law was not on.

"I sent an assistant back to the bridge and told him to get explicit instructions.

"The air was silent. There wasn't a signal on it.

"About 3:25 or 3:30—I had a wet towel on my face, I could hardly breathe. Mr. Algana came back to the radio room and said, 'OK, chief, send out an S O S.'"

Sends First S O S

"I immediately sent out the S O S giving our position 20 miles south of Scotland Light.

"Then fire flashed around. I continued to send the S O S. I knew the transmitter was still functioning. The receiver was down.

"I could hardly breathe. I was sort of in a coma and I lost my way in the radio room.

Rogers testified that one operator "got drunk and was discharged in New York, and added that when he became chief operator "things went along quite smoothly."

The chief operator said that Captain Robert R. Willmott, master of the Morro Castle, who died the night before the fire, conferred with him concerning Alagna and asked: "What's the matter with Alagna, is he crazy?"

The witness testified Captain Willmott told him that he and other of Alagna's superior officers often received sarcastic remarks from the operator, "that he refused to obey orders, that he was an agitator." Rogers quoted Willmott as telling him he wanted to "get rid of Alagna in New York," and said "I don't trust that man."

Asked About Panic.

Karl C. Nielson, a member of the examining board, asked Rogers if he thought there was a panic on the boat.

"There was an awful mess," the witness said. "A regular riot."

Alagna, who was arrested as a material witness late yesterday after testifying before the Federal grand jury inquiry into the disaster, was taken from the Federal house of detention to-day and again was taken before the grand jury.

Passenger Examined

Katherine Liebler, passenger, of Melrose, N. Y., a brunette and pretty testified she occupied Room 503, C deck, on the liner. A steward awakened her at about 4:10 a.m., E.S.T. Saturday, led her into the corridor, up on deck and assisted her in donning a life preserver.

"How did you get off the boat," she was asked.

"I slid down a rope," Miss Liebler replied.

She said about 250 persons were gathered on the deck in the stern. There were some members of the crew there, she said.

She could not estimate the ratio of crew members and passengers in the group.

Hoover then questioned her concerning what she knew of intoxication among Morro Castle employees.

"When we left Havana, quite a few of the waiters were drunk," the witness said.

"Did you see any crew members drunk the night of the disaster?" Hoover asked.

Miss Leibler said she had not.

She had retired the morning of the fire at about 1:30 E.D.T. There was no smoke, no fire at that time, she said.

"Did you hear any fire alarm at any time?" the witness was asked.

"I did not," she answered.

Tuesday's High Lights

Among the disclosures brought out during Tuesday were:

1. The chief engineer of the Morro Castle, Eben S. Abbott, and his first assistant, Anthony Bujia, were not summoned by officers on the bridge when the fire was first discovered, and slept in their cabins until an alarm was sounded for passengers.

2. The chief engineer did not go down to the engine room. He and his assistant were in the first life boats to leave the ship. In these two boats were only three passengers.

3. The Federal Grand Jury summoned John Kempf, veteran New York City fireman, returning on the Morro Castle from a vacation cruise; who told newspapermen he was awakened by the smell of smoke almost three hours before the S.O.S. was sent out. He said members of the crew he saw showed ignorance of how to handle the fire hose.

Operator Summoned

4. The chief wireless operator, George Rogers, reported to have said the "real story" of the fire remains to be told, was summoned by the Grand Jury. United States Attorney Martin Conboy, it was said, wanted to ask him about the report that a wireless station on the Jersey shore asked if the Morro Castle was afire before the liner sent out its "standby" call.

5. Gouverneur Morris Phelps, a passenger on the Morro Castle, said he and his family were forced to jump into the sea by the intense heat and dense smoke before the bridge ordered out the lifeboats. He testified at the Department of Commerce inquiry that no one made any effort to help the passengers into the boats or to provide life-preservers.

BILL TURNSEA TAKES HONORS FROM CHAMPION

Decisively Outpoints Titleholder and Eliminates Him 3 and 2 in Third Round.

SOMERVILLE ADVANCES.

BROOKLINE MASS., Sept. 12.—(PC). George Dunlap of New York was shorn of the United States amateur golf championship to-day by William Turnesa, youngest of the noted Elmsford, N.Y., golfing family. Turnesa decisively outplayed the title holder and eliminated him, 3 and 2, in the third round.

Somerville, trying to regain the title he won in 1932 and lost last year, played steady golf throughout and reached the turn two up. But a streak of sub-par shooting by Noyes, gave the Canadian shotmaker an anxious time on the incoming nine. They halved the 17th with birdies as Somerville sank a sevenfooter to save his slim one-hole margin.

Somerville Advances

Somerville's club associate, Jack Nash, started to-day's round in splendid form and was two up on Charles Kocsis of New York at the turn. The third remaining Canadian out of the original contingent of five, however, was eliminated. Jack Cameron, flashy Montrealer, went down to defeat before Eddie Driggs of New York, 2 and 1.

The only representative of Great Britain, T. A. (Tony) Torrance, signalized his status as a real title threat by trouncing Johnny Lehman of Chicago, former Western champion, 4 and 3. The veteran Scottish Walker Cup player shot par golf most of the way.

Canadian Champ Goes Up

Scotty Campbell of Seattle, the Canadian amateur champion, pulled out his match with Wilson F. Marks of Pittsburgh on the last green. After seeing his early margin wiped out entirely by Marks, who won the 15th and 16th, the latter with a birdie, Scottie won the 17th and clinched the match on the final hole.

The major upset of the early matches came when James E. French, 23-year-old San Franciscan, crushed Jack Westland of Chicago, Walker uCp veteran and 1931 runner-up for the title, by the tremendous margin of 7 and 5.

DR. MOORE GIVES LAST SERMON

part of a committee which has considered the whole situation in regard to the amalgamation of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service with the Board of Home Missions. The committee reported adversely and the matter was sent on to the General Council.

The Moderator's Text

The retiring Moderator took his text from the Book of Revelation 21:5, "And he that sat upon the throne said, 'Behold, I make all things new'."

"We must recover the first century vision of God's Kingdom on the earth," said the Moderator. "Despite the unrest now sweeping the earth, the Apostolic hope which has been characteristic of the Christian Church for 2,000 years is not merely an illusion."

"It may be that the suffering, the unemployment, the hunger marches, poverty, sickness, disaster, fears, bereavements, broken treaties and repudiated ideals are the evidences that the better day is near and that the more worthy social order will arrive for human life throughout our nation and the whole world."

In the preacher's view, three lessons were to be taken to heart if such a hope were to be realized. First, the certainty that Jesus Christ had concerning the Kingdom should be shared by his followers. The Kingdom would bring in a new standard of values and it was for the church to accept and stress those values here and now.

Finally, the Kingdom would be realized only through its own message, which was Jesus Christ himself.

"Is it not right," asked the Moderator," that faith should now be associated with the nobler objectives of that better civilization for which thousands of brave and beautiful spirits have given their lives? If our faith is to mean anything real to our own and following generations, it must mean a belief in the possibility of a fairer future for this confused and suffering world."

"Th new heaven and the new earth demand that all shall live in the spirit of the Master," said Mr. Moore.

Little Grandmother Of Revolution Dies

PRAGUE, Sept. 12—(C.P.-Havas)—Catherine Breshkovskaya, "little grandmother of the Russian revolution," died today at her home in a village near Prague.

Of aristocratic origin, Breshkovskaya spent her live in struggle against the ruling clique under the czars.

A member of the Social Revolutionary party, which was followed chiefly by peasants, and, in the cities, by students, she passed 43 years of exile in Siberia.

She left Russia after the Bolshevik revolution, her party having failed to support the dictatorship of the proletariat, and took up her residence in a Czechoslokak village.

She celebrated her 90th birthday but a few days ago.

DOWN-TRODDEN SLAVS NEAR REVOLT IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

Czechs and Slovaks Remain Aloof From Each Other, Former Ruling.

READ MARXISM

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN,
Central Press Canadian Writer

BRATISLAVA, Sept. 12.—This is the capital of Slovakia. The city has not many inhabitants, but it is richly endowed with names. Even so it is beaten in this respect by Liege in Belgium where you can read on the railway station that the city is also called Luik, Luettich and Vuillemin. Bratislava has one name less than Liege. It makes up for the loss in other ways. Some call it Pressburg. That is a German word. Others call it Poszony, which is Hungarian. The many names have a confusing effect on the newcomer. He doesn't know at first of what city people are talking. It all comes down to this: If there had been one big union among the bricklayers at Babylon we'd probably have saved ourselves a lot of trouble. For one thing we would not need to go measuring cosmic rays in the stratosphere. In Babylon they had no intention of stopping half-way. They planned to go straight up to heaven. It is all the fault of organizational inefficiency and lack of union discipline among the bricklayers . . .

Besides German, Hungarian and Slovak, you hear a good deal of Yiddish spoken in Bratislava, as well as Romany, the gipsy language. But the upper crust speaks exclusively Czechish. It will cause no surprise, therefore, when I say that Bratislava has more adepts of Esperanto per capita than any other city its size in the world. Moscow, never slow at making propaganda, seems to have taken advantage of this predilection for the world-language. I counted five Esperanto bookshops on the main street in Bratislava, where the chief stock in trade displayed in the windows was the literature of Marxism. There were other bookshops, of course, German, Hungarian, Czech, Yiddish and one even French. People appear to be heavy readers in Slovakia, which proves one thing n.i., that there is a deep disquietude about conditions. It is said that America began to read only in the third year of the depression.

Peoples Remain Separate

The streets of Bratislava are narrow and dark. They make you think both of Wall St., where the skyscrapers shut out the sun, and of the front-line trenches, where stretcher-bearers had a deuce of a time getting around corners. A Slovak poet with whom I spent the evening and who initiated me into the mysteries of life in the double republic said that Bratislava was once the capital of a mighty empire. I have forgotten the name of that empire, but I do remember the sighs of an old Viennese general when he spoke of Bratislava. In the days of Francis Joseph, Viennese society used to go week-ending in the picturesque old inns here. Now there is a frontier to cross.

The various national clans in Bratislava do not mix a great deal, but they are not hostile to each other. Joined they are only in their hatred for the Czechs, who appear here in the role of overlords and bureaucrats, the successors of the old Austrian rulers. On the map and in newspaper dispatches the country is called Czecho-slovakia, linked by a hyphen. Here on the spot you find that there are no such beings as Czecho-Slovaks, but there are Czechs in Czechia and Slovaks in Slovakia, and that the hyphen which is called a "trait d'union" in French, a link of union, does not denote brotherly solidarity but is a detested symbol of national incompatibility—at least to the Slovaks.

Preserve Eloquent Silence

As in every other country there are liberals, conservatives, socialists, clericals, and men of the middle of the road in Slovakia. Doubtless they would quarrel among themselves were it not that they can always agree on the subject of the Czechs. The Slovaks are people of moods. They have the Slavic melancholia. But they are not as loquacious as the Russians. Every Russian wants to tell you his life-story and that of all his friends, neighbors and relatives. In the cafes of Bratislava there hangs a strange brooding silence, packed with explosive emotion. It will not always remain as peaceful in Slovakia as it is today. For that people read too much and for that the silence is too eloquent. When they are greatly stirred the Slovaks sing a song. It is a stirring, vibrating, passionate hymn. It is not the official national anthem. Official national anthem is a Czech concoction, which is played by the military bands on the birthday of the republic. The song I am speaking of is the hymn of the Detvani. The Detvani are the Slovaks who live in the Carpathian mountains. In the middle ages the Detvani were robbers. So, at least, the history books will inform you, the same as Manchurians are conveniently dubbed bandits in our days. The truth is that the Detvani preferred to live in the mountains rather than be the chattel-slaves of Teutonic barons and other overlords in castles. You and I would have been among the Detvani, I trust, had we lived in these parts in the middle ages.

"You woods, you thick, cool forests on the mountains," begins the song of the Detvani. And it goes on: "There is a path to the mountains! My father was a good man, but I will be a bandit. I will be a bandit, because injustice is great. Power lies with the lords. But justice is in the hands of the bandits!"

Jews Live In Ghetto

When the Slovaks sing this song they forget that they are liberals or conservatives or socialists or clericals or men of the middle of the road. They all sing it, standing up. Fire comes into their eyes, a sob in their voices and their fist) clench. The Czechs smile when they hear the song of the Detvani. They call it an interesting piece of folklore, a nice pleasant ditty. It is true the Czechs control the army, the police and the judiciary in Slovakia, and they also run the jails.

The Jews of Bratislava live in the medieval ghetto, which is built up against the mountains. Beyond the ghetto lies the red light district. Medieval town planners had a way of putting the outcasts together. You can see the same thing in Avignon in the south of France and in Rome on the Tiber. The ghetto consists of a rabbit-warren of alleys so narrow that you can touch both sides of the street at the same time when you stretch out your arms. The houses date from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. The latest construction bears the inscription 1632. I would not be surprised if anyone told me that not a brush of paint has been applied to the houses of the ghetto in all these years. They look black, they smell of damp and of rotting plaster and they swarm with rats, I noticed.

The gipsies live even higher than the Jews on the fringe of the city, but way up. The gipsies are the entertainers of Bratislava. They play music both at weddings and funerals. But the fee for playing at a funeral is a crown more than for a wedding.

On Friday nights, just as soon as the evening star appears, the Jewish quarter is illumined with thousands of candles in welcome of the Sabbath. If you look up towards the ghetto after dark from the city, from downtown Bratislava, it is as if the lights of the ghetto-mountain mingle with the lamps in the mansions of the Lord.

A communication concerning a claim for damages from Carolina L. Ewing of Toronto, who sprained her ankle on the step in front of Forsythe's butcher shop on George street was referred to S. B. Hueston & Co., liability insurance brokers for the village in Toronto. It has been said the insurance company disclaims any liability as the step in question is on G. G. Chiles' property and not on the street allowance, and to correct the evil, if any existed, Mr. Chiles has had a new and higher step constructed.

don as to the admissability of statements made to police by Walsh. Evidence as to Walsh's condition at the time was given by Constable Silvester, Dr. Herbert Young and Dr. T. W. H. Young. The judge said that statements made by Walsh at the tree were not admissable but that those made at the car, 200 yards away, some 20 minutes later were admissable. Constable Silvester said that under the tree Walsh appeared to be in a stupor and just recovering from a "drunken sleep", but on the road his mind appeared clear and his memory was better. Walsh walked out to the car without assistance, sat down, and asked for a cigarette. Witness said he gave the man the usual warning that what he said might be taken down and used against him at his trial.

Drank Rubbing Alcohol

This statement was signed by Walsh and was witnessed to by Constable Silvester and Dr. Herbert Young. In the brief statement Walsh said that on Friday night, September 30, he and Maher were togther and Maher got some rubbing alcohol which they drank. "I don't know anything more about what happened until now," the statement read. "I remember taking Joe off the road. I think I was driving the car when it went into the ditch."

"Walsh asked several times if Joe was badly hurt," witness related. "He and Maher had gone around the corner of Charlotte street for the bottle of rubbing alcohol and then come back to him with it."

The statement was made with great hesitation and the interview on the roadside lasted about three quarters of an hour.

Dr. Herbert Young said he accompanied his father, Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, to the scene of the crash about 7.30 in the morning. "At the car Walsh seemed fairly sensible, but he did not seem to remember what had occurred the night previous," witness said. "He said he thought he was driving at the time of the accident, but he was not sure. He remembered driving previously. He said that when the car crashed, Maher was thrown on the centre of the road and lay there moaning. He dragged him to the side of the road."

Four Ribs Broken

Witness said he assisted in the post mortem and testified that Maher had four ribs broken on the right side, one of which punctured his lung; also his left leg was broken in two places above the ankle; and his liver was ruptured and badly torn. "It must have been something that struck him with great froce to break his ribs as they were broken," stated Dr. Young.

Under cross-examination Dr. Young said Maher's rib injuries might have been sustained if he had been riding in the back seat and was thrown against something when the car crashed. He said it was reasonable to conclude that his foot was caught in pedal when he was thrown out. "It was tension rather than a blow that broke his leg," he said.

William Mann, of Port Hope, was driving a truck along the highway at 5.35 that morning and saw the wreck.

Gordon Bigelow, Springville garage operator, said he was called to the scene of the wreck by Constable Hornick. He said the car was so badly damaged that it was beyond repairs—the top was smashed off, the wheels broken, the sides stove in; and the steering wheel broken in several places.

Under cross-examination Mr. Bigelow said the steering wheel was probably broken when the driver's body came forcefully in contact with it.

Albert Bowles told of drawing the constables' attentions to the man lying under the tree.

Dr. T. W. H. Young stated that in his opinion Maher's injuries indicated that he was driving the car at the time of the crash.

Constable Hornick testified as to the damage of the car and other evidence as to the speed the car must have been travelling. This closed the Crown's case.

Called by the defence, Dr. D. C. Hewett stated Maher's injuries to his ribs indicated that he was thrown against the steering wheel, or some round object.

Members of jury were: Russell Tucker, 717 Bethune street; Harry Rutherford, Otonabee; Edgar Simmons, 124 Hilliard street; George Lacheur, 265 Reid street; E. H. Hales, 505 Bethune street; E. M. BAR COMMUNIST AT CONVENTION OF UNION LABOR

REGARDED AS HOSTILE

Headquarters Staff Complimented on Defense of Labor Cause.

(By Harold J. Fair, Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, September 12. — (C.P.)—Organized Canadian Labor yesterday reiterated its opposition to communist teachings and policies. The Canadian Trades and Labor Congress on the second day of its week-long convention here, refused the admission of a Montreal delegate, alleging he was a communist, and approved the report of the committee on officers' reports upholding the International Trades Union movement against all opponents.

Humphrey Mitchell, M.P., of Hamilton, chairman of the Credentials Committee, announced a delegate from the Plumbers' Union, Local 144, Montreal, had his credentials turned down. His name was not available. Reason for this debarment was violation of the constitution, which prohibits a member of the Congress belonging to another organization "hostile to the Congress."

The committee on officers' reports submitted its report, which carried unanimously, noting with pleasure the activity of headquarters in defending the Congress from vicious and lying attacks which have been made against the International Trades Union Movement.

Secretary-Treasurer P. M. Draper reported membership slightly lower than last year at 103,424. Total receipts for the year were $25,226.54.

"In these abnormal times," he declared, "I think it would be a conservative estimate to say that 50 per cent. should be added to our reported membership to give a true picture of the real strength of the Congress."

The Congress approved of resolutions urging a national retirement act for all railway employees, and protecting marine workers. It favored amendments to the Election Acts of the Dominion requiring ballot papers to carry the political faith instead of the occupation of candidates, and urging better accommodation for voting.

Resolutions from Toronto and Montreal condemning one-man street cars, were referred back to the Committee on Resolutions for consolidation.

SAYS WOMAN DRUG ADDICT PROSTRATE AT DEATH HINT

Read Doctor's Suggestion she be Humanely Destroyed.

HALIFAX, September 12 (C.P.).—The legal counsel for a woman drug addict said to-day she had been "prostrated" ever since learning the Halifax Board of Health had discussed a motion that she be "humanely destroyed" to end her suffering.

A motion that the woman's life be taken was proposed last week by Dr. A. P. Gough, a veterinary surgeon and member of the city council, who declared the women suffered intense pain when deprived of drugs. His motion was not seconded. To-day her lawyer, R. Parkinson Goffe declared Dr. Gough had never seen his client "in the condition he describes. He saw her only in my office when she was in tears, due to her nervous condition."

"My client," he added, "has been prostrated ever since reading about the doctor's remarks."

Meanwhile the board is awaiting a report on the woman's condition from its secretary, A. C. Pettipas, whom it instructed to investigate the case further. Yesterday Mr. Pettipas said he believed proper hospital care would improve the woman's health.

EDWARD WILKINS ON WRITES INTERESTING LETTER ON DAYS WHEN MARMORA IN INFANCY

Former Marmora Boy Recalls When Gold Was Struck on Moira River.

HEYDAY OF OXEN.

Tells of Old Iron Company at One Time Employing Nearly 1,500 Men.

MARMORA Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence).—Further interesting sidelights on the Marmora of sixty years ago are supplied in a letter which the Examiner representative unexpectedly received on Monday from Edward Wilkinson of Geyserville California a former Marmora resident and son of the late James Wilkinson whose remains repose in the local Protestant cemetery.

The letter in part reads: "I am informed you are endeavouring to find the particulars of the history of the old town and consequently I may be of service to you in that particular. My mother passed away in England when I was eight, and father brought the family of four—two sons and two daughters—to Marmora, where we resided and where my father spent the balance of his life. Welanded in Canada on the second day of August, 1870. Marmora was just a little village sustained through the lumber industry, for the country was heavily timbered with pine, hemlock and balsam and the swamps were usuall of cedar and tamarack.

1000 Men Employed

About a century before, the Marmora Iron Company had estabilished a smleting works in the little village and employed some 1,000 or 1,500 men. Charcoal was burnt in pits in the surrounding country and used as fuel in the smelter. The ore was brought from Blairton in barges and landed at a wharf just north of the village, from which tracks were laid for cars of small dimension to carry the ore to the smelter.

A road was cut and built through the primeval forest to Kingston, from which town all the necessary requirements were hauled with oxen to Marmora.

The old church on the other side of the river above the rapids was built about the year 1800, and a cemetery adjoined the church. I am establishing the year from the tombstones that were scattered about when I was a youth, one of which I scraped the moss from the letters in order to read the inscription and found it to read: 'Sacred to the memory of Margaret Hughes who departed this life in the year 1828. Erected by her brother, Patrick Hughes.' I attended service in the old church in the year 1874.

Shortly after a new brick church was built in the rear of the lower end of the town and the old building became deserted, and the walls of the interior became covered with the autographs of the various visitors.

The head of the Marmora Iron Company at this time was Mr. Rodger Bates, who resided in Blairton, and I understood the property to comprise some thirty-two thousand acres, including a railroad which ran to the narrows, from which point the ore was shipped in later years. The stone hotel which sides on the Madoc road was the residence of the heads, and in this building were the offices.

A stone building on the west side of the street toward the lower end of the town was a stable used for the care of the oxen and a stone building on the east side of the river below the rapids was the old schoolhouse, deserted about the year 1870, and a new one built back of the upper end of the town and north of the Madoc road.

Gold Is Found

Lumbering was the principal occupation of the residents of the village until gold was discovered about three or four miles east of the village on the Moira river, and this gave employment to many of the population residing in the village. Finally a Mr. Gatling, brother of the inventor of the Gatling gun, conducted the business for some years.

There were many of the old pioneers who took up land in the immediate surroundings — the Crawfords, the Shannons, the Padgets, Richard Laycock and many others who are now forgotten; yet some of their descendants were prominent in the transacting of the affairs of the village and township. There was a certain friendliness about those old-timers that has passed with them. One assisted the other and lent a helping hand wherever needed. They cut their homes out of the wilderness and made themselves self-sustaining, and their offspring were a splendid and vigorous race. Work and cold winters had developed them into sturdy men and women. The old pioneers were mostly emigrants from Iceland and England and whatever their difficulties were in the old world they were all friendly and assisted one another in the new.

The First Sidewalk

There were no sidewalks in Marmora in the early days. The first sidewalk that was built was on the east side of the street—Forsyth Street—and was built by subscription and was about four feet wide. There was no fence around the cemetery in the early times until my father, Mr. J. Pearce and Mr. Rayburn took up a subscription and all turned out and built the fence of pine boards, the result of the subscription. I think a Mr. Keys is the oldest sailor in the 'silent sea'; he resided on a ranch about four miles east of the village and passed away at the age of 107. There were no churches in Marmora in the year 1870 when we came, but a certain Mr. Grout came from Stirling and held Episcopal services in the town hall, which was also built by the Marmora Iron Company. About this time a certain Mr. C. Osborne, a Methodist clergyman, held services in the town hall and in the various schoolhouses in the adjoining districts.

Finally the Episcopalians decided to erect a building and a certain Mr. William Leonard, being enterprising and well-to-do, went to the various Episcopalians, including the Campions, the McWilliams, Mr. Bleecker my father and many others who subscribed to the building of the church.

The church was completed about 1874 or 1875 and the stone was quarried on the far side of the river below the bridge but as funds were low the tower was not completed for some ten years when a young Englishman was employed to quarry and dress the stone. A few years later the Methodist Church was built and finally the Catholic Church was built.

Oxen Popular

Oxen was the principal means of transportation and it was not until years later that horses were brought into use by the farmers of the surrounding country. Mules were used by the lumber companies but oxen were used entirely by the timber men in the forests for hauling the timber out of the woods to the rivers.

It was not an uncommon sight to see 100 000 logs pass down the river and owned by one company in one season. These logs in the early times were usually pine and it was not until later years that the companies cut hemlock or tamarack. The latter became commonly used as ties for the railroads.

Planted Row of Maples in '80

The men usually went in the woods in the fall and did not return until spring when the logs were floated down. There are few who will remember that I ever resided in Marmora. I understand the house I built still remains but the monument I left to be remembered by is the row of maples which I planted on the west side of the street at the lower end of the town. These trees I planted in the year 1880 and I understand they are still there. Otherwise all footprints are obliterated as are the forefathers of the hamlet.

I might mention that the land known as the cemetery was donated by the Marmora Iron Company as a place in which to inter their dead but a portion of this land now occupied as a cemetery was a portion of the Cameron estate which adjoined the land of the Marmora Iron Company."

Obituary

MRS. WILBERT LUNN.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—News of the death of Mrs. Wilbert Lunn on Sunday, September 9, following little more than three days' illness with spinal meningitis, came as a distinct shock not only to her family and other relatives but to the entire community as well.

Deceased was in her thirtieth year and was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bristow, of Carmel. She was born and brought up in this vicinity, and was held in high regard by all who knew her. The marriage of Hazel Bristow and Wilbert Lunn took place fourteen years ago, and to their union were born four children, the oldest of whom is now twelve, and all of whom survive their mother.

Mrs. Lunn was a member of the United Church and of the Women's Institute, and of a very loveable and cheerful disposition. The immediate surviving relatives, besides the children already mentioned, include her parents and husband, three sisters, Mrs. L. Pudsey (Alma), of Cavan; Marjorie, at home, and Mrs. Victor Gilmour (Audrey), of Garden Hill. Also two brothers, Leslie, of Millbrook, and Hilliard, of Bethany.

A private funeral at the homestead, Carmel, on Monday, was made obligatory by the nature of the disease which proved fatal, but a large number of friends and relatives gathered at the cemetery, St. Paul's, Fourth line, Cavan, for the service, which was conducted by Rev. A. L. Sisco, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church. The pallbearers were two brothers, Leslie and Hilliard Bristow, a cousin, Lawrence Winslow, and three brothers-in-law, Archie Lunn, Victor Gilmour and Louis Pudsey.

MRS. E. W. BAILEY

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence)—Following a three months' illness the death occurred this morning at her home in Lakefield of Annie Ferguson McLean, wife of E. W. Bailey. Mrs. Bailey suffered a stroke in June from which she never recovered fully. She had resided in Lakefield where her husband is manager of the Canada Cement Company's plant for the past 30 years and had a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Bailey was active in church work in the village and lent active support to any movement for the welfare of the community.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Edward, of Hamilton; one daughter, Mildred, of the Peterborough Collegiate staff; and one sister, Miss McLean, of Ottawa.

The funeral service will be conducted privately at the home at 2.30 Friday afternoon, and interment will be in the Hillside cemetery.

Ian MacRobert of Stranraer, Scotland, on service with the Chinese Maritime Customs, has been promoted to first officer and decorated by the Chinese government for bravery and valuable aid in saving the U.S.S. Fulton when it was afire off Lemma Island.

King George Named In U.S. Probe

Charges that King George V. of England allegedly had sought to prevent U. S. armament sales to Poland have been levelled before the senate munitions investigation committee by L. D. Driggs, president of the Driggs Ordnance and Engineering Co. of New York city, which had been competing for the Polish arms contract. Driggs is shown, Centre, with L. E. Sweetser, LEFT, of the American Armament Co.; Driggs and M. L. Patterson, RIGHT, attorney, waiting to testify in the probe.

erland walking along the road. "He gave me a look just as much as to say, give me a ride," witness said.

"I stopped the truck and told the young lad to tell the man to jump on. The man accepted the lift and rode on the back of the truck up among the bags of chop and empty cream cans."

"A Bad Crossing."

From former experience, Driscoll remarked, he knew that the train had either gone or was coming. "As we came to the tracks I looked south down the tracks and then looked to the right as far as I could see. I said to the lad, is anything coming, and he replied, it is all clear. I took another look and still couldn't see very far up the tracks. It is a bad crossing."

Crown Attorney: "You went on the track without knowing what was hidden from sight at a greater distance than forty feet?"

"Yes. I kind of took the lad's word for it."

Witness heard the whistle of the train about a couple of seconds before the crash, he testified. Prior to that he had not heard either the whistle or the bell, which the engineer and his firemen had previously sworn were being sounded before the crossing was reached.

"I Don't See Anything."

John Hickey, the youth who was a passenger in the truck on the morning of the smash, told an equally frank and straight-forward story in the box to that given by the truck driver. He agreed that Driscoll had asked him if anything was coming, and said he had replied, "No, I don't see anything."

The youth said the view was badly obstructed by bushes and the view he had down the tracks would not be more than fifty yards, he would judge. He swore that he did not hear the train whistle.

Crown Attorney: "The fact that you told the driver it was all right to cross was pretty much the cause of the accident, was it not?"

"I don't know about that," Hickey replied. "I didn't see the train until I got out of the cab after the accident."

Both the boy and the driver of the truck estimated the speed of the vehicle on the crossing to be not more than 15 miles an hour.

Engineer Testifies.

William Murray, of Toronto, engineer of the train, said he left Peterborough on time at 7.20 a.m. The automatic bell on the engine was ringing from the time the train left the station until after the smash, he stated. Witness also swore that he had sounded the whistle at each of the crossings. For Bennett's crossing, where the accident occurred, Engineer Murray testified, "I started to whistle a quarter mile away and finished blowing right on the crossing."

He was sitting on the right-hand side of the cab, the engineer said, and the first he realized of the accident was when he saw the truck pass in front of the engine.

"What did you do then?" asked the crown attorney.

"I grabbed the whistle with one hand and pulled the brake and emergency with the other," he replied. "After I had the brake on I couldn't do anything else until the train stopped."

The engineer described how after the train came to a halt with the engine almost at the next crossing, he discovered the body of Sutherland on the front of the engine with bags of chop and debris from the smashed body of the truck.

Body on Cowcatcher.

The injured man was lying on top of the cowcatcher. He was bleeding from the mouth and never made a move. The baggageman straightened the injured man on the platform and made him as comfortable as he could. Then the conductor came along with Dr. King, who had been a passenger on the train. Acting on instructions from the doctor, the engineer said, the injured man was left on the platform on the cowcatcher in care of the baggageman while the train was backed into Peterborough. There Dr. A. G. Howson examined the body and declared that Sutherland was dead.

"Why did you not put the injured man in the baggage car?" the crown demanded.

"I was acting on instructions from the doctor," Engineer Murray quietly replied. "We were told to get back to Peterborough as soon as possible. The man was dying then."

John Turnbull, fireman, of Toronto, also swore that the whistle had been sounded and that the bell was ringing. He was looking from the cab window on the left side of the locomotive, and could not see the road, "because of bushes and trees at the crossing."

Saw Tail End of Truck.

Describing what happened immediately prior to the crash, Turnbull stated: "I just saw the tail end of the truck going over the tracks. The engineer applied the brakes and emergency."

Conductor Robert Kelsey, of Toronto, gave evidence as to having heard a succession of short blasts from the whistle just before the emergency was applied.

Evidence of identification was provided by Ian Sutherland, 16-year-old son of the victim of the fatality.

Others who testified included Harry Bird and Fred. Gilmore, employees at North Monaghan gravel pit; Edward A. Outram, who took pictures at the scene of the fatality; Provincial Constable David Silvester, Dr. A. G. Howson, G. A. Tripp, C.P.R. telegraph operator; Donald McGrath, superintendent, Canada Packers, Limited, and Constable Gordon Puffer.

The jury consisted of Messrs. M. J. Maher, foreman; Thomas O'Brien, D. Copperwaite, Daniel Burke, E. Hollingsworth, James Weyer, Peter Collins, Charles White, John McGrath, George Dinsdale, Fred. Helson and Albert Weatherhead.

Deny Girl Kidnapped, Only Seeking Lover

PINEDALE, Wyo., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Romance and not kidnapping explains the disappearance of Miss Virginia Ewing Gates, 23-year-old member of Philadelphia's social set, Sheriff W. D. Holt said yesterday.

The sheriff disclosed that the girl, daughter of Thomas Gates, who resigned as a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and Company to become president of the University of Pennsylvania, had disappeared from the Jack Dew dude ranch 35 miles northwest of here on Aug. 14. He said he called in the Department of Justice to search for her.

"I was told the girl was sent to the ranch a year ago in an effort to have her forget a love affair back in Philadelphia," the sheriff said.

"She became dissatisfied with the quiet life at the ranch and I believe she ran away, probably hoping to meet again the young man from Philadelphia."

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—As a prophet, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, it now appears, does not believe himself.

For, September 10, 1934, by his calculation, was to mark the end of the world. And what was he doing about it last week?

Answer—Stocking his cellar at Zion, Ill., with a Winter's supply of coal!

And what were his faithful followers at Zion doing about it?

Answer—Finishing up the task of canning fruits and vegetables for the long chill months ahead, and electioneering for their favorite candidates in the November election, and buying school books for their children, and putting money in the bank for the rainy days of next year or the year after.

Asserts Faith

But Volivi, although he admitted all these things, denied that they signified any real lack of faith on his part or on the part of his followers. Said he:

"The trouble is that reporters don't understand me. They should read the latest number of my magazine, 'The Final Warning'."

So one reporter did. The magazine says:

"It is absolutely true that many lines of Bible prophecy terminate in 1934."

But there was another paragraph to the effect that "the millenium will not be later than 1942."

So it is quite confusing.

they interest them in any way whatsoever."

May Arouse World.

Committee members viewed the complaints sent to the State Department as encouraging and holding the promise that world opinion will be aroused to perils of unchecked trafficking in munitions.

A letter was given Hull by Nye that will be used to answer the diplomatic protest from Argentina and other representations understood to have been made by Great Britain, Chile and another Latin American country.

"This is an investigation of munitions manufacturers, not of the morals of foreign governments," Senator Bone (D., Wash.), said. "I see no justification for any great international alarm.

"I am amazed at the frankness of the witnesses who have faced us this year." They nearly all have admitted to me privately that the mad race for armaments will bankrupt every country thus engaged, and yet they say if they don't do the business, some one else will. They admit the world is headed for disaster in the munitions race, but justified their conduct thus."

Marmora

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Lavender and family and Miss Jean Nayler visited relatives of the former in Wellington on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Williams of Toronto, are spending a few days at the rectory with their niece, Mrs. (Rev.) A. B. Caldwell.

Despite the heavy rains of the evening, Marmora town hall was packed to the doors and a large number had to be refused admission on Saturday evening as a series of talking pictures was given by the Lockhart Talking Picture Company under auspices of the local A.Y.P.A. It was the first occasion for a talkie to be shown in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Petroff of Port Colborne, are visiting Mrs. Abe Smith for a few days.

Miss Mary Bronson of Madoc, was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Charles Nichol over the week-end.

Extensive plans are under way for the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of St. Paul's Anglican church on Sunday and Monday, Oct. 7th and 8th. Right Rev. John Lyons, D.D., Lord Bishop of Ontario, will address the congregation at the 11 a.m. celebration of Holy Communion on the Sunday. He will also administer the rite of Confirmation to a number of candidates and dedicate a brass alms basin which is being donated by friends in memory of the late Miss Frances S. Jones, who for about half a century was a valued church worker.

TRYING AGAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. (AP).—Jean La Rene and Mary Owens, Texas women fliers took off from a local airport at 3.15 a.m. to-day in a new attempt to break the endurance record for women. Bad luck dogged them on several previous attempts recently. Twice they were forced down by mechanical difficulties. On a third try at St. Louis the weather caused them to abandon their flight.

CORDOVA MINE TAKES ON LIFE

Gang of 25 Are Repairing Shafts and 100 More May be at Work Later.

BUILDING TO BE DONE.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence). — Final preparations for the opening of the old Cordova Gold Mine commenced this week, when 25 men started to work. There is much to be done along these lines according to mining officials now stationed on the property. The mine must be pumped out, the shafts reconstructed along modern lines to conform with government regulation. Much building is to be done also. One representative predicted that more than one hundred and twenty-five men would be engaged by the first of October.

Work this week was started on the old power line and Hydro will be used. The new line will follow the old branch of the C.N.R. from Marmora village. Mr. Hawes of Field, B.C., a director and officer of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, has moved into one of the company's houses, and his wife and family are also along. A. Bell, mining engineer in the employ of the firm, is in charge of the small gangs at the present time.

L. W. Outred, who had charge of the pumping and testing operations during the Spring and Summer of 1933 is expected to arrive any day now and assume charge. A. Baggs, a representative of the Alexandria drilling company of Montreal, who carried on the diamond drilling operations throughout the test, was in the district last week and altogether the whole district is much enthused over the bright outlook for much employment during the coming Fall and Winter months.

Chief Mining Engineer Bell has a small gang of men building a reservoir near the old compressor house and others engaged in surveying the power line along the old railway right-of-way from Marmora where the line will connect with the Ontario Hydro Commission's line.

Nelson Wellman, well-known local prospector, together with Archie McIntyre, also well known in this district, have both been doing a lot of scouting around lately and both predict that big things are about to happen soon now. The district in which this pair have been travelling is a short distance north of this village.

MADGE EVANS SETS NEW FILM "SIREN" VOGUE

Demure, Sweet Girl Role Thing of Past—Vamping Proves Easy.

BE "DIFFIDENT"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12.—Lovely Madge Evans has become a siren!

Tired of her "wholesome, feminine, sweet" type roles on the screen, the actress asked for and received "the other woman" role. And she likes it, she declared today.

Thus Miss Evans, who is the first "child actress" in the films to achieve stardom as an adult, has added a new chapter to her career. She said:

"What struck me as being amazing is that the transition from sweet girl to siren was so easy.

"But I'm sure of one thing. I needed this change from 'sweet and pretty' to 'siren'. It has convinced me of an idea I'd often thought about—and that is, all women are more or less 'sirens.'

"There isn't anything unworthy about trying to be alluring! It is one of the fundamental instincts in a woman to please the man she loves—to make herself more charming and desirable."

Fellow film players said that Madge remains softly feminine, but they sensed a feeling that beneath the velvety softness of this new film siren there was the sharpness of a dagger.

Liner Asks About Fire

He has said in a published story that he intercepted a wireless query from a nearby liner asking if there was a fire, almost half an hour before a call to "stand by" was sent, followed by the SOS.

George W. Rogers, chief radio operator, was the only other witness heard yesterday by the grand jury, and the other members of the crew had their subpoenas adjourned until 10 a.m. (E.S.T.) to-day—the hour at which the Siboney sails.

Chief Engineer Eben S. Abbott testified at the Department of Commerce inquiry that he rowed away from the blazing liner in a lifeboat within half an hour after the fire was discovered. The lifeboat, with a capacity of 80, carried only himself, 32 members of the crew and two passengers.

First Assistant Engineer Anthony Brugia escaped in another lifeboat with 20 of the crew and two passengers.

Two Heroic Officers

But there were stories, too, of heroism under fire. Two junior officers, Second Engineer Aubrey Hunt Russell and Third Engineer Arthur Stamper, stuck to the engine room through smoke and darkness, until they could do no more.

They left the flaming ship more than four hours later on a lifeboat from the Monarch of Bermuda.

Dr. Gouverneur Morris Phelps, Mrs. Phelps and their son Gouverneur, Jr., who swam until they were picked up in boat, were the only passengers to testify.

Phelps insisted that he heard no fire alarm, and with his wife said that when she asked an officer when the boats would be lowered, the answer was:

"God knows, lady. I'm waiting orders from the bridge."

DEVELOPMENT OF NEW GLADIOLUS LONG PROCESS

Seven Years Required to Determine Features of Seedlings.

AL SPENCLEY'S WORK.

Specimens at Summer Gardens Invite Permanent Names.

(By Jeanette)

"And the glory of the garden, it shall not pass away."

There is plenty of glory in Al Spencley's Pastime Gardens. Wherever those stately flowers, the gladioli, rear their heads, beauty dwells with them. It seems strange to think that only about twelve years ago, the first gladioli came over from South Africa and was a small green flower, humble forerunner of the exquisite blossoms that spread their fairylike skirts on tall green standards in gardens such as this.

The dictionary defines a gladiolus as "a plant having bulbous roots and gladiate (or sword-shaped) leaves; a corn flag; a sword lily."

Sword lily seems to express the impression gleaned from examination of these dignified, military-looking flowers that have straight backs and blooms that resemble a lily.

At the Brock Street Summer Gardens, patrons have been busily exerting their wits to name specimens of Al Spencley's gladioli, seedings that have been cultivated with tender, expert care for years and that have now come to the point where they require a title. And, according to Mr. Spencley, a gladiolus' name is just as important as the name given a person. It can do a lot to make or mar its success in life.

Seven years seems a long time to wait for the perfect flower. It takes three years, it appears, to develop from the first bloom and another three years before the flower finally sets. And the seventh years sees a large growth. After the sixth or seventh years, no variation will be noted in the bloom. Before that, anything may happen. And the growers never know exactly, either, what color will glow in the new seedling's petals. Even solid tints like two reds may revert back to the parent stock, a "throw-back," as it were, and emerge a pure white.

The beautiful large, ruby-throted pink gladiolus, with carmine splashes, that is the apple of Mr. Spencley's eye at the moment, and that still await a title, is a cross between Pfitzer's Triumph, which is a deep salmon-pink with carmine splashes, and the pink beauty that is named Mrs. P. W. Sisson.

Names which seem quite appropriate to the coloring of the blooms are the lemon-yellow "Golden Dream"; the deep pink which is known as "Aflame"; the azure loveliness that is "Heavenly Blue"; the tall "Mammoth White." But others that have only a personal significance for the namers run to titles like "Patricia Carter," which is an exquisite shell-pink "glad" of the primulini variety; "Commander Cole," a deep crimson; "Mrs. Anna Pfitzer," the only specimen that has a tinge of green in its whiteness, and which was named, by the way, for the originator's grandmother.

There are odd names like Longfellow, for a pink bloom; Roi Alberte, a speciment in ashes of rose hue; Pellegrina, a lovely dark blue.

"Dragon Loyneese" is the striking name of a gladiolus of the French variety, that shows pointed projections on its petals, something like the queen variations in parrot tulips.

There is a pleasant local touch to "Kawartha," a pale mahogany flower with unusual coloring; while "Coryphee," the French word for ballet dancer, seems just right for the mottled pink bloom to which it belongs, and "Mother Machree" immortalizes sentiment in warm brown petals that are splashed with yellow.

Gladioli in this garden won sixteen prizes for Mr. Spencley at the show at the Royal York Hotel last year, and brought him nine prizes in the Canadian Gladioli Show of some year back. No doubt his garden harbors other prize-winners among these tall flowers that resemble the exquisite coloring of stained glass windows in their translucent splendor and the iridescent loveliness of their varied rainbow hues.

Some idea of the work involved in creating these beautiful things, and the patience required to bring them to completion, may be gleaned from a visit to the place, where one is shown hundreds of tender plants in the formative first years, that must be taken in separately and boxed and tagged and placed in a cellar, against the winter cold.

In this garden, experimentation is going on perpetually. Mr. Spencley is trying out the crossing of varieties of the lily family; the Rubrum with the Regal, and the latter variety with the lilium auratum. Delphiniums crossed with peonies and iris form another specimen in the experimental line.

A double tiger lily is a novelty, in which a second flower of the well-known type is placed directly above its mate. This lily, by the way, is known to the botanical world as "tenufolium lilium." Unlike the scented auratum, it has no perfume.

Someone has said that a flower without a perfume is like a woman without a soul. Botanists the world over now are experimenting with the gladioli, trying to inject a perfume into its composition. How marvellous would these flowers appear, if they had only the slightest vestige of fragrance. Then they would be perfect.

Millbrook Society Holds Weiner Roast

MILLBROOK, Sept. 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A jolly weiner roast featured the meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening, over sixty gathering at the Mansion grounds for the outing at 6.30 p.m.

A big bonfire was built in the centre of the green, and under the supervision of the president, B. B. Dawson, with several assistants, the weiners were cooked, and with pie and coffee furnished a satisfactory menu for the hungry guests.

Afterwards games were played with the leaping flames supplying light, and finally all closed in round the glowing coals and enjoyed a sing-song, finishing with "Taps" by the C.G.I.T. members, "Blest be the Tie" by the group with hands joined in a circle, and the repetition of the Mispah in unison before dismissal.

Announcements by the president, previous to the breaking up of the happy gathering, included notice of the big demonstration night at Bethany on Wednesday, September 12, at which it is hoped the Millbrook Y.P.S. will be well represented; the regular meeting on Monday, September 17, with the missionary committee in charge; and the gathering for recreational leaders at Peterborough on Saturday, September 22, beginning at 1.30 p.m., to which the local young people are invited.

Dawson; Christian fellowship vice-president, Oliver Brock; missionary, Jean Burnham; literary, Phyllis Kidd; recreation, Francis Jones; citizenship, Gordon Muspratt; secretary, Helen Mitchell. SWIFT ROMANCE OF SOCIALISTS

Two Leaders in British Labor Engaged "On the Spot."

JENNY LEE, LAW STUDENT.

LONDON, Sept. 11—(C. P. Cable)—Two of the most striking figures Socialism had produced in England became engaged today—36-year-old Aneurin Bevan, Labor member of the House of Commons, and Jenny Lee, 29, former Labor member of the House.

They are of similar temperament and experience. Both are children of miners. Both are somewhat fiery speakers in Labor's cause. Both represent, or represented, miners' constituencies at Westminster.

Bevan, M.P. for Ebbw Vale, Monmouthshire, Wales, who has just returned from a visit to the North American continent, explained he had a discussion with Miss Lee, who has also visited America, at the latter's chambers in the middle temple and they became engaged "on the spot." They hope to be married next month, he said.

Miss Lee is now reading for the bar and takes her examination in December.

Bevan added the fact that he is an official Labor Party member, while Jenny is a member of the more radical Independent Labor party, "should not interfere with married life."

LIBERALS PRESS FOR ARMS PROBE

Join British Laborites in Demand as Result of Washington Inquiry.

BRANDED SCANDAL.

LONDON, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—Liberals joined the Labor Party today in a demand that the Government investigate the activities of armament firms. Both parties are aroused by testimony at Washington involving several British concerns.

The Labor Party will urge that private manufacture of arms be suppressed entirely. Nothing short of absolute prohibition of private profit from munitions and armament will "end this scandal," a party statement said.

The party published a letter presented at Washington and purported to have been written by Sir Charles Craven, director of Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., in which the British arms manufacturer is alleged to have stated in connection with a pending deal for submarines that "my friend at the Admiralty will help us."

When this letter was offered in testimony to the United States Senate's investigation last week, Sir Charles said he did not recall having written it.

"The testimony concerning this letter calls for an investigation by the British Government," the Labor Party announcement said. "It is unthinkable that such allegations should be ignored, for public opinion has been deeply stirred by them."

Britain has decided not to issue special coins to commemorate the King's Silver Jubilee next year.

Presbytery Backs Bishop Farthing

MONTREAL, Sept. 12 (C.P.)—The Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada to-day stood behind Bishop J. C. Farthing of Montreal, in the stand he has taken in criticizing the attitude of Quebec Courts, which interpreted attacks on the Roman Catholic clergy as blasphemy.

At a meeting held here yesterday, the Presbytery approved recent letters of Bishop Farthing to Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, expressing His Lordship's regret at the interpretation placed by the courts on the word "blasphemy." The letters to Premier Taschereau, who is also Attorney-General for the province, likewise criticized annulment of mixed marriages performed in Quebec by Protestant ministers despite "a contrary ruling on the question by the Privy Council."

The reply of Premier Taschereau to the letters of Bishop Farthing, declaring "the question is one for the judges to decide" was considered "wholly inadequate" by Dean D. L. Ritchie, of the United Theological College here, who presented the motion for approval of the letters.

REFUSAL OF WORKERS TO OBEY WAR LORDS' CALL, KEY TO PEACE

All Conflicts Are Capitalists' Wars Trades Labor Congress Told.

POINTS TO HORRORS.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—(CP)—Refusal of the workers to obey the call of the war-lords of any country is the only way to frustrate war, John Marchbank of London, England, told the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at their convention here today.

All wars are capitalist wars, he said, and whether it is the country of the victor or the vanquished the workers suffer on every occasion as is being clearly demonstrated today.

Conveying fraternal greetings from the British Trades Union Congress Mr. Marchbank said present-day events have thrown upon Labor leaders the responsibility of considering what can be done to bolster the working class organization as the main defence of workers' liberty in the world today.

"We have seen with sorrow trades unionists shot down on the threshold of their homes, hunted like wild beasts, thrown into prison and concentration camps and driven into exile by the enemies of freedom and democratic institutions who have seized the power of government in more than one country in the continent of Europe," he declared.

Pledge to Peace

Reviewing conditions in British industry and outlining the development of the British trade union movement, he pledged the movement to the cause of international peace and said it "means something more than lip-service to the cause of peace."

"We are paying dearly for the last war which was represented by the politicians in most countries—and nowhere more than in Great Britain—as a war to end war and to maintain the principles of democracy. I leave you to judge from your own surroundings, and what has happened in other parts of the world as to the truthfulness of these assertions."

Noting the failure of the Disarmament Conference, he told the delegates, "You cannot bring about a limitation of armaments by people sitting around a table who are possessed of a war mentality and a war outlook."

CHURCH BEGINS FALL ACTIVITY

Murray Street Baptist Groups Start Seasonal Work.

TWO PROGRAMS.

A rally supper for the members of Murray Street Young Women's Mission Circle held in the church parlors last evening, opened the fall activities with a fine group in attendance.

Mrs. S. Malach presided during the program which followed, with Miss M. A. Nicholls bringing the message, dealing with the bequests of our Lord as taken from passages of the Gospel of St. John dealing with the Last Supper and His message to the twelve.

Miss Margaret Eastwood took as the devotional the story of the life of Elisabeth, the mother of John, and this was followed by prayer by Miss Ethel Garbutt.

The best wishes of the Circle were extended by Mrs. H. R. Scott to two recent brides, the president, formerly Miss Nellie Lemmon, and Mrs. Armstrong, formerly Miss Adrienne Mathews.

It was decided to hold a rummage sale on Saturday, Sept. 29, to help make up the treasury before the closing of the convention year in October.

The arrangements of the supper were in charge of the social convenor, Mrs R. B. White.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

The lie detector, as the polygraph has been named by some reportorial genius, is much more accurate and efficient than some people would have you believe. The courts have not as yet accepted its evidence, I believe, as being final. But it is used with increasing respect by detective bureaus.

Basically the lie detector is an instrument which has long been used in physiologic laboratories to record in ink on a moving strip of paper the blood pressure and the pulse.

It has long been known that the rate of the pulse and the blood pressure are influenced by emotional states. The youth who sees the young lady of his dreams feels his heart rate go up about twenty beats a minute. The elder who does not like the way the stock market is going pounds the table until his blood pressure rises and his face looks like an over-ripe tomato.

One of the earliest clinical cases we have knowledge of is Galen's account of a great patrician lady who fell ill in Rome. Her husband asked Galen to examine her. The old doctor said he could see that her trouble was functional and he heard from one of the servants that she was very fond of going to the theater. So with his finger on her pulse he asked her which dancer she enjoyed the most, naming them over one after another. When he mentioned Pylades he noticed that her pulse skipped a few beats. He concluded that her illness was due to a secret love for Pylades.

The lie detector carries out the same idea more accurately. Chief August Vollmer in 1921 started a young student at the University of California, John Larson, to make practical tests.

One of the crucial experiments consisted of having test subjects select one card from a pile of ten. Then with the lie detector adjusted each of the ten cards was shown and to the question, "Is this the card you selected?" they were required to answer "No" each time.

Now the subjects were trying to outwit the lie detector and of course each one lied at one point. But the detector revealed the time of the lie so often that only four out of 75 subjects could beat it.

When Larson got through his studies he had records on 400 criminals of all kinds, and a workable basis for future deductions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

D. R. E.: "What methods are used to prevent children from sucking their thumbs?"

Answer: This common habit of childhood causes concern entirely out of proportion to its importance. If let alone children always get over it. Treatment ranges from putting bitter mixtures on the thumbs, such as tincture of valerian, to the use of elbow cuffs. Finger guards are also used. Elbow cuffs are probably the best method.

Cornstarch Pudding with Chocolate Sauce

A plain cake or pudding with chocolate sauce is a favorite dessert in my family. Yours probably will like it also.

Today's Recipes

Veal Cutlets.—Dip in a beaten egg, then in fine crumbs and saute in hot fat. Reduce the heat, add a little water and cook gently until tender, about 45 minutes. These may be finished in the oven with bananas, which are rolled in melted butter and baked not more than 15 minutes, turning once. Sprinkle with lemon juice and finely chopped almonds just before serving.

Chocolate Sauce.—Two squares unsweetened chocolate, cut in pieces; two cups cold milk, one and one-half teaspoons flour, two-thirds cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon vanilla. Add chocolate to milk and heat in double-boiler. When chocolate is melted beat with rotary egg beater one minute, or until mixture is smooth and blended. Combine flour, sugar and salt. Pour on a small amount of chocolate mixture, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add butter and vanilla. Make two cups sauce.

STAR HAS RED HAIR

Myrna Loy

The gracious Myrna Loy, whose loveliness and thespian talents have only recently been given full measure of praise that they have long merited, is said to possess the most beautiful shade of red hair in all of Hollywood. Myrna used to be somewhat embarrassed by her red locks when she was a tot. But she's not any more. Because she knows that red hair, when properly cared for can really prove radiantly lovely.

Myrna isn't the only lass who has awakened to the charm of reddish-hued tresses. There are a good many femmes who have a yen for coppery locks. And beauticians claim that there really are reddish or coppery lights in almost every brunette head of hair that, if properly accented, give the hair radiance, life and color.

Usually, I'm not in favor of the use of hair coloring preparations by the amateur at home. I believe that such preparations can best be employed by a skilled and experienced beautician. But I've recently learned of a simple shampoo for bringing out faint reddish tints in dark hair that is not only effective, but if correctly used, is not in the least harmful.

To prepare this shampoo, take a cake of castile soap and cut it into fine shavings. Add to this two ounces of powdered, pure Egyptian henna—not the chemical henna—one teaspoon of boric acid and a quart of boiling water. Allow the entire mixture to simmer until all the soap is dissolved. Then permit it to cool to at least blood temperature.

To administer this shampoo, first moisten your hair with warm water. Then dip out a bit of the shampoo mixture and rub it through your hair, and make a third application of the shampoo. Then wrap a towel about your head and let the third application remain on for from eight to ten minutes. After this, rinse your hair in several waters, making sure that you remove all the mixture. And as the final step use a vinegar rinse composed of half a glass of vinegar and a pint of clear water. This process will bring out lovely reddish lights in your tresses.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Brown Spots

Mrs. T. S.: To eradicate brown spots, so-called "liver spots", apply a solution of hyposulphite of soda and water, one part of the chemical to eight parts of water.

Warts.

Mrs' T. M.: Warts are caused by skin infection. You should not attempt to remove them yourself. See a skin specialist about them.

Itching Skin

Betty: Your skin itches because it lacks sufficient natural oil. After the bath, massage the body with cold cream or olive oil.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR CENTRAL PRESS

By E. V. SHEPARD

CONSIDER BOTH PROBABILITIES AND POSSIBILITIES.

Careful players always consider probabilities, to the best of their ability. They also should consider possibilities, as well illustrated by this hand.

East played a doubled and redoubled grand slam at clubs, after South had made an opening bid of one diamond, which North had shifted to one spade, over West's intervening bid of one heart. South doubled seven clubs, which West redoubled, without reason. The opening lead was the 10 of clubs, and the contract was defeated by a single trick. The question was asked whether East could have fulfilled his contract. Acting as Honorary Kibitzer, having been asked the question by the declarer and his partner, I replied that I thought the grand slam contract should have been fulfilled.

East thought of the probability of adverse trumps being divided 2-1. The odds against the three missing trumps lying in one hand are about 75 to 21, or nearly four to one. It never occurred to the declarer that South might hold three trumps, and that lack of forethought ruined him.

The most simple method of playing the hand is a straight cross-ruff. In this way East will win the first trick with his king of clubs. Then he will win three heart tricks, giving him a single throw-off of spades. The ace of spades is good for a trick. That makes five tricks. The remaining eight tricks will consist of dummy ruffing four spades and the declarer ruffing four diamonds. That is simple.

Suppose we try establishing dummy's hand, instead of straight cross-ruffing. Win the opening lead with declarer's king. Lead the 10 of hearts overtake with the jack. Lead a diamond and ruff it. Lead the three of hearts. Overtake with the nine. Lead the ace of hearts. Discard a low spade. Lead the queen of hearts. Ruff, if you like, with the ace. Discard a diamond on declarer's ace of spades. Lead a low spade. If South ruffs nobody will care. He will be out-ruffed. As there is no utility in South ruffing, let him discard a diamond. Ruff in dummy. Have declarer ruff a diamond. Let dummy ruff a spade. Declarer will use his last trump to ruff the last diamond held by dummy, leaving only the queen-jack of clubs in dummy, insuring fulfillment of the doubled and redoubled grand slam contract.

The whole trouble with the hand came in winning the first trick of trumps with dummy's jack. That prevented East from fulfilling his contract in either of two ways. Always try to think of possibilities.

SHOPPING WITH ANNE

Couldn't you be a delightful hostess to an informal party of girl friends if you were wearing smart black satin pyjamas with white organza trimming. They are delightfully chic this Fall. In one of our local stores we saw the loveliest satins in a very heavy glimmering quality that would be ideal for this. Why not get yourself a pattern and make a pair.

Tailored clothes are being worn for business this year more than ever, and the three-quarter length jacket, which has been a favorite this summer, is carrying on. Short jacket suits, however, are also favorites and trimmed with fur. They look so snug and comfortable and are so practical these coolish days. Persian lamb, galyak, broadtail and fluffy fox are favorite furs for this trimming purpose. One lovely model in a local store was fashioned of beige and brown wool and was tied at the neck with a nutria fur bow. Another very smart suit was carried out in donkey gray dotted, embroidered wool, with a swagger jacket edged in black Persian lamb. The dress of this suit was very plain and boasted a very high bateau neck.

Black and deep browns are most popular for daytime coats. They are heavily furred.

Other nuts may be substituted for Brazil, of course.

Do you know the very newest shades for Fall and Winter are the "Maple Leaf," a warm rust tone, and "Evergreen," which is a lovely deep green shade. For evening wear the new "Oyster Bar," which is an off white shade, is the last word and New York says this is going to be quite the rage for evening wear.

* * *

For trimming, velvet with a slender gold thread running through, is very smart and "Mirror Satin" is being used for clever and smart neckwear as well as for trimming.

Full hosiery shades are: Smoke Brown, Nudawn, Darky and Eclipse. They are so lovely in either chiffon or service weights with the suede shoes—by the way, suede is the newest and most fashionable note in footwear. They are being shown in all shades. Sandals in many varied styles are highlights for evening wear. Claudette Colbert wears them in her latest picture and so New York has taken them on, and they promise to be a rage for the coming social season.

Foundation fashions are as varied as the individuals that buy them and wear them. This year they are designed to suit all figures. Every type of person is considered and there is a garment to correct their figure difficulties. They are one way stretch and two way stretch, they are woven not knitted, hence they will not run, they will not "bounce" and will keep their shape. They do not ride up in the back permitting complete control of the back contour at all times. You must have the foundation right this year if you would have the fashionable "streamline" silhouette. In our local stores they are well stocked with a splendid line of these garments in the very latest styles and models. They make a specialty of fitting these to perfection. Don't overlook this important matter in your Fall wardrobe.

Yankees Cut Tigers' Lead by Half a Game

NEW YORKERS DIVIDE TWIN TIGERS LOSE

Grove Beats Rowe as Boston Wins From Leaders in 11 Innings.

BROWNS WIN ONE.

Giants Break Pirates' Winning Streak—Cards Divide Two —Cubs Blank Braves.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The Yankees, striking to overhaul Detroit's Tigers in the late stages of the American League pennant race, have enjoyed more than usual success on their current Western tour, but the hardest part is still ahead.

By dividing a doubleheader with the Browns yesterday while Detroit took a 4-3 setback from the Red Sox in an 11-inning struggle, the Yanks cut another half game off the Tigers' lead, reducing it to four games. When they beat St. Louis, 7-4, in the opener, then lost, 7-3, it gave the Yanks a record of five victories and two defeats so far, a sharp contrast to their record of 14 and 16 lost in previous games in the West.

The catch in the whole business lies in the fact that after a day off to-day, they invade Detroit and Cleveland, where they have won only four games and lost ten this season.

The Yanks looked very good in yesterday's opener as they belted out 15 hits with every regular except Lou Gehrig participating. But they got a taste of what was to come when the Browns drove Johnny Broaca to cover and scored three times before Lefty Gomez checked them. St. Louis kept right on going at the start of the second clash to pile up a long lead, although limited to seven hits by a trio of pitchers.

The Detroit - Boston struggle started out as an argument between Henry Johnson and Al Crowder and ended with Lefty Grove and Schoolboy Rowe on the slab. Grove, after walking in the tieing run in the ninth, proved the more effective, and Boston won when Julius Solters single and Rick Ferrell scored him with a two-bagger.

Giants Win 3-1

The order was reversed in the National League where the league-leading Giants ended their string of three losses and Pittsburgh's seven-game winning streak with a 3-1 triumph while the Cardinals split a twin bill with the Phillies. This increased New York's lead to 4½ games.

Manager Bill Terry's eighth-inning single with two aboard broke up a flinging duel between Roy Parmelee and Bill Swift, to give the Giants their triumph.

The Cards, after being blanked, 5-0, when Sy Johnson limited them to five hits and John Moore, Allen and Camilli hit homers, came back with bunched blows to win 6-4.

Cubs Beat Braves 2-0

The third-place Cubs beat the Braves, 2-0, in an elbowing argument between Bill Lee and Ed Brandt in which each gave six hits, while Emil Leonard's four-hit hurling carried the Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Reds.

Hal Trosky established a new Cleveland record by hitting his 33rd homer but the Athletics won the ball game, 6-4, with a 13-hit assault on Mel Harder which included a circuit drive by Doc Cramer. A pinch hit by Manager Jimmy Dykes in the 11th gave the White Sox a 3-2 victory over Washington in a contest marked by seven double plays.

After 14 years the Hume Weir, the third largest dam in the world, has been completed on the Upper Murray river, Australia, the area submerged by the impounded waters being 69 square miles.

FOREIGN TURF STARS SLATED FOR U.S. RACES

Famed Admiral Drake Sure to Come, Says Racing Official.

EXPECTS OTHERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—News of a probable European invasion of American race tracks this Fall by leading foreign thoroughbreds was brought back from England by H. A. Buck, secretary of the Turf and Field Club and the United Hunts Association.

Admiral Drake, winner of the grand prix de Paris and a consistent campaigner on English tracks, is definitely slated to come, Buck said, and the Aga Khan, Indian potentate, has promised to send his son, the Aly Khan, with at least two thoroughbred mounts to ride in a gentleman riders' race at the United Hunts meeting at Belmont Park in November.

Buck said the Aga Khan also is considering the possibility of shipping his Badruddin, third in the 2,000 guineas and winner of other 3-year-old stakes in England, over for eastern races and the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap scheduled for the Los Angeles Turf Club's new course February 23.

Admiral Drake would also compete in the Santa Anita handicap, as well as a special race at the United States meeting.

Steve Donoghue, England's most famous jockey, will ride Admiral Drake in his American engagements.

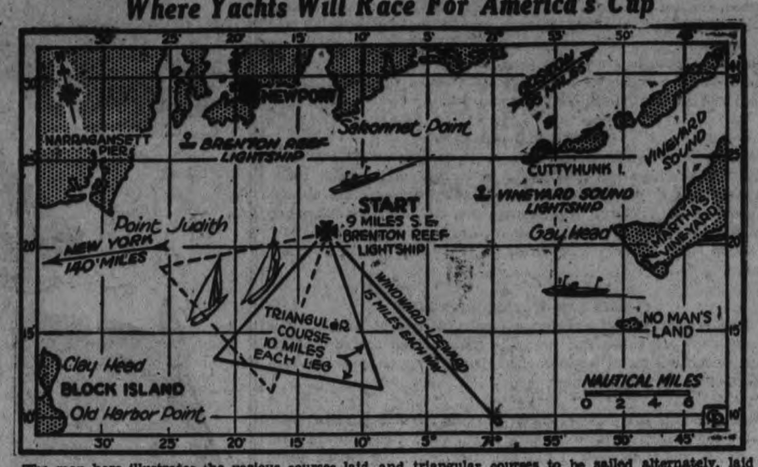
Where Yachts Will Race For America's Cup



The map here illustrates the various courses laid out for the America's Cup races to be held September 16 between T. O. M. Sopwith's English challenger Endeavour and the defending yacht, Rainbow, owned by a New York syndicate of noted U.S. millionaires, including the Vanderbilts. Windward-leeward and triangular courses to be sailed alternately, laid out in accordance with the wind. The first yacht to win four races will win the coveted mug. Races to be held every other day depending on weather conditions.

PERRY HANDICAPPED BY LAME RIGHT ANKLE FOR NET FINAL

British Star Injured in Losing Second Set of Semi-finals to Kirby.

WILL MEET ALLISON.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 12. (AP).—Fred Perry, the 25-year-old Englishman who holds all the major tennis singles championships of the world, had only Wilmer Allison, veteran Texan and the handicap of a lame right ankle between him and his second straight United States singles title to-day.

The combination, the experts agreed, might force Perry to open up his full bag of tricks before the thrill-hungry crowd at the West Side Club courts.

It was conceivable at any rate that the handicap of a turned ankle yesterday in Perry's casual conquest of Vernon G. Kirby in the semi-finals, plus the usual sound game of Allison, might bring back to the West Side courts a picture of the champion all out.

Injured in Second

Up to the time he met Kirby, Perry hadn't lost a set. Sometime in the second set, which he lost to Kirby 2-6, Perry turned the right ankle he injured in the French hard courts championship in Paris. He had the injury taped at intermission time and came back to win in four sets, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. The injury was diagnosed as a strained tendon but the doctors said he would be able to play all right to-day with it bandaged.

Allison, ranked number 2 in United States battered down Sidney B. Wood, Davis Cup singles star, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, confounding the blonde New Yorker with his remorseless accuracy, the strength of his service and fore and, the pressing strategy that sent him constantly to the net to bewilder Wood with sharply angled replacements.

STIRLING RINK WINS

TWEED, Sept. 12.—An unique event marked the contest for first place at an open tourney of mixed doubles held here. Three rinks winning three games, each tied in first place. They were a Stirling, a Brighton, and a Belleville rink. C. Scopis, Belleville, won from the Brighton rink, but lost to W. J. Whitby of Stirling.

12 FRAME TILT ENDS IN 3 TO 2 WIN FOR BOONE

Richardson's Single Drives Manager Ike Home With Winning Counter.

LEAFS GET 5 HITS.

Schott Gains Decision in Sensational Mound Duel Against Brown and Devens.

NEWARK, N.J., Sept. 12 (A.P.)—Victor in a marathon opening game in the International League play-off series, Ike Boone's Toronto Maple Leafs will seek to make it two in a row over Newark Bears, league champions, to-night.

The Leafs, who finished third during the regular season, got the jump on the champion Bears by eking out a 3-2 triumph after 12 innings of a pitching duel between Gene Schott of the Canadians and Walter Brown and Charley Devens of Newark.

Bob Shawkey, manager of the Bears, plans to send Vito Tamulis to the mound to-night while Boone probably will counter either with Don Brennan or Sheriff Fred Blake. After to-night's game, the series will be shifted for the next three days to Toronto. The last two games, if that many are necessary to decide the best four-out-of-seven series, will be played here.

To Boone fell the honor of escorting the winning run across the plate in the first game. He received a pass from Devens, who had replaced Brown in the ninth, went to second on a sacrifice by Murray Howell and scored on Nolen Richardson's single into centre field.

Toronto had scored two runs off Brown in the first inning on a single by Lincoln Blakeley, a safe bunt by Joe Morrissey, a sacrifice by George McQuinn on which Brown erred, and Roy Schalk's muff on Bonne's line drive. After that Brown held the Leafs to one hit until he went out for a pinch-hitter in the last of the eight. A triple by Cleo Carlyle and a long fly by Dale Alexander gave Newark one run in the fourth and the tying run came in the ninth on Vince Barton's single and Joe Glenn's triple.

Gives 10 Hits

Schott gave 10 hits but kept them widely scattered. Toronto made only five off Brown and Devens but they came when they did the most damage.

Peterboro Dinty's Win At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Sept. 12.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A goodly number of supporters motored from Peterborough on Monday evening and gave plenty of applause to their own players, Dinty's Inn, in the inter-county league game of box lacrosse at the Cosmos Rink, the visitors taking home the laurels though the score, 8-7, by no means indicated a walkover.

The game was, as usual, under floodlights, and the vigor of the play may be measured by the fact that five of the lights were broken during the evening, and had to be replaced thus taking up valuable time. It was Peterborough's home game their team renting the Cosmos rink and taking the gate receipts. The return game is on Wednesday, September 12, at Millbrook.

The first period ended 2-1 favor of Peterborough, with Routley and Staunt scoring for the visitors, and Gray for the homesters; shortly after the second Red Creighton scored two in succession, giving Millbrook a one point lead, but this was pulled down with Routley sending one into the net for the visitors, and Olaveson two, leaving the score 5-3. Gray and Nattress evened the standing again in the third period, but in the final tussle though Edmunds and Brown each scored one goal, Routley got two and Staunt one, the game ending 8-7 in favor of Dinty's Inn B. B. Dawson was referee and the home squad had only one penalty throughout the entire evening. The line-up was:

Dinty's Inn: Goal, LeFebvre; defence, Staunt, Weir; centre, McGregor; wings, Olaveson, McGee; rover, Routley; subs, Creighton, McDougal.

Millbrook: Goal, Larmer; defence, Creighton, Lebarr; centre, Nattress; wings, Edmunds, Scott; rover, Ingram; subs, Brown, Freelove, Raper.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Third Challenger Had Two Strikes on Her From The Start

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 (A.P.) — Shamrock III, Sir Thomas Lipton's third straight unsuccessful challenger for the America's Cup, had two strikes on her when she sailed against the new American defender, Reliance, in the series of 1903 and Reliance put over the deciding strike in three successive races.

Lipton's newest creation was ill-fated almost from the day she was launched. In one or her trial races with Shamrock I in native waters she lost a mast and when it went overside, one man of the crew went with it and was drowned. Several others of the crew were injured.

It was an unfortunate start for the boat that was unlucky enough to encounter one o fthe fastest and to encounter one of the fastest and turned out under the supervision of Nat Herreshoff.

Outsailed by Defender

Shamrock III was an improvement in speed and lines over her predecessors but Reliance out-maneuvred and outsailed her by more than seven minutes in the first race. Lipton's entry gave Reliance a stiff battle in the second race and was the loser by only little more than a minute.

The boats met for the last time over a 30-mile windward-leeward route. Reliance had the better of the close start and led by 10 minutes at the mark-boat.

A heavy blanket of fog rolled in on the back stretch and Reliance crossed the finish line diagonally while Shamrock missed it completely and her skippers didn't bother to turn her back and finish.

And Still they come: Another pair of the lady bowlers enter the charmed circle—Mrs. H. Staunton and Mrs. H. Beattie helped themselves to an eight-end, Mrs. W. Wood and Mrs. J. Reid being the victims. This news came to us a little late, but here it its.

—o—

And Then Just yesterday afternoon along comes Mrs. L. Campbell and Miss N. Murphy and they tell us they got an eight end against Miss L. Allan and Mrs. W. Henry. Good stuff. We like printing all this news—we hope we have to publish a lot more. Congratulations. Who's next?

—o—

We Announced yesterday all about our mixed tournament on Friday night. Now we are going to give our reasons for staging this event:

First—We believe we would have twice as many bowlers out by having a mixed—the men having fallen off the last three Friday nights.

Second—We have never staged a Friday night mixed before.

Third—We believe that we are showing a great spirit of co-operation, and doing something that will benefit the club as a whole.

Fourth—And it is coming to the ladies to have one good night's bowling before the season closes.

And, lastly, we just want to see how big a crowd of local bowlers we can muster out in one night.

—o—

Now Everybody ask everybody else; ask a friend or a prospective bowler; this affair is wide open. So now lets all pull together and see what happens.

—o—

In Reporting the Coleman-Zeihr game last night the score should have been, Coleman 28, Zeihr 10.

PACKERS LEAD BY LONE GOAL BATTLE CALLED

Buchan of Meatmen Scores Only Counter in League Fixture.

17 MINUTES TO GO.

With seventeen minutes still to be played of the thirty-five minutes of the second period, Referee Alex. McKinley adjudged that further play was impossible through darkness and declared the game unfinished with the Canada Packers leading one goal to nil over the Canadian General in a league engagement last night, on King Edward Park, before a fair attendance.

Captain Buchan, Packers, registered the only goal from a spot kick after Mitchell had handled in the dreaded area.

Good Combination

The choice of the spin of the coin fell in favor of the Packers. In the early stages smart tactics prevailed, in which both custodians saved their charges; in fact, a misjudged kick by Packers' full backs allowed Quinn to shoot point blank at goal, but Chamberlain, custodian, made a brilliant save to divert the ball around the post. Nothing resulted from the flag kick.

In a barrage, the Packers repeatedly broke through the defence to find the Mitchell Brothers nullifying their success at the logical moment. Clark connected with a terrific drive that went direct to the far corner of the goal. The Packers custodian threw himself outstretched his full length to make a spectacular save. Then the Packers carried the effective combination to perfection to harass their opponents until Alex Mitchell handled the ball within the dreaded territory. Captain Buchan took the spot kick to make sure of the only goal of the game. Half time—Canada Packers, 1; Canadian General, 0.

Darkness Stopped Play

On resuming, the Packers' defence—full backs and half backs—were very unreliable in their alloted positions, thereby giving the Canadian General forwards many openings to score, while Asa Downer played one of his best games this season. A break-away by Post, on the right, eventually landed across to the foot of McPhate, who met the ball with a direct drive on the goal, but it skimmed the crossbar. Just before the final whistle announced the stoppage of the tussle through darkness, the Packers confined the play to the C.G.E. territory. Canada Packers 1, Canadian General 0.

Goal scorer—Buchan, Packers.

Canadian General — W. Curtis, goal; J. Mitchell and A. Mitchell, full backs; F. Earle, E. Jones and A. Burgess, halves; J. Quinn, W. Bolam, S. Clark, T. McPhate and V. Post, forwards.

Canada Packers.—J. Chamberlain, goal; T. Foster and A. Downer, full backs; A. Downer, J. Buchan and A. Bromley, halves; G. Colbran, W. McCracken, F. Todd, N. Downer and G. Downer, forwards.

Referee—A. McKinley. Linesmen J. Isle and J. Flynn.

ALBIONS EVEN LOOP PLAYOFFS

Aided by Sloppy Fielding by Orioles, Clubmen Take Second Game.

FINAL SCORE 17-9.

In the second game Monday of the three out of five playoff series for the Southend Softball League title, Albions turned back Orioles, 17-9, to tie up the series. Aided by sloppy fielding by the Birds, the winners slugged their way to victory. It was a close game till the Albions got to Red Hunter in the fifth for six hits and three walks to score nine runs and cinch it. He yielded eleven hits and four walks and retired in favor of Mel Hunter. The latter pitched steady ball.

Cavanagh for Albions let the losers down with nine hits, his outfield repeatedly robbing them of hits, Burke starring especially. Cartier went good in centre for the other side. Lazure led the victors at bat with a homer and double, while Ashmore also banged out a circuit clout. Gardino was the only Birdman to get a homer off Cavanagh. These teams were to meet again Tuesday. SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball, Lacrosse, Soccer, Softball, Bowling, etc.

By C. J. P.

Peterborough teams are in two important ball games today, that is if the weather doesn't turn a topsy-turvy. At the local Exhibition Grounds, starting at 4.15, Kingston Hawks and Cogs meet in the second round of their O.B.A.A. playdown series. And in Belleville at three bells, the Nats and Petes tangle in the third tussle of the C.O.B.L. playoffs. The return Hawks-Cogs' game is in Kingston Saturday, while if a fourth senior contest is necessary, it will be here on Saturday. We doubt if a fourth will be necessary.

• • • • • • •

With the Central League flag in sight, the Petes are sniffing like wolves on a trail and travelling fast. And the fans here are getting all steamed up. It's just seven years since the Art Johnston trophy—emblematic of the C.O.B.L. championship—has been here. In fact, the Petes have won it only twice since the league was started back in 1919. They copped it in '20 and again in '27. We're just about due for another one and we may have it cinched today. If not, then Saturday. Knotty Lee and his classy team will take a lot of licking this year before they'll drop out of the running.

• • • • • • •

While Peterborough's wait for a Central League pennant is hardly as long as Detroit's for an American League title, still there is plenty of interest here, just the same as in Henryfordsville. The Petes have been close to it several times since their last trophy, they've been trampled unmercifully into the cellar, and they've even been out of the loop completely for a year. But you couldn't keep the Petes down. The fans are all warmed up now and will be rooting the lads along for all they're worth as long as they go in the O.B.A.A. playoffs—yeah, we've got them champs of the C.O.B.L. already! The fans were plenty peeved about that third playoff game today being staged in Belleville, and it was a tough blow all around.

• • • • • • •

While our team won in 1927, things were somewhat different that year. Belleville dropped back to intermediate company and this decided Kingston to stay out of ball altogether that summer. Oshawa lined up with New Toronto and two other Toronto teams and called it the Lakeshore League. The Petes were refused a berth, owing to the distance for Toronto teams to travel. However, the O.B.A.A. gave our team a bye to playoff in a five-game series with the loop winer. Well, Oshawa won out and we beat them three out of four games. The Petes then knocked off St. George's in the Ontario semi-finals but lost in the finals to Hamilton Tigers.

• • • • • • •

Max Swanston, C.O.B.L. president now, was manager that year. He also caught with Heckman and Hardill pitching. Harrison, Rose, Holyman and Johnston made up the infield, while Jim Hall, Collins and Ash were in the outfield. Jack Hall and Batten were utility men. Compare them with Jake Solomon's 1930 champs who won the loop title from poor old Oshawa—what, again?—and went to the Ontario finals before Hamilton Plowites put them out in the third game of the series in Guelph: Harrison, 1b; Holyman, 2b; Murray, 3b; Cherett, ss; Rose, Adams, Ross and Lowe in the field; Swanston, c; and Kirn, p.

• • • • • • •

Yeah, both good teams—as is the 1934 edition of the Petes. Rose, Batten and Ash are the only veterans still with the Petes—just as Peeney Mills of Belleville is the only original C.O.B.L. player still active. We've seen some grand players since the Central League was organized and some swell ball games. We're liable to see some nifty playoff struggles right here this autumn. And there are some pretty smart players right on this year's local lineup. Fans sometimes don't appreciate class till after a team has broken up. Incidentally, here's an odd one. Bill Calladine and Len Hollingsworth will be with the third Peterborough C.O.B.L. titleholder—provided, of course, we win it. On the first winning team in '20, Len was mascot, while on the second winner in '27 Bill had that job. So there's still hope for our present one, Whitey!

• • • • • • •

Kruschens, Toronto Western City Loop champs, eliminated the Viaduct League winners, Siberry's, in T.A.B.A. competition last night, but defaulted their position in the finals with G. W. Grads when ordered to play floodlight ball with the Ulster Loop champions. The T.A.B.A. then ordered the eliminated teams, Siberry's and Findlay Dairy, to play a sudden-death game Thursday with the winner meeting the Grads in the finals. It seems like a raw deal for Kruschens, asking them to play under the electric lights—which they are not used to—against the Grads who are used to artificial lighting. No doubt, there will be a big squawk lodged at once in Toronto senior ball circles.

At the local gals' loop executive meeting last eve, a vote of 5 to 3 resulted in the two disputed games with Westclox being ruled forfeited contests by the Alarm lasses. This means that—with Keene and Westclox in the first-half playoffs—Keene is now in the second and there is a three-way tie for the other second-half berth. Westclox and C.G.E. must meet in a sud den-death game here at 5.30 tonight, the winner meeting Omemee in a sudden-death affair at 5.30 in the Bowl Friday. If rain interferes either night, the games will be put on the following evenings. The ultimate winner then qualifies to tangle with Keene in the second-half playoffs. We weren't at the meeting but this is the playdown schedule handed to us. Semi-finals, if necessary, and finals will be staged next week.

Up and down Sports' Rialto: There will be a rugby practice at 5.30 Friday in the Exhibition Grounds, and all interested in a tryout are invited . . . . With Freem Whitely pitching four-hit ball last p.m., Oshawa softballers eliminated Belleville by an 18-2 score . . . . Lindsay Collegiate had a big turnout for their first rugby workout, and the L.C.I. first team is pretty much the same as last year's . . . . Bill Breese is again senior coach while J. Moebus will handle the juniors . . . . All quiet today along the lacrosse and minor baseball fronts . . . . Bud Murray's sore throwing arm may keep him out of today's C.O.B.L. game, although rain may keep 'em all out of it.

Soccer Notes

There was no meeting of the Peterborough and District Football Association, last night, owing to the lack of a full quorum but the games were arranged for Saturday as follows: Peck Cup, Canadian General and Canada Packers. Kick off at three o'clock prompt. Referee—Walter Harrington.

The Caledonians are scheduled to play in Lindsay in a league game. Referee Alex McKinley. Kick off at three o'clock. The match will be played on the campus grounds and the players expect to visit the Lindsay exhibition after the match.

There will be no more night games owing to darkness setting in to prevent the completion of the scheduled games. The last two matches have to be played again. Players Best, Leether and Flynn of this city make arrangements to travel with Scots for Lindsay.

Building permits in New Zealand this year represent a value nearly three times greater than the value during the corresponding months of last year.

WINGS TRIUMPH OVER SENATORS IN FIRST GAME

Norbert Kleinke Outpitches Cy Blanton in Series Opener at Rochester.

BY 7-2 SCORE.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 12. — (A.P.).—His young righthander, Darrell (Cy) Blanton, having failed in the first game, Bill McCorry planned to summon the veteran, Bill Harris, to the mound to-day in an effort to square Albany's International League playoff series with Rochester Redwings to-day.

Backing up Norbert Kleinke's super-fine pitching with timely hitting, Rochester took the first game of the best-four-of-seven series here last night, 7-2. Manager Geo. Toporcer was expected to call on Johnny (Lefty) Michaels to make it two straight this afternoon.

While Kleinke was holding the Senators to six hits and fanning twelve men, Blanton, the strike-out king, was wild and ineffective. He had whiffed 38 men in his last two starts and he got nine Wings on strikes last night, but at the same time, he walked five men, hit one, committed a balk and allowed six hits in the six innings he worked.

Two walks, a passed ball, an infield out and a balk by Blanton gave the Wings two runs in the first; a walk and a single by Kleinke scored another in the second, and a walk to Buster Mills, singles by Tommy Carey and Kleinke, and doubles by Benny Borgmann and Toporcer produced the last four counters in the big sixth. Kleinke, meanwhile, blanked the Senators until the eighth when, with Jake Powell on base, Gus Dugas drove the ball over the right field wall.

Johnny Milligan pitched the last two innings for Albany and allowed two harmless hits.

After to-day's game, the series will shift for three days to Albany. The last two games, if necessary, will be played here.

Windsor Lad Wins Classic St. Leger

DONCASTER, England, Sept. 12 (C.P. Cable).—The Derby winner and the hot favorite came through in fine style to-day when Windsor Lad captured the St. Ledger, last of the season's five classics for three-year-olds.

The colt, for whom M. H. Benson paid the Maharajah of Rajpipla $250,000, following his victory in the Epsom Blue Riband, finished ahead of Sir Abe Bailey's Tiberius, with J. A. Dewar's Lo Zingaro third in the field of 10.

St. Hubert, among the eleven named overnight, did not start.

1934 Indians Looked Very Good On Paper Pilots Intend To Import Talent In 1935

The leaves have not yet begun to seer but autumn is here—for in Cleveland the baseball addicts are freely predicting a pennant for their Indians next year.

It's a sure sign of an early fall when the also-rans of the baseball campaigns start talking "next season", and Cleveland was distinctly an also-ran in the 1934 American league race.

However, kindly restrain any impulse you may have to guffaw in hearing of Cleveland's 1935 pennant vision. The Indians may turn the trick.

The Detroit Tigers, virtual certainties for the flag this year, may win again next year—but Manager Mickey Cochrane should find it much harder to drum up the fighting spirit in 1935 which carried the Tigers over this season. Somehow, ball clubs lose a measure of their zest for victory after a pennant. Great ball clubs, of course, often repeat but there are few shrewd observers of the game who would care to call the Detroit club a great one.

Meanwhile, Cleveland has the best team in the league—on paper. And Manager Walter Johnston and General Manager Billy Evans have planned the importation of much young talent which, if the rookies live up to expectations, should make the Cleveland entry a hard club to lick in 1935.

Louis (Boso) Berger, a fine infielder, is coming up to the Tribe from New Orleans. The acquisition of Boso may enable the Indians to send Bad News Hale to the outfield, thus giving the Tribe along with Earl Averill and Joe Vosmik a hard-hitting garden trio that should be the envy of any major league team.

SILVER SLIPPERS By Temple Bailey

CHAPTER 37

When Scripps had gone, Giles opened the papers Jose had brought that afternoon. One of them was the little weekly Granitehead sheet. His eyes glancing idly over its pages were caught by a headline and held. It told of the death of Adelaide Delafield at her home in Baltimore. Her grandniece, Joan Dudley, was by her bedside when it happened. Granitehead would remember that Mrs. Delafield and her niece had spent the summer at one of the big hotels.

So the worldly old woman was gone. He wondered if she and Joan had been reconciled before that passing. He wondered, too, if Joan would have the money. If she was at last what everybody had thought her—the heiress of a rich woman.

Oh, well, if she were, it would not spoil her. She would be the same Joan—sincere and sweet and simple in the midst of her wealth. His heart yearned over her. He longed to comfort her. She had not wanted his love, but was there not some way in which his friendship might meet her need?

Leaning back in his chair, he listened to the storm. All the tumult of it was in his soul. Back of him was the tragedy of those years in France, ahead of him all the tragedy of a thwarted future. Yet . . . one must not think of that . . . one must dwell, rather, on the deep significance of suffering. Gethsemane? And the world found a saviour! Out of travail came strength, purification. It was old-fashioned to speak of such matters, but wise men knew them.

He rose, impulsively, and went to the telephone. He got long distance, gave the number. While he waited for the call, he looked at the clock. It was late—after 11 . . .

The bell rang sharply. He picked up the receiver. The operator's voice: "Just a moment." Then, thrillingly, another voice—Joan's.

The blood pounded in his temples. "Joan, this is Giles Armiger."

After that, the all too quick interchange of words, and then the wide, still space of silence between them.

As he hung up the receiver a great wave of emotion engulfed him. He dropped into a chair in front of the fire and found himself breathing as a man who has run too fast.

He sat there for a long time thinking about her. Going back and back . . .: You're not a dryad? . . . it was a heavenly dance . . . and for a partner Apollo!

And then those later days when in the shop she had revealed to him her fear of disillusionment . . . that dark night in the pavilion . . .

The fire was dying. The storm raged and roared. And suddenly in the midst of it the telephone rang.

Giles sprang to it. Joan again? Joan? Who else at this hour?

But the voice at the other end was a man's—William's. "For God's sake, Giles," he was saying hoarsely, "help us out. The baby's desperately ill, and the sea has covered the causeway. The doctor says he can't drive over and there's no one to bring him in a boat. I'd go in a minute, but I can't leave the light. And Dilly's half crazy. I knew how it would be. I told her . . ."

Giles stopped him, "Don't dig up past history. Tell me this: Is the doctor willing to go in my boat, if I'll take him?"

"Yes. But I don't believe you can make it. It's an awful night . . ."

"I can try."

"It's a new doctor, Giles. His name is Macdonald. The old man is in Florida. They have the same office. I don't know a thing about him. But if we don't have some one, the baby will die."

"Is it as bad as that?"

"Yes."

"Then I'll get Macdonald over."

"I hope you can make it."

"I shall. Tell Dilly to hold tight, and we'll be there."

He snapped the receiver on the hook and going out through the kitchen ascended the back stairs and woke Jose. The two men spoke softly together. Then Jose asserted, "It will take two. I will go with you."

"No. There's enough risk for one. I shall be all right, and don't tell anyone I'm away. You might go down to the kitchen and lie on the couch. Then you can hear the telephone. I'll call up as soon as I get to the lighthouse."

Jose showed his perturbation: "May the blessed Virgin guide you."

The two men on their way to the boathouse stumbled through drifts of snow. The wind beat and buffeted them. "Don't worry," Giles said, as he stepped into the boat, "and tell Margarida I shall want a whale of a breakfast."

Giles driving his boat in the wild night was aware of a strange exaltation. His battle with the elements gave him an outlet for the excitement which had stirred him since his conversation with Joan.

Yet in spite of his exaltation, he knew the danger he was facing. The great waves lifted the boat to staggering heights, then plunged it down to incredible depths. He felt the sharp sting of the snow in his face. The darkness was like a thick curtain, except when the wind blew the whirling flakes away from William's big light, so that Giles saw it and steered by it. The cold was intense, the distance great. Making Granitehead would be harder than he had anticipated. But he meant to make it.

He was halfway there now—three-quarters. He swept around the peninsula and into the harbor. As he came to the quieter waters, he knew his fatigue. He tied his boat to the pier and went through the deserted streets. The water that had swept over him had frozen to his cap and coat. He chose to make a joke of it when he reached the doctor's door and was admitted. "I'm not sure," he said as he stepped into the lighted hall, "whether I am Charon or Santa Claus."

The doctor held out his hand. "My dear fellow, you've had a hard pull. The lighthouse keeper telephoned you were coming, and my wife made some coffee."

The doctor's wife, a pretty little woman in a pink dressing gown, said: "It is awful you two should be called out on such a night. And the chances are that all the baby has is the colic."

"No," Giles told her, "she has a sensible mother. Things must be bad or William wouldn't have been so insistent."

"But it's a dreadful storm—and dangerous."

He saw that she feared and tried to soothe her, "The worst of it was getting here from the island. We'll have nothing to do now but cross the harbor and round the Point."

But he knew and the doctor knew that rounding the Point was a thing not to be talked about.

When Giles had finished his coffee, the doctor kissed his wife and they went out. "If it wasn't for our women," the doctor said, as they went away, "things would be easy. It's because we hate to hurt them that we lose our nerve."

Giles quoted: "He travels fastest who travels alone . . ."

"Yes," the young doctor agreed, "but how much he misses . . ."

Giles thought of that as he again fought with the elements . . . how much he misses . . . how much he misses . . .

The doctor was a cheerful and courageous passenger. He raised his voice above the howling of the storm and tried to carry on a conversation. Yet when they came to the Point he was silent.

They were furiously assailed now by the outside seas. Giles holding his boat to its course as best he could linked himself in his mind with a moving picture he had seen some years ago. There had been a man caught in a storm like this . . . it seemed to Giles that he was that man . . . his boat buffeted by the waves . . . the snow in a wild dance . . .

Suddenly the great light shone out just above them . . . stabbing the dark like a flaming sword.

They swept into a quiet cove, and found the landing place. The doctor leaped out and Giles followed him. There was a wild run up the sands to the little house, its warmth and glow as the door was flung open, and William's great voice shouting: "Dilly, darling, here's the doctor."

But Dilly bending over the baby in her arms said, with heaviness, "It's too late."

It was not too late. The young doctor knew a thing or two. New things they had done to the babies in hospitals . . . at the eleventh hour. In a second he had all three of them helping him—Giles and William and Dilly.

An hour later the baby was sleeping naturally, and then the young doctor said to Dilly, "We shall want something to eat, all of us. I'll sit here by the child."

Dilly understood why he had sent her away. To be busy would steady her. As she worked off her hysteria in a wild beating-up of eggs, she marvelled at the doctor's skill. Such a man was next to God. Such healing was a miracle! As much as the laying on of hands!

Giles telephoned to Joan and to the doctor's young wife. "We will stay all night," he said, "and hope for better weather in the morning."

For Thursday, September 13

Although this may be a day of excellent auspices in many angles of achievement, according to the lunar directions, yet there is also a sign of confusion, complicating and nullifying such prospects by indulgence in rash, tumultuous, aggressive and quarrelsome activities. With discretion and restraint there will be found openings for favorable approach to large corporations, combines, secret bodies or in transactions by methods of tact, diplomacy or subtle understanding. Let tact, not temper, rule the day.

If it is Your Birthday,

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of a year of some fine opportunities if they will only suppress their tendencies to rash, hasty, tempestuous and ungoverned conduct. Large corporations in the nature of rings and mergers, or secret orders, will be found approachable through methods of tact, diplomacy or even intrigue. But in all be calm, restrained and prudent.

A child born on this day may have many subtle and shrewd talents as well as constructive and enterprising but may nullify its prospects in life by indulgence in storms and tempests when diplomacy and tact are called for. Early discipline is suggested.

Japan fears a power shortage.

YEAR'S PROGRAM PLANNED AT MEET

Local W.C.T.U. Delegates Appointed for Stratford Conference.

The executive members of the local W.C.T.U. held their first Fall meeting yesterday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room, with a fine representative attendance.

Mrs. J. H. Rowe, the president, was in the chair, and led in the discussion of business. A most ambitious program for the year was mapped out in detail and the officials and superintendents of departments are wide awake to the present great need for increased activity in the cause of, not only Temperance, but safety and community welfare.

The annual Provincial convention, which will be held in Stratford, October 2-5, was announced and the names of Mrs. E. Wand and Miss E. Might were suggested as delegates to be ratified at the September meeting. The meeting was honored by the presence of the County President, Mrs. Throop.

Temperance in Sunday Schools was stressed by the secretary of this department, Mrs. J. Fairbrother, and a National Temperance Study course is being launched throughout the Province to which the Sunday Schools are responding very favorably.

AUTO DEALERS ENDORSE CODE

Nine Local Firms Give Support to Ethical Movement.

APPROVED IN EAST.

Peterborough leading automobile dealers gave their unreserved endorsation to the nation-wide campaign for a uniform code to govern the automobile retailing trade yesterday. The signatures of nine local firms were secured by the Dixon Bureau of Equity of Ottawa, sponsors of the movement.

The aim of the campaign is to bring order to a business in which the chaotic conditions have existed. James R. Dixon, the Bureau head, states. A demand for an organization and the adoption of a code has been heard from leading dealers and automobile associations throughout Canada. The pair is to stimulate membership in the various local organizations, they in turn to constitute the membership in the proposed national body. Dominion Automobile Dealers' Association has been suggested for the name of the national organization.

The object of eliminating as far as possible the unethical and wasteful practices for the demoralized condition of the automobile trade—particularly in the used car angle of the business—has won practically one hundred per cent. support up to the present stage of the campaign. Mr. Dixon has visited a great many centres in Eastern Canada and the Maritimes during the past six months and has been received with an enthusiasm which augurs well for the early establishment of the national organization and the adoption of the code. The hope is that the organization will be completed in time for next season's business and that, eventually, the proposed code will get legislative backing from the Federal government. Automobile clubs and associations, Board of Trade organizations and Chamber of Commerce bodies have joined with the automobile dealers themselves in encouraging the campaign.

Mr. Dixon is now bound westward on a tour which will take him through to British Columbia in the promotion of the campaign. As the principal figure in the Dixon Bureau of Equity, parliamentary and departmental agents, he is well-known to the automobile trade in Canada. He played a conspicuous part in the securing of an embargo in 1930 against the importation of American used cars and has long been active in the interests of the trade in other matters. His work is supported by voluntary contributions from the trade.

Automobile dealers and other interested firms in Peterborough who signed the memorandum of the Bureau yesterday were as follows: Charles H. Elliott, Lillico Motors, J. K. Hughes, Limited, Foley and Wilson, Hood and Cumming Motors, Limited, the Gillespie Garage, Howson Motors, J. J. Duffus Company and the Peterborough Automotive Supply.

The preamble of the document reads: "This is to confirm that I, the undersigned, do hereby approve, authorize and request that your Bureau shall continue to prosecute vigorously the nation-wide campaign as herewith submitted, and which for the most part you already have well under way, for the purpose of firmly establishing throughout Canada a uniform "Live and Let Live" code of sound, business-like legislative and merchandising ethics pertaining to and governing the sale, service and use of new and used automotive transportation in all its various complex phases, in order thereby to definitely and permanently relieve, so far as possible and practicable, the motor vehicle retailing trade of certain unnecessary, anomalous, contradictory legislative inequities now existing, as well as of other equally unnecessary, disastrous, unsound and unethical cut-throat competition are under-mining, demoralizing handicaps which are especially peculiar to the retailing of automobile transportation."

MRS. H. BERTRAM IS LAID AT REST

Died Sunday Night Within Eight Days of Her Husband.

Within a little over a week following interment of the late Hugh Bertram, the remains of his widow Bertha Ann Sperry were yesterday laid to rest in Little Lake Cemetery by his side.

Taken ill the day following the death of her husband the late Mrs. Bertram contracted bronchial pneumonia on Tuesday last, and died at the family residence "Spring Garden" in Smith township on Sunday night.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence yesterday by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, to which congregation Mrs. Bertram had belonged during her entire lifetime.

Pallbearers were: Messrs. George Boucher, E. S. Martin, Arthur Thompson, Charles Elliott, Willis Garrow and N. S. Burnham.

Second daughter of the late Anson Sperry and Kate Parnell, the deceased was born sixty years ago in the old Sperry home located at Anson and Water streets Her father was among Peterborough's leading citizens. Coming here originally from Hartford, Connecticut, he was a prominent lumberman, carrying on operations in Peterborough and Haliburton counties.

Surviving is one son, John Bertram of "Spring Garden" also four sisters and one brother—Mrs. D. Fraser and Mr. H. Galley, both of Regina; Mr. J. C. Poulson, Tacoma, Washington; Mrs. A. A. Perry, Sackville, N.B., and Howard Parnell Sperry of Meeting Creek, Alberta.

Pleasing Program At X.L. Circle Meet

Miss Dorothy Drysdale, George street south, was hostess on Monday night to the members of the X.L. Mission Circle, when more than twenty-five responded to the roll call.

In the absence of the president, the chair was very capably taken by Mrs. Sidney Turner, a vice-president, who presented a most interesting and instructive program. Quiet music, while the girls were gathering, was played by Mrs. C. Searles, and the reading of Psalm 72, by Miss Muriel Moorhouse, opened the program.

In a comprehensive resume of the complete work covered by the W.M.S. during 1933, Miss Jessie Martin gave a synopsis of the address given by Mrs. C. R. Crowe, president of the Dominion Board, at its last meeting. This proved very interesting, outlining the work in its various phases and was a most acceptable substitute for the usual study book period.

A delightful solo, "Nearer, Still Nearer," was rendered by Miss Jennie Smart and appropriate readings, "Good Enough," by Miss N. Andrus, and "If Jesus Came," by Miss Marjorie Hogan, added their share of missionary interest.

Old familiar missionary hymns interspersed the other numbers, and prayer was offered by Miss Connie Wagar.

The business session included the announcement of the annual Circle rally of the Presbyterial, under the direction of its leader, Mrs. W. H. Morton, which will be held September 24, in St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough.

Donations for the bale were received, and the offering, with envelopes and fees, taken.

The treasurer's report showed that the allocation was well within sight, and was very encouraging throughout.

Miss Drysdale, assisted by her committee, Misses M. Copson, D. Swanger and Alberta Frost, were responsible for the service of delicious refreshments during the social hour.

BEHIND the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRIS N CARROLL.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11. — Anybody want to buy a New York cobbler's shop from Lee Tracy? The actor has just inherited one, and the story behind it deserves telling. Some time ago, when he was cracking on Broadway, Lee befriended a young actor named Luke Martone. He loaned money, helped to get his pal roles, but it was the old story of Broadway ingratitude. Martone forged Tracy's name on checks and was sentupforastretch. About a year ago, Tracy received a letter from the New York state parole board. Martone was up for parole and actually had given Lee's name as a character witness. Tracy, harboring no spite, put in a good word for his old friend and, in due time, Martone was released. He set up a small cobbler's shop on East 57th street and settled down to earn an honest living.

Lee Tracy

Just recently Tracy was informed that Martone had died, leaving Lee sole heir to his possessions. In his will, the actor called Tracy "the whitest guy I ever knew."

TAKE A good look at the youngster who appears with Joe E. Brown at the tagend of the comedian's new picture, "Six-Day Bike Riders". She is Joe's own daughter, Katherine, aged one and one-half years. The studio had hired two other youngsters to be projected on the scene, but both wailed so heartily that Joe had the bright idea of using Daughter Katherine. She performed like a trouper.

NEVER HAS William Powell appeared in a more magnetic role than as the dashing army officer in "The Key", which will be shown for the first time locally at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

In "The Key" Warner Bros. have managed to combine a most unusual romance with thrilling action, the love interest being set in the turbulent days of the Irish revolt of the last decade when Dublin was the seething battleground of the Sinn Feiners and the British authorities.

Not since "Beau Gesto" and "Beau Sabreur" has Powell appeared on the screen in uniform, but he makes a gallant figure in the natty togs of a devil-may-care captain who is a bold fighter and a gay dog with the women with whom he flirts outrageously and successfully.

EDWARD EVERETT Horton is not satisfied with building houses for all his relatives on his valley estate. The comedian seeks to make the colony even more unique by transplanting there an old theater from one of the ghost towns of the west. Wynne Horton, the actor's brother, recently located one theater, but it was too worm eaten to be moved. Now another brother of the actor, George D. Horton, is going to make a motor tour of California ghost towns seeking the elusive relic.

KNICK-KNACKS— Jack Oakie takes plenty of raps for this and that but not from his family. The comedian's sister, Mrs. G. A. Lindbergh, is now out here on her annual visit. Jack sends her the money for the trip every year. . . . Nelson Eddy has a winter engagement with the Philadelphia Grand Opera company and has been studying "Falstaff" in Italian for two months. Now he learns it will be sung in English. . . . Bert Wheeler can hardly wait to finish his picture and fly to New York. One reason is Patsy Parker. . . . Since Mack Gray got his new nose, some of his Paramount pals burn him by passing by without recognition. But the profile gets over fine with Lucille Ball. . . . Producer Darryl Zanuck is so keen over polo that he walls of his studio office are covered with pictures of the sport. . . . The new Alex Aarons Broadway musical, "Tell 'Em Pretty Maiden" will have a book by Bill Rankin, Hollywood scenarist. George Gershwin does the score. . . . Hollywood is keen for the Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament to be held here. Ronald Colman, Dolores Del Rio and Harold Lloyd are among the first box-holders. Besides the chance to welcome Fred Perry, who is well-known in the film colony, Hollywood looks forward to watching the eccentric play of Roderick Menzel, Czecho-Slovakian star, who stands 6 feet 5, weighs 220 pounds and plays in shorts.

237 STUDENTS ARE ENROLLED PUBLIC SCHOOL

Routine Business Discussed at Meeting of Lakefield Boards.

PURCHASE SILVER CUPS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 12. — At the regular meeting of the Public School Board held on Friday evening in the Council Chambers, with Trustee Wagar in the chair, and present Trustees Dench, Erskine, Graham, Lake and Ridpath.

T. W. Chaplain was present and reported 237 on the roll of the Public School, with 48 in his room; 44 in Miss Kennedy's room, 42 in Miss Payne's, 42 in Miss Casement's, 33 in Miss Madill's, and 28 in Miss Kidd's. Sixteen new pupils started to school at the opening day.

The principal was instructed to procure two silver cups for the high boy and girl at the Public School sports day.

High School Board

The High School Board met at the close of the Public School Board, with Trustee Ridpath in the chair and present Trustees Dench, Graham and Wagar.

Mr. J. F. Harvey reported 113 already enrolled in the High School, with six or seven more to come.

The pupils are distributed as follows: Form I, 30; Form II, 27; Forms III and IV, 37, and Form V 19. The attendance is about the same as last year.

It was decided to drop the Cadet Corps this year as the expense entailed would be more than the Board felt justified in undertaking. New uniforms and equipment were necessary and the cost would be a fairly large item. Physical training will, however, be carried on.

The principal's office was refitted with an office desk and chair, a typewriter, and new curtains and couch cover. A grant of $50 was made to the High School library, which has need of new dictionaries, and other books, to replace some which are worn out.

The usual grant was allowed for field day, which will be held during this month probably.

The Property Committee reported necessary repairs to the building completed and the grounds put in good shape.

Lakefield United Church

A native Galilean shepherd is coming to Lakefield United Church on Monday, Sept. 7th, at 8 p.m., with Madam Haboush, and two young men assistants, and will present the musical travelogue, "The Seven Wonders of Jerusalem and Galilee." Le Haboush will speak to the High School that afternoon at 3 p.m., on his Shepherd Life in Galilee.

Lakefield Fair

The annual Fair is being held in Lakefield on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. It is hoped and expected that Mr. J. C. Carroll, who succeeded Mr. Lockie Wilson, as superintendent of the Fall Fairs, and exhibitions branch of the Department of Agriculture, will be present to open the Fair. Special attractions have been arranged for this year, and the Fair promises to be the best of the season.

Post Office

The summer Post Offices at Juniper Island, McCracken's Landing, and Kawartha Park, will close for the season on Saturday, September 15th.

Sweden has contracted to buy 57 per cent of her coal requirements in Poland.

HAVELOCK W.I.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 12 (Examiner Correspondence) — The September meeting of Havelock Women's Institute was held the second Monday of the month on account of the Labor Day holiday which always interferes with the attendance of the members, and as usual there was a smaller number present.

It was decided to hold a quilting bee at the council chamber on Saturday afternoon, the quilt when finished to be given to a family who recently suffered the loss of all furniture and belongings through a fire. A layette has been made and given to a mother in the community.

Mention was made of the Hallowe'en Dance which has become an annual affair under Institute auspices. A committee was appointed to see about music for the evening; all other details will be attended to at the next regular meeting. As usual there will be a masquerade and prizes for the best costumes.

An interesting talk on First Aid and a demonstration of bandaging was given by one of the local doctors.

Mrs. A. Anderson, program convenor gave a two minute talk on Home, Church and Community which was much enjoyed. The roll call was an exchange of miscellaneous patterns, an article made from the pattern was also on display. This resulted in aprons, cushions, crochet and knitted work and all kinds of things being exhibited, and patterns exchanged.

A short period of community singing, with Mrs. McCutcheon at the piano was an interesting feature of the meeting. A dainty lunch was afterwards served by the hostesses, Mesdames Buchanan, Jamieson, Iles and Anderson. The October meeting will be held on the first Monday of the month.

Showing Off

Those who have watched children grow are neither disturbed nor annoyed when they leave the perfect honesty and marvelous poise of babyhood behind them and begin to "show off."

This is all a part of a child's natural development. The youngster becomes conscious of self and is not not quite sure what to do about it. It has an impulse to act "grown-up" and is sometimes quite unhappy in the attempt, though it may try to conceal it.

The period usually lasts until the kind parent or teacher, or the less considerate older brother or sister, persuades the child that there is nothing in this trying to appear something that he or she is not. Then frankness and sureness begin to return, as the boy or girl progresses toward manhood or womanhood.

In almost every office there is a show-off. He finds ways of calling attention to himself when nobody is interested, least of all the boss. He imitates traits and mannerisms that are not his by nature. He is never really happy because he is never rid of the fear that he will be lost in the shuffle. He is not a real good craftsman because he spends too much time thinking about the impression he is making.

The show-off period may be very short. It may last for years. Sometimes it is never outgrown. Then we have that adult person who is one of life's burdens.

In churches, in clubs, in schools, as well as in business, politics, science, literature, art, music, in almost any group of human beings, the show-off is in evidence.

These people are unfortunates. They are physical adults who have never grown up mentally. If they had, they would know how foolish they are Being one's natural self is the surest road to respect, popularity and success.

FENELLA HOLDS ITS ANNIVERSARY

Rev. L. W. Scott, Roseneath, Preaches Inspiring Sermons.

FENELLA, Sept. 12.—(Examiner Correspondence.)—The anniversary services in Fenella United church were held on Sunday, Sept. 9 with large and enthusiastic congregations both morning and evening.

Rev. L. W. Scott, Roseneath, spoke in the morning on the subject, 'The Church That Ought to Be,' and Rev. D. M. Smith, Baltimore, preached in the evening from the text "Revelations," 3:20 verse.

The choir gave very excellent leadership in the music at the morning service. They sang :King of Kings' and 'I'm Praying for You.' Mrs. Fred Talling presided at the organ.

The music in the evening, rendered by Baltimore Male Choir, was greatly enjoyed. Two anthems, "Peace, Sweet Peace," and "Abide With Me' 'were pleasingly rendered. A solo, "I'll Be With You," was very much enjoyed, also the violin solo by Mr. Rutherford, junior. Mr. A. Rutherford presided at the organ.

The church was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers.

Danny Simons Dies Suddenly in New York

FINAL CURTAIN FOR COMEDIAN AFTER HOLIDAY

Was Former Star of Sells Brothers Circus and Broadway.

SPENT SUMMER HERE.

Peterborough Boy Realized His Ambitions on the Stage.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—Chatting with a friend in the lobby of a hotel, Daniel (Danny) Simons, a native of Peterborough and the original "Jiggs" in "Bringing Up Father" when that comedy first appeared in the theatre, suddenly collapsed and died last night. He had just returned from a vacation in his home town.

Heart failure is believed to have been the cause of death. He was 64 years of age. The remains will be forwarded to Peterborough for burial.

Starting in stock companies, Simons was in turn a song and dance man, a dramatist and more recently a singer. His last role was in a six-man troupe billed "Famous Old-Timers".

Two brothers, Richard and James, and two sisters, Nellie and Annie, all residing in Peterborough, survive him. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Simons, the father conducting a tailoring business for many years.

In the passing of Danny Simons, Peterborough has lost a trouper whom it could really call its own. Danny was born in this city in 1870 and got his first start in the theatrical world here. His late father, Peter Simons, in his tailoring shop on George street, rather hoped that Danny would follow in his footsteps with the scissors and the needle but the youngster of that day succumbed to the lure of the footlights at an early age.

Even at the stage when he joined with other kids in his father's neighborhood to give little three-pin-admission shows in barn lofts, Danny was motivated by a real ambition. A travelling minstrel man visiting Peterborough gave him his first lessons in dancing, and through dilligent practice, he became quite expert. When he was 15 years old, a show played the Opera House in Peterborough and when they left town Danny followed and persuaded the manager to give him a trial. He made good and stayed with the show until it disbanded in the West.

Two successful years as a clown in the Sells Brothers' Circus followed. He worked up several fine specialties and began to draw the attention of the good booking agents. An engagement with the famous Primrose and West Minstrels and a season in vaudeville prepared him for reaching his goal—Broadway. Travelling east, he served as leading comedian for three years with the Bennett Moulton Company.

New York knows him as the impersonator of "Jiggs" in the staging of "Bringing Up Father" Highly successful characterizations of "Boob McNutt" followed. Peterborough patrons of the Opera House got opportunities to see their home boy in these roles on several occasions during country-wide tours of these productions.

Other highlights in a successful career might be mentioned. He was featured with the Clara Turner Company in the well-remembered "Looping the Loop," and for a season starred in one of Gus. Hill's musical comedies. Also he was featured for two seasons at the head of Himmeleins Ideals, one of the leading repertoire attractions of the Midle West. His appearances during several years in the Adam Good Companies as headline comedian were highly successful.

In a newspaper interview, Danny once attributed his success to hard work and an untiring effort toward improvement. "A man must keep improving or he will find himself slipping back," he said. And he certainly practised this conviction, for, even during his vacation during the past summer months, he was to be found regularly going through his routines at the Y.M.C.A. each afternoon.

"The people constantly demand something new" he once said. "If you want to keep your hold on them, you must comply with that demand." He wrote most of the songs in his specialties himself and endeavoured always to have them right up to the minute. His famous 'Rough Rider' act in which

ROBERTS NAMED NEW MODERATOR UNITED CHURCH

Minister at Sherbourne Street, Toronto, Succeeds Rev. T. A. Moore.

HEAVY AGENDA AHEAD.

Memorial Tablet to Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., Last Methodist Superintendent, Unveiled.

(By H. H. Gordon, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 13 (CP) —Delegates to the sixth biennial General Council of the United Church of Canada, following the election last night of Rev. Richard Roberts, D.D., as Moderator, to-day heard numerous reports on various phases of the church's work.

Among the more important reports to be submitted during the day's sessions were those dealing with the duties of the Modertaor, the Commission on Missionary Education, Commission on amalgamation of the Boards of Home Missions and Evangelism and Social service, Treasurer's Statement, Board of Christian Education and Board of Foreign Missions.

Dr. Robert's election to the highest post in the church was the most important business of the opening day's proceedings. The Minister of Sherbourne Street Church, Toronto, was elected over Rev. Dr. Donald C. MacGregor, London, Ont., who moved the election be made unanimous.

General Council opened with a service of Holy Communion conducted by the retiring Moderator, Rte Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D.. Dr. Moore, in his sermon appealed for a clearer realisation of the "present values of Christianity," and urged the church to centre its mission on making better men and a better society.

At the evening session the retiring Moderator reviewed the work of the church during the past two years, and later unveiled a memorial tablet to Rev. S. D. Chown, D.D., the last Superintendent of the Methodist Church who attended the Council Church as a youth.

O'BRIEN DENIES STATEMENTS OF ILL-TREATMENT

Testifies in Alimony Action That He Never Attacked or Abused Her.

EVIDENCE COMPLETED.

Chief Newhall Tells Court That Defendant Said His Wife Was Best in Canada.

Testifying today in the defence of the suit brought against him by his wife for alimony before Mr. Justice Henderson in Supreme Court, J. A. O'Brien denied that he had ever ill-treated or assaulted his wife. He said he had considered sending her to Whitby. He admitted misconduct with Miss Margaret Cameron, who has been prominently mentioned in the case.

Hearing of evidence in the case was concluded early this afternoon.

"I say there was no ill-treatment," stated Mr. O'Brien in denying his wife's statements. "My wife was a woman of very violent temper and to restrain her at times I had to take hold of her."

He said he had considered sending her to Whitby and had discussed the matter with at least one doctor. "I put up with her for 12 years," he commented.

Asked if he had made provisions for his wife, he said. "She has made provisions for herself, seizing the furniture worth about $7,500, silverware valued at between $1,800 to $2,000 and my car which I believe she sold for $400, but which cost me $2,600 and the car was in perfect running order."

He said his wife was claiming the house on Engleburn avenue and he described its most modern appointments. "Certainly not five cents of Mrs. O'Brien's money ever went into the house, car or furniture. Although from money I gave her she did sometimes buy things for the house."

At the time he married Mrs. O'Brien she was making $200 a month as a private secretary while he was receiving $175 a month as partner of Mr. Gordon.

Interim Alimony Order

Witness admitted there was an order of interim alimony against him for his wife, but she had received nothing from him. The fact that his law books were seized and sold was an inconvenience and lessened his practice.

He gave a list of the actions pending between him and his wife.

"My present earning capacity is a minus quantity," stated Mr. O'Brien. "In fact with my office open I am losing money." He mentioned other factors that have reduced his income.

At one time within the past year he said his wife ordered him from the house and called police to put him out.

Asked why he had maintained a separate establishment, he said that

BABIES SURVIVE CRITICAL PERIOD

Three Nurses on Duty After Quintuplets Suffer Intestinal Toxaenia.

WEATHER DRAWBACK.

CALLANDER, Ont., Sept. 13.—During the past 36 hours, the famous Dionne quintuplets passed through a very critical period, and it was learned for the first time today, that Dr. A. R. Dafoe was deeply concerned.

In an exclusive interview with the Canadian Press to-day, the doctor admitted that losses yesterday were more serious than they appeared on the surface.

"For the past 36 hours, the little ones have been suffering from a mild attack of intestinal toxaenia," said Dr. Dafoe. "This leads to a loss of fluid in the body, and the little bodies would waste away, if this condition is not checked. The decrease in Yvonne's weight yesterday, was due to this ailment, and before the day was out, it spread to all five of the mites."

Miss Pat Mullan, the special relief nurse, was placed on duty last night, and now three nurses are giving constant attention to the little ones.

Now Past Danger

"Through the painstaking effort of the nurses, I think the babes are now past the danger stage," said Dr. Dafoe to-day, "but we must continue to give them every care. It must be remembered that these babies are not actually normal. Unfavorable weather and the cramped conditions of their present quarters, has not helped things any, and we will move the babies just as soon as possible to the new hospital. Then, with more sanitary conditions surrounding, many of our worries will disappear.

"There will be absolutely no chance of anybody seeing the quintuplets at the official opening, Friday, and I would appreciate it, if there are no requests. I would also ask the visitors to make as little noise as possible around the farm home, so as not to disturb the babies."

An additional 30 ounces of milk arrived to-day from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, building the daily total shipment from the institution to 104 ounces.

RHODE ISLAND TEXTILE BATTLE RAGES UNABATED

Youth Slain, Seven Wounded, 3 Critically, as Troops Fire Into Mob.

LOOTING FOLLOWS RIOT.

WOONSOCKET, R.I., Sept. 13. (AP).—High tension spread over this city to-day after a fearful night of rioting and death.

Soldiers clashed with a wild running mob of more than 5,000. Volleys of gunfire were sent at the rioters at frequent intervals.

One youth lay dead from gunshot wounds. Seven others were wounded, three critically.

Until national guardsmen rushed into the city, the police were overwhelmed.

"More help of we'll perish," was the frantic cry of Police Commissioner J. Hector Paquin as he asked Governor Theodore F. Green to seek Federal troops.

The rioting, accompanied by looting, was the worst out-break in New England since the start of the textile strike.

Hoodlums ran rampant through the mill and business districts, smashing windows and street lights, hurling rocks and stones at the police and guardsmen and breaking into stores. Goods were carried from the shops.

Use Guns After Tear Gas Fails

The violence reached its height when the police and soldiers, their supply of tear gas gone, turned their guns on the rioters. Eight fell wounded.

One of them, Jude Courtemanche 19, years old, died in Woonsocket hospital. Three others were in the hospital dangerously wounded.

Fresh units of militiamen reinforced the guardsmen early this morning and the streets were finally cleared of rioters, but Police Commissioner Paquin said he feared another outbreak when darkness falls to-night.

The violence during the night grew to such proportions that Governor Green called the Rhode Island legislature into special session at noon to-day for the purpose, it was understood, of asking an appropriation of $100,000 to increase the state police force to 500 men.

Fifteen men, who police said were the leaders in the rioting, were arrested.

BAIL OF $10,000 ASKED IN LONDON BLACKMAIL CASE

Three Suspects Remanded Week While Police Delve Further.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED.

Spectators Are Barred From Court But Judge Refuses to Ban Press.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.).—Bail of $10,000 each was fixed by Magistrate T. W. Scandrett, when Mrs. Mae Turnbull, her son Franklin G. Taylor and his wife Rosa appeared in City Magistrate's court this morning on a charge of "theft of money by threats." They were remanded until September 21, but owing to extensive police investigation which it is expected will resut in more arrests its is doubtful if the trial will proceed at that date.

The trio were taken into custody yesterday as city and Provincial police struck their first blow at what they described as an "extensive blackmail ring."

E. L. Haines, of Toronto, appearing for the Taylors, pleaded for bail for the three accused. "They have long been residents of London," he said. "They are not wealthy, so the amounts should be fixed within their reach. It is not fair that they should be kept in prison until trial."

Crown Objects.

Gordon Gillanders, London barrister, appearing for the Crown, objected to bail. If it is granted, it should be substantial as one of the charges involves more than $10,000. And there is a possibility that a more serious charge may be laid.

When the Magistrate fixed the amount Mr. Haines asked for the right to appeal next week for reduction if the prisoners found $10,000 beyond their reach. The Magistrate consented.

The court room was cleared of all spectators when the three were arraigned. Only the press, which has agreed to suppress the names of the plaintiffs, were permitted to remain. Mr. Haines objected to their remaining, but the Magistrate refused to bar the reporters.

Mr. Haines then raised strenuous objections to the stories already appearing in the press. Especially did he object to reference to Taylor's prison record. "They are creating an adverse public opinion," he said.

Record Known.

Mr. Gillanders replied that the press already knew Taylor's record and the Crown could not stop publications.

Mr. Haines then requested that no more interviews be granted the press.

The defence counsel waived the right of having charges read.

Mrs. Turnbull, whose age was announced as 45, is rather a stout woman. She appearance unconcerned during her appearance.

Taylor, whose age is 29, appeared in short sleeves, collarless and with suspenders showing. He too seemed unworried.

His wife, however, a small slim woman of 25, who gave her nationality as French, showed the effect of a night of weeping.

Acting Crown Attorney Newton, who is working with the police in the investigation, did not appear in court.

It is expected that further arrests will be made shortly and every effort is being made to induce victims to lay informations.

TWO OFFICERS ASK TO RESIGN PRES. CLEVELAND

Charge Capt. Carey Delayed Sending Lifeboats to Burning Morro Castle.

WANT MASTER OUSTED.

Seaman in Rescue Crew Says No Effort Made to Save People on Liner.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(AP)—A seaman on the liner President Cleveland who was on a life-boat sent to the aid of the burning Morro Castle today testified that, although he saw several persons on a deck of the stricken ship, the lifeboat crew made no offer to take them off.

Testifying before a Department of Commerce board investigating the disaster, the seaman, Sidney F. Curtis, declared that although the President Cleveland lay alongside the Morro Castle last Saturday morning "from 40 minutes to an hour" there were no lifeboats lowered during that time.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13. — (AP)—The first and third officers of the liner President Cleveland today told a board of inquiry investigating the Morro Castle disaster that they no longer wished to serve with Captain Robert E. Carey, master of the President Cleveland, because, they charged, Carey delayed in sending lifeboats to aid the burning Morro Castle.

The third officer, Harold Peterson, of San Mateo, Calif., told the board he already had asked that he be relieved of his berth under Captain Carey.

"Even if you believe the captain's only fault was an error of judgment", Peterson was asked.

"There should have been no error of judgment," he replied.

Peterson said he believed more lives could have been saved from the Morro Castle if the President Cleveland's lifeboats had put out sooner.

The first officer, James H. Henderson, told the board he no longer had "any respect for the master" becauseof his failure to get lifeboats launched faster. He said he would ask to be relieved of his command if Capt. Carey was not removed.

In response to questioning, Henderson said he believed Captain Carey did not realize the seriousness of the situation.

Saw People on Stern

Henderson said he thought there there was "too much" delay in getting the lifeboats away from the President Cleveland. He said that when the President Cleveland came in he could see persons hanging from the stern of the burning steamer and the crew on the foredeck.

He quoted another officer as saying "We got to do something." Asked if he did anything, Henderson said he stood by for orders. He said that when he got the motor emergency boat launched the motor failed and the men had to row it.

Captain Carey previously had testified that he put two boats out and his men reported seeing no one to rescue.

Asked whether he thought Carey had made an error of judgment, Henderson said, "Well, yes sir."

"And even if it was an error of judgment, you no longer wish to serve with him?" he was asked.

"I no longer wish to serve with him," Henderson said.

Henderson said there was no delay in getting the boats lowered once the order was given.

The Captain's Story

Captain Carey told of heading the President Cleveland toward the blazing Morro Castle after receiving a wireless message from a land station.

The message came at 4.50 a.m. E.S.T. and the President Cleveland

SUMMER CAMPS TO GET SERVICE LYONS STATES

Holds it Better Policy to Take Loss in Rural Areas Than From Paper Mills.

BETTER WAGES COMING.

Be Assured by Industrial Code —Roebuck Suggests Building Inducement.

(By the Canadian Press)

Lower power charges to the Ontario farmer and promises of proper wages for workers through enforcement of minimum wage laws are steps to be taken by the provincial government. Low rates for rural power consumers were announced by T. Stewart Lyon, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission in an address before the Georgian Bay Municipal Electric Association at Collingwood.

A program to sell power is planned by the chairman who declared he believed it a better policy to sell power to the farmer at a loss if necessary then to sell at a loss to paper mills and industries. His plan to increase sales included extending lines to summer resorts, thereby increasing consumers per mile of line and reduce costs.

James F. Marsh, Deputy Minister of Labor, stated the government's proposed industrial code would result in union wages being paid workers in organized industries. He charged wages as low as 10 cents an hour had been paid in some industries while beverage room dispensers were paid as low as $2.50 a week for a 14-hour day.

Before the banquet in honor of Police Commissioner Frank Denton in Toronto, Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck suggested a three to five year tax exemption on buildings started and completed in 1935. He explained it was his own suggestion and was not being made in his capacity as a cabinet minister. It would be a boon to the construction trade and he said he thought if the "suggestion is taken up" it would pass in the laws of the province.

"I am satisfied it would appeal to the construction industry with all its ramifications," he said.

MORRO CASTLE'S SKIPPER'S DEATH BEING PROBED

Remains Are Recovered From Fire Gutted Hulk and Sent to Chemists.

POISON RUMORS.

Another Passenger Dies, Bringing Death Toll in Tragedy to 134.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13 (A.P.) — Another name was added to-day to the Morro Castle death list, bringing the total number of dead and missing to 134.

William Hassler, 71, died shortly before last midnight at Bellevue Hospital. Hassler, a passenger, was taken from a rescue ship Saturday afternoon suffering from pneumonia.

Only yesterday hope was expressed that Elias, president of the Passaic, N.J., glass works, might have survived the disaster. His name was called in the court of common pleas at Paterson, N.J., for petit jury duty. There was no answer.

Judge Robert Davidson inquired: "Is this the man who is reported among the missing from the Morro Castle?"

He was told that it was the same man.

"We will excuse Mr. Elias today," the court said. "We will, however, keep his name on the jury list. There is no proof that he was not rescued. He may turn up later."

He turned up today on the Manasquan Beach dead. Both arms were severely burned. Death appeared to have been by drowning.

HAVELOCK GIRL VICTIM OF CAR

Martha Chard is Knocked Unconscious While Crossing Ottawa Street.

SUSPECT SKULL RACTURE.

(Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Sept. 13.— Martha Chard little 9-year-old daughter of Mrs. William Chard was struck down at 9 o'clock last night by an automobile driven by Harold Dunham of Campbellford. She was crossing from the sidewalk on Ottawa street to join her brother who was at the C.P.R. Recreation club's horseshoe pitching courts across on the south side of number seven highway.

The car driven by Dunham was proceeding westerly and as he swerved to miss hitting the little girl his right rear fender caught her.

Just how seriously the little girl was injured had not yet been determined; but it was thought her skull was fractured. At the time of writing she had not yet regained consciousness. The doctors in attendance thought it might be a couple of days before the seriousness could be really determined. She was taken to her home here a few minutes after the accident. Constable C. F. Roberts of the village force investigated and after taking full particulars of the case the driver and other occupants of the car were released.

Sally Rand Planning To Auction Fans, Has Picked Man, Will Wed, Raise Family

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Sally Rand peeped coyly from behind a fan yesterday and stuck a pin in a bubble, as a symbolic gesture, and showed reporters an engagement ring.

It was of a goodly size and on the proper finger.

"His name is Charles Mayon and he's a Springfield, Mass., radio dealer," Sally said. "I've known him about five years. His father is a wealthy tobacco merchant. This is the happiest event of my life."

It means Sally announced, that she is abandoning her fans, bubbles and other artifices of near-concealment for all time.

"After the end of the season we are going to Florida to be married," she said. "This is my first engagement and it will be my last. And put this in the records—the Charles Mayons are going to be married for keeps.

"I want to live a quiet life, raise children, cook dinner and see that my husband wears the right necktie when he goes to work. We may go to Europe next year, because I've always wanted to visit Russia. I want to study languages and do social service work and a lot of other things I've never had a chance to do."

Sally said she'd consider auctioning her fans for some worthy cause.

STEAMER'S CALL STARTS FRANTIC COASTAL SEARCH

Freighter Reported Sinking Later Wirelesses She is Headed for Port.

OFF MEXICO.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 13 (A.P.).— Bewildering reports the S. S. Hawaiian was in distress off the Mexican coast, were followed with a message early to-day from the freighter. "Never mind now, going to nearest port."

The message was relayed to the coastguard station here by the S.S. Santa Rosa. Earlier the Santa Rosa wirelessed: "S.S. Hawaiian reported in distress. Don't know position now. Will send noon position of September 12, latitude 15.36, longitude 97.04 W."

The coastguard operator stressed the fact that the distress signal was "only a report." He said: "We don't know it was sent; we can't reach the Hawaiian now but we are working her."

Headed for Salina Cruz.

The reported position would put the American - Hawaiian Line freighter just south of Salina Cruz, the port of Tehauntepec in Southern Mexico. Marine men here presumed the Hawaiian turned into Salina Cruz, which is about 1,200 miles north-west of Balboa, which she left Sunday, and about 2,000 miles south-east of Los Angeles, her destination.

The report of the Hawaiian's distress threw marine wireless stations throughout United States into a confused and frantic search for the vessel in the early hours of today.

In an unconfirmed report picked up by the Fort Arthur, Texas, station of radio marine, the 6,000-ton craft was reported in a sinking condition.

First reports that the Hawaiian, carrying a crew of 42, was in trouble came from the New York stations which said they were relayed from Pacific coast stations. However, all Pacific coast radio operators, except the coastguard here, denied having had word of the Hawaiian.

Committal followed preliminary hearing Wednesday during which police testified no fingerprints had been found on the revolver with which the girl was killed. She was shot through the neck. A statement by the accused and read into the records declared the girl shot herself.

Police testified the girl, who was to have been married the following day to Steve Anast, dictated a message to the insurance agent shortly before the shooting. The message, which was never sent, was adiressed to Neil McCuish, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, at Kingston, Ont.

The message read: "Dear Neil.— What are your intentions? Do you want me to come east? Have offer that is good but do not want to accept. Reply at once; this is urgent.—Alma."

POLICE ENLARGE STORY OF WIFE IN O'BRIEN CASE

Defendant in Alimony Action Seen With Other Women.

ABSENT FROM HOME.

Wife Completes Testimony—Mistreatment by Husband.

Much more evidence in Mrs. Alice Ann O'Brien's action for alimony against her husband, Joseph A. O'Brien, was heard yesterday afternoon in Supreme Court by Mr. Justice Henderson.

Mrs. O'Brien told of methods she had resorted to in order to defend herself from the attacks of her husband. Many other witnesses, including five members of the police force, testified of Mr. O'Brien's attention to other women.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., is conducting the case for the plaintiff and E. F. Sheehy is acting for the defendant.

On one occasion when Mr. O'Brien began to attack her, Mrs. O'Brien testified she threw a jardiniere stand at him but it did not hit him At another time she defended herself with a belt.

The last money she obtained from her husband was on May 3 when he gave her four dollars. She had a little money left from the sum she obtained from the sale of her car, which her husband had given her.

Afraid To Return

Under cross-examination, she said her husband had asked her to return home but she was afraid to live with him again. When he had suggested giving her so much a week as separation allowance, she told him she was willing to accept any reasonable offer. She denied that she had ever attacked Mr. O'Brien, but had on several occasions been forced to defend herself.

Asked if any one had been present when he made these threats and attacked her, she said: "No, except on some occasion a small child. He was always careful about that, attacking me when we were alone."

On various occasions she had to leave the house and stay with relatives in order to escape his attacks.

Did Not Exhibit Marks

Asked if there was anyone present who had seen the marks of Mr. O'Briens attacks upon her, she said: "I did not go about exhibiting them."

Mrs. O'Brien said she had secured $400 from the sale of the car. She said her husband's books had been seized and sold under the judge's order for interim alimony, but she had received none of the money, $80, so obtained.

Asked if she knew where her husband was when he was away all night, she replied: "At first he said that he had been out and was drinking and was afraid to drive home. Later he gave no explanations whatsoever."

Police Testify

Constable John Stevenson said that on March 23, 1933, he saw Mr. O'Brien in a motor car at 1.30 a.m. with a woman who was not his wife. This incident occurred at the corner of George and Simcoe streets and the girl was Peggy Cameron, a former waitress. The officer located Miss Cameron in the court room. He told of other occasions on which he had seen Mr. O'Brien in company with the same girl.

Constable William Piercy said he was detailed to keep observation on the home of Mrs. Matthews, 302 Pearl avenue, and on several occasions at night he saw Mr. O'Brien enter the premises through the back entrance. There were three occasions in September, 1933.

One time, the officer said, he went to Mr. O'Brien's home in response to a call from Mrs. O'Brien that her husband "had got rough." Mr. O'Brien had locked himself in his home, he said.

Recently he had gone to Mr. O'Brien's home and saw Peggy Cameron there. Previously he had visited an apartment house on Aylmer street occupied by Peggy Cameron, and found Mr. O'Brien there. At that time, the officer said, he was investigating liquor complaints. Mr. O'Brien told him, he said, that beer in the apartment was his and that he was living in the apartment.

Forced Girl To Leave

Constable Joseph Wheeler said Mr. O'Brien had occupied an apartment in a Charlotte street apartment house. He went to this apartment in May this year about a stolen car. "Mr. O'Brien told me he was living in the apartment," Constable Wheeler said.

He had seen Mr. O'Brien in company with Miss Cameron on the street 30 or 40 times.

Under cross-examination Constable Wheeler said on one occasion he went to Mr. O'Brien's house on Engleburn avenue because he had reported his furniture stolen.

H. B. Kelly, owner of an apartment house, said Mr. O'Brien rented an apartment from him last October. "Mr. O'Brien stayed there only at day time but Miss Cameron stayed there practically all the time," Mr. Kelly said. "Miss Cameron remained there about a month."

Sergeant Arthur Thomas said he saw Mr. O'Brien in company with Miss Cameron on several occasions at night.

Constable Jack Deannard had also seen Mr. O'Brien and Miss Cameron together.

Orville Moore, sheriff's officer, said on August 9 he went to Mr. O'Brien's house on Engleburn avenue as bailiff and saw Miss Cameron there.

Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield, said he saw Mrs. Vivian Matthews in company with Mr. O'Brien in Lakefield about two years ago.

John Edgar, Children's Aid Society superintendent, said he had an application under the Unmarried Parents' Act by Mrs. Matthews against Mr. O'Brien. This case came before Judge McGibbon and was disposed of, he said.

Relics Of Pagan Rites Believed Discovered In Manitoba

Compared by scientists in archaeological importance to the monumental stones standing at Stonehenge, England, a series of stones, believed to mark the spot where Indians practised the pagan rituals of the snake dance, have been discovered in the almost inaccesible bushland of the Whiteshell Forest Reserve of Manitoba near the Ontario-Manitoba boundary. A section of the series is shown above. Almost six acres are covered by weather-beaten stones in varying formations; one in the form of a seven-foot snake. They are estimated to have been placed there four or five hundred years ago by either Cree or Chipelwyan Indians.

SCIENTISTS NEED RELIABLE SURVEY

Expert Urges More Co-operative Effort in Making Empire's Maps.

ABERDEEN Scotland, Sept. 12.—(C.P.)—Co-operative effort in geographical research, rather than isolated expeditions of specially trained geographers, was urged before the geographical section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science to-day by Prof. Alan Ogilvie, president of the section.

The lack of reliable surveys and maps in many parts of the British dominions and possessions as well as the world at large greatly delays scientific and material progress, Prof. Ogilvie declared. Scientific knowledge of the continents can scarcely begin to make rapid progress until they have been adequately mapped. The colonies and dependencies of the more advanced nations, he said, offered the most fruitful field for geographical research in the nearer future.

"The world is large and complex, while the number of geographers is still small, and they are unevenly distributed over the globe. In Europe, where they are numerous, the position is quite different. The vast geographical literature of this continent is mostly due to individual workers who knew their country and had at their disposal copious facts and abundant data of all sorts," he said.

New Fighting Plane In Tests

This is the latest in air fighters developed by British aviation experts. It is known as the new pterodactyl model fighting aeroplane, designed without tail or normal fuselage. The object is elimination of "blind spots" from the ordinary fighter or pursuit ship, and to give the machine gunner in the roomy rear cockpit a wider range of vision and field of fire. The aeroplane consist mostly of wings.

BARN BURNS.

CAYUGA, Ont., Sept. 12 (C.P.).—A large straw stack and a barn were destroyed when a heavy electric storm struck this district early today. The farm of W. Teasdale was the scene of the stack fire and prompt work by Cayuga fire-fighters was all that saved two barns between which the stack was situated. At Lymburner, eight miles from here, the barn of John Murphy was completely destroyed.

BRITISH RADIO FLOURISHING.

The great growth of the radio industry in Great Britain has been strikingly emphasized by the success of the fourteenth annual radio city held at Olympia, London, recently, and particularly by the amount of new business gained by British manufacturers as a result of the show.

The British Broadcasting Corporation announces that during the nine days of the exhibition, which, by the way, had a total attendance of almost a quarter of a million people, orders amounting to £29,500,000 were received as against £22,563,000 a year ago.

Electric receiving sets were in most demand, orders for £8,360,000 being placed, but battery sets were a close second with £7,684,000 worth of new business, and as a result of the exhibition the sale of tubes was boosted by over three million pounds and of radio phonographs by nearly two and a half million pounds.

These are indeed surprising totals that will be an eye-opener to many people on this side of the Atlantic.

No wonder British manufacturers are reported as expressing great gratification at the result obtained, and as declaring that the success of the show will mean increased employment in the industry, extending to some thousands of workers.

A large amount of this new business represents sales in the overseas market, but at the same time sales in Britain have also increased tremendously, and the prediction is made that as a result of the record sales made at the radio exhibition the number of licensed set owners in Great Britain will exceed seven millions before Christmas.

LEAVE IT TO THE PROVINCES.

It is to be hoped that there is no truth in the report that the Federal Government plans to enter the gasoline tax field.

A Dominion tax on "gas" coming on top of the already heavy provincial levy would be about the last straw, and in view of the marked improvement in federal finances, there would seem to be little justification for even thinking about making car owners pay tribute to the Ottawa treasury.

The Examiner has always favored the gasoline tax as fair in principle as a source of provincial revenue, but at the same time we must admit that if money raised in this way is diverted into other channels and used for general purposes, as has been the case in Ontario, instead of being devoted to road construction and maintenance, the element of fairness drops completely out of sight.

Premier Hepburn's statement that the revenue from the tax on gasoline is to be earmarked "for highway account only" will be received with the unanimous approval of the motorists of the province, who have wearied of paying in large sums in taxes and for licenses and then finding that the revenue thus obtained has been spent on other Government services rather than for road work.

Most certainly the gasoline tax field should be left to the provinces, and they in turn should reserve the revenue from this source for highway purposes.

There is no reason why motorists should have to pay through the nose to maintain services that benefit the whole province; they are doing their share if they provide the revenue needed for the building and maintenance of the modern highways that motoring made necessary.

EVERYBODY GETS A SHARE.

Occasionally public expenditures for the purpose of developing the tourist industry are criticized on the ground that only a section of the population profits from the presence in Canada each year of many thousands of visitors.

Such complaints, of course, have no real foundation; as a matter of fact, almost every Canadian, either directly or indirectly, shares the benefits effected by the tourist industry.

It is not merely the proprietor of the summer hotel, the business man, the service station operator, the boat builder and the guide who cash in on the vast sums spent in Canada by visitors from other countries; on the contrary, the farmer, the manufacture, the worker in store or factory, and practically every individual and organization, including the Government, get a share.

Some idea of what this most profitable tourist traffic means to agriculture, for example, may be obtained from the fact that an eminent Canadian economist has estimated that in 1929, one of the banner years for tourist traffic, the consumption of agricultural products by visitors amounted to more than four million dollars' worth of butter, eighteen million pounds of meat and four million dozens of eggs, with other commodities in proportion.

In short, the tourist industry has become one of the most valuable assets Canada possesses, and efforts to increase it by extending the tourist season and by advertising this country systematically, consistently and intelligently should have the enthusiastic support and co-operation of every Canadian.

Going after more tourist business means millions added to the national wealth, surely a result that justifies the effort.

DRIVING SO AS TO ARRIVE.

Ab Jenkins, the man who holds more American Automobile Association records for distance, speed and endurance driving than any other driver—and has never had an accident—gives six practical suggestions for safe driving in the Rotarian Magazine. They are:

1. Keep both hands on the wheel.

"The only two people I know who are competent to drive one-handed are Eddie Rickenbacker and Ralph de Palma—and both of them use two hands."

2. Keep the best tires on the front wheels.

"The front-wheel blow-out is by far the more dangerous. When blow-outs do happen, danger can be averted by clinging stoutly to the steering-wheel."

3. Always test your brakes.

"During the first hundred yards of driving, I always test my brakes by pushing down the pedal. The brakes may have frozen, they may be greasy or need adjustment."

4. Be extremely careful at twilight.

"You have three times the accident hazard at twilight that you have at 8 a.m. Defective visibility is, of course, the reason. Remember, too, that night-time crashes have a forty-two per cent. higher fatality than daylight accidents."

5. Don't use brakes in a skid.

"To come out of a skid throw out your clutch and manoeuvre the steering-wheel so that the front wheels are in alignment with the rear ones. In other words, go in the skid. Braking is ineffectual. Your main concern is to equalize traction on all four wheels, which you do by throwing out your clutch; your next move is to get all your wheels in line. As soon as you feel the skid weakening, let in the clutch, 'gun' the motor, and resume forward progress."

6. Study the road.

"Always reduce speed when passing from one type of road to another. Your right wheel should be approximately one and one-half feet from the outer edge of the highway. Running off the road is common. Thirty-one per cent. of accidents are due to speeding, while thirty-four per cent. are caused by cars going off the road."

THE INSTINCT FOR POLITICS.

In the late provincial election campaign, platform exchanges between party spokesmen were so pointed, criticisms and retorts so often personal, that there recurred in the press a discussion as to whether candidates of the most desirable type could be expected to offer themselves for public service with knowledge that they would have to run the gauntlet of abuse in this fashion. Some editors were of opinion that numbers of citizens, enjoying the highest standing in their respective communities, refrain from active participation in politics through dislike of the tactics which are considered legitimate in party warfare.

At any rate, it is one reason why politics is regarded by many people as something which has come to be not quite respectable, if not actually "full of treasons, stratagems and spoils." The term "politician" is seldom applied with complimentary intent. If praise is to be bestowed, it appears necessary to use the word "statesman." Usually that is stretching a point, but there seems to be no short synonym, implying neither scorn nor laudation.

The politician has no occasion to be ashamed, however, of the urge to take a hand in public affairs. It is quite a normal and healthful instinct, according to the bishop of Huron, who made passing allusion to the matter in an anniversary sermon at St. Charles' Church, Dereham, Sunday evening. His lordship is under no illusions about politics and politicians; in fact, his remarks constituted part of observations upon the New Testament narrative of ten lepers healed. Nine returned to their vocations without giving thanks; the bishop surmised that some of them might have been politicians. But he continued his reflections as follows:

> "Politics has always had an interest for men and exercised an extraordinary spell over their spirits, and one often wonders why it is, when one knows there is not much in it. But I think down at the bottom there is represented a fine instinct—an instinct to share in the doings of the whole body politic, and to have a contribution to make toward the development of this particular group of the social order represented among ourselves. Even in the basest politics there is a germ of public spirit."—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

TRAINING AND BENEFITS.

The Stratford Board of Education, co-operating with the local police department last spring, tried out an accident prevention plan whereby a couple of the older boy pupils of one of the public schools were placed on traffic duty at a busy intersection until all the younger pupils had crossed on their way to or from school. The children, cautioned by their teachers, obeyed the directions of the boys handling traffic. Motorists, too, gave excellent co-operation. The plan was a fine success, reducing to a minimum the possibility of accidents, and it would not be surprising if the system were extended this fall to include other busy intersections.

Over in the Netherlands a system has been in vogue for some time that might commend itself to authorities here and in other municipalities. This plan begins with the children to whom observance of rules and regulations is a matter of good citizenship. Their training in traffic regulations and problems is a requirement before they can become members of a traffic club of high standard. In Amsterdam alone 700 children recently took traffic tests under the supervision of the police, with the result that virtually ninety per cent. of the applicants worked out fifteen different traffic problems, made the required trips on their bicycles through the busiest sections of the city, during the most congested hours, accompanied by motor police to check up on youthful contestants, and received diplomas and badges of the State Traffic Club.

The news item that tells of promising results of three years' successful training on the part of the Dutch in ways of modern traffic is of interest to students of transportation in all parts of the world, both for present and future advantages. It is another example of the wisdom of combining youthful competition and responsibility in citizenship. Local boy scout organizations may even take up the idea as part of their training.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Reading some of the by-election speeches leaves the impression that the issues are just whatever you care to make them.

With the militia called out in half a dozen states, the textile strike is more and more taking on the appearance of civil war.

The salaries to be paid the new justices of the peace in Ontario are not likely to give the Federal Income Tax Department a great deal of extra work.

A sixteen-year-old golfer has been conspicuous in the United States amateur competition, thus driving out the last trace of the once-prevelent idea that golf was a game for players of mature years.

Port Arthur reports not an able-bodied man left on the relief lists there, and a lot of other municipalities would like some information from the head of the lakes as to how their trick was done.

Ontario gets into line with Alberta and Saskatchewan in having a farmer as Premier.—Lethbridge Herald.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

THE UNITED STATES Industrial Confusion (1)

CONFUSION may easily become confounding. On his return to Washington from his long sea cruise, President Roosevelt found the nation in a state of bewilderment. A large force had been left in Washington to work out plans for recovery. The country would have fared just as well had all of this vast number of picked men gone on a vacation with the President. He found unrest where he had thought to find content. Labor dissatisfaction in the United States is more than unrest. It is not the result of radical propaganda. It is the result of exploitation of the employee by the predatory employer. The objective of the labor groups is to share in the profits, recognition of the labor unions, the humanizing of all industrial conditions, just wages, reasonable hours, unemployment insurance, and old age pensions.

The present textile strike began with the walkout of thousands of alumina workers. Conditions were ripe for the walkout of nearly a million laborers. The United Textile Workers of America, 500,000 of them, by vote on August 17, decided to strike on September the 2nd, at 12:05 midnight.

The strike is on, as these lines are being written. Already some of the effects have been tabulated. Secretary Francis Perkins has reported that unemployment since the month of July has increased 3 per cent. That 359,000 workers have been added to the relief list. The loss in weekly wages during the same period is 10,460,000 dollars. A drop in wages means a market slump. A market slump means retarded recovery.

The behavior of the strikers, their restraint under great injustice for many years, will be thoroughly tested while negotiations are under way. A manlier group of workmen cannot be found in the whole world. Will Roosevelt advice that the government take over the industries remains to be seen

Affidavits by Workers (2)

In the article in The Examiner about Industrial Confusion in the United States the attention of the reader was called to some affidavits signed by textile workers in Alabama mills. Here is one:

I work in the finishing department of the Gardner Knitting Company as seamer. The production was so high, I could not make it. Many times I worked noon-hours and failed to punch my time-card from one-half day to a whole day per week.

Mr. Capshaw, my foreman, advised me to do this and told me I would be laid off if I could not make my production.

Here is another:

The percentage was so high I could not make it. It was much more in eight hours than it was in ten. Mr. McDaniels told me I could remain on at work if I would take care of my percentage by not punching my time-card. I always started to work fifteen minutes early in the morning and worked every day at noon-hour and, even then, couldn't make my percentage.

These are not exceptional experiences of the workers in mills in the state of Alabama. There are some conditions in Peterborough just as inhumane. If any of my readers wish to know where, investigate and gather facts first hand as I have done. Is this any concern of the churches? No. Just because they are dead asleep. Almighty God will wake them up some of these day, or He will remove the candlestick from their altars. That the churches should be so unconcerned and ignorant about conditions in some of the industries is a crying shame. The distance of the churches from actual human conditions in this age is alarming. Give us back the leadership of such men as Augustine, or John Knox, or Wesley, or William Booth. Then the church will once more function.

A HUNDRED YEARS OF PURE SCIENCE

BY H. W. L. MAHOOD

A hundred years ago our predecessors transported themselves from one place to another as did the people in the days of Homer or Plutarch. For short distances they walked, or rode horseback, or were drawn by horse team. Seas and oceans were traversed by the oar or sailing vessel. The motive travel forces of the past one hundred years have been steam and electricity.

The harnessing of these forces of inanimate nature has transformed the modes of civilized nations' transportation. The transformation has been dramatic. The change has been on such a vast scale. No prophet arose to tell of its coming. The horse-drawn carriage did not evolve upward into the motor-car. Discovery and not evolution brought into being the mechanism of this electrical age.

Another advance was inaugurated by the harnessing of electricity. Production of commodities was increased on a vastly greater scale. The whole industrial system was new-made. Where men and animals toiled, now machinery hums. Unemployment began right there. Machinery lifted many burdens from human shoulders. At the same time it placed new burdens on society. With improved machinery the social burden grows heavier. And it will. The day of the great factory is here. The relationship between industry and society cannot remain as it is. As great a change in society as in industry is overdue.

One hundred years ago the wealthy could not command the luxuries and the comforts which are in this day within the reach of the poor. Speedy transportation has brought to our doors the most desirable products of the world markets. Sanitation has decimated the massacre of the innocents. The average duration of life has been surprisingly lengthened. The perils of surgical operations have become almost nil by the use of anaesthetics and antiseptics.

What's in The NAME

of Canadian Cities and Towns?

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS

PUNNICHY, SASKATCHEWAN

In the Sioux language this word means "a young, down chicken".

There is no record of why this name was chosen, but Osborne Scott of the Canadian National Railways says he understands the place got its name from a man named Heubach.

Heubach traded in and around Punnichy. He was red-headed and had a hooked nose. To the Indians he resembled an eagle, so they named him Punnichy, which is supposed to mean "Little Eagle".

The latter interpretation is more like the correct one.

If I had wings, I wouldn't have to wait for street cars.

If I had wings, I could fly in through the windows.

If I had wings, Rocky Mountain trails wouldn't mean anything to me; I'd fly through the clouds and come out on the other side and I'd circle the snowclad peaks and make the eagles envious.

And I wouldn't envy the aviators, if I had wings.

If I had wings, I'd swoop down and ride the wild horses of the desert and if they bucked me off I wouldn't mind because I'd zoom across the fields without any discomfort at all.

If I had wings, they'd be some trouble to me in a telephone booth and I don't know just what I'd do with them when I went to bed, but the advantages would far outweigh any minor inconvenience. . . . If I had wings, I wouldn't like the molting season so much, I suppose, though I could probably put the feathers on the market at fifty cents apiece. . . . But, of course, I wouldn't go on the vaudeville stage or into the movies because that would make me a professional.

If I had wings, I'd chase away the hawks that frighten the little birds and I'd perch on church steeples and I'd roar like Tarzan, but I wouldn't hover over any nudist colonies because if people want to go without clothes it's quite all right with me. . . . If I had wings and little girls lost their balloons I'd flap aloft and get them back again and wings would be a great help when little boys get their kites caught on telegraph wires. . . . If I had wings and people went to war I'd ascend to the heavens with a flaming neon-illuminated sword and make everybody think I was the Angel of Wrath and frighten everybody back home again. . . . If I had wings, I'd have to have special clothing with holes in the back. . . . I wouldn't carry the mail or take any regular job. I wouldn't tow advertising signs over football games. I'd avoid all gardeners with big hedge clippers. I'd dye my wings gold with nice red tips. And if city fathers should ask me to fly over children's May-pole parties or visit orphanages I'd be very glad to oblige because I used to live near an orphan asylum when I was a kid and still remember how wistfully those youngsters used to look over the high board fence.

But, of course, I'll never have any wings. When I was little and was "good" people used to say, "He must be sprouting wings!" . . . But they never did get past the sprouting stage.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE FIRST GENERAL SYNOD

On this date, in 1893, the first General Synod of the Church of England in Canada (the successor of which convened at Montreal yesterday) assembled at Toronto. It was the result of a conference held at Winnipeg in August, 1890, at which there were present seven bishops, thirty-three clergy and 25 laymen. Bishop Machray was appointed president of the conference with Canon Matheson (afterwards Primate) and Dr. Leo Davidson, Q.C., as secretaries. Two resolutions were passed: (1) That this conference is of opinion that it is expedient to unite and consolidate the various branches of the Church of England in British North America; (2) that in any scheme of union the conference affirms the necessity of the retention of provinces under a general synod. Charles Jenkins, Q.C., of Petrolea, one of the ablest laymen the Church of England ever produced in Canada, presented a memorandum of a proposed constitution which was adopted.

This provided for a general synod consisting of an upper house (the bishops) and a lower house chosen on a proportionate basis from the clergy and laity by the diocesan synods. The president, who was to be styled Primate, was to be elected by the bishops from among the metropolitans; the general synod was to have power to deal with all matters affecting the general interests of the church, but none of its canons of a coercive character was to be in operation until accepted by the provincial synods or by the synods of dioceses not included in a province.

This was the genesis of the General synod, which has met triennially since 1893. Dean Grisdale of Winnipeg was the chairman of the first General Synod which adopted three declarations: (1) A solemn declaration that the Church of England in Canada desired to continue an integral part of the Anglican communion; (2) preserving all rights, powers and jurisdiction of provincial synods; (3) leaving the retention or abolition of provincial synods to the provinces and the dioceses within such provinces.

On September 18 it was announced that the Bishop of Rupert's Land (Dr. Machray) had been elected Primate and it was agreed that the metropolitan of each province should be designated archbishop of his see.

This year's General Synod will have to select a new Primate of all Canada to replace the late much regretted Archbishop of Nova Scotia (Dr. Worrell). It will be in session for three weeks and has many vital problems to solve.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterboroughs Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner

Full name and address (complete) must be given in all samples sent in.

Mona Elliott,
R. R. No. 2, Norwood, Ont.

Judging from the manner in which you sign your name, the rest of your writing almost seems to belong to a different type of person, so I shall not illustrate you too harshly even if you do possess "golden red hair and a fiery temper". I must say that I would not like to "step on your toes".

The lower loops do not tend to depict a very favorable characteristic, but at eighteen one is at the changeable stage so must be granted the benefit of the doubt.

Your 't' bars show rather an obstinate persistence which you could easily curb, were you to learn to give more than you take. Try paying a few compliments instead of throwing cold water, and above all else learn to assimilate knowledge; knowledge of a mental type, for an educated person has no reason to fear physical defects, and soon acquires many really worthwhile friends. However, I fear that you are perhaps a trifle careless as to your personal appearance at present, and if so, I would advise you to make the best of your good points.

People of your coloring should study carefully their color schemes: greens, browns, mauves and creams are very good kinds from which to choose. Freckles usually add charm to a clear skin, and pure soap and tepid water will keep your skin soft, but don't use too much powder after a wash, if you are in the habit of using any.

Last but not least, keep a good dictionary beside you and try to study a few words each day, for there is no shame in acquiring the habit of obtaining a little extra knowledge from a dictionary and if you write again I must insist that you mail it to the "Examiner" and not to my home.

Your birthsign is Libra the Balance. You are ruled by Venus and Friday is your lucky day. August and December are your lucky months and nine is your number.

Mansell Elliott,
R. R. No. 2, Norwood, Ont.

Your handwriting indicates a nervous temperament, and I am afraid that you are too young as yet for a real character delineation from your writing. You may find that you are interested in machinery and if so it would be well for you to learn all that you can about the trade while you are growing up. Your 't' crossings are very much like your sister's, but you disposition is much more steady.

You have a way of your own when you want things, and can be very pleasant, but on the other hand you will have to develop your character; learn to take the hard knocks, do good deeds and be a sport in every sense of the word.

Your lucky number is nine, your birthsign is Taurus the Bull; ruled by Venus. Friday is your lucky day and May and July are your lucky months.

Hazel Armstrong,
Havelock, Ont.

Your writing delineates you as anxious for success, but not absolutely certain in which line you wish to succeed.

In some ways you are obdurate in the expression of your ideas and refuse to concede even one little point. Then without any apparent reason you change and agree with every one. This characteristic has a tendency to make your friends wonder what your next move will be. You object to being bossed. Yet your type as a rule, require a leader, though not one who will say . . . you must.

You are most susceptible to the friendliness of others and respond instantly to a pleasant remark or compliment. When your sensitive feelings are hurt, they remain so for a long time and you wonder what there is in life after all. There is sufficient ahead of you to make it worth the living, for you possess talent and if led along the right channel, it will bring you happiness.

Jack Skitch, 231 Dublin St., City.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis, indicates that you are a person with keen perceptions, and that if you have anything to say, you say it with finality. Perhaps you are considered rather pointed in your remarks by others who do not quite appreciate your keenness of thought.

Your imagination is rather unusual for one of your age, but I do not think you let it get the better of you, because you are too intelligent for that.

I do not know if you are in training for literary work at present, but should you desire to undertake anything in that line, you will I am sure, find great pleasure in the prospect.

However, that line of endeavour is not absolutely essential to one of your ability, for you could take up public speaking or devote your time to lectures of a scientific nature.

The closely-knit, forward, leaning formations of the letters graphically describe that you can be most convincing in an argument or debate.

The outlines of the whole signature represents the fact that you can be secretive if you think it necessary, otherwise you are not, though you are reticent as regards personal affairs.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

Egg and butter prices halted their rise on the Montreal Produce and Dairy Market yesterday.

Butter was slightly easier in price, fresh No. 1, in cariots or less, being quoted yesterday at 20c to 20¼c a pound, as compared with 20c to 20½c a pound Tuesday. To retailers, small lots brought 21c a pound for solids and 22c for prints, unchanged. Receipts totalled 1,004 boxes.

The cheese market also tended slightly easier, Ontario colored being priced at 9¾c to 10c a pound against 10c straight, and Quebec cheese was 9¾c to 9½c a pound, in comparison with 9¼c straight. Arrivals totalled 1,276 boxes.

Graded shipments of eggs in cariots or less were 31c to 32c a dozen for A-large, 29c to 30c for A-medium, 20½c to 21c for B, and 19c to 19½c for C. Receipts were 867 cases.

New Quebec potatoes continued to be priced at 45c to 50c per 80-pound bag of No. 1 grade.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Suffering from a sinking spell in the late transactions, wheat prices yesterday underwent material downturns that more than offset early gains.

Lack of any aggressive buying was chiefly responsible for late weaknesses of wheat values. Besides the gain markets were unsettled, owing to a sharp break in United States Government bonds, and as a result of Winnipeg reports that a small lot of Canadian wheat had been sold to the United States.

Wheat closed unstable at the day's low point, 1c to 1⅜c under Tuesday's finish: December, new, $1.06⅛ to $1.06¼, corn, ¼c to ⅜c down; December, new, 79¼ to 79⅜c; oats unchanged to ⅝c lower, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 7c advance.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Depressed by heavy hedging sales, wheat prices sagged 1⅛c to 1c on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange yesterday, despite good buying from undetermined sources.

October wheat ended at 83½c, December at 84⅝c, and May at 88½c. Traders viewed the decline as a fairly good showing in view of heavy short sales against Tuesday's country deliveries, which were over the 4,000,000-bushel mark.

Exporters confirmed only small sales of Canadian wheat abroad. There was a general belief among usually well-posted traders that the October and December futures were being accumulated by large interests intending to ship the wheat or grind it into flour.

Apart from a good demand for Durums for shipment to the United States, interest in various grades of cash grains was indifferent. Coarse grains sagged with wheat.

BLAST SAVES MAN'S LIFE AS HIS HOUSEBOAT BURNS

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—Explosion of a can of bug-aboo preparation for exterminating insect pests, saved the life of Fred Teeter, 66, when his houseboat burned to the water's edge at Highbanks Walpole Island, early Wednesday morning.

The loss is covered by insurance.

Cause of the fire is unknown. The noise of the explosion awakened Teeter who found his houseboat filled with smoke. He managed to climb on top and shout for help. Two Indians responded and the burning houseboat was cut loose when flames threatened to damage a large dock. The blackened hulk was drawn in after the fire burned itself out.

MR. HAWTHORNE APPOINTED

Moderate Gains Scattered Through Secondary Gold Group Issues.

BASE METALS STEADY.

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (CP).—The mining market steadied today and achieved some minor recoveries from yesterday's slump which was led by Teck Hughes. Teck today was in better form though it failed to improve on the previous closing price of 5.45. Early in the day it sold down to 5.25 and then slowing, moved up to 5.45 on heavy turnover. Moderate gains were scattered through the secondary gold group, while base metal and silver stocks were slow and steady.

DESIRE TRADE PACTS WITH U.S.

Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Favor of Reciprocity.

CONVENTION ENDS.

By SAM G. ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13. (CP).—Under the presidency of A. O. Dawson of Montreal, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to-day planned action to implement its declaration of policies in favor of reciprocity of trade with the United States, economy in government and a national policy for unemployment relief.

Completing its program on schedule, the ninth annual convention of the Chamber wound up its general sessions at a banquet tendered by the Manitoba government last night.

The credentials committee, reporting 184 accrediated Canadian representatives and a dozen from the United Kingdom and the United States, termed the convention the most successful yet held.

Chief in the work of the convention was the adoption of the report of its policy committee as submitted by J. H. Woods, Calgary, a former president, and R. J. Magor, president of the Montreal Board of Trade.

The report urged the Canadian and United States governments to explore avenues to effect mutual concessions in trade from which both countries would benefit. It approved proposals for a trade mission to China with a view to developing Canadian trade and it approved all steps directed at extending markets for Canadian products.

Greater economies in government through reduction of membership of the Federal cabinet, House of Commons, Senate and Provincial legislatures was advocated. Elimination of duplicatory taxation was urged. Conferences between Federal and Provincial representatives to end overlapping of work were advocated.

TORONTO.—Two youths early today slugged William Mungour and robbed him of $195 after following him from a hotel beverage room. Members of Mungour's family found him at the door of his home.

The youths saw Mungour's money while he was drinking beer. They asked him to buy drinks but he refused.

GENEVA.—Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference, has left Geneva and the cause of disarmament has been definitely put off for an uncertain period. Henderson informed League delegates before his departure he hoped to convoke a meeting of the Steering committee in November to consider the next steps to be taken.

Workers Must Unite as Capital Knows No National Obligations, Congress is Told.

MANY SUGGESTIONS

(By Harold J. Fair, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (C.P.) — Necessity for close relationship between organized labor in Great Britain, Canada and the United States was urged upon the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada at their convention here to-day, when Joseph P McCurdy of Baltimore and John Marchbank of London, England, delivered their fraternal addresses bringing greetings from the American Federation of Labor and the British Trade Union Congress.

"Capital knows no national obligations, so the workers of both countries must join hands in the struggle of the coming months, Mr. McCurdy declared.

Delegates heard these fraternal addresses after they had waded through a weighty list of resolutions in the early part of the morning.

Among the recommendations were demands for abolition of one-man street cars, placing of two drivers in Ontario transport trucks, accident insurance for Quebec motorists, and licensing of barbers in Ontario Municipalities of more than 1,000 population.

Opposition of the Congress to immigration into the Dominion was reiterated, and it desired revision be made in the Alien Labor Act. The Congress proposed administration of the Act be placed with a Minister of the Government.

In the afternoon the delegates were entertained at a scenic drive around the city.

TESTING AUTOGIRO TO GUIDE TRAFFIC

Police Try Low-Flying Aircraft as Aid to Control of London Streets.

LONDON, Sept. 13 (C.P.).—Scotland Yard is making experiments with an autogiro as a possible help in dealing with traffic control. For the purpose of these experiments the Air Ministry has relaxed the regulation that machines shall not fly over London below 6,000 feet.

During his maiden trip on the autogiro Assistant Commissioner Howard Tripp, head of the traffic department of the Metropolitan Police, at times dropped as low as 800 feet. Twice he flew the length of Oxford Street, then gave his attention to Regent Street and Trafalgar Square.

"It is too early yet to say anything definite," said the Commissioner on landing. "There may be tremendous possibilities in regard to aerial traffic control. We have used autogiros quite a lot in connection with the races at Epsom and also at the Air Force Pageant. Traffic problems cannot be solved locally. When there was a big hold-up at Westminister just recently we traced the source of it to Kennington, nearly two miles away."

FINAL CURTAIN FOR COMEDIAN

he gave an imitation of President "Teddy" Roosevelt at the battle of San Juan was an original conception of his.

"Comedy has always been my strong forte," he said. "I never had a desire to play lovesick heroes nor heavy tragedy roles. If I can keep the people out front amused and entertained I am thoroughly satisfied."

His character parts were many and difficult yet they were almost invariably handled in a manner which brought much favorable comment from the papers and critics of the profession. Even as death took him from the theatrical world, a new character part was being planned for him. It was the intention of Cohan and Harris, the widely-known producers, to feature him in a new tour of "Little Johnny Jones" this coming season. But the final curtain has fallen for the man who started as an ambitious youngster in Peterborough almost 50 years ago.

Telling of Vacation

As he passed away, Danny was telling the manager of the Markwell Hotel, a favorite actor's hostel on West 49th Street, how much he had enjoyed his vacation in Peterborough. He came here in April and returned to New York only ten days ago. Fond of fishing and the other vacation entertainments of this region, he was a regular summer visitor.

His death marks the third bereavement in the family in the past two years. Miss Lillian Simons and Mrs. Fred Shannon, both sisters of the deceased, passed away within a short period.

Danny was an Elk, enjoying membership in a New York branch of the organization. In Peterborough he was a member of the Knights of Columbus. He also had a wide circle of friends in his profession through membership in the National Vaudeville Actors' Association.

Richard, a surviving brother, made a hurried trip to New York last night on receipt of the tragic news. The actor is to be laid to rest in St. Peter's Cemetery here, it has been decided, but definite funeral arrangements have not been made.

REVOLVING INSURANCE FUND IS SUGGESTED FOR FARMERS

Would be Built Up in Good Years to Tide Over Lean Seasons.

STILL RETAIN FAITH

By SAM G. ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13. (CP).—Establishment of a revolving insurance fund for farmers, built up in properous years to tide over lean season, was suggested to the ninth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce yesterday by R. A. Wright, Drinkwater, Sask., president of the Western Canada Live Stock Union.

Importance of wheat in the national welfare was detailed by R. S. Law, Winnipeg, president of the United Grain Growers, Ltd., and the relation of population, employment and agriculture was presented by C. W. Peterson, Calgary. Revision and unification of company law was urged by W. R. Cottingham, K.C., Winnipeg, chairman of the Manitoba Public Utility Board.

The whole of the morning session emphasized the close relation of business and agriculture, the speakers pointing out the welfare of one depended on the welfare of the other. Mr. Cottingham's address reviewed public protection in the sale of securities, and the state's responsibility in demanding proper presentation of facts of ventures was cited.

In the face of drought, grasshoppers, soil drifting and other plagues, the western farmers were still in the field with a stubborn faith in the future, he declared. They were doing their job well and efficiently under the conditions. Because of the poor conditions, the time was ripe to "stop, look and listen" and put agriculture in a healthy condition.

Packers Will Handle West's Surplus Stock

WINNIPEG, Sept. 13 (C.P.) — Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Manitoba Minister of Agriculture, in a statement to-day threw further light on the plan to dispose of surplus cattle in the drought areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Alberta may also be included in the scheme.

Mr. McKenzie's statement said a co-operative policy had been agreed upon by Hon. Herbert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture; Hon. J. G. Taggart, Minister for Saskatchewan, himself; managers of Winnipeg packing plants, and the Canadian railways, whereby surplus cattle from the drought areas of Southwestern Manitoba and Southeastern Saskatchewan will be disposed of through the packing plants.

One stipulation in the statement of the terms was that "Packers will process cattle at cost and market product insofar as possible outside the boundaries of Canada." Another said "total net proceeds of sale of processed cattle and offal will be returned to the primary producer."

HOLY MAN OF POLISH JEWS DECLINES VISIT ON SABBATH

Fifty Thousand Followers Bring All Problems to Revered Patriarch.

IS IRISH LANDLORD

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN,
Central Press Canadian Writer

GORA-KALVARIA, Poland, Sept. 13.—The Tsaddik of Ger would not receive me because I had travelled out from Warsaw—on the Sabbath. He sent out word by one of his secretaries counselling me to read the ten commandments. The Tsaddik is a renowned religious authority and a miracle-worker, hence a famous man to those who believe in miracles. He also gives advice on money transactions, matrimonial matters, infant hygiene, politics, real estate deals, talmudical questions, love, diet, the life hereafter, and runs a lottery in his spare time. In short, a man to be respected. Some call him holy.

Since it is worth as much as your life to pull a coin from your pockets on Saturday in this all-Jewish hamlet, and nothing is to be bought, not even a crust of bread, I had to return to the Polish capital hungry and uncured of the indigestion attacks which have plagued me after eating roasted horse-meat in a gipsy camp. In strolling through the village I noticed, however, that all the taprooms—there must have been ten of them—were open. Schnapps was to be had, and was being had by many. "How do you manage to sell schnapps when you are not supposed to do business on the Sabbath?" I asked a tavern-keeper with a beard like Ezekiel.

"I don't do business on the Sabbath," the man retorted indignantly. "You don't see anyone paying here, do you?"

"Free schnapps on the Sabbath, then?" I asked.

Riches for Holy Man

"No, of course not," he said. "Free schnapps on no day. To-morrow is Sunday. To-morrow the customers pay. But strangers are excepted. They don't get schnapps because they might be gone to-morrow." You will observe, I hope, that I had not asked for any schnapps . . . yet.

The name of this town is Gora-Kalvaria in Polish. The Jews call it Ger. They are not fond of the second part of the name, which is understandable. The Tsaddik of Ger has 50,000 followers, but not a single one of them lives in Ger. I never came across a more perfect confirmation of the saying that a prophet is not without honor in his own country.

On Fridays the Tsaddik receives petitions. They run all the way from a prayer to cure a little girl of tuberculosis to a request for advice on how to delay payment on a promissary note. In both cases he says: "God will help!" One of his secretaries collects the fees in advance. The Tsaddik is the biggest landowner for miles around. He also owns the local bank. The Polish government treats him as if he were a grand duke. The Tsaddik's 50,000 followers have 50,000 votes. Poland is a democracy.

I caught a glimpse of the Tsaddik as he made his way forward to go to dinner at a friend's house. He was a burly man with a red beard and was dressed in a long black cloak. Five of his assistants were necessary to elbow passageway for him through the crowds. Not only did people, especially women, crowd forward to touch the hem of his garments, they flung themselves down to kiss the spots where his feet had trod.

Not Miraculous to Tenants

His house is the only brick building in the locality. Before that house the lame and the blind camp for days to have a word with the wonder-worker. They are the poorest of the poor, Jews who have travelled from all the sombre corners of Poland. It is a habit for foreign travellers in Poland to run down the institutions of the country, to make fun of the inhabitants, to sneer at its army and statesmen. I will not join in this facile pastime, but I have little to say in praise, either. The inhabitants of Ger live from the pilgrim traffic of these miserable, ragged and hopeless Jews, but they do not share the pilgrims' veneration for the Tsaddik, although they are very pious Jews themselves. To the Gersonians, the Tsaddik is not a wonder-worker, he is just the landlord. It is a general rule in this world that little love is lost between landlords and tenants. There may be exceptions to this rule of course, but I have never heard of any.

Non-Jews Unwelcome

As the dinner to which the Tsaddik had gone progressed, a crowd of pilgrims assembled in a large room in his house. I managed to squirm in although the absence of a beard on my face made people keep at elbow's length. I was as strange and fantastic a phenomenon to them in my European clothes as a bushman from Africa, in Adam's attire, would be on Broadway. There were some murmurs that I had no business there and that somebody should throw me out. But nobody acted on this suggestion, and I behaved as if I had not heard the Yiddish imprecations at my address.

What were we waiting for? Was the Tsaddik going to appear? Squatted against the wall, I asked a pimply-faced youth next to me. He did not choose to reply, as the late Mr. Coolidge would have put it. So we waited until the air in the room became unbreathable and the quarrels grew more and more frequent as people trampled on each other's toes.

In the middle of the room stood a long table. On the benches around the table sat Jews in long caftans, their heads covered with big fuzzy caps of rabbit-skin. They had paid for the privilege of sitting there. Orchestra seats! Behind them stood men and women who had paid a little less for standing room. We in the rear were not asked to contribute more than a couple of groschen. An indescribable bedlam broke loose as two men came to blows following a dispute over standing room. Children cried and were slapped for making a noise. Everybody was breathing hard.

Even Dishes Venerated

At last there was a momentary lull in the tempest of voices. Two boys came in, carrying trays above their heads. How they managed to reach the table through that compact mass of humanity was a miracle. But the thing was done, not without some blows and a lot of impartial elbow-grease.

What was on the trays? Were we going to be fed? Nothing of the sort. On the trays were the dishes which the Tsaddik had touched during his own meal. Now it was the turn of the pilgrims to touch them, to lick them (those in the orchestra seats had this special privilege), fondle them and gaze at them from a distance, for we in the rear could not do anything but feast our eyes, so to speak. Everything the Tsaddik touches has miraculous power. Mark well my words: everything he touches.

Books have been written about the miracle-tsaddiks of Poland. Kessel, Tharaud, Samuel, Kisch, Helsley, Ehrenburg and dozens of others have tried to describe the medieval customs in which the villages of the Carpathians are shrouded as in a veil. It is another world, an incredible world. But a pathetic, even tragic, world also.

No Comfort, Just a Gas Tank

Comfort has been entirely sacrificed for efficiency in this Boeing airliner which Col. Roscoe Turner, United States speed ace, has turned into a virtual flying gasoline tank for the London to Australia air races. Turner, holder of the American transcontinental speed record, had all the luxurious seats removed replacing them with gas tanks. This ship can do well over two hundred miles an hour, and should prove a strong competitor in this greatest of all air races.

Sought By Police

According to police the two men shown above have been definitely identified by John S. Labatt as among the men who kidnapped him. They are being sought by police. Albert Pegran, left, alias Albert Leon and Jack Snead, is sought as chauffeur of the abductors' car. He is said to have a criminal record in United States. Right is David Misener, also wanted as a suspect.

JURY DISAGREES IN WALSH CASE NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Retrial Later in Year on Criminal Negligence Charge.

BAIL RENEWED.

A new trial on a charge of criminal negligence against Roy Walsh, 28, arising from the fatal motor crash on Highway 28 last September in which Joseph M. Maher was killed, was ordered yesterday afternoon by Mr. Justice Henderson when the jury failed to reach an agreement on a verdict.

The jury was out nearly six hours, returning to the court room at 4.30, and the foreman, E. M. Turner, announced positively that the jury was in disagreement on a verdict.

Mr. Turner informed the court that a verdict had been reached on the manslaughter count. "We find him not guilty of manslaughter," he said.

The jury had been warned by His Lordship that if they found the accused not guilty of manslaughter they must decide whether or not he was guilty of criminal negligence.

"We are not able to agree on the criminal negligence charge," continued Mr. Turner. "There is no hope of us being able to agree on the evidence as presented."

Crown Attorney McElderry suggested that the jury should be sent back again, but His Lordship considered that an "extension of time would probably not serve any good purpose."

Mr. Justice Henderson in dismissing the jury thanked them for the attention and thought it had given the case. "It will not serve any purpose for anyone to find fault with you for not reaching an agreement. Twelve good men have been endeavouring to do their duty and have failed to agree."

Walsh will be retried on the charge of criminal negligence at the session of the Supreme Court in December, the judge said. Bail was renewed.

Heiress—$2 Per Week

Heiress of an $8,000,000 fortune, 12-year-old Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, above, of New York, gets but $2 a week to spend, it was revealed in an accounting submitted in court by the child's mother and guardian, Mrs. Frederic N. Watriss. The will of Brenda's father, Frank Duff Frazier, who died two years after being divorced from the mother, provided the fortune should go to Yale university unless the child lived apart from the mother, a stipulation set aside by a court which appointed Mrs. Watriss guardian.

Judgment Reserved On Indian's Claim

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—Judgment was reserved to-day in the hearing of a petition of right, alleging violation by the Department of Indian Affairs of an Indian treaty and improper expenditures of $21,275 of Mistawasis Indian funds. Justice F. R. Angers, of Ottawa, heard the petition.

Richard Mulcaster, K.C., counsel for the Indians occupying the John Smith Reserve, near here, submitted that medicine, education and necessaries of life mentioned in the treaty, were inferred to be free benefits for surrender of title to land now occupied by white settlers.

From 1876, when the treaty was signed, until 1911 education and drugs were supplied free. From 1911 to 1919, however, when the band came into funds following sale of part of their reserve, these and other items were paid for out of money held in trust by the Government. It is claimed the charges are excessive.

WARRANTS OUT FOR KIDNAPPERS

Seven Identify Suspects in Labatt Case—All From Windsor Area.

TRAIL WARMS UP.

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—Armed with warrants for the arrest of two men, police to-day pressed the hunt for the kidnappers of John S. Labatt, London, Ont., brewer. Albert Pegram, former Detroit, Mich., bootlegger, and David Meisner who has a Canadian criminal record, are the men for whom the warrants have been issued.

Latest step in the case came last night when it was learned Provincial Police had sworn out informations here, the district where the crime was committed, and had received warrants from Magistrate C. S. Woodrow. Meisner and Pegram are reported to have been identified by more than seven persons as two of the kidnapping gang that held Labatt in a cottage in the Wildewood area of Muskoka for 66 hours before releasing him Aug. 17 when the victim promised to pay $35,000.

"Fool proof" is the description given in informations and police are reported concentrating their search in the Border area around Windsor. Detroit police also are on the trail of the two men who might have taken refuge in the United States after releasing Labatt on Toronto outskirts.

If caught and convicted the maximum penalty of 25 years faces the kidnappers, as evidence collected by police concerning Meisner and Pegram is reported steadily increasing.

Inspector Joe Cousans left London yesterday on a special trip to Sarnia, where he was said to have conferred with authorities and then to have sworn out informations which brought the warrants. Silence prevailed in official circles, however, and information on this latest phase of the case was not forthcoming.

CHURCH STATES HER RELATIONS WITH INDUSTRY

Admission of Women to Ministry to be Discussed at Sept. 12th Meeting.

ELECT NEW MODERATOR.

KINGSTON, Sept. 13 (CP). — Questions of the ordination of women to the ministry and the general settlement of ministers and readjustment of their salaries are prospects for discussion at the biennial General Council of the United Church of Canada, opening in Sydenham church here Sept. 12. It will be the Sixth General Council since the consummation of church union in 1925.

An important feature of the agenda is the report of the Commission on Church and Industry. This Commission, under the chairmanship of Sir Robert Falconer, was constituted in accordance with the Council's action in 1932. It will present an extended statement of Christian doctrine and the relation of economic conditions, and will doubtless develop debate on spiritual effects and possible remedies. There will be a considered report by the Board of Evangelism and Social Service on the meaning and scope of evangelism.

Election of a new Moderator is another item. Right Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore the present presiding officer is retiring on expiration of his term of office. Rev. Drs. Richard Roberts, Robert Laird, Peter Bryce, D. C. MacGregor and D. L. Ritchie have been nominated by the lesser courts of the church.

The question of ministerial salaries has been important to many within the church, especially in the depression years, and as a result a commission on the co-ordination of salaries has been at work and will report. Closely related is the question of ministerial efficiency, which is the subject of several memorials to the council. The committee on recruits for the ministry is to make a special report this year.

College Administration

One of the fruitful sources of memorial is the subject of the settlement of ministers. Other memorials from Conferences, Presbyteries and individuals concern the question of world peace, administration in colleges and the suitable observance of the 10th anniversary of Church Union.

The Saskatchewan conference will notify the General Council it intends to ordain Miss Lydia E. Gruchy, B.A., to the Ministry of the Word and Sacraments at the next Conference in 1935, unless at its meeting in September, 1934, objection thereto is made by the General Council. The same Conference, "without prejudice" to its own rights of determining whom it should ordain, respectfully memorializes the General Council that, taking into consideration Miss Miss Gruchy's qualifications and service, it places no obstacle in the way of her ordination."

Council will also be asked to reconsider the question of the ordination of Albert Lott, a candidate who, although blind, has completed the required course of study for the ministry.

The last General Council ordered the appointment of a committee to consider the whole situation in regard to the amalgamation of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service with the Board of Home Mission. The committee reported adversely and the recent executive sent the matter to the General Council. The executive also adopted a plan for the reorganization of the department of missionary education and has sent it on to the General Council for final consideration.

DIONNE BABIES' HOSPITAL READY

ronto; Dr. Alan Brown, Physician-in-Chief of the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital; Dr. Fred W. Routley, Ontario Director of the Red Cross, and others who have helped the Callander physician in caring for the youngsters, will follow.

Mr. Croll then will open the building and Bishop Ryan will conduct the religious ceremony.

When the formalities are ended, everything will be in readiness for the entry of Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie and Marie. But this may not take place for several days. Dr. Dafoe is anxious they be moved to the hospital, where better facilities for their care than those at their home are available, but all trace of paint oder that might affect them must be gone before he will order the change.

No Fuss at Moving

It is likely the move will be carried out quietly with only the guardians, parents and nurses present.

The building in which the five girls probably will spend the next four or five years of their lives is located about 2½ miles from Callander and 100 yards from the farmouse in which they were born.

It is one-storey high and has outer walls of half-log construction with a nine-foot foundation of native stone. There are nine rooms, the principal one a nursery that runs the full width of the building along the front and opens on a verandah.

A side entrance, leading from a small verandah, opens into an office and reception room and besides this there are four bedrooms for the nurses and orderlies, a bathroom, kitchen and pantry.

The construction was planned to resist the 40-below-zero weather that must be met in Northern Ontario. Nine tons of insulating material were used to make sure no cold winds whipping down from the north will invade the nursery.

Despite the fact there is no electrical power available, modern cooking laundering and other appliances have been installed. Most of them, including a refrigerator, operate with gasoline.

terday from the liner, beached off Asbury Park, N.J., and ordered held for examination by government chemists.

The office of the federal district attorney, which is conducting a grand jury investigation of the tragedy here, declined to discuss the purpose of the chemists' examination.

It has been testified by officers of the Morro Castle that Captain Willmott died following an attack of acute indigestion Friday night—several hours before fire broke out on the liner. Some reports said today that the chemists would see to determine if Captain Willmott was poisoned.

Both the federal grand jury investigation and the Department of Commerce inquiry continued here to-day.

BRITISH TRYING TAILLESS PLANE

New Shaped Craft Expected to Have Many Advantages in Military Use.

LONDON, Sept. 13—(CP)—Going through preliminary trials, at Yeovil aerodrome is a two-seater sesquiplane fighter, without tail or normal fuselage. This extraordinary machine has been developed from the small tailless craft flown at several Royal Air Force displays.

In these machines the tail, once considered necessary for stability and control, is eliminated. These essential qualities are assured by use of wings of a certain shape, controller-rudders attached at the wing-tips, and balanced flaps in the rear edges of the wings which act as elevators and ailerons.

Tailless design promises important advantages in military use. Field of view and field of fire are greatly increased by suppression of the tail and after part of the fuselage, which cause considerable "blind" areas. An efficient tailless warplane would undoubtedly prove a most formidable antagonist in aerial combat.

McCOY—CHAMBERS

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Sept. 13.—At Eldorado United Church the marriage was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 1 of Mary Luella Chambers, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chambers to Harry Cecil McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCoy of Eldorado.

The chancel of the church was banked with flowers, which formed a lovely setting for the ceremony which was performed under an arch of evergreens trimmed with asters and from the centre of which hung a large white bell.

Rev. J. R. Trumpour of Cavan a former pastor performed the ceremoney assisted by Rev. W. G. Fletcher, pastor of Eldorado charge.

The bride entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Dorothy Fox of Belleville, a cousin of the groom. The bride was gowned in white silk lace over cream satin, fashioned on Princess lines, extending into a short train. She wore a tulle veil arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Stewart of Brampton wore blue silk crepe gown trimmed with white velvet, with large white picture hat. She also carried roses and baby's breath. Little Miss Betty Moore of Belleville, cousin of the groom acted as flower girl and was daintily gowned in pink organdy and carried a basket of bridal roses and baby's breath.

The groom was supported by Mr. Elmer Chambers brother of the bride. Mr. Cecil Boyle and Mr. Wilbur McCoy acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception for the relatives and a few intimate friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. The rooms were daintily decorated with pink and white streamers and flowers.

During the signing of the register Miss Dorothy Fox rendered a piano solo, after which a dainty buffet luncheon was served to about sixty-eight guests.

The waitresses who were gowned in white were girl friends and relatives of the bride, Misses Iva McCann, Edith Holland, Lela Goodchild, Lily Wright, Eva Chambers and Alice Chambers.

Later Mr. and Mrs. McCoy left for a short honeymoon to Toronto, Chesley and other western points, the bride travelling in a navy blue dress trimmed with plaid and navy blue coat trimmed with grey fur and grey shoes and stockings and matching accessories.

The groom's gift to the bride was a grey purse; to the bridesmaid and organist compact; to the little flower girl, a gold bracelet and to the best man, a shaving set.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. McCoy will reside on the groom's farm at Eldorado.

STREET RAILWAY STRIKE THREATENS BRANTFORD

BRANTFORD, Ont., Sept. 12. — (C.P.)—Possibility of a strike of street railway employees loomed today when announcement was made that the employees through their union, the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, had made application to the Department of Labor at Ottawa to appoint a Board of Conciliation to bring about a settlement of a dispute with the Brantford Street Railway Commission. The men are demanding an increase of wages and betterment of working conditions.

In the application, the employees stated that if a board is not appointed a strike will be called. They claim that during the past nine months the commission, which operates the municipally owned electric railway, has ignored attempts of the union officials to negotiate a contract.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR RAWDON SCHOOL

BONARLAW, Sept. 13.—(Examiner Corespondence)—Favored with ideal weather conditions the Rawdon Township School Fair was held at Springbrook on Monday of this week was a decided success. There was a good attendance and the exhibits which included fruits, vegetables, flowers, poultry, calves, colts, etc., were of high class.

The fair was under the general supervision of Joseph Wilson, Agricultural Representative, and A. A. Martin, Public School Inspector.

Races were held in the forenoon and in the afternoon a baseball match, Springbrook versus Bonarlaw, girls teams, resulted in the score of 21 to 20 in favor of the Bonarlaw girls.

Nearly all schools in the township competed in the parade, only three not being in the march. The prizes for marching were as follows:

First prize, S.S. No. 14, Miss L. Foley, teacher; second prize, S.S. No. 20, Misses J. Robinson and G. Swayne, teacers; third prize, S.S. No. 7, Mrs. Hayton, teacher.

CAMPBELLFORD PASTOR TO QUIT

Rev. J. C. Robinson's Resignation is Accepted at Presbytery Session in Havelock.

LADIES SERVE DINNER.

(Examiner Correspondent)

HAVELOCK, Sept. 13. —A large and most representative meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery was held in the Knox Presbyterian church here on Tuesday. Ministers and laymen were present from Peterborough, Norwood, Hastings, Campbellford, Colborne, Nestleton, Millbrook, Centerville, Brighton, Ballyduff and other points.

Much business was dealt with at the morning session. The resignation of the Rev. J. C. Robinson of Campbellford was discussed and took up considerable time. It was finally decided to supply a substitute and Mr. Robinson will be relieved in November. Rev. Laughlin Beaton pastor of the local church asked to be relieved of his charge in favor of a much needed rest. This matter was not dealt with; but left over until the next meeting of the body. The gathering insisted that Mr. Beaton remain until that time at least. The condition of the Presbytery being very unsettled at the present time was the excuse given the local pastor.

A committee was appointed to act with Rev. A. C. Reeves moderator of Norwood regarding Keene and Warsaw charges.

The ministers present were: Rev. A. C. Reeves, Norwood; Rev. C. Hill of Hastings; J. C. Robinson, Campbellford; Rev. A. Graham, Colborne; Rev. Walker, Nestleton; Rev. A. Williams, Millbrook; A. Barker, Norwood; Rev. J. McKenzie, Centerville; J. Robinson, Brighton, and A. Walker of Ballyduff as well as several laymen from out of town points.

A fine dinner was served at noon by the ladies' aid and the gathering adjourned to meet December 11, or at the call of the chair. The next session will be held in Peterborough, Dec. 11.

Volcano Blamed For Sea Disaster

FORESTS REQUIRED TO HOLD MOISTURE

British Scientist Says It is Undecided Whether Trees Increase Rainfall.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 13.—(C.P.)— Highly complex and delicately balanced, the associated flora and fauna of the forest contain an abundance of material on which much of the prosperity of a nation depends, declared Prof. A. W. Borthwick, president of the botany section of the British Association, at the annual meeting here.

Professor Borthwick said the destruction of forests was increasing at a rate which gave serious apprehension as to their ability to withstand increasing and unscientific exploitation.

"The first users of the forest cared little for its timber," he pointed out. "In those early times whatever wood was handy and whatever trees seemed suitable to supply any requirement were utilized without any thought as to reproduction and maintenance of supplies.

"Thus began the system of forestry which at the present day, under more organized methods, is known as the selection forest. In the selection forest only trees of a certain diameter may be removed, the number and volume of the trees to be felled annually or periodically being regulated by measurements of rate of growth in the forest. The regeneration is a natural one."

The professor gave the opinion the main trouble was that in the past the woods had not been managed with a view to natural regeneration; under light increment treatment, the more open canopy and crown room enables the trees to respond almost immediately to the influence of the seed felling.

Trees Hinder Floods.

Although it had not been decided whether forests increase rainfall or not, it could be claimed the forest is of great importance as a conservator of water and as an equalizer in the drainage of the land.

"Where no forests exist in the upland of collecting regions of watersheds, the rain falls unhindered, beating the surface hard or eroding it to the bare rock," he pointed out, "There is nothing to check the downward rush of water, which collects into mountain torrents which gush unbridled into the main rivers and streams, causing them to become swollen and flooded. The damage done by severe and sudden floods to roads, bridges, agricultural crops and stock, including human habitation, is well-nigh incalculable."

Where forest existed in the upland districts or collecting ground of the water, rivers were more uniform in their flow, year in and year out, and carried much less silt and debris.

Rains broken by the tree crowns percolated more slowly into the soil and found its way into springs and water courses. Further the influence of the forest was that the melting of the snow was more gradual, the water being absorbed and stored and floods avoided. The forest regulated the off-flow of water after heavy rains.

TENNIS FINAL POSTPONED

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12. —(AP)—A heavy downpour 30 minutes before Fred Perry, of England and Wilmer Allison, of Texas were scheduled to take the courts threatened a postponement of the United States Tennis Championship Final here this afternoon.

A drizzle quickly turned into a heavy shower and attendants rushed to cover the courts with canvas.

As the result of the prick of a pin, Ernest W. S. Birks has died in Fareham, England.

AIRFLOW IS MAKING NOTABLE HEADWAY

Widespread Delivery by Canadian Chrysler Dealers.

Thirty-two Airflow Chrysler automobiles were driven from the factory of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, one day recently by a number of dealers from Ontario and Quebec.

While this fact is not so unique in itself, the chief interest lies in that these dealers, from the two provinces of Ontario and Quebec, came to Windsor in a body to take delivery of their cars in the largest single driveaway of Airflow cars in the history of the corporation.

Outstanding Feature.

Commenting on the driveaway, Mr. John C. McGuire, general sales manager of the Chrysler and Plymouth divisions of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, stated: "This continued widespread delivery of Airflow Chrysler cars to our dealers in Ontario and Quebec is one of the outstanding features of business in the automotive industry for the fall of this year. Not only does it prove that the Airflow is making spectacular headway in consumer acceptance, but this in turn verifies the fact that the principles upon which the Airflow is built are fundamentally sound."

The dealers, who came from all over Ontario and Quebec to take delivery of their Airflow cars, were guests of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago and were entertained by trips through the various Detroit plants, as well as the plants of the corporation in Canada.

They were also the guests of the corporation at a banquet at which John D. Mansfield, president, and Mr. C. W. Churchill, general sales manager, of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, were the principal speakers. Both gentlemen paid high tribute to this remarkable record established by the dealer organization and commented on the bright outlook for the automobile industry during the coming year.

On Wednesday September 5th, the ladies of the Rylstone Institute, held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Alfred Barnum.

Piano solo by Evelyn Barnum; reading, by Mrs. Alfred Barnum; reading by Mrs. Charles Stewart. Community singing was then enjoyed by all. No More Piles Doctor's Prescription Does the Work.

Few Pile sufferers know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories so often may not give lasting relief and why cutting sometimes removes the pile tumor but leaves its exciting cause which may create a recurrence.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. For this an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, and acts to relieve congestion.

So isn't it better when salves fail and before considering operation to try this internal remedy when McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with money-back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.

ST. MARTIN'S SEES IT'S RADIO FOLKS

Well-Known Church at Trafalgar Square "At Home" to "Unseen Audience."

LONDON, Sept. 13.—(CP)—Fashionably dressed men and women from Mayfair mingled with poor people from the East End at one of the strangest "at homes" ever held in London. It was at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, and its object was to enable those who know the church through wireless programs only to see it for themselves.

There were refreshment counters, amusements for young and old, a Punch and Judy show, a concert of plantation and Negro songs in the church, and an orchestra in the churchyard. Later a pick-up cricket match was played.

After an address by Dr. Sheppard the church was floodlit, and to the strains of a modern dance band there was dancing in the churchyard until midnight.

ONLY 10 SURVIVE OF CRIMEAN BOYS

Old Brigaders Passing Fast, Though Some Live Past Century Mark.

ADELAIDE, South Australia, Sept. 13 (CP) —When William Wilkie Freeman of Semaphore, near here holder of the Baltic Medal of 1854, died recently at 106, the number of known British survivors of the Crimean War was down to below 10.

Only one of these is an officer—Colonel Sir Fitzroy Maclean, who entered his century last May. Save for Sir Fitzroy and for Private S. Radford, who lives in the Irish Free State and served in the 82nd Foot, now the 2nd Battalion South Lancashire Regiment, the small band of survivors are all sailors.

Four years ago there were at least 25 survivors of the 1857 Indian Mutiny—of whom some 15 still remain—and 22 of the Crimea. The last survivor of the Battle of Balaclava was W. T. D. Taylor, who lived to be 100 and died at New Bedford, Mass., and the last Inkerman survivor was a sailor, J. P. Wellspring of Catford, London, who landed with the Naval Brigade.

30,000 Miles In Less Than 30,000 Minutes

Just six years ago this month, a Studebaker President set the record of travelling 30,000 miles in less than 30,000 minutes, on the Atlantic City Speedway. Although now six years old, the record has never been broken. The car that set the record is still in daily service in South Bend, Indiana.

King For A Day

Paul Meister, of Mishawaka, Indiana had never seen a movie never ridden in an automobile, nor been out of his native town until a few days go. A shut-in for 11 years, he was "King for a Day" recently when he was the guest of The Studebaker Corporation at the Chicago World's Fair. He was transported to the fair and back in a new Studebaker combination ambulance sedan.

Lafayette's Carriage

The state carriage, used by Gen. Marquis de Lafayette on his last triumphal tour of America in 1824, has long been one of the outstanding items in Studebaker's famous Museum of Transportation in South Bend, Indiana. Recently it was loaned to the Chicago Historial Society in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the death of Lafayette.

New Transcontinental Record

Bob McKenzie, driving a Studebaker Dictator Six Sedan, recently set a new transcontinental record in the Dominion of Canada by traveling from Halifax to Vancouver at an average elapsed time speed of 50.76 miles per hour. The distance of 4284 miles was made in a little over 84 hours. A stock sedan was used for the trip, only changes being the addition of an auxiliary gas tank and special headlamps for night driving.

CHOPS OFF OWN HAND.

GUELPH, Ont., Sept. 12 (C.P.)— Joe Latour, Guelph, was in hospital today, following an accident in which he chopped off his own hand. Using a short-handled axe, he struck an obstacle while bringing the blade down on a wooden block, the sharp blade shearing through his wrist. His condition was reported as not serious.

SYNDICATE TO DEVELOP MINE IN CAVENDISH

Arthur Cooper, President and Syndicate Manager, Tells of Work Done.

GOLD QUARTZ ASSAYS WELL

Preliminary Work Completed and Machinery Ordered—Produce Next Spring.

Toronto interests are reported to have formed a mining syndicate and to have subscribed $50,000 stock with a view of developing what is stated to be a rich gold strike in Cavendish Township.

The syndicate, according to Arthur Cooper, Toronto mine sampler, described as president and syndicate manager, plans to float a corporation with a capitalization of $3,000,000.

Preliminary work of clearing and road making has been finished at the property, located in the bush three and a half miles west of Rockcroft; machinery is on order; and the mine will go into production in the Spring of next year, Mr. Cooper stated.

Orders for machinery have been placed with a Mr. Somerville in Montreal, it was stated. The order includes an air compressor, air drills, and a mill. "We expect to have the machinery installed within the next sixty days," Mr. Cooper said.

21 Men Employed

He added that during the summer he has had charge of operations at the property, where 21 men were employed to do the clearing and to make roads accessible to the property for the transportation of truck loads of machinery, delivery of which is expected shortly.

Offices of the Syndicate are at 1313 Canada Permanent Building, Toronto. Mr. Cooper describes himself as president and syndicate manager, and stated that Harry L. Godsoe, the secretary-treasurer, was formerly vice-president and general manager of Price Securities, Toronto. He was unwilling to disclose the names of other members of the syndicate.

Found 120 Years Ago

The story of the gold is an old one. A trapper, Joe Muskrat, first discovered the outcroppings of ore 120 years ago. When in the twilight of life, he passed the secret of his find on to Moses Smoke, his stepson.

About a year before he died the old trapper took his stepson on a cranberry picking expedition, as a pretext for getting Moses alone where he could confide the great secret.

Moses was shown the spot where gold quartz gleamed dully in the sunshine, and was admonished to cherish the secret until he could find some good man with whom he might share it. Moses kept the secret following his step-father's death for fifty long years. Last Fall, Moses Smoke, now an old man living on Alderville Indian Reserve, confided in an old friend, Edward Burns, a nursery stock dealer. He asked Burns if he knew where there was a good man to whom he could entrust his secret.

Shares Secret

Burns considered the matter and suggested Thomas McBride, the village blacksmith at Coldsprings, as a man worthy of sharing the secret of the gold deposits. McBride, well-known and respected, whose family have been blacksmiths in Coldsprings for generations, listened to Moses' story and decided to have an assay made. Funds were necessary and eight other men including Arthur E. Cooper, Toronto mine sampler, who has prospected in Death Valley, U.S.A., became interested in the project.

Moses Smoke led the first expedition into Peterborough County's hinterland, being accompanied by Ed Burns and Wallace Jibb. Subsequently a second trip was made into the property, when Tom Turner and Norman Redpath, residents of Coldsprings, accompanied those who had made the first trip.

Ore samples obtained were sent to the Provincial analyst. Reports were encouraging, as one sample assayed $56 to the ton, another $28, and a third $11. By this time winter called a halt to further operations, and the work was suspended until this spring.

Services of Mr. Cooper were obtained with the resumption of operations in the spring of this year and he was placed in full charge. Claims were staked on three 44-acre lots of Crown land and options were obtained on 160-acres through which the outcropping runs.

Analysts' Report

Mr. Cooper showed The Examiner the further report of Thomas Hayes and Sons, Toronto mining analysts, dated June 1, 1934, based on the former price of gold. The report was as follows:

Sample.	Gold Oz.	Value per ton.
1	2.02	$40.40
2	1.18	23.60
3	1.60	32.00
4	0.48	9.60
5	3.12	62.40
6	2.00	40.00

Original members of the syndicate, with exception of Moses Smoke of Alderville Reserve and Harvey Windover of Rockcroft have been bought out, according to Mr. Cooper.

SERVED 29 YEARS UNDER SIX HEADS

Retiring Official of Agriculture Department Has Seen Great Growth.

OTTAWA, Sept. 13—(CP)—Retirement of James B. Spencer, director of publicity for the Dominion Department of Agriculture after 29 years' service, recalls the amazing development of agriculture in Canada during that period.

Mr. Spencer had a thorough practical training on the home farm at Brooklin, Ont., followed by a course at the Ontario Agricultural College, where he graduated in 1894. This was followed by 11 years in newspaper work on the Farmer's Advocate and Family Herald and Weekly Star. He entered the government service in 1905.

Mr. Spencer served under six Federal Minister of Agriculture and three Deputy Ministers. He has seen the staff of the Department concerned directly with agriculture and exclusive of the Experimental Farms, grow from some 40 people housed in two small office buildings, to a staff numbering nearly 2,000 persons.

Mr. Spencer is second Vice-President of the Ontario Horticultural Association and a past president and director of the Ottawa Horticultural Society. He is a member of the Canadian Society of Technichal Agriculturists, Professional Institute, the Ottawa Press Club, and a number of other organizations.

WANTED IN DUNNVILLE

BUFFALO, N.Y., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—Sought by Canadian authorities for allegedly committing a buarglary in Dunnville, Ontario, Harold Chalmers, alias Haroid Clifford, 26 years old, was arrested here yesterday. He is charged with burglary and larceny.

Police said immigration officials allege he is in this country illegally. They did not have any details of the burglary. In all probability the prisoner will be returned to Ontario to-day.

TWO OFFICERS ASK TO RESIGN

reached the Morro Castle at 6.20 a.m., Captain Carey testified.

His ship did not receive the Morro Castle's SOS, Carey said.

"We lowered two lifeboats to pick up people from the water, he went on.

The shipmaster said he passed the Morro Castle and pulled up a half mile to the lee of the burning ship.

Captain Carey was asked if his boats were lowered as soon as possible.

"We got them out as soon as we could," he answered.

"How many people did your boats pick up?"

"We didn't pick up any."

Captain Carey said his men reported seeing no one to rescue. The two lifeboats were in the water from 6.20 to 7.08 a.m. and circled the Morro Castle, he said.

"Have you heard of your deck officers taking any action for failure to lower the boats earlier?" Hoover asked.

"No sir."

Captain Carey testified he saw no one jump from the Morro Castle.

Henderson said he was called about 5.30 E.S.T. to be informed of the Morro Castle fire. He went at once to the bridge with Captain Carey, he said.

Suggested Action.

He suggested to the captain they get the boats ready. His crew was already on deck.

"Did the captain order you to clear the boats away."

"No sir. I suggested they be cleared away."

"How close did you come to the Morro Castle when you came in?"

"It seemed about three-quarters of a mile."

Henderson said he saw persons hanging from the stern of the Morro Castle and the crew on the foredeck.

He said the boats were lowered and cleared at 7:08.

"Why weren't they lowered sooner?" demanded Captain Nelson.

"I didn't lower away until the captain ordered me."

"Do you mean to say you stood there from 6:20 to 7:08 beside this big wreck without doing anything?"

"I was waiting orders, sir."

O'BRIEN DENIES

he and his wife had never got along together. "I had one of the largest practices in the city and worked day and night," he said. "Objection was taken to me seeing my clients in the evening at my office; objection was taken to my having my clients at my home."

"I was put up here yesterday by Mrs. O'Brien as nothing but a drunkard; she has forgotten that she drank and took drink to excess," he said. "When I came back to the house she would discuss my absence with her fists, her feet and nails." He said that he and his wife had not lived together as man and wife for eight to ten years.

He said he had no ready money, but had book accounts of $25,000 that might be collected.

"The first intimation that I had that Mrs. O'Brien was afraid of me was the night she had me removed from the house by the officers," he said. "Mrs. O'Brien was the boss of the house. I had nothing to say about managing it; all I did was pay the bills."

Judge Comments

Mr. Justice Henderson commented: "That's the way it should be, and should have caused a happy home."

He was prepared to give alimony to his wife, but all that stood in the way was the law suit over the ownership of the car, house and household chattels, he stated.

"I left my house because I was told to get out," he said. "I continued to contribute to her maintenance after I left."

Cross-examined by Mr. Gordon, he said there was no suggestion in a letter he had written concerning supporting his wife that the only objection he had to providing for her was that such provision be through the firm of Gordon and Elliott.

He said he contributed to his wife's support until he discovered that the furniture was removed from the house.

He could not say how much he contributed to his wife's support from Easter, 1934, nor could he say when he discontinued making any payments for her maintenance. He was indefinite as to when he made any payments or how much they were.

He stated that he never visited a Miss Biggs in Toronto after he had promised his wife not to do so seven years ago.

His Housekeeper.

He said that in the apartments of Aylmer Street, Miss Margaret Cameron was his housekeeper, and Miss Cameron was his housekeeper in a Charlotte Street apartment, and later at his home on Engleburn Avenue. "Miss Cameron is still occupying my house on Engleburn Avenue, and with my entire approval," he said. He admitted that he had provided a charge account for Miss Cameron's maintenance at a local chain store. He said in the summer of 1933 Miss Cameron spent her holidays with her sister and him for about ten days in his Engleburn Avenue home. This was without his wife's knowledge and on his invitation.

It was in August, 1933, that Miss Cameron accompanied him on a motor trip to the United States. He said he registered at the hotel with Miss Cameron as Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Brien of Peterborough. There were two such motor visits, he admitted.

"So far as I know, Mrs. O'Brien is a virtuous woman," he said. He could not remember telling Chief Newhall and Police Matron Wood in May of this year at the police station that she was a good wife and had no complaint to make of her. Questioned by the judge, he denied making such a statement.

Maid Testifies.

Evelyn Calladine, maid at the O'Brien household from July, 1931, to May, 1934, said she always thought Mr. O'Brien took good care of his wife when she was serving meals. She stated she heard Mrs. O'Brien object to her husband bringing clients to the house, and expressed the wish that he take them to his office. "I never saw Mr. O'Brien drunk," she stated. "I heard Mrs. O'Brien use harsh words, calling her husband a crook and a liar. I heard her complain of being out and drinking."

Cross-examined, Mrs. Calladine denied that she drove the car with Mr. O'Brien any evenings. She said Miss Peggy Cameron occupied the house for nine or ten days during Mrs. O'Brien's absence. She admitted drinking beer on occasions with Mr. O'Brien and Miss Cameron in the house.

This closed the case for the defence.

Gone To Pieces.

Called by Mr. Gordon, Chief Consacle Newhall said he called Mr. O'Brien to his office regarding Mrs. O'Brien's safety. "In the last two years Mr. O'Brien has gone to pieces as regards drink, immorality and veracity," said witness.

Chief Newhall said that in May of this year, in an interview with Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien in his office in an attempt to make a reconciliation, Mr. O'Brien said that his wife was a virtuous woman, and the best wife in Canada, and he had no complains whatsoever against her.

Recalled, Mrs. O'Brien said that she did object to Mr. O'Brien drinking and being out all night. "I did not consider I would be doing my duty as a wife if I did not object about his conduct," she stated.

She said she never objected to his bringing clients to his home. She took the keys from the car only on those occasions when she considered he was too intoxicated to be in charge of the car.

Odette Fixes Grape Prices $40, $50 Ton

TORONTO, Sept. 13 (C.P.) — E. G. Odette, Commissioner of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, announced to-day he had definitely set standard prices for this year's grape crop at $40 per ton for Concord or blue grapes and $50 for Niagara or white grapes.

The Commissioner said, after investigation, he had decided these were the prices wine growers would be asked to meet.

Last year's price was $40 generally.

"I find it is generally recognized," said Mr. Odette, that the white and red grape is better for wine-making than the Concord.

"The whole matter has been thoroughly investigated, and we find that in Michigan the wineries are paying only $25. In New York State the price is somewhere around $30 or $35, and agitation has been launched to fix the price at $40, with the figure in Ontario cited as an example."

Grape growers, representatives of wine manufacturers and members of the Legislature from the Niagara district conferred yesterday with the Commissioner.

ANSON HOUSE BOARD MEETS

Appointment of Successor to Late Miss A. M. Lancaster Indefinitely Deferred.

18 APPLICATIONS

Appointment of a successor to the late Miss Annie M. Lancaster for twenty-one years superintendent of Anson House was deferred by the Board to an indefinite date.

Some eighteen applications for the position were considered by the Board which met in monthly session yesterday afternoon at Anson House, under chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Neill, it was learned from a member of the Board.

Since the lamented death of Miss Lancaster which occurred early in May, while she was on vacation at Enid, Oklahoma, the Home has been under the able supervision of Miss Margaret Harrison, assistant superintendent to the late Miss Lancaster.

A member of the Board stated, that in deferring the making of the appointment the Board had no hesitation in doing so as it was unanimously considered that supervision of the institution was in capable hands.

He stated that the Board had set no definite date for the making of an appointment but had deferred the applications for further consideration. They were, he remarked, from women of highest character and qualifications.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 13.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The regular meeting of the Junior Institute was held on Friday afternoon last in the Town Hall. The paper was entitled "Stand Up Straight."

Miss Winifred Roseborough gave a paper on the last day and a half at the girls' conference at Guelph.

Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned. The subject for the October meeting is Flowers For Winter Bloom.

The anniversary services in Bethel United Church are being held on Sunday, September 16th, with services at 11 a.m. and at 7.30 p.m. Rev. Mr. Miller of Bridgenorth will be the guest speaker. On Monday evening from 3 to 5 o'clock the ladies of congregation are serving a chicken pie supper followed by a chicken program.

Successful Social Held At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 13.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— A congregational social was held in the school room of St. Andrew's church to honor Miss Lulu Smith, who is leaving shortly to enter the Kingston General Hospital as a nurse-in-training. Miss Smith has been an active worker in the church and has been prominent in Sunday school choir and Young People's work, and her departure leaves a vacancy which it will be difficult to fill.

Rev. R. J. Burton filled the role of chairman very acceptably and Mr. J. M. Simpson gave a short address, referring to the departure in the life of the young girl in whose honour the social was held. Lulu came to the village in infancy and has grown up and played an active part in school, church and community and now, school days past, she enters a new chapter in her career, choosing a career which offers tremendous opportunities for service and which will ever be associated with the noblest of women, among whom may be noted Florence Nightingale and Edith Cavell. The best wishes of the congregation go with Lulu in her chosen career and all will welcome her return each year on holidays.

Mrs. Chaplin contributed a delightful solo which was a high light of the program. The community singing was unusually hearty and was a great success. Mrs. J. M. Simpson read an address which was remarkable in its originality of thought and inspirational qualities and Miss Mary Davis presented Miss Smith with a beautiful scropack, which was the gift of the congregation to Lulu, who was greatly touched by the affectionate remembrance but whose graceful reply was suitable to the happy occasion.

Refreshments were served and a very delightful gathering, which was attended by nearly fifty persons, dispersed.

BERYLLIUM AID TUBERCULOSIS

Enables Early Discovery—Most Important as Quick Treatment Only Cure.

AN AEROPLANE METAL.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13 (A.P.) — Discovery that beryllium, the extra-lightweight aeroplane metal, is good for diagnosis of tuberculosis was announced to the American Chemical Society to-day.

With the aid of beryllium, early cases of tuberculosis have been detected before they could be found by other methods. This is important because virtually the only cure for tuberculosis lies in early diagnosis and treatment.

The beryllium experiments were made at the Olive View Sanitorium, Olive View, Calif., and reported here by Russel N. Loomis and Dr. Emil Bogen.

A remarkable thing they learned is that beryllium, a silvery-white metal, when mixed with clorine so that it can be injected under the skin, makes tuberculosis worse. Tests on 500 guinea pigs showed this.

This unexpected effect of beryllium was used to speed up diagnosis. Sputum of human beings suspected of tuberculosis was used to infect guinea pigs. If the pigs developed tuberculosis, that showed the human patient had it.

Some of the human infections were so light that the tuberculosis failed to be found—that is by ordinary tests the patients were "negative." When guinea pigs were given beryllium, they developed marked signs of tuberculosis promptly, provided the "negative" human really had the disease.

NATIONAL CREDIT FREE OF DEBT POLICY OF AUSTRALIAN PARTY IN GENERAL ELECTIONS SATURDAY

Supports State Credit Scheme Advocated by Major C. H. Douglas.

WOULD AVOID INTEREST.

Proposes That Credit Bills Be Issued by Comonwealth Bank.

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 13.—"There is no justification for production unless it is made available to the consumer, and to do this there must be an addition to the total volume of financial credit or money that the community has," declared H. V. Bondeson, leader of the Australian Douglas party, in a speech to-day winding up the party's campaign in the Australian general elections.

Australia goes to the polls on Saturday in the triennial election, with the United Australia Party Government of Prime Minister Joseph Lyons, and the Labor opposition of Former premier Henry Scullin, both being fought by a strong force of candidates pledged to the social credit scheme advocated for many years by Major C. H. Douglas.

"Every producer either of goods or services," said Bondeson, "is conducting his business in a manner intended to take from the nation a sum of money more than he contributes to it. It is obvious from this the producer must price his product at a figure higher than his financial cost so as to recover from the community more than he pays to it.

Debt-free Credit

"We find that up to now prices have only been paid at the expense of increasing debt and enormous expansion of capital production. The Douglas party suggests that by a policy of financing government deficits resulting from an extensive governmental expenditure on social services and public works, by issue of debt-free credit through the mechanism of treasury bills, that the gap between incomes and prices can be bridged.

"At present Australia makes additions (though hopelessly inadequate) to her financial resources approximately in this way: From time to time the government finds itself under the necessity of supplementing the revenue from taxation, for this source is invariably inadequate for its purposes, through what is termed the loan council comprising representatives of the various state governments. The council approaches the Comwealth Bank Board to negotiate a loan, and in doing so is guided not by the requirements of the nation but by what this is likely to obtain.

How Credit Obtained

"After some deliberation agreement is reached and the government then issues through the treasury documents termed treasury bills which are virtually national I.O.U.'s, and hands these to the Commonwealth bank. The bank on receipt of these bills credits the account of the federal government by the value of the amounts printed on them, less discount, and so gives the government the right to draw cheques against the resultant figure. The government draws and uses the proceeds to meet expenditure.

"Individuals receiving money purchase goods or services. This money or purchasing power is actually created. The position at that point may be described thus: the people through their government have drawn against themselves through their bank, or have in other words monetized a portion of their assets. The process at this stage means the people are actually indebted to themselves by and through the institutions personifying themselves."

This present system, declared Bondeson, "is not so bad up to this point. But here it undergoes a change which alters the whole nature of things and enacts what can only be described as a human tragedy. At this point, the moment an individual or any private institution such as a trading bank or insurance company, is able to purchase these securities as interest-bearing investments, they cease to be a debt of the people to themselves; they become a debt by all the people to the individual or institution.

"The Douglas Credit Party is determined to end this, by making certain adjustments in both the function and policy of the Central Reserve Bank.

"First, national credit instruments shall be issued to, to be held exclusively by, The Commonwealth Bank; Second, They shall not bear interest and shall be monetized at their face value; third, instead of the amount of the loan being determined by argument between members of the Loan Council and the Bank Board, they shall as a matter of constitutional procedure be sufficient to implement those conditions of life under which Australians desire to live, commensurate with their ability to produce goods and services to that extent."

HEPBURN BACKS COLIN CAMPBELL

Urges Frontenac - Addington Electors to Make Liberal Sweep Unanimous.

SPEED GENERAL VOTE.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 13.—(C.P.)—The campaign in the Frontenac-Addington by-election was set in motion as Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn left an appeal with the electors for support of the Liberal candidate, Colin Campbell. A Liberal sweep in the five Federal by-elections in the province, Sept. 24, would mean a step nearer to a general election, he told a meeting at Wolfe Island.

Mr. Hepburn, who visited the island last night, declared if five Liberals, were returned in the by-elections Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion Liberal leader, would be able to inform Prime Minister R. B. Bennett he no longer held the people's confidence and a general election would be imperative.

"Defeat Mr. Bennett in these by-elections and you will hasten the day of elections," the Premier declared as he maintained only the return of a Liberal government in Canada would bring lower interest rate, reduction in excessive tariffs and abolition of unemployment.

He referred to economies made by the Liberal government and criticized former Premier George S. Henry for claiming it was impossible to effect reductions to any greater extent than the Conservatives had done.

"I am doing it," Mr. Hepburn said, "and the only people I am hurting are those supernumaries who were never needed."

ODETTE CURBS SALE OF BEER

Golf Club Loses License—Inspect Other Beverage Rooms.

PERSONAL INSPECTION.

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—The beer and wine authority of the York Mills Golf Club, at the North Toronto city limits, was cancelled yesterday, and it is understood that action in the case of one Toronto hotel and of four others in a major city in Central Ontario is pending.

Inspectors are now investigating beverage rooms, Liquor Control Commissioner Edmond G. Odette stated last night. "The wine-and-beer regulations are going to be enforced to the letter," he declared.

Protest were also voiced from residents of North Toronto, which is a dry district, of what they claimed to be unhampered beer sale in this club at the city limits.

Following an investigation by an inspector from the Liquor Commission, which came to a climax after the day, the club authority was cancelled.

Not For Gain

"No club can be operated for gain, nor opened to the general public aside from occasional guests" the Commissioner stated when he gave the reasons for cancelling the York Mills authority. Commenting that a bona fide membership was required if a club were to hold an authority, he said, that the real reason for the cancellation of the North Toronto license lay in the fact that the club membership had recently increased three or four-fold. "The proposition was operated for gain," he added, stating definitely that he would permit no club so operating to hold an authority.

Mr. Odette said also that inspectors of the Commission would launch an immediate investigation of beer parlor conditions in Ottawa and Kingston. He said he was not embarking on a personal inspection trip, as he was unable to leave his Toronto office at present.

ELECTRIC STORM WREAKS HAVOC OVER ONTARIO

Two Men Knocked to Ground Badly Shocked by Bolt in Toronto.

TROLLEY STRUCK.

Brantford Greenhouses Suffer Heavily—Many Stores Flooded.

(By The Canadian Press)

A severe electrical storm to-day swept a considerable part of Ontario, damaging greenhouses, breaking windows and causing other damage the extent of which could not be estimated immediately.

In Toronto two men were knocked to the ground by a bolt of lightning. One of them, George Skinner, 30, was painfully but not seriously burned. His companion, William Follett, 40, was not injured but suffered severe shock.

A street car in Toronto was struck by lightning and delayed on its route for six minutes. None of its occupants was hurt. A house in the east end of the city was struck and all electrical fuses were blown. The occupants were unhurt but badly frightened.

Heaviest damage appeared to have centered in the Brantford area, where greenhouse owners reported extensive damage to glass. The storm passed Brantford last night, flooding street subways and marooning two motorists. One man was rescued in a boat by firemen. The other was forced to swim from the roof of his car to dry land.

Stores Flooded

Lightning struck a chimney on the home of Alderman Thomas Cooper of Brantford, knocked three feet off the top of it, and filled the kitchen with soot and debris. Numerous stores reported loss from water which flowed in through doorways after flooding streets above the level of the sidewalks.

Belleville reported the heaviest rainfall in months accompanied by severe lightning and thunder. Little damage was done, however.

The Meteorological Office at Toronto reported electrical storms were general from Ottawa to Western Ontario and as far north as Haileybury.

Within 24 hours, it said, one inch of rain fell in Toronto. It has rained in Toronto eight days since Sept. 1.

DU PONT WAR PROFITS COME BEFORE PROBE

So Large in 1916 Firm Able to Pay 100 p.c. on Common Stock.

BONUSED EXECUTIVES.

Invested in Other U. S. Industries—Own 25 p.c. General Motors Corp.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP)—War-time profits of the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Corporation—so great that in 1916 the giant powder making concern was able to declare cash dividends of 100 per cent on its common stock—were studied today by the United States Senate Munitions Investigating Committee.

With four members of the Du Pont family present, the committee set out to draw a picture of how a large part of the profits was invested by the firm in other American industries, and of their ramifications in recent years.

Already received was testimony that the Du Pont firm, which manufactured 40 per cent of all the powder used in guns of the Allies during the Great War, owns 25 per cent of the common stock of General Motors Corporation. This interest was founded on an original investment of war-time earnings of $47,000,000.

Attention also was given personal finances of the four leading members of the firm—Lammot Du Pont, president; Pierre, chairman of the board; Trenee, vice-president, and Felix, cousin of these three brothers, who also is a vice-president.

The committee had called upon them to furnish to-day the amount of bonuses they drew from the firm in 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919.

The Bonus Idea

"It was in this period that the idea of paying bonuses to big executive seems to have been born," observed Senator Gerald Nye (R., N.D.), committee chairman. "That seems to be something else chargable to the war."

The Du Ponts sat calmly and unprotestingly yesterday through three hours of examination by Senator Bone (D., Wash.), concerning the capital structure, earnings, profits and dividends of the company before, during and after the war.

With Pierre answering most of the questions and the others listening alertly, it was testified that the corporation's next taxable income jumped from $4,642,534 in 1913, the year before the outbreak of the war, to $127,574,726 in 1916. The return on invested capital increased from 12.86 per cent to 63.05 per cent in the same period.

During the four years, 1916-1919 inclusive the corporation paid its common and debenture stockholders an average yearly dividend of 49 per cent, although the regular dividend was only six per cent.

Extra dividends ranging up to 32 per cent were declared in this period and the extras combined with the regular dividends payments for the entire year of 1916 amounted to 100 per cent.
